1. They are impatient. 2. They are hasty. 3. They are skeptical. 4. They never seem to adjust themselves to the new status of women. 5. They are cocksure. 6. They have a mean streak of taking for granted the tenderness of their wives. 7. They are unmindful of little things. 8. They are too easily run into a mould—a mould that won't keep shape.

Of women, he said: 1. They are too fond of regulating men. 2. They have no sense of humor. 3. They are possessive. 4. They are argumentative. 5. They are sensitive and touchy. 7. They nurse. 7. They often possess the crepe-hanging impulse. 8. They do not keep breast of the times.

In conclusion, Mr. Hagedorn urged men to "marry by all means. If you get a good wife, you will become very happy. If you get a bad one, you will become a philosopher."

MORE QUICKLY DIGESTED THAN COD LIVER OIL

Science has discovered why Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is so much more beneficial than plain Cod Liver Oil. All plain oils are hard to digest; they must be emulsified in the stomach. We emulsify the oil in our Laboratories hence it is ready for almost immediate digestion and assimilation.

HOPE FOR FLIER IS ABANDONED

Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith Has Been Missing Twelve Days

Singapore, Nov. 30 (CP)—Hope that Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, one of the world's best-known long-distance fliers, and his co-pilot, Tom Pethybridge, would be found was almost abandoned today. They have been missing on a flight from England to Australia since November 8.

Sydney Smith, Commander of the Royal Air Force here, is understood to be convinced the airmen never will be found and the Australian Government also is reported to have given up hope.

In his distinguished aviation career, Sir Charles had flown to almost every quarter of the globe. He faced perils by land and sea on countless occasions but always previously had emerged successfully.

Forced down in a desolate section of Western Australia in March, 1929, Kingsford-Smith and Charles Ulm were unreported during 12 days of intensive search. Finally they were found, weak and exhausted. Later that year Kingsford-Smith completed a flight from Australia to England, making a new record of 13½ days. The mileage occurred near the start of a projected Australia-England flight.

Perhaps just daring Australian's greatest feat was his conquest of the Pacific Ocean in 1928. With Capt. Ulm and several others, he flew from Oakland, Calif., to Brisbane, Australia, in his historic Southern Cross, from Portsmarnock, Ireland, to New York. He also had flown across Australia and had crossed the treacherous Tasman Sea separating Australia and New Zealand.

He narrowly escaped death last May in a violent storm over the Tasman Sea when the starboard motor of his plane went out of commission.

Born in Brisbane, Australia, he spent a short time in boyhood at Vancouver. He was knighted in 1932 for his services to the Empire in the field of aviation.

Sir Charles is married and has one son.

Underground Retreat for Czars Built Over 400 Years Ago Revealed

(By John Cheyd)

(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

MOSCOW, Nov. 30—(AP)— An underground retreat built by Russia's Czars 400 years ago, containing a supply of cannon balls, was revealed today by workers digging an extension of the Moscow subway.

The single chamber, large enough to accommodate 200 persons, was situated 65 feet beneath the site of the old Kitai Wall, razed by the Bolsheviki. The wall surrounded inner Moscow, known as the Kitai Gorod, or Fortified City.

The supply of cannonballs was taken as an indication the chamber was used partly as a secret ammunition dump.

Professor Nicnl Arcechovsky of the Academy of History supposed the bulks' for room was built in 1535.

The cornerne of the walls and the outer fetress built in the 16th Century by Czar Feodor and razed in the 18th Century by the Empress Elzabeth were also discovered.

Several months ago subway diggers announced discover; of a subterranean "Henchmen's Court"; one chamber, in which lyar. the Terrible was reported to have had his victims torn to pieces by bears.

Tombs of princes and other important persons have been found.

Underneath the present park, of culture and rest Archaeologist Arcechovsky said he thought was built in the first century A.D.

THE WEATHER
Fresh or strong southwest to northwest winds; some snow flurries tonight with scattered snowstorms. Friday: Northwest winds; fair or a somewhat colder.

SE-LASSIE FLIES OVER FRONT LINE: 2 PLANES PURSUE

Belief is Held Italians Were Pursuing Ethiopian Emperor

DENY 9,000 KILLED

Two-Day Inspection of Front Made by Ruler

Addis Ababa, Nov. 21 (AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie was returned unexpectedly to this capital today, it believed by sources close to him to have gone to Jijiga to issue definite battle orders.

The order is understood to have been given to Ras Nasibu, commander-in-chief forces on the southern front.

Haile Selassie reappeared in the capital a short time after Italian planes flew over the territory he had gone to Jijiga to issue definite battle orders.

The order is understood to have been given to Ras Nasibu, commander-in-chief forces on the southern front.

Haile Selassie reappeared in the capital a short time after Italian planes flew over the territory he had gone to Jijiga to issue definite battle orders.

An official communique said the Italian airplanes flew over the strategic cities of Harar and Dire-dawa about 9.30 a.m. (about 1.35 a.m. E.S.T.) but that the Emperor departed from that sector for Addis Ababa.

No Bombs Dropped.

The fact that the planes did not drop bombs indicates they were reconnoitering or pursuing the Ethiopian plane," the communique said.

The announcement also said, "the Emperor, the commander of the troops in the region of Makale states the recent intensive bombardments by enemy aeroplanes of Italian planes caused 36 deaths and slightly wounded 39, instead of the 9,000 killed as mentioned in the press communique from Asmara."

The Emperor made a two-day inspection tour of the southern front during which time he reviewed and counted two Italian tanks were captured and their twelve companies embodied immediately by the Ethiopians.

Says Words to Soldier.

"I have kept my word by going to the front myself," he says, "and I told the Associated Press correspondent, the only foreigner at the aleppo. "I believe that with the help of God our righteous cause will prevail."

One of the two pilots accompanying Haile Selassie on his flew over the encampment a few miles from Dedjah Bur, contested point 100 miles southeast of Jijiga, where "the noise and rifle fire of the front lines, only a short distance away, was heard continuously."

Dedjah Bur is situated on the road connecting Jijiga with Harar and Dire-dawa, the two cities which the Italian airplanes were reported to have flown over.

Jijiga is the capital of the Ogaden province, which is bordered by British Somaliland on the east and Italian Somaliland on the south.

Sees Canada Link In Empire Air Line

Montreal, Nov. 21.—(CP)—Hope Canada soon would be part of the Imperial Air Link was expressed today by Col. Sir Donald Banks, director general of the British Post Office and members of a delegation of British and Irish officials, who arrived aboard the Liner Montrose.

The party, interested in establishing a trans-Atlantic Air Mail service between the United Kingdom and Canada, left immediately for Ottawa where they will enter into informal discussion with government officials.

Sir Donald said experimental flights would be along the direct route from Ireland to Newfoundland.

Tries to Arrange Mixed Bout For Joe Louis

Toronto, Nov. 21.— (CP)— Jack Corcoran, local promoter, has wired Jacobs to match Joe Louis, heir apparent to the heavyweight crown, and Lou Plummer, a wrestler, in a mixed bout here, it was learned today. Corcoran's wire to Mike Jacobs, handling Louis' affairs, an offer of $10,000 and Jacobs counter-offer with a $20,000 guarantee would consider it if Corcoran jumped his offer to $15,000.

Jacobs said he would advise Corcoran later of Louis' open dates and that his matter rests there for the present.

SNOWBALL STARTS SHOOTING RUMOR

Hon. J. H. Kelly, Accidentally Hit by Snowball in Unruly Mob

Chandler, Coaqut, Que., Nov. 21—(CP)—Hon. John Hall Kelly, Quebec Minister without portfolio, was struck by a snowball at an unruly political meeting here and revelled a foundation for widespread rumors that he had been shot.

Mr. Kelly, who is a member of Chaps in the legislative council had been shot as gained credence as they spread rapidly through the darkened fishing villages along the Chaps Peninsula into Quebec and Gaspe. Messages were sent over telephone and telegraph messages from Montreal and Quebec asking information regarding the reports.

Mayor Wellie Wellie said 10 of their members had attended the meeting at which Mr. Kelly spoke. Mr. Kelly's opponent, Leandre Chouinard, Liberal candidate, and had been struck by a snowball. There were a number of riot fights in the crowd but police were forced to break up but officers said they had only heard the reports of shooting and reports trickling back to the village.

In Quebec City, Mrs. Kelly said her husband had been struck but he had been struck by a snowball accidentally.

FORD TO ERECT ASSEMBLY PLANT

Move Directly Attributable to New Treaty Says Official

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 21 (CP)—Construction of a $750,000 assembly plant at Wellington, New Zealand, will be commenced immediately by the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Wallace Campbell, president, announced today. This announcement is the direct result of the new treaty between Canada and the Mother Dominion, which will go into effect on Dec. 1, next.

"We are enthusiastic over the agreement. The revisions of the treaty will help to maintain business in New Zealand," Mr. Campbell said. "We were in danger of losing to England and the United States. We see some hope to increase our market for cars in New Zealand. All this will mean added employment in our plant in Windsor," stated Mr. Campbell.

A new subsidiary company of Canada will be formed to be known as Ford, the subsidiary companies are already formed in Australia, South Africa, India and Malaya.

TILFORD APPEAL NOW BEING HEARD

Woman's Counsel Argues Daughter Should Have Been Called

Toronto, Nov. 20 (CP)—Whether or not Mr. Justice Kingstone erred in declining to allow Wellington Calder Isabella Walker, a daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Tilford, to appear as a witness at the latter's trial on a charge of having murdered her husband, Tyrrell Tilford, by arsenic poisoning, was argued today at the opening of Mrs. Tilford's appeal against her murder conviction. The woman was sentenced by Mr. Justice Kingstone at the Woodstock trial to be hanged December 17.

Charles W. Bell, K.C., counsel for Mrs. Tilford, argued the appeal before the Court of Appeal for Ontario sitting en Hall, said the evidence at the trial showed only one occasion on which arsenic had been delivered to the house where Tilford was alleged to have been poisoned. He referred Counsel said Victor King, a druggist's clerk, had testified he took a parcel of powders addressed to the house last March 20 and he delivered it to Mrs. Tilford on March 21 or 16. Another witness, F. R. Tilford, bacteriologist, Mr. Bell said, that Isabella Walker told him she delivered the arsenic to Tyrrell Tilford.

Isabella Walker, Mr. Bell claimed, was the only person who could have told the jury, in Woodstock whether the arsenic reached Tilford or not, where it reached Mrs. Tilford. Defence counsel maintained the crown should have called Isabella Walker as its witness and should have placed her in the witness box for cross-examination by counsel for Mrs. Tilford.

Smith's Falls, Ont., Nov. 21 (CP)—Medical evidence at the second inquest into the death of William Muldoon, locomotive engineer, August 31, was believed completed today with testimony of Dr. H. C. Wert he had never treated Muldoon for indigestion.

Dr. Wert said he had treated the chairman on one occasion for another ailment.

Mrs. Milburn Baker, facing perjury charges following her evidence at the previous inquest, was given protection of the court today when she mounted the witness stand. She was taken from the stand at one point very pale, causing a brief recess.

Passed On Couch.

She described circumstances of Muldoon's death as he had brought her to the Baker home and after some drinking drove to the home of Mrs. Muldoon where he died. When they returned from there Muldoon was in a stupor and was carried into the Baker house and placed on a couch.

Mrs. Baker said at the couch onto the floor and was carried out to his home where he was pronounced dead.

She said a story was concocted when the two men returned, to keep the women folk in the dark. She stated Miller said, "Remember we were in in the car."

Hearing of Reason.

Court was told that a few minutes when Mrs. Baker broke down after relating or making a frank record of the events. She said she "murdered" in front of her place.

Mrs. Baker explained the night before Muldoon's death she tripped on a stone outside the back door of her home and strained her back.

"That explains the piece of skin found on the stone?" asked C. H. Magone, Deputy Assistant Attorney-General.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Baker.

Smith's Falls, Ont., Nov. 21.—(CP) —Dr. H. C. Wert of Smith's Falls took the stand today when the new inquest into the death of William Muldoon, railway engineer, continued here. Magistrate J. T. Kirkland of Almonte was presiding at the session opened.

Dr. Wert said he had never treated Muldoon for indigestion but had treated him on one occasion for another ailment.

Sergeant George MacKay of the Ontario Provincial Police read a section of a radio program from an Ottawa station for the benefit of a certain program referred to by a witness at the first day's session of the inquest.

Protection Granted

The first witness was Mrs. Milburn Baker, granted the protection of the Crown in giving evidence.

She is at present facing a perjury charge, the result of evidence given at the first inquest into Muldoon and her husband first entered the dock. That was on August 31, witness said.

She said she had driven down town for groceries and Miller and Muldoon went with her as they had been drinking. They afterwards went to the home of S. Durand where they had a bottle of beer each.

When they returned to her home, witness said Mrs. Gleeson was there with her husband. Later Muldoon

Sixteen Year Old Girl Attacked in Montreal

Girl Relates Pitiful Story of Criminal Assault by Strange Man

IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Montreal, Nov. 21—(CP)—Montreal police authorities today appealed for information in the case of the northern limits of Montreal for a man who beat and criminally assaulted Miss Ruth Arthur, 16, and an isolated district by promise of a dinner and winter overcoat.

Leonne Beaudry, a little girl who made a living by selling novelties on downtown streets, entered meath end cows, crying and unfolding her pathetic story to a grocer.

Leonne said she had been accosted by a man about 23 years of age who spoke sympathetically about lack of business and the thinness of her shabby coat.

His wife, he said, would be glad to donate a discarded winter coat and if Leonne accompanied him with him there would be a big dinner awaiting her. Dinner and the promise of a coat appeared almost too good to be true for Leonne, who trudged on a corner swept by wind and sleet.

The lights were dim as they entered a field and Leonne said she was struck suddenly and knew nothing more until she regained her senses. Her head was "pounding" she said and for minutes she wondered what had happened.

She collapsed as the grocer attempted to question her, and he called police.

Police-surgeon doctors said she was in a serious condition, though not critical.

Britain Uses Pressure To Halt N. China Plan, Says London Report

Strong Diplomatic Hand Played in Tokyo by Britain

KAI-SHEK BACKED

Report Says Britain Assures Chinese no Opposition to Peaceful Penetration

London, Nov. 21.—The halt in plans for the establishment of an autonomous North China was said by an authoritative source today to have been due to the pressure brought by Great Britain.

It was indicated the British used their influence to stiffen the stand of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, Chinese National leader, in opposition to North China's spilt from the Nanking government.

At the same time, it was said, the British played a strong diplomatic hand in Tokyo to check the handing of the situation by Major Gen. Kenji Doihara, commander of the Japanese army on the frontier.

In well-informed quarters it was stated the British assured the Chinese they had no desire to interfere with normal, pacific Japanese economic penetration of the territory involved.

Miscarriage Seeks Tokyo.

Tokyo, Nov. 21.—spanese political circles believed the government asserted today the North China situation has developed into an explosive issue within the Tokyo government.

Broadcasts from China showed the scheme for the declaration of autonomy by the five provinces in North China under the protection of the Japanese army miscarried.

Although Japanese civilian ministers were temporarily restraining the action of the Japanese militarists in China, a strong element of the army was insisting the North China autonomy plan be carried through.

Expert said the life of the cabinet depended possibly upon the outcome of the debate on the question tomorrow.

Foreign Minister Hirota is expected to support the compromise suggested by Ambassador Akira Arigwa following his Nanking would be permitted to retain its semi-autonomous degree of sovereignty in North China. General Kuwashima will likely oppose him.

Shanghai, Nov. 21.—Fear was expressed in political quarters tonight the hush which had settled over North China is only temporary and a Japanese military movement may be lying about the autonomy of that area.

Lie Detector Test is Planned for Hauptmann

Rochester, N.Y., Nov. 21 (AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann will be given a lie detector test to determine the veracity of his testimony at his trial, Dr. William Marston said today.

A psychologist and discoverer of the test, Dr. Marston said he has been requested to make the experiment on the convicted slayer of Charles Lindbergh baby by Lloyd Fisher, Hauptmann's counsel. Both Hauptmann and his wife are eager to have it done, he added.

PRINCE MINISTER DUPED

London, Nov. 21.—(CP-Havas)—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin was informed officially today by the Minerr Federation of the plan of seizing vote for a strike if demands for wage increases are not met.

The Prime Minister was asked to join his colleagues in the action with a view to arriving at a settlement of the dispute and prevent to strike unnecessary.

Mr. Baldwin was expected to reply by the end of the week.

Nurse Risks Life To Save Patient

Whitby, Ont., Nov. 21.—(CP)—Although she risked her shock and shill Miss Ruth Ferris, nurse at the Ontario Hospital, she plunged into the icy lake waters to rescue an escaped patient, it was disclosed here for her superiors, Dr. D. R. Fletcher, hospital superintendent, said today.

A woman patient yesterday leaped into the lake near Whitby Gardens. The nurse, only a fair swimmer, followed the woman patient into the deep but her and above water until help came.

Bystanders took place while a number of patients were exercising on the hospital grounds.

ALBERTA DEFICIT $6,000,000

Edmonton, Nov. 21.—(CP)—Actual deficit of the Alberta Government for the fiscal years ending next March 31 is expected by Hon. Charles Cockroft, Minister of Municipal affairs, to be in the neighborhood of $6,000,000.

Hero of Jutland Battle Will Rest in St. Paul's

(By Thos. T. Champion)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 21.—(CP Cable) — The funeral of Earl Jellicoe will take place at noon Monday, Nov. 25, with full honors to the commander of the grand fleet in the only major naval battle of the Great War.

He is to rest in St. Paul's Cathedral where the Duke of Wellington and others of the kingdom's great are buried. The route of the funeral cortege and other details are now being prepared.

The admiral died last night after a short illness and even when he attended the Armistice Day Service at the Cenotaph.

Vitality Aided in Health by Puretest Cod Liver Oil

It was not by chance that Puretest Cod Liver Oil was the first addition to the regular milk diet of the Dionne Quintuplets. Chances could have not been in the favor of these distinctive tots. Puretest Cod Liver Oil was chosen because its extra-rich vitamin content was definitely suited to the need for building strong bones, sturdy teeth—for developing resistance against common ills over menacing ailments.

REV. MR. McMULLEN TO SPEAK IN OSHAWA

On the occasion of the celebration of the silver jubilee of the Albert Street United Church, Oshawa, next Sunday, the Rev. J. R. McMullen, a former pastor, will be the guest preacher. Rev. Mr. McMullen has moved to Toronto after acting as pastor of the Dundas Street Methodist for some years.

Jewellery Store Theft Is Soon Cleaned Up

The robbery committed at McPhail's Jewellery Store early on Wednesday morning was cleared up quickly. A few hours after the robbery, a transient, Thomas Rodgers of Montreal, was arrested on suspicion. The articles stolen, all recovered except one watch, while the Insurance Company adjusted the loss amounting to $1,000, were in the window by sending 100 men from Oshawa with the new glass and had the broken glass replaced before five o'clock in the afternoon. J. W. "Davey" Davison represents the company in this district, that had the insurance.

FIVE SQUIRRELS ARE TREED BY CANINE

In various stages of agitation, and chattering volubly and indignantly over the appearance of a stranger in their temporary prisoners, five black squirrels lived in a small wooden cage on Bloomer Avenue on Wednesday afternoon after Mr. Ted Charlton's small bull terrier were held captive in the branches for nearly half a day yesterday.

During the squirrels' to come down and get chased within an inch of their lives the small terrier which mounted guard was visibly disappointed over the fact, that though its agrightly activity was caused by a concerted chorus of scolding, they refused to bulge from the limbs on which they sat wide-eyed. There was no scampering tree to which they could jump.

CHEESEMAKERS OF P. E. COUNTY MEET

Addresses by Professor Gibson of the Eastern Ontario Dairy School, Kingston, G. G. Publow, chief dairy instructor, J. L. Irwin, Dominion dairy branch, of this city, George H. Barr, director of dairying for Ontario, F. J. Webster, agricultural representative of Prince Edward County and county dairy instructor W. J. Wood, cut into above heads the annual banquet and meeting of the Prince Edward Cheesemakers' Association being held in Picton on Thursday evening, November 28. President A. Ostrom is hoping that cheesemakers of the county in competitions this year will also be made.

MILDEST AUTUMN SINCE YEAR 1923

Not since the year 1923 has this district really enjoyed such a mild fall as the present one, it is revealed by a check up of weather records compiled in the files at the local office. During November, 1923, lowest point reached by local thermometers during the month was just 15 degrees above zero. December, the following month showed the lowest registration to be 4 above. Not until January was the first actual cold weather.

The present month of this year has been marked by an absence of temperatures and ice, with only one or two chilly days to its credit.

MID WEEK MARKET QUITE WELL ATTENDED

An increased mid-week market was seen in Belleville today, when a number of vendors of farm produce displayed seasonable fruits and vegetables. Quantities of fresh cottage meat in the open, while a few loads of cord wood, cut into stove lengths also were offered for sale. No marked differences in prices were noted, however.

WATER CONSUMPTION 1,000,000 GALS. LESS

One million gallons of water less each day are being pumped through the city mains by the turbines at the filtration plant and pump house following the seasonal drop in water consumption, it is compiled from records at the plant. Average summer consumption is responsible for the use of approximately three million gallons per day. At the present time total pumpage is listed at two million gallons. Consumption will increase again, it is pointed out.

GUN DISCHARGES CLARE RIDLEY INJURES HAND

Was in Duck Hunting Blind When Accident Happened

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

When the shot gun, which he was about to pick up discharged the full charge of the shell hitting his right wrist, Clare Ridley, 16 year old son of Bruce Ridley, local grocer, nearly had his right hand blown off, while duck hunting, off Prince Island early today. Young Ridley courageously walked a mile to a nearby farm house, where a kindly farmer drove him to Belleville. Upon arrival at Dr. R. S. McCreery's office, last physician immediately rushed the young man to the Belleville General Hospital where an operation was performed in hopes of saving the young man's right hand.

Nine lead shot gun pellets were removed from the lower part of Ridley's wrist, while a second operation will be performed tonight at which time final efforts to save the injured hand will be made. According to members of the Ridley family there are quite anxious as to the possibility of infection or not Clare will lose his hand.

Accompanied by Douglas Mercer, also of Belleville, young Ridley went duck hunting early today, Mercer taking up a position on the west side of a point off Cedar Island, while Ridley chose the east side of the point. Apparently Ridley pulled a shell into a barrel shot gun down as it accidentally discharged, when he reached for it, the barrel apparently pointing towards his hand. Leaving everything in his hide Ridley staggered to the nearest farm house, a mile away, for assistance. Mercer however, knew nothing of the incident and was left in his shooting hide totally unaware of the difficulties in which his friend had been placed.

BUREAU IN CITY TO BE MENTIONED

Department of Agriculture Broadcast Will Interest Farmers

Belleville's Dominion Entomological laboratory is to be prominently mentioned this evening in a course in coast radio broadcast being delivered over the Canadian Radio Commission's network of stations by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. The broadcast, scheduled to commence at 10 p.m. will be an address of particular interest to farmers of the country, entitled "Insects and Their Control."

Direct reference will be made to the local laboratory on Dundas Street as being established here a few years ago "where parasites are reared and studied and then sent out to do battle on our behalf against the hosts of that invade our forests and fields and homes."

This laboratory is the centre of all parasite investigations of the Dominion Entomological branch, and with the new insectary in course of construction, it will be one of the best equipped establishments of its kind in the world. Setting a pest to control a pest no longer is the dream and we face the future of insect control "with renewed hope," the address continues.

Copies of the address may be obtained upon application to the Publicity and Extension Branch of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Large Exhibit Cheese Shown at Winter Fair

More cheese exhibits were shown at the Royal Winter Fair this year at Toronto than were on view at the Canadian National Exhibition. It was stated today by Mr. J. L. Irwin, Dominion dairy instructor of the local office who returned to the city today after having spent the past three days judging cheese at the Fair.

With only one cheese exhibited from Eastern Ontario, western Ontario exhibitors larger and better exhibits managed to capture the majority of prizes in the different classes, it was reported.

"On the whole the cheese we examined was good, quality was a little better than average and there was quite a lot of texture and make all through. I believe there were ten more cheese shown at this fair than there was at the Exhibition", reported Mr. Irwin.

World Tour Talk Delights Circle

Under the auspices of Jubilee Mission Circle of Bridge Street United Church a delightful travel talk was given in the church parlours last evening by Miss Evelyne Stage of the publicity staff. Miss Stage spent last year on a world cruise and her travels took her to many out of the way places, far from the beaten paths. In this way she collected much information dating and her informal address last evening gave her hearers an evening of rare enjoyment. Miss Stage dealt mostly with her visit to Japan, China and India, her impressions of customs and conditions in the Orient, and her visit to Capri, Italy.

Miss Grace Tucker, president of the Circle was in the chair. A piano solo by Miss Hazle and a vocal solo by Mrs. Fred Houston were much enjoyed. The appreciation of the audience to Miss Stage and the artists, was voiced in a vote of thanks moved by Miss Pearl Campbell and seconded by Miss Ethel Morden. Refreshments were then served by members of the Circle.

wishes to thank all those voting for her and solicits the support of those not interested in other contestants. She will deliver cards to anyone desirous of helping her.

100,000 Soldiers Granted Furlough To Assist Farming

Rome, Nov. 21 (AP)—Premier Mussolini today granted three-month leaves to 100,000 men of his army of 1,000,000.

It was officially stated this order has no "international significance" but it simply to release farmers for work and to speed up Italy's industrial production temporarily.

CHAPTER NO 55 HOLDS BAZAAR

Belleville Chapter of Eastern Star En Fete at Oddfellows' Temple

Yesterday afternoon a delightful bazaar was held under the auspices of Belleville Chapter No. 55, Order of the Eastern Star in the Oddfellows' Temple, Front Street. Mrs. Thomas Liddle, P.W.C.M., was general convener, assisted by Mrs. Thelma Liddle, A.M., and Mrs. Minnie Smith, P.M., co-convenors. The guests were received by the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Reid Bedford and the wife of the Worthy Patron, Mrs. Ritzel Ainsworth.

The hall was a colorful spectacle with its artistically decorated booths and the generous patronage of the community made the scene a veritable hive of industry.

The candy booth, a perennial favourite with the public, was gaily decorated. The success is accredited to the proficiency of Mrs. Aletha Cornish, P.M., and her committee in displaying the quantity of toothsome sweets.

Two heaping baskets of groceries on which draws were taken at a cleverly decorated booth, attracted much attention. Mrs. Grace Cornish and her committee were kept busy supplying the demands for tickets. The first draw was won by Mrs. Maud Hall. Mrs. Elizabeth Holst held the lucky ticket on the second.

The fancy work and home-cooking booths enjoyed a hearty patronage, the lovely book convened by Mrs. Stella Hogle and her assistants being largely responsible for the connoisseur of fine needlework. The pretty booth in charge of the convenership of Mrs. Essie Naylor, P.M., and her committee held allurements for the ladies of the charitable homecooking.

The candy booth and wares of the novelty booth were strikingly unique and charming. This booth was under the convenership of Mrs. Lillian Law and committee.

An innovation in booths was the enchanting Orange Grove under the convenership of Mrs. Phyllis Barlow and assistants.

Tea was served in the upper hall. The tea room, under the convenership of Mrs. M. J. Barlow, P.M. was enchanting in its bridge parties, leading into the tea room lent a picturesque and rustic charm to the setting. The centrally placed tables with gleaming silver, lovely flowers and pretty green tapers was poured by Mrs. Mary Lewis, P.M., and Mrs. Elizabeth Reid, P.M., and Mrs. Gertrude Hall under the supervision of Mrs. Gladys Price.

The Gentlemen's refreshment and party was held by the business girls under the convenership of Miss Irene Gallagher and Miss Mary Carmichael. Progressive euchre was the diversion and the prizes were presented. The following prizes were awarded: Ladies' 1st, Mrs. G. Holst; 2nd, Mrs. R. D. Adams; lone hands, Mrs. M. Gay. Gentlemen's 1st, Mr. R. H. Redfern; 2nd, Mr. Fred Mott; 3rd, Mr. W. J. Hogle; lone hands, Mr. Fred Mott. Delightful refreshments were served by the committee.

Obituary

Samuel George Coulter
(Chapman's Corners)

Samuel George Coulter, life long resident of Chapman's Corners, and highly respected in his community, died at the family residence, Chapman's Corners, today after an illness of three weeks. He was operated on for the removal of a large splendid medical care, he was unable to withstand the shock. The late Mr. Coulter, after being educated in the township took up farming as a profession and was successful in that capacity at the same time building up a number of intimate friends, and neighbours, who will sincerely regret his passing. Deceased was born in Rawdon-ford Township, 62 years ago, being the son of the late Hugh and Isabella Coulter. He was a member of Bethel United Church and was in his younger days a member of Bethel Church Choir. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, formerly Bertha Carleton, one son, Burton at home, four daughters, Mrs. Albert Mora, Mrs. Milton Read, Stirling, Mrs. Percy Blakely, Shannonville and Miss Doris at home, also two brothers, William Adam Coulter of Rawdon, Harry Merton Coulter of Chapman's Corners, and two sisters, Mrs. Fred Blakely, Chapman's Corners and Mrs. Albert Porter of Thomasburg. The funeral will be held at Bethel Church on Saturday with interment in Thomasburg Cemetery.

JOHN T. WARREN

Announcement of the death of Mr. John T. Warren will be received with deep feelings of regret by many citizens of Belleville and residents of this district. Mr. Warren had been in ill health for some time and was undergoing treatment in the hospital at Kingston, where he died early this Thursday morning. In his passing the city of Belleville has lost a good citizen; a man of fine character and friendly disposition, who enjoyed the friendship of many persons in his large acquaintanceship.

The late Mr. Warren was born in Lansdowne township, a son of the late William and Frances Warren, and spent his early life in that district. Later he took up residence in the North Bay district, where he was successful in the lumbering business, becoming one of the best known lumbermen of that section.

Twenty-six years ago he came to Belleville and was one of the first in the city to recognize the possibilities of the automobile following the appearance of the first early cars. For many years, Mr. Warren, one of the first in the field carried on the business of general automobile repairing and was one of the leading lines of automotive manufacturing.

The late Mr. Warren was a prominent member of the United Church of this city and also held important executive positions in Loyal Orange Lodge No. 15 of Belleville in which he had a lengthy record of service.

Mourning his loss are his widow, the former Daisy May Malden, of Lansdowne, one daughter, June at home, and two sisters, Mrs. Alicia Franklin, Rhineland, Wisconsin and Miss Eleanor Warren, Lansdowne.

A funeral notice will appear later.

MRS. G. NORTON

Mrs. G. Norton, formerly of Belleville, died near Bowmanville, early this Thursday morning. The funeral will take place in Belleville; particulars will be given later.

POLICE BLOTTER

Activities in and around local police circles were at a minimum during the past 24 hours, P. C. Evans answered a call to the upper end of Front St. at 9.30 p.m. last night. Upon investigation the officer, to where a disturbance was reported, companied by F. C. Thomson, took into custody an alleged drunk, who will appear in police court tomorrow morning.

Local and Provincial Police searched a car found C.N.R. freight train last night in quest of a transient, who was reported to have stolen a leather windbreaker in Napanee. The information was relayed to Belleville by Chief Waite of Napanee, who informed the local authorities that the youth had been seen boarding a west bound freight train after stealing the windbreaker. No sign of such a person was in evidence, when the train arrived in Belleville, authorities reported.

Fourteen transients were housed in warm sleeping quarters at the police station last night all being given breakfast to leave the city upon being liberated today.

ITALY PAYS HEED TO NEW OFFERS

Anglo-French Negotiations For Peace in East Africa

Rome, Nov. 21 (AP)—Italian authorities gave recognition to new Anglo-French negotiations for peace in East Africa today, asserting they watched to see whether an acceptable basis for discussion would be forthcoming from Paris.

A spokesman for informed quarters said, however, Italy was determined to win and hold a broad strip of Ethiopia, despite League of Nations efforts to force a halt to the conquest.

This source said Premier Mussolini would watch as a spectator the Paris negotiations between Premier Laval, Sir George Russell Clerk, British Ambassador, and Maurice Peterson, head of the London Foreign Office Ethiopian department.

Il Duce, the spokesman said, awaited anything in the nature of an acceptable offer to resume direct dealings.

Mussolini's armies in East Africa, holding Ethiopia's northern Tigre Province and a wide expanse of Southern Ogaden Province as bases for claims of territorial gain in any final peaceful settlement, were encountering difficulties.

FLIGHT OVER SEA IS UNSUCCESSFUL

Lincoln Ellsworth And Pilot Now Back to Base Ship

New York, Nov. 21 (AP) — The New York Times and the North American Newspaper Alliance reported Lincoln Ellsworth was safe at his base ship, the Wyatt Earp, today, after an unsuccessful attempt to fly across the Arctic continent.

With Herbert Hollick-Kenyon of Winnipeg as pilot, Ellsworth had attempted to fly 2,180 miles from the Weddell Sea to the Ross Sea.

The men had taken off at 2.50 a.m. (E.S.T.) today in what Ellsworth described by wireless as ideal weather, the coldest they encountered, he said, was about 13 degrees above zero Fahrenheit.

The plane was equipped with an aerial camera with which the explorer hoped to map the region he described as "the great unknown."

He had headed toward Admiral Byrd's former base at "Little America", intending to stay in the air about 14 hours. He said, however, a little more than three hours.

THREE RIDERS WERE UNHORSED

U. S. Army Team Hold Two Victories at Winter Fair

Toronto, Nov. 21.— (CP)— The United States army team of horsemen held two important victories under its belt today at the Canadian Winter Fair Horse Show went into its second round.

Don, big bay gelding ridden by Major W. B. Bradford of the U.S. Army Riders, had slight cause for first honors in the International jumping events with a brilliant performance. In the afternoon, Mayerarcher, with Captain J. P. Thompson up, won the jumpers, open performance.

Three riders were unhorsed, one of them badly shaken and unable to continue, in the jumping which saw two jump-offs before Cadiqui, wiry bay gelding ridden by Lieutenant Eurique Frazon of the Mexican Army team, was outpointed by the U. S. jumper.

Third, fourth and fifth places in the $500 stake event for open jumpers went to Volant III, ridden by Captain P. Clave of the French team; Topsi and Xyena of the Chilean team. The Irish Free State jumper, Blarney Castle, ridden by Commandant I. O. O'Dwyer, was sixth.

On the night's riding, experts agreed, the Chilean is a team with a wide margin over the five other teams.

Ansonia, ridden by Captain C. C. Jarvis, was the only horse to go clean performer, losing in the jump-off.

Lieutenant-Col. R. S. Timmis of Toronto, was thrown when Lady Jane stumbled during the fourteenth jump. He kicked clear of the stirrups, regained his feet, and after being heavily floored, remounted and finished outside the time limit. A few minutes later, Capt. H. A. Bate of the Canadian Army team took a fall when Spider piled up on the bank jump. He kicked himself clear, helped his horse up, remounted but was out on time. Sgt. C. C. Corry of the Irish Free State team took the second spill of the night when Red Hugh landed heavily after clearing the Canadian Gateway gate. He was helped from the ring by his fellow officers.

'Look Out for Freeze - Up' Is Word Along Waterfront

There's Frost in The Air! And Snow in Cloud Banks

VETERANS SPEAK

Old timers along the waterfront are shaking heads and pointing wisely at the water in the bay and harbor thickening perceptibly as cold day succeeds cold day. "Look out for a freeze-up" they warn, "a sudden one. That's the first sign of cold weather just around the corner and ice in the bottom. When the water gets thick and black and soupy-like, and the waves just don't seem to wash right against the docks and pilings, then there's frost in the air and snow in the cloud banks just off to the west."

Fishermen cock a weather eye at the scudding skies and indulge in speculation regarding the probable amount of time left in which to garner their fish trap at the edge of the shores or in the bay itself. For there's liable to be ice any time now. It has happened before when hundreds of feet of variable net have been frozen in the ice and deteriorate in their icy covering or to be partly ruined when chopped from their moorings. A whole season's profit gone as the result of one cold night. Sometimes the fishermen themselves aboard on the lakes at work have been lucky to get themselves in before the first real snow and gale of winter.

Stuart A. Hoey, former resident of Belleville who carried on business here back in 1897, now one of Trenton's best known citizens in a brief visit to the editorial room of this paper yesterday afternoon, can recall one of these times many years ago when he and a companion narrowly escaped being blown with their small boat to kingdom come" down the Main Ducks way over a heaving wind, swept lake when they set out to do a spot of duck fishing one bright, sunny fall morning. It was one of the equinoctial gales which swoop down out of a clear sky without warning, churning the lake into a whipped, scudding waste of tumbled waves and flying spray and reducing visibility to about the length of an arm before one's face."

"It came up just like that," declared Mr. Hoey with a snap of the fingers for illustration. "First it was nice and bright and sunny as we fished. Then it got dark. A few moorfalls fell and then the wind rose. Before we could pull up the anchor and stow the fishing tackle we were in the middle of it. Even the dinghy we was hicked out. We took a chance and rowed in the right direction. It was quite a pull but we finally made it. Next day the whole shore was frozen up."

Veteran observers of the city in retrospective mood tell with a slight gulch in their breath at times of the glories of the ancient sailing days, scudding down or up the lake before November gales with only a tattered jib sail spread for steerage way and the rest of the canvas ripped and shredded, on the wildly swinging boom. Sometimes they made it; other times—well, the bones of many a stout craft still litter the rocks of the many shire cemeteries of the lakes.

But sailing is different now, they'll tell you with a depreciatory wave of the hand. Tough, steel-hulled boats have taken the element of chance and the danger out of the seasons' lives. Insurance rates may go up about the middle of November but the sturdy tankers, oil and turbine driven still ploy through the dark water until the first of the heavy ice forms on the inland ports making further navigation impossible. The snapping crackle of radio chants the crews formerly outlined only by the occasional flickering and lightening of the channel on lakes and rivers. Electrically or steam driven gearing has taken over the task of holding the wheel on the compass point outlined in the glow of the electric lamp in the binnacle.

There remain as there always has remained the lone fishermen of the lakes, taking the elements as dawn, working through until dark on the homing ship that is his boy, but sometimes laden to the gun'nels with fish, more often just the empty craft, and between times a few cry's on the weather.

FACT HELPS SAYS DOLAN

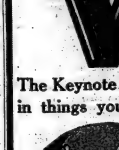
Cincinnati, Nov. 21.—(CP)—Leo Dolan Director of the Canadian Travel Bureau, suggested today a reciprocal exchange of tourists between Canada and the United States would follow signing next week of the Canada-United States trade agreement.



Mr. Dolan, speaking before the Cincinnati Rotary Club and the International Association of Convention Bureaus, predicted the tourist trade this year would be found to have brought Canada approximately $200,000,000, an increase of between 25 and 35 per cent over its value in 1934.

PHILIPPINES' FREEDOM

Nations that seek mandates, and in this case, Italy, if she secures a mandate over Ethiopia will have a difficult task to pursue should she try to follow the latest action—the case of the Philippines. After thirty-eight years the Islands, ceded to the United States by Spain and fostered and developed in the way of liberty have been allowed their freedom.

Italy if she secures a mandate on Ethiopia may not want to let go because she has used the word "expansion" in connection with her "conquest."

The peaceful splitting up of the Roman Empire into an Eastern and Western Empire is recalled by historians. The Romans also pulled out from Britain when the pressure by barbarians became too great at home, but this was, as it were, enforced.

CANADIANS IN N. Y. CHURCHES

Lasting friendship of Canada and the United States was seen by Rev. Dr. F. W. Kerr of St. Andrew's United Church, Montreal, preaching in First Presbyterian Church, New York. He said that Canada was in danger of being overwhelmed by the "virility" of the United States and that there was no nation she would rather be dominated by. "We have adopted your sports-baseball and prize-fights, we turn to you today and say There is no people on earth we would prefer to have as neighbors."

He pointed out "mischievous elements bent on causing trouble, referred to newspaper syndicates that revel in prejudices and promote ill-feelings. He also objected to textbooks in history and literature written in such a way as to implant unconscious prejudice in the minds of children against Canada and Great Britain.

Service to God and humanity can be found in the simple things of life and need not be sought in abstract truth. Sir Wilfred Grenfell said on Sunday in St. James Presbyterian Church, Montreal, where the missionary was guest speaker. "Christ did not say we were to have an intellectual attitude to truth but that we were to follow it" he remarked. "If we take the word love in the sense in which Christ took it, we should love, not only, our neighbor, but our enemy and then religion binds us to an invisible power which solves all problems of the twentieth century."

Sir Wilfred said that many persons were assisting in the work of the mission in Labrador who did not recognize it, referring to a shop in Fourth Avenue which is selling industrial goods for people in Labrador, and many children were being fed through the work of mothers and fathers who have been taught by the junior league.

"When we found that almost nine tenths of our people in Labrador was due to food" Sir Wilfred said, "the love of Christ had to be preached that way."

asked an agriculturist from Massachusetts State College to come and tell the people something about gardens. He has come here every year. The cellars right now are filled with potatoes and many people in Labrador will be saved from sickness because of that.

"You can grow a potato for the love of God just as well as you can preach a sermon.

"People ask me how they can serve the Christ in New York. The service of the Christ is so simple, so venturesome, so in reach of us all, so much the only cure for nationalism, that I ask you to consider whether you wont take adventure with me."

Sir Wilfred expressed his own philosophy of living and said the greatest fun and enjoyment of life were in doing things. It is not so much having accomplished something in life, but actually building and doing."

Rev. Father W. I. Lonergan, S. J., associate editor of America, declared that communism ,materialistic in its explanation of the universe is avowedly atheistic. Now it hardly need be told any believer, let alone any Catholic Christian, what consequences inevitably follow for the individual and society generally if such a doctrine gets to be widely accepted. Even religious indifferentism makes for civic deterioration and holds back national progress. But were positive atheism to gain a strong foothold on the land, it would be only a short step to the extinction of our whole civilization."

THE HOME FORUM

Presented by the ministers of the city, the forum not necessarily expressing views as revealed by the Intelligencer editorial page—under the evening lamp—and comments Gwyn and Gay. — Supervised by The Lamplighter.

A. J. M. Smith is a 33-year-old Canadian. Since graduation from McGill University, he has worked on various Montreal newspapers and contributed verse to many of the leading literary magazines in America and England. At present he is teaching at Doane College, Crete, Nebraska, and is engaged in the preparation of an anthology of modern Canadian verse. He calls this poem The Circle.

Over me the summer drips,
And over me the wind cries;
The tree above me sways and dips,
The bird above me sings, and flies.

Insensibly the season slips
From coloured days to paler days,
With faded berries on my lips,
And in my eyes an autumn haze

That thickens to a wintry mist
Of amethyst and drifting snow,
Of drifting snow and amethyst
That dances solemnly and slow.

My breath goes ghostly on the air;
I move my lips, but cannot call,
Nor break the quietude I share
With earth and sky, with brook and fall.

Silent, enraptured, I remain;
The many-coloured season pass:
Now April sunshine, April rain,
Lights crouches among the grass;

And now the oozing summer drips
Through many days of silver delight;
The tree above me sways and dips,
The bird above is poised for flight.

MANY CITIZENS OF BELLEVILLE ARE SOLD ON COMMUNITY SERVICE. Men and women everywhere actively believe that it is their duty to help make Belleville a better place for all to live in—that any little thing they can do to make others happier, more comfortable, in better health and in any way improve their conditions of living is a privilege. Hence we see the men campaigning for the Champion spirit and the Chippied Children, for the Y.M.C.A., V.O.N. and other worthy objects, ready for anything that will advance the interests of the community. The women, too, collectively—which there is a noble band of women engaged in all kinds of church and welfare work. Belleville can not help but progress because of the character of its citizens.

TOURIST EXCURSIONS THROUGH ETHIOPIA are being advertised in Italy for 1936—just a bit premature, to be sure, but there are more prospects for tourist travel in that country in 1936 than right now. In any event the margin of safety permits of postponements, if necessary.

Here's a sidelight on sport which indicates that the lads who play the game on the gridiron do not forget the larger game of life and that sport does not crowd their craniums to the exclusion of more important things. Sports Editor of New York Mirror reveals the following incident of an unusual and interesting nature:

When the members of the Notre Dame football team arrived at Harmon, N. Y., the other morning, they were met by a fleet of the cars which vie with the Irish for the honor of having put South Bend on the map. The boys were driven from Harmon across Westchester County to the Holy Family Church, New Rochelle, where a special mass was celebrated in their honor. Father Michael Shea, who composed Notre Dame's famous "Victory March" played it on the organ. Fifty of the sixty members of the squad received communion. Their confessor, before mass, was the Rev. George Murdock, Catholic Chaplain at West Point, whose team they play in the Yankee Stadium this afternoon!

THE MAID WALKED OUT

A servant girl in Welzensburg, in Northern Bavaria has been sent to the local concentration camp for "repeatedly omitting her job without giving notice and maliciously leaving her employers without notice in the lurch." The chief of the Nazi County Bureau, when making commitment for an indefinite period, announced: "This is one place you won't be able to leave without giving notice."

HIDES REVEAL SKILL OF HUNTER

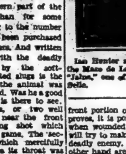
Too Many Bullet Holes Depreciate Value of Hide, Says Dealer



The experienced hide dealer can tell the story of the hunt and the experience of the hunter by the skin he finally buys. When that part of the animal is disposed of for cash. Speaking more especially of deer, more have been shot in the woods of the northern part of the county this year than for some time past, according to the number of hides that have been purchased so far by local dealers. And written into those skins with the deadly perforations made by the soft-nosed, nickel-jacketed slugs is the true story of how the animal was shot and finally died. Was he a good hunter? The proof is there to see. One shot, perhaps, or two well placed. The first near the front shoulder, a crippling shot which brought down the game. The second a finish one which mercifully ended its life quickly with the final cut to make it bleed. Was a mere lore blazing away in the bush at everything that moved, killing his deer at long range with a wavering fusillade? There is the evidence also of the mean kill told in the number of bullet holes that may be counted in the skin.

"Fourteen bullet holes I counted in one hide I bought today," declared one local hide dealer, whose long acquaintance with the business has given him an insight into the manners of hunters when hunting. "But that is nothing. I have seen as many as 20 bought a hide that was so riddled I could only value it at a half a dollar or so. There must have been ten or more hunters in the bush. They must have all seen the deer at the same identical time and blazed away at it in all directions at the animal to the tree and engaged in target practice."

"I get to know the good hunters who sell me the hides year after year. The good ones are few and far between. They help it, and generally they kill their animal with one or two shots at the most. They make sure of it before they shoot and when they shoot they shoot to kill."

"One of the best kills I've ever seen was a bullet placed directly in the centre of the deer's head. Right between the eyes. He must have been standing only about fifteen feet away when it was killed. And stopped like a dad in his tracks."

Bears, comments the local dealer, are not so easy to kill. Seldom is a bear skin bought that hasn't three or more bullet holes in it. A bear has more vitality than deer, actually the bear is killed with a going away shot, seldom a chance for the hunter to place his shots in the front portion of the animal. Which proves, it is pointed out, that even when wounded the common Bruin will try to make a getaway from his deadly enemy, man. Deer on the other hand are generally killed on the flank or quartering shot. Seldom is a hide found in which rear shots have penetrated, killing it. They move too fast.

Hides being purchased by local dealers this year range in price from 75 cents to $1.50, according to size and condition, it was stated.

Initial frosts of the season have frozen the surface soil of the county in various sections, and for a few mornings of the past week or so ice has rimmed the surface of the quiet lakes. Shorefishes have swirled in tiny flakes through the city docks, clouds repeatedly settled on the first actual fall of the season. Fishermen of the section see no immediate freeze up yet. They point to the fact that wild ducks are in the bay, that gulls still and even on the farthest, north lakes in the county a few are yet to be found. The earth worms are still very near the surface of the ground and as yet, in some sections, the Ground Hog has not yet decided to go into hibernation for the winter. There is still time left for the older of the prophets to complete their fairly plentiful apple crop. This will be a typical 'cider year' owing to the fact that apples have been smaller on the whole and the last minute wet season has made the product juicy and reliable. Further proof that winter is still in the offing is given by Mr. Jim Gardiner who declare that not for years have the fishes refused to come into shallower water at the appointed time, generally about the first week in the present month, but so far only few in numbers that netting them has been an uncertain proposition this year.

Mr. H. A. Thomson, manager of the Molson's Bank at Trenton for some time, has been transferred to Owen Sound as manager. While in Trenton he was active in the Board of Trade and the Canadian Club and will be much missed.

Messrs A. M. Chapman, D. V. Sinclair, O. Reed Holton, W. B. Deacon, George F. Chapman, Frank L. Smith, Gerald Morton, the Rev. A. S. Kerr and others from Belleville left today for a meeting at the arena in Toronto and heard Billy Sunday deliver one of his characteristic antibooze sermons.

30 Years Ago

NOV. 21ST. 1905.

Many of our readers will remember Mr. T. S. Clark, at one time accountant in the Bank of Montreal in this city, and his family. His only daughter, Miss Grace Clark, after an exceptionally brilliant record at Queen's College, Kingston, last year gaining scholarships, graduated two years ago and was appointed tutor in German. At the beginning of this year she went to Germany to take a post-graduate course and while there she was offered a position in the American Presbyterian College at Smyrna, Turkey, which she accepted. Miss Clark's career has been followed with great interest by many of our citizens.

Mr. Armistead, teacher at the Hamilton Road School, reports that an eight-day clock was stolen from the school between Friday afternoon last and Monday morning.

A line of telephone poles is being erected along Hotel street. These poles were not opposed to poles being erected on Front street, should now give the unsightly appearance of Hotel street.

TRAFFIC AGAIN BACK TO NORMAL

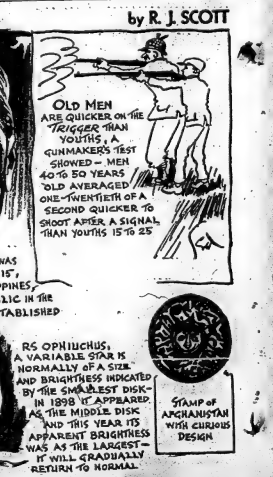
Main Line Cleared And Most of Merchandise Salvaged

Traffic schedules were back to normal today on the main line of the Canadian National Railway, seriously disrupted during the fore part of the day yesterday by one of the most damaging freight train wrecks experienced recently.

More than 100 men worked throughout the night and Wednesday clearing the right-of-way of the tumbled and twisted mass of wreckage of broken box cars and piled up contents, strewn along the tracks as the train buckled, when one of the middle cars left the tracks. West bound rails on the line were torn up for a distance of 32 car lengths at the east bound rails were also piled high with the broken debris. Operations of clearing the line and in charge of Roadmaster Frank Offen, Brockville. The "big hook" and auxiliary work trains were rushed from Belleville immediately following the pile up and local men were still at work today it was reported.



Merchandise consigned from the eastern provinces, which included fish and produce suffered little injury and was quickly transferred to other cars for transmission to Toronto. Eight of the wrecked cars contained Prince Edward Island potatoes, while the balance carried smoked and fresh fish from the coast.

The first refrigerator car, which left the rails was reported literally torn apart, with its load of Island potatoes being liberally distributed along the tracks.

Weddings

McKENZIE—REID

A quiet wedding took place November 18th, at 3 p.m. at the Baptist Parsonage, when Olive Reid and Wilbert McKenzie, both of Belleville, were united in marriage by the Rev. G. A. Sinclair.

The bride looked charming in a white crepe ensemble with matching accessories. Miss Evelyn Reid, of Frankford, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid and looked lovely in a pink crepe ensemble with white accessories. Mr. Harfy Chichester of Thomasburg, was best man.

After a short wedding trip the happy couple will take up residence in the city.

VANDRIEL—KINSMAN

On Saturday evening, November 16, at the home of Rev. J. Barnes, Gladstone avenue, Oshawa, the wedding took place quietly of Miss Mona Kinsman, eldest daughter of Mr. Thomas Kinsman, to Mr. A. J. VanDriel, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. VanDriel.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Irene Kinsman, and the bridegroom by his brother, Mr. Gordon VanDriel. Immediately following the ceremony, which was attended by relatives and friends, Mr. and Mrs. VanDriel left for Belleville.

Trimly tailored are many of the new evening ensembles, especially those designed for the younger woman. A charming ensemble of white satin has an accordion-pleated skirt. The double-breasted blouse is fastened with green added stars. There is a green velvet Ascot tie and the coat has large revers stitched with green.

WHEN THEY SHOW THESE SIGNS

—Nervousness, Constipation, and Poor Appetite,

check their diets for this all-important, 3-purpose oatmeal

Many are nervous, poor in appetite, system out of order because their daily diets lack enough of the precious Vitamin B for health.

Few things keep them back like a lack of this protective food element.

So give everyone Quaker Oats every morning. Because in addition to its generous supply of Vitamin B for keeping fit, it furnishes food-energy, muscle and body-building ingredients. For about 1½c per dish.

Start serving it tomorrow for a 2-weeks' test. Quaker Oats has a wholesome, nutlike, luscious appeal to the appetite. Flavory, surprisingly good. All grocers supply it.

Canada Coming Into Own Says Acting Premier

Toronto, Nov. 21 (CP)—The Royal Winter Fair, where tophats and overalls meet in a common love for proud horseflesh, fine livestock and healthy agricultural products, entered its second day under the impetus of warm optimism on which it was launched.

With bands, banners, varied exhibits representative of the Dominion's agricultural life, an audience of 19,000 night heard acting Ontario Premier Harry Nixon and Mayor James Simpson pronounce their official benediction on the colorful fair.

"It inaugurates a new era in our country," declared Mr. Nixon, referring to the high standard of exhibits, "pointing out that at last she is coming into her own. And we who are in close touch with agriculture and other primary industries cannot fail to testify that there is an improved condition, that the dark days are behind us, and before us lie the sunshine and brightness."

Welcome To Riders.

Mayor Simpson extended a hearty welcome to riders of the army teams of Holland, France, Chile, United States, Irish Free State and Canada, who are competing in the horse show.

"Canada," said Hon. Duncan Marshall, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, addressing representative farmers and stock raisers from every province," is now beginning five or ten years of the greatest progress in agricultural industry has ever seen. A new day is dawning for the farmer. Canada is coming into her own as one of the greatest agricultural nations of the world," he stated.

Howard P. Wright of Airdrie, Alta., won the first major championship in the grain and seed classes of the Royal Winter Fair last night when his sample of hard red spring wheat was judged the best in the show. An Ontario grower, Roy C. Chambers of Fenwick, showed the best wheat other than hard red, and may be Wright's main opponent when the grand wheat champion of the fair is declared.

Mild Winter Says Big Chief, Ojibway Takes Look at Furs

Toronto, Nov. 21.—Although the Meteorological Bureau reports that a cold wave is sweeping eastward from western Canada there is nothing to worry about. It's going to be a mild winter and there won't be much need for overcoats. Rubbers may come in handy but mufflers will be out. This is the prophecy of Chief Sam Snake, of the Ojibway Indians, as he looks at furs and his words are concurred in by Black Hawk, the tribal prophet, who blames the fur farmers and beaver for not fully forecasting them for the last 40 years.

Chief Sam Snake bases his weather prophecy upon nature's natural barometer, the fur-bearing animals and birds. Last year he proved to be about 10 per cent. correct; but this year he aims at a straight 100. He bases his findings upon a number of nature's signs. In a telegram received by H. C. Bourlier, general passenger agent, Canadian National Railways, the chief stated that the geese on their southward journey flew higher than they have for years, a sure sign of an open winter. The foxes and other fur-bearing animals have not donned a heavy coat this fall and the beaver and muskrat do not think that a severe winter will be necessarily. Even the fish have not taken to deep water, as they would ordinarily do, if heavy frosts were pending.

Prophet Black Hawk goes even further than Chief Sam Snake. He has Sarnia-dust in the nose and will not fall more than a foot in depth. This fact is indicated by the deer which are scratching their horns on trees and bushes just 13 inches above the ground. Through some strange intuition, Prophet Black Hawk finds that deer invariably select as their scratching mark the depth that subsequent snow will fall. And to clinch his statements, the prophet claims that there will practically no snow still in the vicinity of Toronto and along the shores of Lake Ontario.

Fluid May Add Ten Years of Life And Double the Working Capacity

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 21. — (AP) — University of Virginia scientists are working on a fluid, which they say may add ten years to the normal life span and double the working capacity of many individuals.

Dr. S. W. Britton, professor of physiology, and Ian Lind, an extract of the adrenal cortex, probably is composed of two hormones—one of which is essential to life and the other necessary for sex functions.

The adrenal glands are located on the kidneys and have a sheath known as the adrenal cortex. This sheath represents only about one three-thousandth of the body weight. Loss of its results in death unless the extract from animals is supplied.

At present work on the uses of adrenal cortex extract is still in the experimental stages. The fluid is expensive since the glands from 3,000 cattle yield only about one gram of impure extract.

When it is injected into dogs, Dr. Britton said, their capacity to do physical work was increased ten times. The animals were able to run on a treadmill for 16 to 18 hours and finished with no appearance of fatigue.

When injected into rats, Dr. Britton said, it resulted in their reaching maturity about a month or fourth the normal time and showed a marked effect on the extension of life.

WEDDED BLISS BARRED TO STARS

Illusion of Movie Star's Life Makes For Unhappiness

Hollywood, Calif., Nov. 21.—(AP) —Happiness in marriage is a forbidden pastime in the film industries, mated to a "super-man or woman," a noted psychologist asserted today.

"Jealousy closes the door," said Dr. Boris Morkovin of the University of Southern California. "Unhappiness in their personal lives is the price many of them pay for stardom."

"The exceptions," he said, "are those in which a star's mate fails in love, and stays in love, with the real person, not with the illusion the star spends 24 hours a day maintaining.

"It takes a super-man or woman to do this. And when he or she fails, the first reaction is deep, bitter jealousy of the star.

"A movie star with any real fear any one woman, but unless her love is deep and true, she will resent the mate's devotion directed toward him.

The same is true, in more vivid colors, he said, when the wife is the star and her husband just her husband.

And when star weds star, the danger doubles, Dr. Morkovin explained, because "they have no real personal life at all. Their interests centre in themselves. Neither gives himself to the other."

Secession Scheme for, China Goes Awry

(By Glenn Babb, Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press)

Tokyo, Nov. 21 (AP)— The scheme for secession of North China under the protection of the Japanese army went awry today.

An official source said the chief reason for the set-back in plans to receive a new regime on $5,000,000 people of five North China provinces was order by the army high command in Tokyo, to his subordinates on the continent, stalling officers conniving in Chinese separatist movements were exceeding their authority.

This order was one of the rare instances in which civilian leaders of the Tokyo government made more cautious views prevail over military ambitions.

The command was understood to rule Japanese forces in Manchuria —the only ones on the continent capable of enforcing imperialistic schemes for Japan—could not be permitted to cross the Great Wall unless given an Imperial order to do so.

Current Attractions at Local Theatres

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL

Tonight the Capitol presents on the stage for the first time in Belleville a complete unit of the star acts of the Chalwin amateurs under the direction of Mr. Jack Marks, who promises fun galore for everyone. These performers have been selected from the best amateurs in and around Oshawa and their ability will amaze the people who attend this theatre. The acts are many and varied and are sure to please the most critical of fans. Those boys and girls are the winners of a six months contest conducted on the stage of the Marks Theatre, where the people are very entitled when it comes to picking a winner. Jack Powell the finest tap dancer in the amateur realm is sure to please you with his various routine of difficulties. The solo accompanist of Hal Leroy will make you applaud him again and again. The Vickers kiddies will gladden your hearts, to watch these small bundles of humanity sing and dance is a real pleasure indeed. Alberta Hall is a lady impersonator on her own right, having danced and sung in the biggest theatres in Toronto. Doris McAssay will do a series of taps on her toes which will have the audience wondering how she manages to perform such a difficult routine and still maintain her balance. Tom Hart, the big Irish tenor, will sing his say into the hearts of the audience and his voice has been acclaimed as the finest in eastern Ontario. George Norris, the pianist for this show is one of the best and several of his own compositions have already been published by a large musical company. The other acts on this program will be the finest variety and it behooves all people who want to see a good show to attend the Capitol this evening.

Wheeler and Woolsey

Hilarious laughter, loud and long, entries from the world's most distinguished writers. As the winner "Jalna" was published in book form in the Atlantic Monthly and was released in book form immediately thereafter. It became an instantaneous best-seller and subsequently has been published in numerous editions here and abroad. Kay Johnson and Ian Hunter head the list as Alayne and Renny, while Ralph plays the aged grandmother. Other favorites include Peggy Wood, David Manners, C. Aubrey Smith and Nigel Bruce.

An entertaining screen oddity will be exhibited on the same program. Performances start daily at 2.30, 7.15, the last complete show starting at 8.30. "The Gay Deception" starts at 2.40, 7.25 and 9.50; "Jalna" starts at 3.45 and 8.30.

AT THE BELLE

"The Gay Deception"

A Furore of Fun and Escapades Featuring Francis Lederer and Lovely Frances Dee

The boy was unbelievably rich, handsome and a royal prince, yet he pretended to be nobody.

The girl was young and lovely, enjoying a mad merry fling at life with her last five thousand....and her first. And then they met!

There, in a nutshell, is the delicious, mirth-provoking situation in which Fox Film's "The Gay Deception" coming today to the Belle Theatre, places its romantic stars, Francis Lederer and lovely Frances Dee.

It all starts when Miss Dee, a sweet young secretary who has longed all her life to be in the whirl of gay city life, wins a sweepstake prize and decides to spend it on one delirious spree of pleasure.

She hies herself to New York and to its tiniest hotel. And, even though she is mistaken for an heiress, she fails to find the colorful life she had anticipated.

There are even annoyances, one annoyance in particular, a very bellboy who criticizes her hats and clothes and tells her how lovely she is. And just as often as she has him fired she finds him back again, until she finally begins to take an interest in the handsome young stagerace.

She has no way of knowing that he is a prince in disguise, not even when he turns up in all his royal regalia and accompanies her to the season's gala ball, and even through some curious misunderstanding he is arrested as an imposter, the girl finds herself pleading for his release because she is in love with him.

Through one brilliant high comedy scene after another, "The Gay Deception" moves to its close and Miss Dee admits that she does love Lederer, even if he is a prince and not the poor boy she hoped he was.

Benita Hume, Alan Mowbray and Akim Tamiroff are prominently cast in support of the two stars. It's the laugh hit of the month. Don't miss it!

"Jalna" Noted Prize Story

Bringing to the screen fiction's best loved family came also the "Little Women." RKO Radio presents the Whiteoaks, of "Jalna," in a picturization of Mazo de la Roche's novel of the same name.

As a novel, "Jalna" won the $10,000 prize offered by the Atlantic Monthly. The competition to determine "the most interesting novel of any kind, sort or description, submitted by any writer, citizen of the British Empire or Indianapolis," attracted international attention and drew

Traveller Found Dead On a Flaming Bed

Stratford, Ont., Nov. 21 (CP) — A man believed to be Thomas H. Kane, commercial traveller of Hamilton, was found dead on a flaming bed in the Mansion House Hotel early today.

An hotel employee noticed smoke coming from beneath the door of the room. When the occupants of the room failed to respond to calls the door was broken down.

The dead man's pipe was found among the ruins of the bed.

Half Million Votes Over Previous High

(By The Canadian Press)

Canadians cast votes totalling half-a-million more ballots in the Dominion election Oct. 14 than in the previous record poll of 1930, according to the final compilation of the popular vote by the Canadian Press. The figures, based on complete returns from all constituencies, showed a total of 4,392,-227 votes.

Liberal candidates polled more than 2,000,000 votes as the Dominion's total for the first time topped the 4,000,000 mark. The Conservative total was 1,302,514 and the remaining million-odd votes were divided among C.C.F., Reconstruction, the Social Credit and a host of other candidates.

DENIES GIVING DRUG OVERDOSE

Always Consult As To Administering an Opiate

Reading, Pa., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Dr. Monroe J. Clouser denied today he ever "did anything to hasten death to any sick person" or "gave an overdose of any drug" during his quarter-century practice.

The physician, of nearby Friedensburg, in a statement declared he had not said death of ten terminal patients had been hastened by his treatment.

Dr. Clouser said in alleviating suffering of incurable patients, "it has been my policy as well as most other physicians to consult the immediate physician in charge as to whether or not they wish me to administer an opiate."

"As soon as an opiate is administered to a person suffering from an incurable disease, the patient may cause his death sooner than if he had been permitted to go without the opiate," his statement said.

"Then again, he might die even sooner if he refuses to take the opiate by agony.

"As for administering any overdoses with the express purpose of bringing about a merey death—that is absolutely untrue and I am not guilty of that."

No More Piles

Get Quick, Pleasant Relief

Probably not one person in ten knows the cause of piles is inside—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about piles and is the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give more than temporary relief—they do not remove the cause.

Your piles can not be relieved until you have corrected the condition which causes them. That is why an internal medicine like HEM-ROID should be used.

HEMOROID is the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, who early in his professional life made many tests to relieve piles by correcting the cause. His medicine succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, eases the pressure of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and helps to heal and restore the sore, tender parts.

So if you have failed to get the relief you want from your sore, painful piles and would like to give HEM-ROID a trial, you have our guarantee that your money is back if one bottle of this prescription does not give pleasing results. A. McKeown or any druggist can supply you with the genuine HEM-ROID.

"TROUBLED WITH CONSTIPATION" FOR PAST 25 YEARS"

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Welcome Relief

Read this voluntary letter from Mr. Lecour: "I have been troubled with constipation" for the past 25 years. I tried practically every cathartic without results.

"Recently, I determined to give Kellogg's ALL-BRAN a fair trial. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has not only helped me, but I believe it is the best medicine for chronic constipation."—Mr. Henry E. Lecour. Address upon request.

"Due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" for intestinal action. It also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle-acting, unlike pills and cathartics. Often more effective than pills in relieving constipation, it still does not break down within the body.

Isn't this natural food pleasanter than patent medicine? Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

FRANKISH FINDS CAUSE OF DEATH HEART CONDITION

Medico-Expert Differs From View Held by Other Doctors

NO SKULL FRACTURE

Smith's Falls, Ont., Nov. 21 (CP) —The new inquest into the death of William C. Muldoon, whose body was found in his automobile late on the night of August 31, was scheduled to resume here early today. Indications were the inquiry would wind-up this afternoon with a jury addressing itself to the task of settling the evidence of nearly seventy witnesses.

A previous inquest had attributed Muldoon's death to a blow on the head but this was upset by a ruling of the Ontario Supreme Court and a new probe was ordered. Today's jurors will have to decide between contradictory medical evidence submitted by local physicians who adhered to their previous testimony that the man's death was caused by injuries and by doctors from the Provincial Attorney General's Department who asserted Muldoon had died as the result of a "myocardial condition."

Conducted Post Mortem.

Evidence that Muldoon died as a result of a "myocardial condition" was presented by Dr. E. R. Frankish, Medico-legal expert, who conducted a post-mortem on the dead man's body.

Dr. Frankish read the reports he had then made, showing that Muldoon's heart had indicated signs of "calamitous degeneration". There was no fracture of the skull and no injuries to the lower parts of the abdomen, nor were there evidences of a hemorrhagic condition, said Dr. Frankish.

Testimony was also given by Professor J. Miller of the Queen's University Pathological Department. He spoke of having received from Dr. Hall of Police G. C. Bromley a number of exhibits and of examining them for traces of human blood. He had been unable to discover any, said the professor.

Dr. C. L. B. Stammers, coroner who held the first investigation, was said when he saw Muldoon on the morning of September 1, there was a slight rash in the forehead.

No Blood Visible.

"It was such a rash that no one who was sober could have failed to see," he said. There was no blood visible and the coroner said he was sure the wound had been washed.

Across the forehead from the bridge of the nose over the right eye there was a short swelling as though that area had borne the brunt of a blow, he asserted. He said the blow was a severe one, adding he had been practicing 50 years "and no one can tell me that was not a very severe blow".

"Nevertheless" believe he must have been struck by someone. Who I do not know," the coroner added.

Dr. W. Murphy who had seen the Muldoon shortly after his death, gave evidence coinciding with that of Dr. Stammers and which led him to the same conclusion.

Picton and District

Hit By Car

Picton, Nov. 21—Bayburn Daye was painfully bruised when thrown from his bicycle when it collided with a car driven by Dr. J. A. Scott.

The boy was riding on the main street at the time. Fortunately no bones were broken but he will be confined to bed for several days.

James Holland, Athol S. S. No. 4, won the public speaking contest held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Prince Edward County Trustees and Ratepayers Association at Wellington Consolidated School.

The subject was "The Weed Menace of Prince Edward County." Ruth Benway of No. 10 Hillier speaking on the topic "Silver Jubilee", was a close second.

The judges for the contest were Mrs. M. A. Fowler, Dr. A. O. Brearley and Roy McLean.

Eleven boys and girls entered the competition. They were: Helen Marshall, Bidwell S. No. 2; Jean McCaw, S. Marysburgh, Buddy Pallister, Athol S. S. No. 4; Ellsworth Seiver 13, Ruth Wannamaker, Ameliasburg 15, Marjorie Woodrington, Sophiasburg 14, Rose Greenfield, McDowell S. S. No. 5; Glen Harrison, N. Marysburgh 1, Loran O'Flaherty, Ameliasburg 16, James Holland, Athol 4, and Alvin Holden.

Fifty-two pupils of the Wellington Consolidated School, led by G. S. McKinney, gave a splendid presentation of "Come to the Fair" when an orchestra of pupils directed by the teacher, Ford Rupert, gave a selection. A vocal solo by Jack McCaw completed the musical programme.

A special feature of the evening was the address by R. D. Peterly, formerly of the Ontario Institute for the Blind. Mr. Peterly criticised the modern educational system as it was in force in advance of that of 1870. "Since the day of Newton Ryerson there has been little advance in education," said Mr. Peterly. "Our educational system has not kept pace with the commercial, industrial and social life," he claimed.

The speaker attributed the lack of progress partially to the lack of practical consideration at the hands of the Department of Education.

Another reason he averred, was the lack of educationists in the offices of the Deputy Minister. A third reason was that the Ontario Normal Schools are not taught by the staffs familiar with the methods of teaching in elementary schools, he believed.

The curriculum of the Normal School was also scored as insufficient. Another drawback, he believed, was the present examination system which he felt to be inadequate.

The speaker was introduced by F. E. Nicholson, County Inspector of Public Schools.

The doctor revealed that in the future public speaking contests will replace the spelling matches in rural schools. The contests would have been held at the rural school but will be discontinued. School competitions in public speaking will be held in each township, the winners competing in a township contest. Winners will represent the county in the Belleville county contest, composed of Peterboro, Ontario, Durham, Northumberland, Hastings, Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington.

A nominating committee of Messrs. J. A. Maher and Thomas Nightingale appointed by the chairman Dr. F. A. Scott, presented the following slate of officers who were elected by the meeting.

Honorary Presidents: Judge R. H. Ketcheson, Prof. Ivs Martin, T. F. Spafford.

President: Dr. F. A. Scott, B.A., Picton.

Vice Presidents: Fred Martin, Rollins.

Secretary Treasurer, Dr. K. E. McQueen, Bloomfield.

Executive committee: Thos. Nightingale, Ameliasburg, N. J. Fennell, Athol, Percy Chase, Bidwell, J. J. Martin, Rollins, Wm. Fairbrough, C. McCaw, South Marysburgh, Alvin Holden, Wellington, C. Wa'a, Bloomfield, John Maher, Picton.

The resolutions committee brought in several resolutions. The most important resolution approved by the meeting was one suggesting the re-election of Clergy Reserve funds in certain of the townships when the fund has outlived its need for school purposes.

Attendance at the afternoon sessions was small, but the evening meeting was crowded. The president, F. A. Scott presided.

Police are investigating a break-in at the Picton Coal Company office. Entrance was gained through a rear window. The safe failed to respond to the would-be safe crackers and they left disfigured by the effort. The combination dial was so badly smashed part of the door had to be cut away before the safe could be opened. Only a few cents left in the till was taken. Police are investigating.

Rev. David Wren was guest speaker at the Pathfinders' Club of Wesley United Church. He gave a most interesting talk on his experiences during twenty-five years in the ministry. Many of these were of a humorous nature. Philip Dodds presided and a number of young people gave readings. The club will visit Bridge Street United Church Young People, Belleville, on Dec. 2, the visit being postponed from Monday last as Bridge St. Church was celebrating its anniversary.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was around at the firehouse tawting to Mr. Riley the hookem snivey driver, and I ast, What was the most unexpected fire you ever had, Mr. Riley?

It was in here in this very fire station, Mr. Riley said, and I said, Oh, gosh you mean the fire Mrs. Nechue cawt on fire with all the candles on it?

Not only in it but in our bunke dormitory presently on the matter notably according to our caracters, Mr. Riley said. We all woke up at 2 A.M. in the morning scented like the smoke hit our highly trained noses, and in a jiffy we all commenced a military contest to see which one could get to the fire pole first and sound the alarm, because naturally we couldn't get to work at the fire before the alarm sounded, he said, and I said, But O, you all know where it was, don't you?

What the alarm gong? Mr. Riley said, I said, No, sir, the fire said he said, O, we knew that all right, but firemen have their traditions and it's a tradition with us not to start out on a fire, or as the case may be, to start in on it till the alarm sounds. Naturally in a baseball club I lead, being also a horseshoe pitching, and believe me no team at a baseball game, or even a football game, was ever in better or more exciting than that, Mr. Riley said.

Did your side win? I said, and he said, We fought each other in a standstill, with most of us suffocated by smoke, without any number of either side having got his hand on the pump, and another fire company finely had to come and rescue us and put out the fire.

What caused it in the first place? I said, and Mr. Riley said, We always thawt it must of been caused by young Stanpins, our pet, this particular instants we had to accuse ourselves, and each one of us wanted the honor. We were secretly bringing Jack some whittling blocks of wood and putting them under his bunk as scorching fuel on his fire. And now I've got some polishing to do, he said.

Meaning the end of the subject.

BIG TRANSPORT FORCED INTO DITCH

"Cutting in" by Smaller Truck Believed Cause of Accident

Canned goods were strewn about the highway and a large Buford truck, driven by Stanley Wright, 30 of Picton, was forced into the south ditch, where it turned over on its side, when it "cutting in" by allegedly cut in and struck the left front wheel of the large vehicle at 8.00 p.m. last evening. The accident happened on Highway No. 2, about six miles west of Belleville. Motorcycle Patrolman Bert Deanan answered today. No injuries were sustained, however.

According to Mr. Williams, driver of the loaded Buford truck and trailer, he was proceeding westerly, when the smaller truck tried to pass his vehicle, being forced to cut in front of him due to oncoming traffic. In attempting to pass, the smaller vehicle struck the left front wheel of the Buford. The impact of it is swerve into the south ditch, where it turned over on its side, pinning Mr. Williams in the cab. Upon his release, however, it was disclosed that he driver was not seriously injured, suffering only minor bruises and shock.

Motorcycle Patrolman Delaney scoured the adjacent highways for the smaller truck, which Mr. Williams described as a red delivery vehicle. No signs of the "hit and run" driver were found last night, however, and a connecting Ford transport arrived on the scene and removed the load of canned goods from the damaged vehicle, also the goods, that were strewn about the highway and the badly damaged truck was later towed into Belleville.

It was announced this morning, however that the driver of the smaller truck, which Mr. Williams described as a red delivery Ford transport arrived on the scene and removed the load of canned goods from the damaged vehicle, also the goods, that were strewn about the highway and the badly damaged truck was later towed into Belleville.

It was announced this morning, however that the driver of the smaller truck, which Mr. Williams described as a red delivery number of the alleged "hit and run" truck had been subsequently supplied the authorities and a complete check-up of this number was ordered.

'INSIDE STORY' TREK TO BE TOLD

Federal Agent Denies Raising The "Red Bogey"

Regina, Nov. 21 (CP)—The "inside story" of the trek of 1,000 relief camp workers to Ottawa, broken after a trip here December Day, was slated today to be laid before the Saskatchewan provincial magistrate's commission investigating violence here July 1.

Four prominent figures of the trek will be called to make statements to the commission, possibly late today but by Tuesday of next week at the latest.

When B. D. Hopkith, K.C., counsel for the Federal Government and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police yesterday asked for notice of procedure to call Commissioner Frank O Cunningham, strikers' counsel, said at least four strike leaders would be called.

Mr. Cunningham said they would be Arthur Evans, Jack Hammill, George Black and Matt Shaw. Evans, out on bail on charges arising on charges of unlawful assembly, was interpreter for leader of the on-to-Ottawa trek. Hammill was advance agent and Black and Shaw were among Evans' chief lieutenants.

N. ZEALAND PACT IS EXTENDED

Anxious to Encourage Assembling of Cars in Country

OTTAWA, Nov. 21.—(CP)—Amendments to the Canada-New Zealand trade agreement, operating into effect May 1, next, provide for a number of changes in the rates on Canadian products entering the latter country the Sister Dominion, Canadian authorities announced here. While studying today the changes made public late yesterday by Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

New Zealand is anxious to encourage the assembling of motor cars within its own borders and also to increase the Empire content of cars on which it allows lower rates. Accordingly the new agreement will provide for low duties on unassembled cars and trucks, which have between 65 per cent and 75 per cent Empire content; for higher duties on cars the rates will be higher.

The rate for unassembled cars of the 65 per cent Empire content will be increased from five to 10 per cent. This is the minimum rate. Assembled made cars could qualify for this rate. Rates on assembled cars and trucks will be somewhat increased.

Rates on separate parts shipped to assembly plants will be the same as those for the complete vehicle.

Series is Added

The new duties, as is the case with the present tariffs, will be subject to New Zealand's surtax of 22 1-9 per cent of the duty.

Another change is in respect of the "content", that is the proportion by which the Empire content is to be wholly British. "Empire content" will meet the requirements for preference purposes. Of advantage of the Canadian industry, this amends the previous provision, that the content percentage must be exclusively British.

Extension of the pact is from Nov. 30, 1936, to April 30, 1937, to May 1, 1936. Certain undisclosed counter proposals made by the Canadian Government have not accepted at this time but, as the period was too short for extensive negotiations, it was thought advisable to renew the agreement, which has been extended periodically every year since its inception in May, 1932.

Mr. Euler said, Government invited the Canadian government to further conference negotiations before the amended duties on motor cars come in effect on May 1 next." Mr. Euler stated in announcing the extension.

ANOTHER VICTIM

Cobourg, Ont., Nov. 20 (CP) —Seemingly in the car which dropped 15 feet after going off the road on Highway No. 2 near Grafton on Mrs. Joseph Dunnett of Dunnett's Landing, died in Baltimore today. Her will be buried at Roseneath, Ont.

REMANDED FOR THEFT

Peterboro, Ont., Nov. 20 (CP)— Donald Donovan, 28, of Belleville, appearing today before Justice of the Peace J. R. Lockhart and was remanded eight days on a charge of stealing a motorcycle from Harold Clauson of Pembroke.

HOGS

Toronto, Nov. 20 (CP) — Loses spotted bacon hog prices from outside points declined 25 cents, Hamilton down five cents, Chatham 10 and Hull 15. Other reporting points held unchanged at a range of $7.25 to $7.65. Prices:

Peterborough, $7.25; Chatham, $7.25; Barrie, $7.35; London, $7.35; Kitchener, $7.50; Stratford, $7.50; Hull, $7.50; Brantford, $7.65.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE FOR MRS. C. HAGGERTY

A very pleasant time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Haggerty on Sunday November tenth, it being a surprise gathering to spend a few hours with Mrs. Wellman's mother, Mrs. Officerdin, Hagerty, it being her 80th birthday. The gathering chiefly consisted of old friends and relatives who in their early days lived in North Hastings in the settlements known as Beech Ridge, Limerick Valley and Pinerver, but have now all moved to Belleville and the vicinity round about Belleville. Those who spent the dinner hour with Mrs. Haggerty were Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Hinchcliffe, R.R. 3, Trenton and daughter Frances, of Toronto; Mrs. Sarah Junchliffe, R.R. No. 3, Belleville; and Mrs. Margaret Hay, R.R. No. 8 of Belleville; also Mrs. Arthur W. Wilson and Mrs. Kenneth Wellman and daughters Ruth and Lois of Mallowsy. After dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. John R. Pound, R.R. No. 6, Belleville and daughter, Grace, of Trenton; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pound, R.R. No. 6, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hazard, Plainfield; Mrs. P. Linton, R.R. No. 6, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Greenwood and daughter, Aileen, 11 Murray Street, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Sprackett, Front street, Belleville; Mrs. John W. Fox, Belleville; Miss Mr. Ween, Shannonville; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ray and daughters, Evelyn, Dorothy, Doreen, and Lorna of Madoc; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wellman, and son and daughter, Earl and Helen of Madoc.

Visiting was indulged in until 2.30 when a buffet lunch was served, to over forty guests. The gathering broke up around four or four-thirty and went to their several homes, all claiming they had enjoyed a real old time visit.

Peterboro C. I. Team Defeats Belleville Collegiate Squad In Sudden Death Contest

Game Played at Cobourg Proves Power of Winning Squad

SCORE 15 30-7

Local Team Played Best Football In Fourth Quarter

Displaying their worst form of the season the Belleville Collegiate senior intercollegiate football squad dropped a sudden death O.C.S.S.A. play-off game to the Peterboro C.I. seniors by the score of 30 to 7 at Cobourg yesterday afternoon. The Belleville line of weights proved the woefully weak in the first half, while the secondary defence was called upon to carry the bulk of the defensive work throughout the game. In the second half the local intercollegiate squad staged a rally to battle at perfectly even terms, but lowed to a better team. The loss eliminates the tri-colored B.C.I. squad, champions of the Bay of Quinte district, in victory the Lake Shore titleholders, Peterboro C.I. seniors, continue in the O.C.S.S.A. play-downs.

The heavier Peterboro line of scrimmage wrought havoc with power plays and backs in the ranks of the B.C.I. backfield. The latter smashed aggregation battered and helpless but with a do-or-die spirit the Belleville defensive squad kept their all but laid waste and stinged somewhat of a come-back in the last half, but their efforts proved futile against the more powerful Petes. Lead by Dick Logie, stellar backfield player of the B.C.I., the locals tried in vain to overcome the odds, but even Logie's efforts went in vain. Logie stood out as the individual star of the game and was closely followed by Captain Bill Carter, both of whom played good defensive football for the Sidesaddlers. Carter's kicking was all that could be asked for, however, as he continued to outkick Young, the Peterboro quarter, but the local line could not stop their opponent's power plays. Coached by Beauford-coached team from the Liddell City, Cecil stood out, with Hydeman, Goddard and Fulling-horn following in order.

The Play

The final quarter proved a punting battle as Young kicked with the aid of the wind and tried to advance the ball by the Belleville's poor line. Baker successfully returned most of the Peterboro kicks, but a fumbled on the Belleville's own first touchdown, late in the initial quarter. Young promptly converted and the quarter ended 6 to 0 for the Peterboro squad.

The second period proved most drastic for Belleville as the Petes scored twice. Young, the Peterboro's off the Peterboro squad used power plays and these proved successful and they continually gained ground until they knocked over the touch, that was not converted. A. Clarke romped merry for the Petes in the third quarter and when Peterboro intercepted an attempted Belleville forward pass, Clarke ran the pigskin to their opponents' 15 yard line only to have the Petes run the pigskin over the touch that Young promptly converted and the score read 13 to 0 for Peterboro.

Belleville O.I. played their best football in the third stanza, when they held the Petes to a lone point. McPherson replaced Young after Young had kicked over the Belleville line. Then Peterboro scored a touchdown cost B.C.I. major corvals as they dropped the ball on forward passes and the locals' chances to have been completed. To open the final stanza A. Clarke, Peterboro, an attempted B.C.I. forward and raced it back 25 yards for a touchdown. Later Derry was rouged by Patterson and then Young fell on 2 blocked kicks, behind the B. C. I. goal line, for a touchdown. The locals then went earnestly to work and showed their mettle in precision-made over B.C.I. for the remainder of the game, but their efforts came too late. Baker kicked to the goal line for the B.C.I. score and on the prettiest play of the day Logie intercepted a B.C.I. attempted forward and raced it back fully 30 yards for a touchdown, which the locals converted via the forward pass route. The final whistle saw B.C.I. still on the offensive but the score stood 30 to 7 for Peterboro. Following the game Coach Shiels and the B.C.I. squad congratulated Coach Beauford and his Peterboro team and wished them success in their quest of a O.C.S.S.A. title.

The lineups:

B.C.I.—Flying wing, Carr; halves, Goddard, Logie, Derry; quarter, Muir; snap, Sherry; insides, Hanbah, Baker; outsides, Bradford, Reid; outsides, Renouf, Lachin; subs, Reynolds, Saunders, Clarke, Hoskinson and Potter.

Peterboro—Flying wing, A. Clarke, halves, Strickland, O. Clark, Perry; quarter, McPherson; snap, J. Patterson; insides, Wilson, Duncan; outsides, Kelly, Fullingborn; outsides, Young, F. Patterson; subs, Sutherland, Cecil, Hydeman, Cotton, Gunnion, Martin, Lewther, Hendren and Bowen.

Officials—Craig, Ellison and Colquhoun.

IRON MAN INJURED

MURRAY MURDOCH

After setting up a record of nine years in a Ranger uniform without missing a single game, Murray "Ironman" Murdoch found his record threatened when an injury threatened to put him on the shelf. Manager Patrick said he would dress his durable forward and let him play a few minutes in Rangers' next game, in order to retain the iron-man record for Murdoch.

QUEENS LIKELY TO PLAY TIGERS

Will Receive Permission From Governing Body in Time

Toronto, Nov. 21.—(CP)—Football challengers from Queen's University, riding over all technical obstacles prepared today to play Hamilton Tigers in the Eastern semi-final of the Canadian playdowns Saturday. The battle between the Intercollegiate and Interprovincial champions is expected to attract a capacity crowd in Hamilton.

It will share interest, however, with the final game of the O.R.F.U. in Toronto between Balmy Beach and Sarnia Imperials, defending Canadian Champions. Imperials, with a sensational lead gained in their 5-0 win at home last week, were expected to finish the touch points series on top.

Queen's decided to go ahead yesterday after the Canadian Rugby Union agreed to accept the trivial penalty of $1 and a team approved by noon Saturday by the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union. There was some doubt if this approval would be forthcoming, but that didn't bother Queen's.

They went to work on the constitution and drafted and they need of the approval of the Canadian Intercollegiate Rugby Football Union and not the Athletic Union at all. They said it was the C.I.R.F.U. that was affiliated with the C.R.U. and they expected to have approval from this body in plenty of time.

PRO. BASKETBALL IS FAST PASTIME

Windsor Team Meets Stiff Opposition in First Game

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 21 (CP) — Hed-aids of Detroit, one of the west's powerful quintets in the moneyed circles has been chosen to oppose Harry Shanahan's Cooper Buses in Windsor on the professional basketball inaugural here Saturday night.

Shanahan has gathered together a collection of Windsor and Detroit athletic artists during the past few weeks and has been drilling them hard in the hope of making their debut before Border fans a winning one.

Johnny Murray, former member of Assumption College and Windsor Alumni teams, will share guard duties with Bill Crouch, ex-Detroit Cadillac, Tecumseh Hornet player, who weighs 230 pounds.

The forward duty Shanahan has "Red" Menard, another graduate of the college and alumni team; Howard "Zepp" Riggs, former University of Toronto captain; Jimmy Riddell; Earl Rochefaff, six-foot, three-inch centre from Detroit; "Hope" Streeter, Frank Cochrane; Bill Hays and Ed. Skrzesz.

EXPERTS PICKED 5 FROM QUEENS FOR ALL-STARS

Intercollegiate Heroes One of Best Teams Ever Selected From Union

PLENTY OF POWER

Half Line Would Give Any Squad in Country an Argument

(By Elmer Dolinge, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Nov. 21 (CP)—The question of Toronto college football players, even the best of them, are good enough for all-eastern rating hasn't cropped up in recent years until today. The third annual Canadian Press all-star intercollegiate team, announced last night, brings some of the year's greatest players up for sectional recognition.

No longer have the Interprovincial and O.R.F.U. a lien on either backfield talent or wingline power in the east. College players, especially from the brilliant squads of University of Toronto and Queen's, take rank with the best in the other provinces.

Intercollegiate All-Stars

Flying wing: Harry Sonahine, Queen's.

Half: Joe Connelly, Toronto.

Half: Johnny Munro, Queen's.

Half: Hugh Marks, Toronto.

Quarter: Bobby Coulter, Toronto.

Snap: Reg Barker, Queen's.

Inside: Frank Verosi, Western.

Inside: Bob Weir, Queen's.

Middle: Abe Zvonkin, Queen's.

Middle: Gus Green, Toronto.

Outside: Charles Letourneau, McGill.

Outside: Jack Holden, Toronto.

Fortunes didn't change from Saturday to Saturday for this dazzling dozen as they did for those others whose all-star selections rated, then floundered. Bertie Wilson, McGill star, unquestionably the best punter in college ranks was an all-star, certainly in mid-season. But towards the end of the campaign he was stopped.

Connelly, Munro, Coulter and Marks were never stopped. The powerful Sonahine stood out as a mighty defensive figure whether Queen's were winning or losing. Critics and sports writers who took part in the all-star poll had to pick sharply for even one-game backs.

Plenty of Speed

For sheer speed, the college offensive half line of Connelly, Coulter, Munro and Marks would be superior to any the Big Four or O.R.F.U. could muster. It would lack only the great plunging strength of the older stars. The inclusion of the forward passing team of Marks and Connelly would make the overhead attack as strong as many in the land.

When the experts go back in the huddle to name an all-eastern team they will give serious consideration to this college backfield.

The line is long on odds the best the intercollegiate has had available in years. Barker, formerly of Hamilton Tigers, is one of the best snapbacks in the east, yet he barely was named on the all-star team ahead of McGill's captain, Fred Green.

Captain Frank Verosi of Western, Bob Weir of Queen's and Gus Green from the inside posts, with Walter Letourneau of McGill and Turney Williams of Toronto only slightly less favored. Weir has been out of action with a broken his wrist in a game against Toronto Varsity.

There was little dispute as the ends, Jack Holden of Toronto and Letourneau and Holden to outside. Zvonkin has been the intercollegiate's most colorful line player for two seasons, he never has been as effective as this year.

CHIEF LYNX

When Chief Lynx, the Ram Reserve Indian villain of the team crawls through the ropes to meet Ernie Peterson tonight at the Belleville Arena, he will meet a worthy opponent in Ernie Peterson, the 191 pound Otto adonis, who is indeed a one ; the best men, at his weight, in the wailees. Peterson is a classagile wrestler, who has always proved a crowd pleaser wherever he has appeared on the continent. In the main attraction of the evening Curly Donchin, the Nebraska Wildcat meets Billy Kiel in an hour limit bout. To make the card one of outstanding prominence Jack Pearl was signed to meet Walter Cox, the Big Chief Caillou badman of the mat in the opening bout of a metropolitan show.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

At the, expense of the Belleville Arena we called Jack Pearl on the long distance telephone last night in relationship to the identity of the wrestlers who appear oh tonight's all-star wrestling bout at the arena. We have been asking for new talent in Belleville and through the cooperation of Ivan McKnight I was able to get Bill Kiel, Curly Donchin and Ernie Peterson to appear in Belleville. I knew the fans will enjoy this show, especially the Chief Lynx-Ernie Peterson bout, and when Jack as he informed us that Peterson was an active agile wrestler along the lines of Frankie Hart, only somewhat heavier. Hart gave the Indian quite a battle some time ago but as Peterson tips the scales over the 190 pound mark he may be able to accomplish what Hart failed to do, namely give the pugnacious Indian a real beating. As for Kiel and Donchin all we know is that Mickaliff brought them here from Canada from the mid-western States and it naturally follows he could not afford to bring into Canada anything but top-notch wrestlers. The mere fact that Walter Farrell was dropped to the preliminary class speaks of the calibre of tonights show.

On Saturday the annual meeting and election of officers for the C.O.R.U. takes place at Toronto. There is a project on foot to endorse permanent President Max Swanston and Secretary Newt. Thompson to remain in office another year. According to the information we have at hand there may be a Toronto and district man in the C.O.R.U. next season. If Max A. E. and C. be given an unprofessional of one sport and amateur of another ruling the C. O. R. U. executive does not endorse. ing to place a high class basketball team composed of professional hockey players. In Toronto and will play in the Central League as a Queen City club. If such an arrangement could be made possible it would give the fans in the city league and also to baseball in Eastern Ontario. With such an able set-up being mooted the local baseball moguls will have to look to their laurels next season if 1936 as there are some real classy basketball players in the professional hockey ranks, many of whom play semi-pro. ball in Belleville, where assistance in the proper mix without comment. Which is as it should be. If not we don't believe we ask Robert Ripley.

Insofar as Intercollegiate football is concerned in the Belleville district for 1935 the curtain was rung down on that particular sport yesterday when the senior Northern Collegiate Institute seniors trod over the B.C.I. squad in a sensible game. C.O.S.S.A. play-off at Cobourg, the score being just 30 to 7 for P.C.I. By virtue of their victory the P.C.I. continue in quest of their first C.O.S.S.A. senior football championship. May they realize their ambitions. They will have just too good and our line could not get going, was the only comment made by Coach Shiels this morning. Incidentally we understand that Dick Logie, local half-back, stood out even in defeat. The lad has all that it takes to make a real football player, watch him go. We have not put intercollegiate football into the basketball for another year because thing should be said of the two local collegiate squads, both of whom were their respective groups, junior and senior. Although Coach Shiels had visions of another C.O.S.S.A. championship, he and his team took their defeat in a manner becoming gentlemen and there were no alibis or squawks of any kind. Congratulations, Peterboro, may you achieve what we had wished to," was the parting gesture of Coach Shiels and his team after the game.

Incidentally since Lester Shiels came to Belleville to commence his duties as a teacher at the Belleville Collegiate some six or seven years ago, football has advanced by leaps and bounds in Belleville. Ernie Hughes, also of the B.C.I. staff, started the rejuvenation of football and then along came Lester Shiels, who is in charge of all sports at the B.C.I. In less than a year Coach Shiels built football into the school's major sport and gave the Belleville Collegiate two C.O. S. A. championships during his labors as football coach. A record that is augmented by the fact that the local squad has yearly won the Bay of Quinte and Central Region honors until 1935. Had it not been for the efforts of Mr. Shiels and his able body of assistants at the B.C.I., rugby football today would not have attained the preeminence it now enjoys as one of Belleville's major sporting events. Hockey provincial teams are coming into their own, but it is in the schools that the players learn their A. B. C's of the great autumn pastime.

The Oshawa sports scribe personally thanks the Peterboro' Group for putting the Blue Devils "in", as he terms it. Well, we suppose he is right in his contentions, but really he suggests that the Blue Devils drop their game versus Oshawa to pay on purpose to force the locals into tendering the Lindsay squad a banquet, he is again laboring under one of his many erroneous ideas. The promise to the Lindsay squad by Secretary Fry was a banquet tendered to the Victorians if Belleville won their group. In his usual humorous manner the Oshawa scribbler in his many 7 o'clock issues has Belleville promised this feed if Oshawa lost to Lindsay now he proposed that the Blue Devils will drop their game at Lindsay purposely to force Belleville to tender the banquet. Nice fellow, our Georgie, but we understand that the penalties still holds good, and if Belleville does win the group they will not. "My fran, there's many a slip twixt the cup and the lip". Today it's Ice to Cobourg for the local O.R.F.U. squad on Saturday.

Eddie Sherman' Belleville packers complexited their season's work out at the Jack Harty Arena last evening and are ready for their first game versus Prescott on Friday night.

Do you remember when Alex Denman, brilliant inside wing of Napanee Tigers Interprovincial Union Rugby Football club was awarded the Jeff Russell Trophy emblematic annually to the player of most value to his team and displaying the highest ideals of sportsmanship. That was three years ago today. Denman was a superb defensive player, skilled in interference work and a great open field tackler.

Baseball Deals Are Kept Secret

(By Fritz Howell)

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Dayton, O., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Baseball's hot stove league was not so hot today. Deals were being made at the minor league meeting here. There was evidence of that in the whispering of club managers in huddles but the information was being kept under cover.

New York and St. Louis National League clubs completed a deal Wednesday. Bill Terry, giant skipper, announced that, but he declined to say just what the trade consisted of. Branch Rickey, vice-president of the Cardinals, said he believed Terry "spoke out of turn" in even admitting a deal has been completed.

Rickey however, did not deny the deal. He said the principals would be announced at the Chicago meeting. Everyone else at the minor meeting, nevertheless, was willing to wager Dizzy Dean, Cardinal screwballer for the Cards, had been traded to the Cubs for pitcher Bud Parmalee.

One rumor said the Louisville Club of the American Association was on the auction block. Bill Eschelbach, president and William (Cap) Neal, vice president of the Colonels were reported looking for buyers for their stock.

FACES CONACHER FOR FIRST TIME

Mike Karakas, Chicago Coolie Hits Yet to be Beaten

(By the Canadian Press)

Mike Karakas, a young man who has filled in a good deal for Chicago Black Hawks with great success since the start of the season, will undergo his official National Hockey League Baptism tonight. It is customary to have a warm welcome for Charlie Conacher, the big bomber of Toronto Maple Leafs, and this is the night that Young Mike will face Conacher's drives for the first time.

Filling in temporarily, and maybe permanently, for the injured Lorne Chabot, Karakas had greatly enjoyed two perfect games in the five he had played under Big League fire. He has permitted only one goal to be scored against him in these engagements and no more promising rookie ever prepared for the baptismal ceremonies.

The Toronto-Chicago game in the home rink of the Black Hawks headlines a three-game N.H.L. program, that also brings together Maroons and Canadiens at Montreal in their first duel of the season, and the Americans and Detroit Red Wings at New York. Neither Montreal nor New York has yet scored a victory.

On the other hand, the Leafs and Hawks are unbeaten. They are leading their respective groups and seem to have struck their real stride faster than any of the other teams. Each has fashioned a tied entire.

Despite a 7-3 setback at the hands of Toronto Tuesday night, Canadiens are regarded as a stronger team than last year and have a home crowd they expect to win from the Stanley Cup Champions. Maroons with Billy Burch in complete replacing the retired Alex Connell in goal, won their first start.

CHAPTER 13.

A TALK IN THE DARK

The night before the ship reached Panama everybody dressed for dinner. Reluctantly, Janie donned her one decent evening gown: a wisp of cream and geranium chiffon that floated wraithlike about her slim form. She stood for a long time before the clear crystal of the dressing-table mirror, regarding it moodily in the glass.

Dinner in the saloon was the inevitable, disjointed affair which is the usual aftermath of every playful dissery, harassed and resentful stewards and the general atmosphere of forced gaiety and childish horse-play which follow in the wake of snapping bon-bons, absurd tissue-paper favors and paper caps which sit rakishly above bald heads and simpering childish smiles. Even the doctor's ruddy sober face bloomed ridiculously beneath the red cardboard fireman's helmet which a sprightly matron from B deck had insisted that he wear.

"A few hysterical monstrosities don't prevent your doing — fool things," he told Janie in a resigned undertone. "But certainly prevents your enjoying them while you're doing them."

Dumbly Janie went through the motions of eating. Occasional gusts of Mrs. Cramer's intermittent and ingratiating rampant laughter at the others at the Captain's table. More than usually conscious of Mrs. Cramer's intelligent glances in the once-friendly eyes of the younger group surrounding Gregory Stewart. Twiddle Crail, hoe in pursuit of the college group — a grimacing, sheathed, crimson-lipped child, with a voice like the clapper of the virginal bell. "Why the young of today aren't necessary to bray—" intoned the deep voice of Mrs. Anna Hadd above the din. Narrowly she looked after this retreating form of her shocked spouse, who, his dinner but half-consumed, was retreating austerely from the room.

"Mr. Hatch," she informed the silent group about the center table, "has a very delicate stomach. His life has been written within a mourning border. The slightest thing upsets him, and all this—Disgusting!" She remained with an effort into a moody silence.

As soon as she could, Janie laid down her napkin and murmuring an excuse, fled to the stateroom on A deck. Without stopping to change the festive gown, she snatched her white coat from her hook and hurried along the dim hallway to the stairs.

Anthony Fane, knocking the ashes from his small briar pipe, stooped up to let her slip into her familiar place on the coil of yellow rope.

"You must have made them sit up at dinner," he said in his cool, clipped voice. That's rather a lovely frock." He touched a fold of the geranium chiffon with a tentative brown finger, then went back to staring at the sea above the bowl of his pipe. Janie sat quite still for a while, covertly watching the outline of his lithe body against the coil. Then she slid low on the coil of rope and folded her arms. "You miss Havana," he said after a little silence. "Shall you be glad to be getting home?" He sat down, he suddenly what had been wrong with her at dinner tonight and what had been wrong ever since Mona's reminder of the afternoon. ....With Havana but three short days away this interlude must end. Not to come-down here when dark-ness fell over the sea; not to have him willing, ready to listen to the absurd longings of her fret-ful heart; to sympathize, to laugh.....

"Havana," he answered, quite question now, "is enchanting; although you don't suppose it ever really will be home. I'd always want to come back to it in time, I think."

"Mark visited it — years ago when I was a child," the girl said slowly. "Not the places the tourists go, but the little, quiet, slipping days, with the trees that they can't be seen at all from the decks of laughing steamers." "I think it was the parrots that got me—made me want to see Havana some day. I've stayed with me all these years, the picture Mark drew. Just the thought of that cool green interlacing wall, shutting out the jar and jangle of the world. Sort of like that verse of Conrad Aiken's," she quoted dreamily.

"In the purple dusk above the roof-tops.

Pale as a moon mist and seem to die....."

He finished it for her:

"And I, myself, on a swiftly tilting planet,

Stand before a glass and lie my lie!"

"Why—" Jane said surprised. "You knew the verse, didn't you?" The man nodded. "Yes, I knew it." Then, with an undertone of something troubled in his voice, he added: "And since the Jungle is obviously out of the question, on this particular trip of yours to Havana, just what do you plan to do about seeing Havana itself?"

Janie flushed hotly in the dark. It had occurred to her suddenly that what she had been saying might be construed as a bid to be invited ashore. After all, he lived in Havana.... oh, but he couldn't think that! He must have known she wouldn't hint, even if such an idea had entered her head. With a throb of relief she remembered Mark's letter of introduction. She mentioned it hastily, thankful it hadn't thought it consciously for days.

"He gave you a letter to someone he knows in Havana?" the man asked listlessly. Janie nodded. "Someone who owns a sugar plantation near Orro," she said. "Mildred has the letter. I don't even know the name of the man. But since Mildred won't be using it," she concluded with a faint tremor of bitterness in her voice, "I've no doubt she will give it to me."

"I'm sorry you don't know the man's name," Anthony Fane said. "Might be someone I know, you know. There are plenty of fine chaps in the sugar business down there— although if this political situation doesn't clear up soon it's going to go hard with most of them."

"You mean—the insurrections, the fighting, that sort of thing?" Janie turned toward him, her small white face with the softly parted lips seeming to stand out cameo-clear against the sky.

"Not entirely. It goes a bit deeper than that. You see, when the United States freed Spain Uncle Sam took Cuba under his wing. Sort of a step-child parented to take care of her, and all that. Among other things there is a reciprocity treaty; twenty per cent less tariff on Cuban raw sugar in return for twenty per cent less tariff on automobiles..... He stopped abruptly, smiling a little diffidently above the bowl of his pipe. "But what would a little girl in a lovely rose frock know about things like that?" he said. "Forgive me—"

"Oh, but I do want to know," Janie said with passionate emphasis. "I'm interested—please——"

He r'd then, after a short movement of silence: "Well—it's a bit involved, but boiling it down, somebody in Washington has seen fit to go after Congress of late with a view to discontinuing this reciprocity preference on Cuban sugar—and American capitalists are beginning to withdraw their investments. It's a fight you have, between the American refiners of sugar and the Cuban refineries; and if American money is withdrawn from Cuba—"

His voice stopped: in the half-light she could see the feeling hidden behind his controlled quiet face. "That's what I mean: a moment ago," he finished, "about its going hard with the plantations unless the thing is cleared up."

"It means a lot to him, one way or another," Janie thought slowly—and she wondered if any woman ever would bring that look to his face. It was the first time he had ever touched on anything personal that might in the slightest degree apply to himself. It was puzzling, it was disturbing; yet she had never ventured, never wanted to know more. Now, unaccountably, she found herself holding her breath, hoping he would go on. As she waited, another voice spoke softly in the blackness behind them; a low respectful voice, tinged with a slight Cockney accent: "Mr. Fane, sir—is that you, sir? Could you come for a moment?"

Almost before the voice finished speaking, Janie's heart had given a thumping leap in just a moment —you'll wait for me, won't you—there's something I must see to down below." And he was gone; Janie's quick ear caught the note of the voice, in the Stygian blackness of the steerage quarters below.

Janie sat quite still in the white coat about her shoulders. She shivered slightly for no reason at all, and leaned her head wearily against the rail. Not to move, not to think, ever again.... just to sit here on this deck, all silver shadows and spectral shapes, with the faint murmurs of water so close at hand, with the seductive muted strains of the ship's band blending into the background of the night.... just to let things drift along as they would, drifted, forever.

"Well couldn't go on, of course," she brought herself up sharply. "I'm getting maudlin, or something—only it does get 'curiouser and curiouser'—"

With an impatient shrug a smothered exclamation, she stood up. The coat dropped from the shoulders and for a moment she stood so; slender, supple, bare-armed, the clinging folds of the exquisite chiffon cross folding her round in the little wind from the sea. She had felt in that ardent, restless moment a sort of pagan kinship for all the things that were so soon to end; for the troubled ocean and the burning stars and the whole panorama of life and living that she had never, until this voyage, known. With a swift, passionate gesture she lifted her arms above her head, in a pantomime as unself-conscious as when she danced as a child. Then she dropped them as quickly, with a nervous start.

As silently as he had departed, Anthony Fane had come back and was standing close beside her on the deck. Smiling down at her, he reached into his pocket for the inevitable pipe, then seated himself calmly against the rail. "Cabin steward waylaid some help," he said in an unhurried voice. "Chap sick down there in the steerage. I've sort of lending a hand." And he added, in the same unhurried voice, but the something shaken in its cool depths: "I hope I didn't startle you just now. I thought you heard me——"

"Oh——" Janie shrugged nervously, her eyes not meeting his: "I'm just moon-mad or tropic-mad or something, I guess. All this—" her hand gestured toward the stillness of the sea, "rather got me for a moment, that's all."

"It's always news," said Anthony Fane, "no matter how often you've seen it.... But in just about twenty minutes from now it's going to storm like the very devil himself."

TARZAN THE INVINCIBLE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)

While the two prisoners were allowed the freedom of their hands, Arab guards always surrounded La and Queen. Though there seemed little likelihood that Tarzan, an unarmed girl would take the risk of escaping into the jungle, where she would be surrounded by wild beasts.

However, in the mind of each girl was the determination to escape. As the party approached the Galla country, both girls knew that a new menace threatened La of Opar. The Dammuk marched often beside her, and in his baleful eyes was a message that needed no words to convey.

But when Abu Batn was near, Ibn Dammuk ignored the fair prisoner, and this caused Zora much amusement, for it convinced her that Abu Batn was but biding his time until he might find conditions favorable to the carrying out of some scheme.

At the edge of the Galla country they were halted by a river in flood. They could not go north into Abyssinia, and they dared not go south, where they might naturally have expected pursuit. And while they waited Ibn Dammuk struck.

STORY FABRICATED TO HELP WOMEN

Mrs. Baker's Story

Mrs. Baker said Muldoon kicked at an electric light bulb in the kitchen. Later he fired at them in the bedroom before leaving Mr. Baker there. They proceeded to the home of James Beckett.

Witness said Muldoon did not buy any groceries while going to the Beckett residence. She said they usually drank gin with lemons or ginger ale.

She did not see Muldoon pointing the revolver at Mr. Beckett when they were enroute to the Beckett residence.

"Did you see a mark on Muldoon's face?" asked Mr. Magone.

"No, if there had been one there I think I would have seen it," replied Mrs. Baker.

"When Miller and Baker carried Muldoon into the house they took the bottle of gin was not in his pocket, or in his hand," he said.

Coach Brought to Court

At this point the coach from which Muldoon is said to have fallen was brought in view of the jury and Mrs. Baker was asked to place it as it was in her home on the night of August 31.

She explained to the jury Muldoon was lying on his back on the couch, almost the entire of it.

Mrs. Baker told the jury a small table was also on the couch and the table was not in the court room as pictured exhibit. Officers were despatched to the Baker house where they got the table and a rag from the gassy willows.

While the officers were getting these articles the questioning of Mrs. Baker continued.

Witness said at one time while Muldoon was lying on the couch Miller suggested pulling a doctor trick to which witness replied: "No," don't bring a doctor here, taken him to one."

Evidence on Conversation

What did Mrs. Gleeson say?" queried the Crown.

"She said when she and leave him (Muldoon) at his garage door," replied Mrs. Baker.

"She didn't suggest taking him to his sister's home?"

"No, if she did, she is lying," replied Mrs. Baker.

Mrs. Baker's Fall From Couch

When the man fell from the couch she said she heard a "thump" and when she went into the dining room Muldoon was lying on the floor face down.

Mr. Magone got Mrs. Baker to place the table beside the couch and then explain to the jury where Muldoon was lying.

She said his head was near one of the legs of the table. A vase of gassy willows on the table at the time was not tipped over, witness asserted.

Cancelling of Story

Mrs. Baker said the concocting of the false story was not discussed until after Muldoon was taken to the police station.

After her husband and Miller returned from the police station she said they told her of Muldoon's death and Mrs. Gleeson said "keep me out of it," and Mr. Miller said "remember you are in the car".

Witness Breaks Down

As Mrs. Baker was telling Mr. Magone she heard on Monday "a rumor that Muldoon's head was cut open and that he had been murdered in front of your place," and broke down.

"Just take a few minutes," said Mr. Magone as Mrs. Baker burst into tears. A coroner adjourned the inquest for a short time at this point and a friend rushed to the side of Mrs. Baker.

She was taken from the room weeping.

After a five minute recess Mrs. Baker returned to the witness stand, she said she had her eyes red and swollen. During the recess Dr. E. R. Franklin saw Mrs. Baker and spoke a few words to her and then said "keep up, you are doing fine."

Fighting to keep back tears, Mrs. Baker said it was Monday that her husband told her of the rumor. She said she did not see any mark on Muldoon's forehead.

Demonstration of Fall

"I wonder if I could,—but I don't like to bloody you—" said Mr. Magone as he turned to Constable James MacDonald to ask him to demonstrate Muldoon fell from the couch. Instead he asked the jury if they thought it was necessary and the fisheman said he did not think so.

Coroner Crawford interjected and said it was necessary.

"I was going to ask after the noon adjournment to have a demonstration," said the Coroner.

"Maybe Dr. Crawford would fall off the couch for you," said Mr. Magone.

"I think we'll try you on it," said the foreman amid laughter from the spectators.

Skinned Leg on Stone

Mrs. Baker explained Friday night after Muldoon's death she tripped on a stone outside the back door of her home and skinned her leg.

"And that explains the piece of skin Professor Miller found on the stone," said Mr. Magone.

"Yes," said the witness.

As to the pyjamas under the back steps c' her home Mrs. Baker said she simply put old clothes in the kitchen of her home. She offered this explanation the children had taken them out and put them under the steps while playing.

As there remains only one witness to be heard the inquiry was adjourned at 12.10 until 1.30 o'clock this afternoon.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Bigger and Courtesy of Harkness & Co.

GOOD NEWS FORTHCOMING ON PICKLE CROW DEVELOPMENT
Will be 500-FT. LEVEL

It is learned that good news may be forthcoming in the very near future regarding the development on the recently opened-up 500-ft. level. It is reported that the vein has been encountered in the crosscut at that level, and that high assays with the first rounds said to average at least one ounce of gold per ton. The development work to be undertaken at Pickle Crow in the immediate future should ahead to have a considerable bearing on the future operations of the mine. The management is opening up the new levels at respective depths of 300, 400 and 500 feet, in order to prove up the rich ore bodies already developed at depths of 275 feet.

Diamond drilling has indicated that the ore carries to depth, and should likely continue for the same a very large increase in ore reserves will take place with, no doubt, a consequent increase in tonnage. On the basis of 500 tons daily, one ounce ore and 94% recovery, profits for 1936 are calculated at 5 cents a share after allowing for depreciation and depletion.

CENTRAL PATRICIA OUTPUT
$50,000 IN FIRST HALF OF NOVEMBER

Production of Central Patricia Gold Mines Limited in the first two weeks of November amounted to $50,000 and indications are that output for the last month will exceed $100,000 as compared with the record output of $85,785 in October. The mill is currently treating 1,000 tons a day of .75 oz. ore.

All signs indicate that we are in the midst of a bull market. Newsgroups are taken in hand daily and moved up to new highs, which is reminiscent of the bull days of 1928-1929. With Canadian business back to the 1926 level, general conditions considered a normal year, and the outlook promising for further gains the public will become "stock conscious" in no uncertain manner.

Livestock

Toronto, Nov. 21 (CP)—Fresh receipts of cattle reaching the Toronto livestock market today were mostly from stockers and supplies and steady at the opening. Calves, sheep and lambs opened firm while hogs were unsettled.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle, 2 calves, 110; hogs, 70; sheep and lambs, 200.

Stockers sold steady from $4 to $4.80 and a few butcher cows were from $2.50 to $3.50.

Calves, mostly heavy weights, sold firm at $4.50 to $5.

Yealers sold steady at $6 to $6.50, according to quality.

Hogs again opened unchanged, packers bidding $7.50 off truck and $7.40 basis, bacon steady with yesterday's lows.

Produce Prices on Montreal Market

Montreal, Nov. 21—Local produce markets were mainly steady, yesterday. Butter, cheese, potatoes and poultry ruled at unchanged levels, while eggs were somewhat unsettled following the sharp declines of Tuesday.

O'MAHONEY HELD FOR FIRST DRAW BY DUREK

DREIER WORKS ON DUREK'S KNEE

For the first time in his year and four Dusek brothers of the wrestling career, Jim Dusek, of the United States, Dezzo O'Mahoney, Irish heavyweight who now holds the world mat crown, was held to a draw by Ernie Dusek, one of the "took it" and refused to give up.

BIG FOUR'S LEADING ATHLETES

BIG BASEBALL TRADE REPORTED BREWING

BILL WERBER

FRANK HIGGINS ROGER CRAMER

In what is expected to be the biggest deal of the winter move baseball's Boston Red Sox, Bill Werber, third baseman of the Boston Red Sox, will be sent over to the Philadelphia Athletics for Frank "Pinkey" Higgins, lower, LEFT, Athletics' third baseman, and Roger Cramer, RIGHT, the A's centre-fielder. According to reports a bundle of cash will be tossed to Connie Mack along with Werber. The Boston management is believed ready to close the deal which evidently takes the place of Boston's efforts at purchasing Jimmy Foxx from Mack. Werber, who failed to live up to expectations in 1935, recently underwent an operation for removal of a spur on his foot which handicapped his playing.

LORD JELLICOE HERO OF NAVY DIES AT AGE 76

NAVAL FIGURE

London, Nov. 21 (CP)—Leaders in political life, high naval figures and personal gathered in every sphere today paid tribute to Earl Jellicoe, who died last night.

Although he had retired some years ago from active service in naval affairs, Admiral Jellicoe continued to take a lively interest in the welfare of ex-service men. Indicative of this was his presence at the Cenotaph in London on Armistice Day.

At the service he contracted a chill which was the direct cause of his death. He had been in poor health for years. The indirect cause was a motor car crash when it was announced on November 18 that he had cancelled all engagements for three weeks. The chill affected one lung.

Although he was considered to be making satisfactory progress yesterday morning, he lapsed into a coma and died at 6.30 p.m. He would have been 76 next December 5th.

Plans for his funeral were not immediately announced.

Memorial Service

It was expected a memorial service would be held at Bonchurch, on the Isle of Wight, however. He had lived in retirement for some years at Lawrence Hall, Ventnor, near Bonchurch, although he died at his Kensington, London, residence.

All members of his immediate family were present at the end, including Viscount Brocas, the Earl's 37-year-old son and successor to the title.

Earl Beatty, who served under Jellicoe at the Battle of Jutland in 1916, said: "Earl Jellicoe epitomized all the highest ideals for which the British Navy stands. He was a leader of men. His loss is much more than a naval loss or a loss to the British Legion. It is a national one."

David Lloyd George, who was Prime Minister during the latter part of the war, and who differed with Jellicoe on many points of policy, said: "I never doubted that the view he took was prompted by the highest sense of duty."

Jellicoe was First Sea Lord of the Admiralty from November, 1916, until the end of 1917.

Keen Controversy Over Battle

Lloyd George in his memoirs assailed Jellicoe and the Admiralty for what he termed their "sullen reluctance, stunned pessimism and sorry exhibition of nervous impotence."

Keen controversy has revolved about the indecisive Battle of Jutland ever since the murky afternoon of May 31, 1916, when it was fought. Winston Churchill, in his history of the Great War, said in describing it that "Jellicoe was the only man on either side who could lose the war in a single afternoon."

Jellicoe refused to dote with the German fleet, preferring the safety of the Grand Fleet to the undetermined risk of complete victory. It was only a few months later that Admiral Beatty succeeded him as Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Fleet, while Jellicoe became First Sea Lord.

High honors were heaped upon him after the war for his part in the engagement. He was elevated to the peerage as Viscount Jellicoe of Scapa, in 1925, after he had served a term as Governor-General of New Zealand, he received an earldom.

Visited Canada

Twice since the war he had visited Canada. On the first occasion in 1919, he came at the invitation of the Canadian Government, and conferred on naval matters with authorities at Ottawa.

In 1931 he carried out a strenuous program which included opening the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto and attending a series of conferences. One was the British Empire Service League—of which he was head—meeting in Toronto. He also attended the meeting of the Ontario branch of the Canadian Legion at Ottawa, and the Canadian Legion at Niagara Falls, Ontario.

In recent years he had urged the strengthening of the Navy. He criticized reduction in British cruiser strength, as provided for in the London Naval Treaty of 1930, and last month at a Trafalgar Day dinner said an immediate start should be made on a big program of capital ships. He warned that the British Empire did not possess the sea power vital for its existence.

JOS. BULOVA, 83, DIES IN N. Y.

Developed Small Plant Into Large Company Operating Four Factories

New York, Nov. 21.—Joseph Bulova, president of the watch manufacturing company which bore his name, died yesterday morning in his eighty-fourth year after an illness of two months.

Under his guidance the Bulova Watch Company, which occupies an entire floor at 580 Fifth Avenue and employs several thousand persons in the United States, grew from a small manufactory Joseph Bulova established in Maiden Lane soon after the Civil War.

The phrase "Bulova watch time" used for the last 20 years by radio broadcasting chains in announcing the hour, was an advertising idea attributed to Mr. Bulova.

He was born in Bohemia (now Czechoslovakia) and learned the watchmaking and goldsmith trades there. At the age of 18 he came to this country. The small manufacturing jewelry business he established in a few years bore the name of the J. Bulova Company until the first started its subsidiaries in wrist watches.

The company originally manufactured watch cases and used imported movements in them. Now it has works factories in Woodside, Queens, and at Waltham, Mass., and a case factory in Providence, R.I. It also has a watch-works plant in Switzerland.

Mr. Bulova never retired, although in recent years he had left most of the management to his son, Arde, who is chairman of the Board of Directors of the Bulova Watch Company.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Bertha Fisher Bulova, of 470 West End Avenue; his son, Arde, and four daughters Hannah Bulova, Mrs. Emily Hezabel, Mrs. Louise Guilden and Mrs. Julia Bulova.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Temple Emanuel, Sixty-fifth Street and Fifth Avenue.

ADUWA TRIUMPH MAY BE REPEATED

Ethiopians Believed Taking Advantage of Lull in Operations

(By Jacques Barre, Copyright 1935, By The Havas News Agency)

With the Italian armies at Makale, Nov. 21 (CP-Havas)—Possibility Ethiopian armies may be taking advantage of the lull in Italian operations on the northern front to attempt a repetition of their 1896 triumph at Aduwa led Italian commanders to prepare for a battle here today.

Two big Ethiopian armies were reported moving closer to this organized stronghold, with unhappy memories of the slaughter of an Italian column trapped by Emperor Menelik's warriors when Gen. Baratieri yielded to a sense of security.

It was Ras Kassa leading the attacking force of 30,000 men would attempt to cut the Italian communication lines north of here while a second force of a column of 30,000 men would smash at the southern gates of Makale.

POLICE WIDEN POISON PROBE

Two Are Under Arrest in Baking Soda Case

San Francisco, Nov. 21 (AP)—Two men were under arrest in San Francisco's poisoned baking soda case today as authorities widened their investigation to determine the source of the poison.

Three deaths and thirteen cases of severe illness have been linked definitely to the soda sold in bulk at "bargain" prices in a department store, Dr. J. C. Geiger, city health officer, said.

Twenty other recent deaths, preceded by symptoms that might have been caused by the poisoned soda, were ordered investigated.

Joseph Rosenthal, executive of the department store which sold 800 pounds of the soda, and Nick Mandaris, proprietor of the Wholesale Salvaging and Distributing Company, which supplied it, surrendered on warrants charging violation of a city ordinance prohibiting distribution of contaminated foods. They were released on $250 bail each.

Rosenthal said he was so confident of the purity of the soda he ordered "several scoops" in a glass of water and drank it in the presence of customers who complained. He said he became ill and a doctor told him a Milk of Magnesia tablet he had taken "probably saved his life".

He said he immediately ordered the rest of the soda removed from sale.

R. G. D. Leake, department of health chemist, said that with the evidence at hand "I can't say there is anything pointing to criminal intent."

Coroner T. B. W. Leland discounted rumors that possibly the poison had been mixed into the soda by a "maniac".

Marmora and District

Marmora, Nov. 21—The monthly meeting of the Study Club of The Sacred Heart Church, was held Monday evening in the parish hall with the president, Mrs. A. Mahaffy presiding.

The meeting opened with prayer, after which the roll call was read and the minutes of the previous meeting were given. Messrs. Harold Auger and Dan Paquet gave a very enjoyable musical number followed by an interesting talk by Mr. John Finnegan on "The Cheese Industry." Mr. Finnegan who is one of the most widely known cheese graders in Central Ontario, began with ordinary curdling of a cheese-maker in his daily work. Beginning with the collection of milk, Mr. Finnegan explained in detail the various important steps in preparing the milk, testing, curding, and finally pressing the manufactured product. In conclusion Mr. Finnegan spoke on the origin of cheese, mentioning the fact that an Arab herdsman stumbled on the secret by using a skin pouch to carry his noon-day supply of milk in. Briefly praising the support given The National Cheese West drive by the local and county press, adding that such support was necessary not only to increase the consumption of cheese but to interest the farmer who has not been supporting the factories in recent years.

Mr. Hugh Maloney who has been president of The Cook Cheese Co. for the past 30 years gave a short talk on the different marketing conditions in other countries and the variation in prices of cheese in the country through a period of years.

Messrs. Harold Auger and Dan Paquet supplied another musical number, following which Mr. Breen O'Connor gave a paper on Current Events.

Mr. L. E. Shannon gave a short talk on the present hockey situation after which the meeting was closed by a short musical number.

Art Lecture

On Tuesday evening the pupils in the lower forms of the High School were given the opportunity to hear an illustrated lecture by Miss J. C. Farley, B.A., of the local staff, on the art works of Raphael and Leonardo da Vinci.

Through the kindness of Rev C. W. Hollingsworth, rector of St. Andrew's United Church the pupils were given the use of the parish hall for the evening. Mr. Allan Smith M.A., also of the local High School staff who is quite well known in the district, assisted Miss Farley in the operation of the slides.

A showing of amateur slides painted by the second form pupils was next shown. The pupils who had taken great care in the preparation of scenes and articles for their own slides were very proud of their art on a greatly enlarged scale.

A debate in French was the next item on the program the title being, general, "Marmora versus Deloro," with pupils from the respective villages taking part.

The audience was next treated to a musical program prepared by the lower school orchestra, following which the children took part in games and community singing.

Following lunch the pupils were assembled by Miss Farley for the splendid work they had done in their art subjects and the co-operation they had given, to make the evening a success.

Employee Fatally Hurt at No. 2 Power House, Trenton

K. BALLANTYNE DIES IN HOSPITAL, INQUEST BEGUN

Working on Ladder in No. 2 Powerhouse at Trenton

FALLS TWENTY FEET

First Aid Given And Then Rushed to Belleville

Trenton, Nov. 22 (Special)—As the result of a fractured skull received, when he fell from a 20 foot ladder to the floor of Power House No. 2 while engaged in some work in the interior of the building at Trenton yesterday afternoon, Kenneth Ballantyne, 30, Hydro Electric employee and former resident of Smith's Falls died early this morning in the Belleville General Hospital.

An inquest into the death has been called by Coroner Dr. W. B. Crowe, of Trenton, who with the jury visited the scene today.

Following his death, the body of the victim was returned to Trenton, where it is at present resting in the undertaking parlors of Cobley and Son, Trenton.

Falls To Feet

According to statements of fellow workers, Mr Ballantyne, a graduate of Queen's University, in electrical engineering, has been engaged with a fellow workman in installing the motor control equipment in the upper section of the power house building. While on the top level of the ladder in some unaccountable manner he slipped, and fell, narrowly missing some steel lockers a distance or twenty feet below. He struck the floor heavily, the force of the fall was received by his skull which was crushed.

Following first-aid which was given by Dr. Johnston, of Trenton, and McQuade, of Trenton, the victim was placed in Cobley's ambulance and conveyed this morning to the local hospital.

The jury which will enquire into the cause of death is composed of James Grainger, foreman; Edward Smith, Harry Clegg, Arthur Holroy, Grant Goodsell, Thos. Taylor, Harold Blackburn and Jasper E. Jay.

TILFORD APPEAL FURTHER ARGUED

Toronto, Nov. 22 (CP)—Post mortem examination of the body of Tyrrell was necessary and, said the first medical testimony at the trial of Elizabeth Tilford, convicted of murdering her husband with arsenic to eliminate possible causes of death other than arsenic poisoning, Charles Bell, K.C., of Hamilton, argued today before the Court of Appeal.

The appeal went into its second day at Osgoode Hall as counsel for the woman who was convicted by a jury at Goderich before Mr. Justice A. C. Kingstone and sentenced to hang December 17.

Recommendation of the post mortem, said Mr. Bell, should have been pointed out to the trial judge. He also argued that the possibility that Tilford might himself have had arsenic with a suicidal intent ought also to have been eliminated by the Crown or pointed out to the jury by the presiding judge.

There was evidence, said Mr. Bell, that the fortune of Tilford's family had been steadily declining and that Tilford had been under serious handicaps which was sometimes cause of misunderstanding. Mr. Bell contended that the amount of Tilford's life insurance—$300, when the misunderstanding and conflict were considered—and the amount his property would yield, could not be regarded as sufficient to tempt his wife to take his life.

First White Crosses Mountains, Trapper Sets Three Records

Edmonton Nov. 22.—(CP)—One of the exits from the uncharted and enterprising young trapper with three record achievements today revealed from the relentless elements.

Dalziel is believed to be the only white man to walk alone from Fort Liard north over mountain ranges to Fort Norman, 700 miles.

He is the only fly north trapper to own and operate his own aeroplane.

Thursday Dalziel won his third laurel by completing the earliest flight from Fort Simpson in the history of northern aviation.

Is northern flying hazardous?

"No," answered the trapper-pilot.

"They said flying is dangerous but it's not half as dangerous as the trap-line trail. With flying there's only one thing to go wrong—your engine. But on the trail there are a dozen things."

HARRY O'DONNELL AGAIN REMANDED

Frank Regan, Counsel, Protests on Action of Magistrate

Toronto, Nov. 22 (CP)— Harry O'Donnell, charged with the ravine murder of Gladys Jaffray, was remanded until Nov. 29 when he appeared today for preliminary hearing before Magistrate Browne. It was the third week's remand for the 22-year-old service station employee.

Frank Regan, defence counsel, argued against a remand but it was granted on the request of Crown Attorney J. W. McFadden.

O'Donnell was arrested Nov 4, the day after the 20-year-old stenographer's body was found in the ravine off Gerrard Street East.

NO VIOLENCE IS VERDICT OF JURY IN MULDOON CASE

Death Due to Physical Condition And Accidental Injury

FIFTY-FIVE WITNESSES

Story at First Told Believed by Chief Witness to be Concocted

Smiths Falls, Ont., Nov. 22.—(CP)—The mystery and the suspicion of foul play have been removed from the circumstances surrounding the death of William C. Muldoon, railroad engineer.

The verdict of one coroner's jury, that his death by reason of his blows on the head delivered by an unknown person was supressed last night, following a second inquest, medico-legal experts, brought here specially to exhaust to clear up a mystery. Death was found due to his physical condition and an accidental forehead injury.

The inquest jury last night, after two hours of deliberation, brought the following verdict:

"We find that Daniel Muldoon came to his death by reason of his physical condition, coupled with an injury which he received accidentally means and by no external violence or by means unknown to the jury."

Dr. Gladstone Murray, chief medico-legal expert

PAYS 15 CENT DEBT AFTER 21 YEARS

Twenty-one years ago when Assistant's bus line was one of the chief means of transportation from Shannonville depots in downtown hotel a local resident took a trip from the station to midtown. "Charge it", he requested the driver as he alighted from the bus.

Yesterday the same man walked into the office of the same bus line now operating under the name of Audubon and Sons. "I owe you 15 cents", he told the proprietor.

Search through the records failed to reveal the debt.

"No, it probably isn't in the books. This is a debt I've been meaning to for the past twenty years or more. I want to get it off my mind."

Residents connected with that charged trip revealed, that the debt had been passed just 21 years.

281 POUND BUCK IS SHOT AT BEAVER LAKE

Taking with them one of the largest bucks that has been shot in this district in years, two United States, James Bernard and Paul Saterele of Selma, Ohio, have returned to their homes after a successful hunting trip in the Beaver Creek in the Trent River district. The deer secured by the two hunters tipped the scales at 281 pounds.

LAMP STANDARD BROKEN AT BASE

While backing his automobile out from the Cliles Service gasoline station, Front street, at 5.45 a.m. today, the vehicle driven by F. R. Evans, Alexander street, collided with an electric light standard, breaking the street light standard off at the base. The Hydro Commission repair service employees were notified of the accident and replaced the standard this morning. Mr. Evans was starting on a down hearing trip and had stopped at the service station to procure gasoline. He apparently failed to observe the standard as he started to back out on Front street. The maximum damage to the car resulted between Mr. Evans and the pole.

SAYS 'COMPACT' SHOVED TRUCK 40 FEET ON ROAD

Crown Points Out to Truck Driver He Must Mean 'Impact'

After the 'compact,' my truck was driven up the road 40 feet," stated Charles Clarour, Weston, truck driver, when he was recently interrupted by Crown Attorney W. C. Donnan, K.C., in today's local police court sitting at Belleville.

"Just a moment there witness, a compact is one of the 'Ology' ladies carry their face powder around in. I always thought. Aren't you sure you don't mean 'impact' instead of compact."

Well, what's the difference, he run into the rear end of my truck, and that's all I know," added the witness.

The above conversation was heard in the evidence submitted during a charge of reckless driving laid against Robert Mills, Napanee, who was found guilty and fined ten dollars and costs by Magistrate R. J. Butler, K.C., this morning. The charge was laid by Motorcycle Patrolman Delaney, as the result of an accident which happened one mile south of Marysville on Highway No. 2, ten days ago, when an automobile driven by Mr. Mills crashed into the rear end of a truck driven by Clarour. Mills contended that there was no rear light on the truck, while Clarour stated rear light was burning. When the truck was last examined. During the accident Mrs. Clarour received a fractured skull and three broken ribs, and is still a patient in the Belleville General Hospital. It was a rear end crash. Mills paid the imposed fine.

LEWIS, MAHONEY PAYS $10 FINE

Found Guilty of Intoxication After Raising a Disturbance

Lewis Mahoney, Madoc truck driver, appeared in the local police court this morning charged by P. J. Butler, K.C., this morning, and pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication. His request to be given twenty-four hours in order that he might raise the imposed fine of $10 and costs was granted.

Mahoney was arrested on Cedar street by P. C. Evans early last evening following complaints received by the police in relationship to an unknown man causing disturbances on the west side of the river. When taken into custody Mahoney was in a liquor, police stated. He contended he had been hit over the head, while driving his truck. When further questioned Mahoney could not seem to remember where he had left his truck, loaded with flour, police stated last night. Mahoney assured the authorities last night that he had procured his load of flour and had started back home to Madoc, when a blow struck over the head, rendering him in a semi-conscious condition. His left hand was covered with blood, the result of his little finger being badly lacerated. In court today, however, Mahoney pleaded guilty to being drunk. His truck was found parked on the bay bridge road after a thorough search of the city and vicinity had been made by local and provincial police last night. The load of flour was intact, but an alleged companion of Mahoney's had mysteriously disappeared into the night.

BANCROFT ROAD TO BE DISCUSSED

Chamber of Commerce Will Also Sponsor Series of Lectures

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce will sponsor again this winter a course of lectures which will commence early in January, focus consideration was given the matter at the meeting of the Directors of the Chamber on Thursday.

It was reported by the secretary-manager, Mr. J. G. Herity, that plans are completed for the dinner and general meeting of the members of the Chamber which will be held at the Queen's Hotel on the evening of Tuesday, Nov. 26th. At this meeting the Belleville-Bancroft road matter will be particularly under discussion. Mr. Peter MacLaren, the superintendent, and Chief Engineer on the work, will be present and will inform the members regarding the progress which is being made with this most important project. Two reels of moving film of the work will be Mr. H. R. Poussette, Canadian Trade Commissioner in England, and what he will tell the meeting will, no doubt, be of great interest.

Considerable routine business was disposed of by the Directors after consideration given to several suggestions for future activities of the Chamber.

Mr. R. A. Reddick of this city was a guest at the meeting and was welcomed by Vice President, Mr. K. F. Herendeen who occupied the chair in the absence of the President, Mr. J. B. Spencer.

The following directors were present: Mr. R. P.Bertram, Mr. W. H. Morton, Mr. H. W. Ackerman, Mr. H. E. Fairfield, Mr. R. V. Illsley, Mr. W. G. Stringer, Mr. Leo. B. Flinn and Secretary-Manager Mr. J. G. Herity.

ITALY HITS BACK AT DOMINION

Forbids Entry of Many Canadian Products.

Ottawa, Nov. 22—(CP)—Italy has hit back at Canada in retaliation and has imposed against her by the Dominion, it was reported in a cable received today by Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Principal products comprising Canada's exports to Italy are being prohibited entry, Italian newspapers reported according to a cable from the Canadian Trade Commissioner in Milan to Mr. Euler.

The advice said reports in Milan were the Italian government was taking action prohibiting entry from Canada of the following products: Flour, liquor, aluminum, nickel, agricultural implements, adding machines, iron oxide, tires, rubber belting, rubber manufactures, castings and photographic films.

Action against Canada was being taken as part of Italy's retaliatory steps towards countries which had imposed sanctions against her, Italian newspapers reported according to the cable.

Of the Canadian exports reported banned by Italy, flour, liquor, agricultural implements, adding machines, iron oxide, tires, rubber belting, rubber manufactures, and photographic films are not on the list of goods prohibited for export to Italy under the order-in-council passed by the Canadian government imposing sanctions.

The other items which Italy is banning entry from Canada, already covered by the Canadian sanctions order-in-council prohibiting exports, according to the cable, are aluminum and nickel.

LOCAL SOCIETY GRADED CLASS 'C'

Children's Aid Organization Commended Upon Progress

Miss Mae Flemming, Provincial Field Supervisor, Department of Public Welfare, paid an official visit to this office last week and to the local office of the Children's Aid Society, and was pleased to report that the Honourable David A. Croll had commended the Society for the progress it had made since the last grading to improve its status. Certain steps that have been taken are (1) the leasing of suitable offices in a central location, (2) the appointment of a full time secretary assistant to the superintendent, (3) the material reduction in the number of children in the shelter and the corresponding increase in the number of children in boarding homes, (4) more frequency in visiting and supervision, (5) more detailed system of recording work done.

This brings the Society in grade "C" and it is to be hoped that our continued co-operation with the Department will merit a further grading of an increase at the end of the next period.

POLICE COURT

There was a long police court docket in Belleville today before Magistrate R. J. Butler, K.C., a number of H.T.A. and L.C.A. cases were disposed of with the exception of one, which proved in most incidents.

Charged with impeding and incommoding a peaceful pedestrian, Geoffrey Denike, Picton, pleaded not guilty and at the conclusion of the evidence submitted Mr. W. S. Herrington, counsel for the accused man, asked for a dismissal owing to the lack of evidence on the part of the complainant. After viewing the matter His Worship enlarged the matter until Monday next, however.

The charge of impeding a peaceful passerby was laid against Denike following the complaint of a local young lady who claimed that a car driven by the accused manoeuvred on the night of November 8th last. Following the evidence submitted, the young lady admitted that Denike had not spoken to her, but merely drove past on several occasions and "grinned" as she termed it. Under cross-examination the young lady denied smiling back at the accused man, however.

When Mr. Lane moved for dismissal upon the grounds of not sufficient evidence and argued that his client at no time impeded the progress of the young lady, "I'm sorry, I must concede Mr. Lane this point, but this accused man deserves to be taught a lesson, and a lady some inconvenience, I think," remarked B. C. Donnan, K.C., Crown Attorney. "I'll enlarge this matter until Monday for sentence," concluded His Worship.

CANADIAN PLANE MAY BE FORCED DOWN ON ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION

J. M. LYMBURNER — LINCOLN ELLSWORTH — HERB HOLLICK-KENYON

Elaborate plans completed, the Lincoln Ellsworth from Dundee Island on Wednesday, Nov. 21, New Zealand, is to fly across land never before crossed by man—from the Weddell Sea to the Ross Sea. The flight of 2,140 miles will take them over "Little America," Admiral Byrd's base, where they will await arrival of supply ship. Early trouble forced them down.

Old Methodist Church, Familiar Queensboro Landmark Removed

Queensboro, (Special) — One of Queensboro's oldest land marks disappeared this year when the former Methodist church was taken down and the material removed to Demorranville for building purposes.

The old church has been a vital factor in the history of the village and in its religious and social life for over sixty years.

Builded on a hill that cannot be hidden its lovely was the first object to catch the eye when approaching the village from any direction.

Some years ago the church records were destroyed by fire so former members can trust only to memory but it seems quite certain the church was dedicated to the worship of God in the late sixties or the early seventies.

The guest preacher on that occasion was Rev. Dr. Wm. Briggs of Bridge Street Church, Belleville, and the music was furnished by a choir specially trained by Mr. Benjamin Swales, a singing teacher of note and a former member of the Manchester (England), Handel Choir.

One of the functions of the early church life was the annual tea-meeting. Writing under date of 15th, 1878 says "We had a good tea-meeting last Wednesday and $50.50 after all charges were paid". Men prominent in politics and business from Belleville and other places were invited to speak and invariably spoke to a crowded house. Needless to say the food provided for those occasions was as bountiful as to make modern caterers open their eyes.

The church housed an active and efficient congregation throughout its existence. A long succession of pastors, teachers and worshippers have come and gone through the years. Many have passed into the Great Beyond but their work lives. They were honoured in their generation and have left a memorial of good works and righteous lives.

Others who remain are scattered throughout the Dominion and other countries who were wont to assemble "when e'er the sweet church bell pealed over hill and dell". Mingled with their memories of bygone years these will feel real regret at the passing of the old sanctuary.

Teddy's Grandson Pleads Innocence

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 21 (AP).—Cornelius Van Shaack Roosevelt, 30, grandson of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, and a college chum mate, pleaded innocent today of charges of assault with a dangerous weapon.

They appeared in Cambridge district court on counts of assault on two policemen and a newspaperman with air pistols.

The cases of Roosevelt and his classmate, Peter de Pierne, both of Pomfret, Conn., were continued for hearing November 26 and they were released in bail of $500 each.

The charges under which the pair were brought into court after allegedly taking pot shots from window at passing motorists carry under the state law a maximum penalty of 2½ years in the House of Correction.

Stirling and District

Stirling—The first meeting of the St. John's Men's Association was held on Tuesday evening, November 19th., in their club rooms. The inaugural meeting took the form of a banquet with the number of members and guests present numbering about sixty. The entertainment committee in charge of the work did fine work, arranging the tables and menu in a manner that was most excellent. A very interesting feature was afforded the gathering in the form of several fine toasts of various added to the menu through the generosity of Mr. Walter Wright and Rev. A. S. McConnell. During the dinner hour several fine musical numbers were given by Mr. Maurice Bell, (Senior) and Mr. Stan Eaton (piano). At the conclusion of the splendid repast Mr. E. Morrow, President of the organization called the gathering to order and following the toast to the King, expressed a few words of welcome to all present. Mr. Fred Housbie then led the members in some lively community singing.

Mr. Morrow acting as toastmaster for the evening called on Mr. Scollib who very ably proposed a toast to the church, to which Rev. A. S. McConnell responded in a very capable manner. The guest speaker of the evening Mr. G. H. McKiberan, Belleville, branch manager of the Continental Life Insurance Co. Mr. McKiberan gave a fine address on the subject, "the layman's Duty to His Church". The speaker spoke of the unique position of the larger churches of the city of Belleville all close together and as one walked to any of these churches, the music from any of the others would reach his ears. Getting into his topic of the evening he first enumerated several of the, among other things stated definitely that it was not the layman's duty to hamper freedom of thought on the part of the rector or minister by any destructive criticism of his efforts.

"It is the layman's duty to assist in every way possible to further the work of the church. Laymen should discuss matters which they some times fail to understand with the minister or rector and by so doing they might find justification for the very thing which to them seems quite out of reason. Mr. McKiberan congratulated the club on the large number present and spoke of such organizations, many of them failing from the outcome of the present economic conditions in which we find ourselves, as being the remedy of all our social troubles. To organize is the simplest step, maintaining and stimulating interest is the greatest problem. Lack of organization follows the progress of any group, but the boy is a perfect specimen of the results of good fellowship," he concluded the speaker. Those present were indeed grateful to Mr. McKiberan for the fine address which contained a wealth of constructive thought, and accepted the remarks as a liberal portion of humour and wit.

Mr. Jack West proposed a toast to the club which was responded to in a fitting manner by Mr. Nathaniel Heath. A toast to the visitors was made by Mr. E. Dalrand and the visiting guests each spoke briefly of the pleasure shared by them at being given such a fine club. Mr. Beatty of Toronto who has a summer residence beside at his summer home on the Trent River, Mr. Chas. Langlois and Mr. McGuinness of the Stanley Construction Co., Mr. Clifford Baker of Stirling, Mr. Dunkley of the Ontario Dept. of Highways and Mr. Fry of Toronto.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the various committees who had worked in a fine spirit of co-operation to make the evening one of the most successful meetings since the club began. During a short business period at the close of the regular program, the executive were appointed as a nominating committee to bring in a slate of officers to act for the coming year at the next regular meeting.

EARL JELLICOE

Slowly but steadily, one by one time is ticking off the lives of the great leaders of the Great War. Twenty years have made great changes and the men who led the armies and the navies of an embattled world are diminishing.

The latest to go is Britain's great naval hero, Earl Jellicoe, hero of the battle of Jutland, fought nineteen years ago. He it was who commanded the greatest naval aggregation which ever engaged in war, the Grand Fleet of Great Britain. Nothing that Blake and Nelson ever had could compare in might with the modern equipment with which Jutland was fought.

His name is associated with a great controversy as to whether he was justified in not closing with the foe as the sky was facing after Jutland's memorable day. His defenders say that he preferred the safety of his great fleet to the uncertainty and risk of complete victory. On that day of May 31st, 1916, he could have lost the war for the Allies. He acted on the prearranged plan of the Admiralty and he was justified because the entire strength of Britain was tied up in this fleet. But the battle was to declare that the German High Seas fleet did not come out again until to surrender at the end of the war.

Modern naval tactics cannot be compared with the old strategy of naval commanders in the time of Blake and Nelson, for conditions have changed. What place history will give Jellicoe remains to be seen.

The great admiral spent a brief time in Canada in 1931 as head of the British Empire Service League.

His name will go down in history, mourned by the Empire which he served so well in her time of stress.

INVISIBILITY

Will man be able to make things and himself invisible? This is not so wild a notion today. It has been the theme of stories and fables all through the ages. Now with the development of science and all sorts of rays the question is sure to crop up.

Stefan Pribill, Hungarian, has invented a device which casts invisible rays, he says. Europe is keenly interested in the development. So will be other continents.

Pribill recently tried the machine in public in Vienna. A chair treated against the ray was placed on the platform and the doll placed upon it. Then an attendant turned on the invisible ray and the doll faded from sight, but the chair remained. When the ray was turned off the doll was visible. The inventor said that when in the path of the ray and the hand could not be seen. The sleeve which had doubtless been treated against the rays remained visible. If this is practicable, what will this not mean?

NOT ALL IS CHANGED

These are days of real development but all is not new. A look over the files of local newspapers of fifty years ago this week might almost lead one to think there is nothing new under the sun. Here is what appeared in the fifty years ago column for Nov. 20th 1885:

"Street crossings are being swept. Those on Front street should be swept twice a day.

"Belleville is well supplied with pool tables, no less than 23 in public rooms and in the Mechanics' Institute.

"The city clock strikes intermittently. Its ailment should be doctored at once."

This news sounds much like today. It makes one realize that the people of half a century ago had something to think of, and were justly as happy as folk are today.

NAPOLEONIC RELIC

The narrowing trend of the world is close enough today when the slightest shock, economic or military is reverberated to the farthest end of civilization. But along with his narrowing and concentration, there is a gigantism which has taken the place of the narrower fields of the old days—large international corporations, mighty armies of millions, and so on.

How today contrasts with the situation a little over a century ago is shown by a picture carried in the newspapers this week of a Napoleonic relic which has been preserved as it on the day of the collapse at Waterloo. It is the farm of La Belle Alliance on the battlefield which was Napoleon's headquarters during the fighting on the memorable June 18, 1815. This has been preserved as a "monument historique" by the Government of the Belgian people. Not far away is the Waterloo monument.

To build a memorial to the Great War which will be all-comprehensive unless it is idealized is impossible, on account of the range of the fighting. In reality the Great War was, as it were, a vast series of wars. Battles were small things though deciding empires in Wellington's day but today they cover vast mileages. Napoleon and Wellington could see everything from their points of vantage, today that is impossible not only because of danger but because the physical eye cannot take in everything. Other means have to be used—telephones, balloons, and so on.

THE CROOKED STREET

I came to this crooked old street one May,
When the robins first started to sing
In the old lilac tree in our own back yard,
Where later, dad built me a swing.
To this crooked old street with its lamp-light dim,
Where the little people reside,
Do I owe all the happiest memories
That have gladdened my heart's inside.
It was here that I put my duties away
When school let me out with the gang;
Here, I woo'd my love when the moon
- found her gate -
And there let her radiance hang.
Just a tired old street with its youth all spent,—
Yet how fresh, after autumn's quiet rain;
The slanting houses seem resting a bit,
As an old man would lean on his cane.
And though Fate might deliver my footsteps far
From the touch of its broken concrete,
My heart will ever be tenderly close
To the scene of this crooked old street.
Montreal. Ursula MacMillan.

—NOTHING SUCCEEDS LIKE SUCCESS and the fact that Billy Lane, who sells newspapers, magazines and, tobacco in the shadow of two big banks on the corner of Bridge and Front streets, is now ensconsed in a new building entirely occupied by himself, indicates success if anything does. When Billy started at the stand he has since occupied in the Kiwanis building there were three banks in Billy's immediate vicinity. Now one of the banks has gone but Billy Lane is still there and reports that business is bigger and better every day, and he is satisfied that Prosperity has turned the corner and is coming full speed ahead. Congratulations, Billy, and may your new business home be a house of joy and growing prosperity.

YOU SIGN YOUR NAME ON A PAPER AND SOME GAL GETS A LOT OF VOTES, or somepin—that was the explanation given of a bunch of women making the rounds of certain stores, marching in, writing something at a table and marching right out again to advance on another store near by. It was all very mysterious to a man from the country who with his wife were doing some shopping on Front street when he ran into the way these generously reigns and votes are free. The farmer enquired what the game was and on being informed it was a contest in which the winning contestant would get $500 he scanned the list of contestants and seeing a name he knew said he didn't mind voting for that woman, as long as it didn't cost anything. He was then told how and how to sign his name, but his wife had other views. She clutched his coat and drew back saying "Don't sign nothing William—think you dare sign your name to any paper,"—and he didn't,—she insisted and drew him right out of that store lest the temptation prove too much for him. No doubt she had lively recollection of some one near to her who had signed some paper—for mining stock, or some household article that they didn't want and was just left on approval—followed some time later by the appalling news that a promissory note had been signed and had to be paid. Better to be sure than sorry, said she, and once bitten twice shy, or somepin. No reflection, of course, on the voting contest which is fair and above-board.

BUILDING BETTER CITIZENSHIP IS THE AIM OF EVERY CIVILIZED COUNTRY. No easy task with the citizenship already on the job—sot in their ways as a general rule—but the rising generation, the new crew which is to take charge of this weary old world and make it better if they can—the young men and women leaving school with faces turned toward the business and professional world—anything we can do to help them to equip them for better citizenship is the best investment we can make. The Y.M.C.A. is one of those active forces for good which makes for better citizenship now and future. To help it all we can—the dollar of the workingman is just as welcome as the century of the wealthy.

SUSPICIOUS VIEW OF U.S. ACTION

Brings Country Close to Countries Subject to Reprisals

Halifax, Nov. 22.—(CP)—Protective suspension imposed by the Eastern Ontario Branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada on every man who played in the Interprovincial Rugby Union this season and every player who took part in exhibition games against a New York team, was announced by President W. A. Fry of the A.A.U. of Canada today.

His announcement came after night-long conferences with other A.A.U. officials, which began yesterday's decision of the Union's Ottawa branch to suspend all those who played against Ottawa Roughriders when they carried an alleged professional.

Roy Berry, star back from the United States, was rumored to be really Bohn Hilliard, formerly of Texas University.

Further investigation into his identity would be necessary to prove Hilliard's alleged professionalism, it was declared today and he said he had done his "duty" in warning all union men not to compete with or against Ottawa until the club cleared itself. And he made it clear the suspensions of the other teams had been lifted only pending a full inquiry.

Reviewing what he termed the "alleged Hilliard-Berry impersonation episode", President Fry said: "Travelling west on the train from Ottawa last Saturday night a man identified as the Roy Berry of the Ottawa team carried baggage labelled "John Hilliard".

"Enquiry from the immigration authorities at the border revealed the fact a John Hilliard that night had entered the United States.

"I am fully aware this would not be regarded as conclusive evidence by a legal court, but in a sporting man's court the circumstances would seem to require explanation."

PARKING METERS TO DEFEAT PARKING HOGS

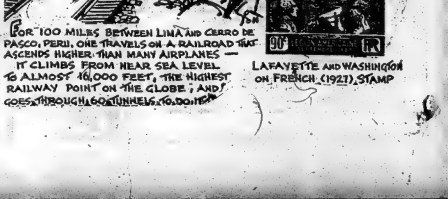
Parking meters as one method with which to defeat parking hogs and allow legitimate customers using the facilities of local stores to park their machine in convenient spaces at the curb through the downtown section will be one matter, that the newly elected city council this year will be asked to consider if one aldermanic candidate now in the field is successful in the election.

"That will be one of the first things I'll bring to the attention of council, if I am elected," promised the local candidate, who requests that his name be withheld for the present.



"They've been tried and proven in other cities and motorists have been frank in their declarations that they've been just what is needed. For a minimum fee they are able to park at convenient locations over determined periods. This revenue raised is then returned to the city's coffers and is a tidy sum at the end of the year. I don't see why they couldn't be installed here and I intend making a canvass of the situation to see if they would be acceptable," added the candidate.

Councillor Turley introduced a by-law, appointing all election officers and moved that it be read first time and reported to committee as a whole on by-laws with Councillor Spencer in the chair. The by-law then received its several readings, was passed, signed, sealed and numbered.

Council then adjourned.

The regular meeting of theatelian Circle was held in the church on Friday evening Nov. 15th. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Bryant took charge of the business part of the meeting.

The remainder of the program presided over by Mrs. Chas. Bennett consisted of hymn 97 after which Miss Potter led in prayer, Miss Sarah Wilson read the Scripture lesson and gave a short exposition of it. Miss Harvest then led in prayer. Following this was a piano solo by Miss L. Foster, a reading by Mrs. F. Ketchenson called "Are You an Active Member" The chapter of the Study Book was dealt with by Marjory Forbes. A section from the "Blue Book" dealing with requirements necessary for Home and Foreign Missionaries was read by Miss Potter. Mrs. Carr sang a solo "When It's Prayer Meeting Time in the Hollow". Mrs. Ketchenson took charge of the election of officers which resulted as follows:

Hon. President: Mrs. Lane,
President: Mrs. Chas. Bennett.
Vice President—Miss A. Hayrett.
Rec. Secretary: Mrs G. Fryer.
Cor. Secretary: Mrs. A. Shipple.

M. and M. Secretary: Miss Pearl Powell.
Pianist: Miss M. Foster.
Assistant Pianist: Miss Pauline Bailey.
Auditors: Miss Hayrett and Miss Morrow.

The Mizpah Benediction closed the meeting. Grace was sung and lunch served by Mrs. Lane and Mrs. Bennett.

Rev. C. W. Barrett of Brighton, the guest speaker at the United Church anniversary services on Sunday, Nov. 10th, was greeted by large congregation.

Mr. Barrett's addresses were well prepared and eloquently given. In keeping with Remembrance Day his evening discourse had as its theme "War in Causes and Results."

The choir music was excellent. The solos given by Mrs. Watson of Campbellford and Miss Maybee of Frankford were thoroughly enjoyed. The choir was assisted by Mr. Savoy and Arthur Southworth of Campbellford as well as by several former members. Mrs. Arthur Southworth was the organist for the day owing to the absence of Mrs. W. Morrow.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with flowers, ferns, and sprays bought. The work was undertaken by the Young People's Society.

The anniversary supper held on Wednesday evening, Nov. 13th by the United Church Ladies' Aid in the community hall was well-attended. Proceeds amounted to around forty dollars.

A number from here attended the county public speaking contest in Stirling Hall, Belleville, on Thursday afternoon when Dorothy Porter was presented with the T. Eaton trophy, having won the highest number of points at the Ringsford township school fair held at Tweed. Stanley Geen was also presented with the book "Written History" by E. R. Hall, donated by the T. Eaton Company for the third highest number of points at the township school fair. There are two pupils of Thomasburg continuation school and are to be congratulated on their success.

The annual election of officers of the Sunbeam Mission Band took place at a special meeting on Saturday afternoon at the Sunday School rooms of the United Church. The attendance was not as large as had been hoped for owing to a number of the children being confined to their homes with measles.

Rev. H. R. Harrington took charge of the meeting.

The officers for the coming year are:

Superintendent: Mrs. H. B. Herman.

Vice President: Annice Adams.
Secretary: Burton Vance.
Treasurer: Lorne McTaggart.
Temperance Sec.: Helen McTaggart.
Press Sec.: Donald McTaggart.

Mr. Everett Geen was presented with the champion seed judging trophy at Shire Hall, Belleville, on Thursday afternoon last in connection with the county public speaking contest.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy McTaggart are among those from the Crescent Rebekah lodge who attended the meeting at Oakdale Rebekah lodge Madoc on Wednesday evening last when Mrs. M. Lewis of Toronto, President was present.

Mrs. Grantley Burley has returned to her home at Roslin after spending the past couple of weeks with her mother Mrs. W. Harrison.

DIES AFTER OPERATION

Saint John, N.B., Nov. 22.—(CP)— Dr. Israel Fletcher Longley died in hospital here last night a few days after an operation. He graduated the war and came to Saint John from Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., in 1910 and practised in Regina before going overseas as a medical officer during the Great War. He returned to Regina after about 10 years ago.

1936 Again... THE CAR THAT HAS Everything

OLDSMOBILE

1936 Oldsmobiles Have Many Refinements

SCORES OF IMPROVEMENTS ENGINEERED INTO SIXES AND EIGHTS

Oldsmobile for 1936 retains a good deal on style leadership with the new models just announced. Above, the eight-cylinder rumble seat coupe, well illustrating the new front-end effect attained by the rounded radiator grille, high-mounted headlamps, and louvre treatment. Below, the six-cylinder coach with trunk. Many new refinements of chassis, body, and chassis, have been built into the 1936 Oldsmobiles.

DISTINGUISHED for its new streamlined beauty, impressive size and fine-car features — Oldsmobile again leads the low-priced field in Style, Performance and Value.

EVERYTHING FOR PERFORMANCE

At the wheel of a new Oldsmobile 90-horsepower Six, or 100-horsepower Straight Eight, you will experience a revelation in easy, surging power. New light-weight, Anodize Pistons ensure flashing pick-up and still more spirited performance.

EVERYTHING FOR COMFORT

Oldsmobile's Knee-Action Wheels smooth out the roughest roads. The Ride Stabilizer "straightens out the curves." Roomy, luxurious interiors invite you to relax as you ride. And Fisher No-Draft Ventilation circulates plenty of clean, fresh air.

Every Modern and Practical Feature

Oldsmobile has Solid Steel Turret-Top Bodies by Fisher . . . the safest, most quiet bodies ever built.

You can depend on Oldsmobile's Super-Hydraulic Brakes to bring the car to a quick, smooth stop.

EVERYTHING FOR SAFETY

Solid-Steel Turret Top Bodies by Fisher give you the protection of steel above, below and on every side. Oldsmobile's Super-Hydraulic Brakes bring the car to a quick, smooth stop—straight ahead. Safety Glass is standard throughout.

EVERYTHING FOR CONVENIENCE

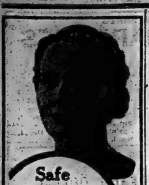
Look at Oldsmobile's Luggage and Tire Compartment—featured in all models. Test the effortless operation of Synco-Mesh all-silent gear shifting. Note the host of interior refinements that add to your convenience.



With style-leader styling — with every modern and proved fine-car feature — Oldsmobile is truly "The Car That Has Everything." Any Oldsmobile dealer will be glad to demonstrate a Six or Straight Eight so that you may better realize why Oldsmobile is today's big value—the car you will be proud to own.

PRAISES WORK OF V.O.N. IN DISTRICT

Miss Beatrice Creasy, Field Supervisor on Tour of Inspection

Work of the Victorian Order nurses and the committee in Belleville was warmly praised by Miss Beatrice Creasy, Ottawa, field supervisor of the Order, who has been on a visit of inspection to the local district this week. Miss Creasy addressed a special meeting of the committee held in the Y.M.C.A. Wednesday afternoon.

The outlook of the Victorian Order in Ontario was discussed in an interesting talk by Miss Creasy. The work has grown tremendously in all branches. There are now forty-one branches in Ontario with a new one recently opened in Orillia. The service is available to forty percent of the population of the province. Miss Creasy spoke of the regional conferences held in Halifax for board members and nurses in the Maritimes, at Kitchener for that area and hoped that such a conference could be arranged for this section. A membership campaign for the purpose of interesting people in the order as well as raising funds, the need of greater publicity in order to reach those patients who need the service but who do not realize it is available to them, were items brought to the attention of the committee.

Excellent Service

Miss Creasy referred to the excellent nursing service being maintained by the Victorian Order nurses in Belleville. She had met many individuals and medical men during her visit to the city and had not heard one word of criticism. Miss Ahern of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., Ottawa, who is also visiting the district was very much satisfied with the work. The close co-operation between the committee and nurses was commended by the visitor, who felt that such support inspired the nurses' best efforts. The fact, that one thousand and seventy more visits than last year had been made to date, showed the progress and growth of V.O.N. activities in the city.

The meeting was attended by practically all the board members, with Mrs. T. Holland, president in the chair. The appointment of the committee for Miss Creasy's interesting address was followed by a vote of thanks moved by Rev. Robert Hall and seconded by Mr. J. W. Imlah, treasurer of the committee. With Mrs. F. B. Foley in charge and Mrs. C. P. Hall, Mrs. J. Kelly and Mrs. E. Brown, assisting, afternoon tea was served and members of the committee were afforded the opportunity of meeting Miss Creasy.

FOXBORO W. M. S.

The regular monthly meeting of the W. M. S. of Foxboro United Church was held on Thursday evening, November 7th, when seven neighborhood meetings were retained to a social evening. The meeting was opened by singing of a hymn, The President, Mrs. W. R. Wicket welcomed all the visitors and regular members to the meeting and conducted a short business period. Rev. Mr. Hooper conducted the devotional period, choosing as his theme, "Peter, who called his brother Andrew" and he became the first missionary, Mrs. S. C. Gay gave a very interesting account of the story of the W.M.S. in connection with the church from the time it was first organized. Some of the names of former members and their work in the church were read by Mrs. Gay as many of the early members of whom she had been privileged to serve. Then we are called to carry on the work in spite of hindrances but they pass on the members had like difficulties to face and they overcame them. After this interesting address Mrs. Hinds and Miss Doris Horton sang a duet which was greatly appreciated. The local auxiliary then gave a pageant commemorating Ten Years of Progress," about thirty-five taking part in it. The meeting closed with Mr. Hinds, benediction. During the session. The guests were then invited to the S. S. room where a dainty lunch was served and a social half hour enjoyed by all. A feature of the lunch was a birthday cake, beautifully decorated, and with ten candles, a symbol of tenth anniversary of union. Mrs. S. J. Clarke, as oldest member of the Foxboro Society was privileged to cut the cake, which was later served to the assembled guests.

Current Attractions at Local Theatres

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE BELLE

"In Old Kentucky"

Will Rogers' last . . . and greatest . . . picture, "In Old Kentucky," comes to the Belle Theatre on (Saturday) for three days, matinee daily.

Adapted from the play whose humor, sunny romance and tingling horse race drama have made it a favorite at three generations of playgoers, "In Old Kentucky" stars Rogers in a role that presents his rich down-to-earth character in its most lovable light.

Sam Hellman, famous humorist, and jadyn Lehman adapted the play for the screen in a modernized form, but preserved all its drama and its rich comedy of character and incident.

In the picture, Rogers enacts a shrewd and genial trainer of horses, whose homely philosophy and keen wit sets right all the troubles of the impulsive people about him.

Russell Hardie and Dorothy Wilson play the romantic youngsters of "In Old Kentucky." She is the daughter of old Charles Selkin who is feuding with Charles Richman. Although his daughter fights to win Hardie for herself, it is Rogers' shrewd aid that finally brings the two to Miss Wilson.

Although "In Old Kentucky" is full of humor and drama in the best situations and the tangle with the crazy rain-maker, it reserves its great thrill for the pounding climax in which racing thoroughbreds pound down the stretch carrying romance and drama in their saddle.

Louis Silvers, Alan Dinehart, Esther Dale and Etienne Girardot are the principal supporting players in "In Old Kentucky," which was directed by George Marshall.

"Thin the Bride", a very funny All-Star comedy, and the Belle Latest News Flashes showing Santa Claus starting on Winter Tour accompanied by his reindeer, wrapped in furs, and bringing toys for children, the old gentleman makes his first appearance, also showing "Germany's 1914 Babies go into New Army" and other interesting events. The closing chapter of "The New Adventure of Tarzan" will be presented at the Saturday matinee performance.

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Raven"

Featuring Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi, a Weird and Thrilling Picture

After eighty-five years, the strange regimes of death imagined by Edgar Allan Poe have been built by modern technicians. They were constructed from the minute descriptions in his mystery and terror stories for use in the Universal picture, "The Raven," based on his famous poem, which is now at the Capitol Theatre with Karloff and Bela Lugosi starred. The pit and the pendulum which Poe invented for one of his horror tales now stand among the principal gadgets lifted from the painted pages for this production, which was written for the screen by Dalton Trumbo and directed by Louis Friedlander.

The pit and the pendulum were used by the mad Dr. Vollin, played by Lugosi as a brilliant scientist with a mania for torture and insanity which takes the form of Poe mania, attempts to revenge himself on fate-ful Edmund Allison, played by Irene Wat-Lester Matthews and Samuel Hinds. The machines were built into the solid brick and stone walls of the large set representing Lugosi's combination home and laboratory, which adds to the horror of this vehicle and will make any audience grasp their respective clasps in sheer horror. Still in his brief career of the story, of the immortal Edgar Allan Poe, which will thrill you into a frenzy.

"Streamline Express"

stands in a class by itself.

Vince Barnett, even the name of this comedian is enough to provoke a good, hearty snort, but wait till you see him in action. He will convulse you into spasms with his antics. Also Sammy Blackmer, the villain, plays an important role in this film of comedy. Well till you see this, you'll agree this is the most rib-tickling and frolicsome picture seen in a long time. Now at the Capitol till Saturday.

Don't forget the Tom Mix serial. The kids get a kick out of this; so will you.

MELROSE W. M. S.

The Melrose W.M.S. held a Thank-offering service in the United Church on Sunday evening, November 3rd. The meeting opened with the Doxology and hymn 630, followed with prayer and Scripture reading by the President, Mrs. E. M. Badgley. The group leader, Mrs. C. McFarlane then took charge. A hymn was sung, followed with prayer and responsive reading. Music by the choir. Readings were given by Mrs. G. McLaren, Mrs. Harry Davis and Mrs. C. McFarlane. Music by the Orchestra and a very pleasing solo by Miss Marion Blakbrewick. Offering $21.00. Meeting closed with the Watchword.

Board Room Gossip

During the period of uncertainty in the earlier part of 1935, investment funds continued to accumulate awaiting the revival of confidence before seeking an outlet. With many of the uncertainties still in a few months ago eliminated, it is no surprise, therefore, that capital is seeking an investment haven. Those who can afford the risk and have confidence in the ultimate recovery of the country, are purchasing the speculative equities as it is in the more depressed securities that the largest profits are often made.

Authentic reports from Ottawa have it that the Government will, in a comparatively short time, place substantial orders for railway equipment, this taking the form of steel cars. Official confirmation of this is, of course, not obtainable, but quarters close to the industry in that there is no room for doubt but these orders will materialize. The current strength in the equipment securities appears significant.

GYPSUM, LIME & ALABASTINE

The shares of Gypsum, Lime and Alabastine, listed both in Montreal and Toronto, have been active features of late and have shown strength. In connection with the special issue of stamps issued by the United States, gypsum remains on the free list and therefore, should the tariff on lime has been reduced from 10 cents per hundred pounds, including weight of the container to 7 cents. The duty on hydrated lime has similarly been lowered from 40 cents per hundred pounds to 30 cents.

Shareholders of Gypsum, Lime & Alabastine will learn with interest that the production of gypsum in Canada in the first eight months of 1935 amounted to 344,300 tons, as compared with 283,500 tons in the same period of 1934. The company accounts for more than half the gypsum production in the Dominion.

As a result of the recent Housing Act, whereby the Government made a loan of $10,000,000 for the expansion of low cost residential construction by advancing 20% of the actual cost of same, it is estimated that about $50,000,000 of such new building should be undertaken. This figure is considerably ahead of the total of recent years and warrants an optimistic attitude for those companies catering to residential construction, one of which is Gypsum, Lime & Alabastine.

The financial year of the company ends with the current month and present indications are that results will be ahead of 1934 when 50% of bond interest requirements was earned after depreciation write-off.

As at November 30th, 1934, the consolidated balance sheet showed current assets of $760,300 and current liabilities of $179,803, indicating a net working capital of $613,497.

GOD'S LAKE DECLINE

In answering an inquiry asking for an explanation of the recent decline in the shares of God's Lake, The Northern Miner has the following to say:

"Factors in the market weakness of God's Lake shares have obviously resulted in drifting to the weak side of the market generally. Whatever may have been disappointing values being erratic, although structural values have remained unchanged. Drifting to the east at the deeper horizons is expected to reach the ore shoots found on the upper levels shortly. Probably there has been some fear raiding as the conditions leaked out. In any event, the fact that physical and geological conditions are favorable, although values may be erratic, that ore shoots may be developed later in areas where first exploration did not yield the anticipated results. The company's past record, however, speaks this winter, in the expectation that consistent values may be picked up at deeper horizons.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Recent leaders fell by the wayside in today's stock market, as profit takers bucked the steady trend of the rails, specialties and scattered utilities.

The carriers up moderately at the start, fell back in spots and their Thursday's closing levels. American Telephone was an exception, moving up more than a point. Such stock as Consolidated Gas, U. S. Rubber Goodyear, Studebaker and Auburn were a bit higher. On the losing side were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Westinghouse, Case, Du Pont, Johns-Manville and Western Union.

The late tone was rather heavy. Transfers approximated 2,500,000 shares.

TORONTO INDUSTRIALS

Toronto, Nov. 22.—(CP)—Following a sharp sell-off on the New York exchange this afternoon, the Toronto Industrial Board weakened as much as $1.50 among the leaders, losing a corresponding margin in the Liquor Stocks, International Nickel, Consolidated Smelters and a few others. Trading slowed down on the decline.

Oils, Liquors and the other interlisted leaders had losses up to a half point in the early afternoon dealings. From a top of 40, Nickel backed away to 39 to 39¼. Distillers-Seagrams and Industrial Alcohol A weakened 1-3 each.

MINING STOCKS

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—(CP) Toronto Mining Market carried soft today and losses up to $1 were recorded among the leaders. Among the secondary gold recessions were limited to a few cents each.

The market had opened the day strong, followed by a period of narrow trading ahead of the closing. Definite weakness developed late in the afternoon when the New York market hit the skids.

In the Silvers morning gains were erased and losses of as much as a point were registered. Beaver was new low for the current slump. All Canadas, Coniagas and Mines were lower on the London market to-day.

Western Hockey Players in Command Along Loop Front After Scoring Three Upsets

Chicago Defeats Leafs, Canadiens Take Maroons And Americans Win

WILF CUDE HURT.

Canadien Goalie Out For Two Weeks After Crash

By ELMER DULMAGE,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Tossing men from the west second in command today along the National Hockey League front, having completed a trifle that all Chicago, New York and Montreal, The Albertan influence, in particular, made itself felt in last night's games.

Especially pronounced was the performance of Paul Thompson, Calgary, in Chicago's 4-3 triumph over Toronto Maple Leafs. The Albertan, one of the best left wingers in the business, had a hand in three goals and scored two of them himself for the Hawks, which is the week's favorite big league team.

Maroons Defeated

Just to make it a general prairie celebration, Leroy Goldsworthy from Edmonton, another star, was busy agains against Montreal Maroons, banging home goals in a 3-1 victory Canadiens over the Stanley Cup winners. Wilf Cude played a spectacular game in the French goal before and after he was carried off with a head injury in the third period. Cude is from Winnipeg.

It developed, as Wilf Loughlin's Black Hawks banded Toronto Maple Leafs out of the league cellar, cop heads one of the best forward lines in hockey when Thompson, Doc Holmes and Danny McFayden are together. They have figured in every Chicago win this season.

Americans couldn't stop this trio. Neither could New York Rangers. The Red Wings managed it but they got only a scoreless tie with the Leafs till the scorching heat of the Thompson-Romnes-McFayden blast right after the start of the third.

McFayden scored within three minutes of the start with the help of Alex Levinsky and Thompson. Thompson whipped in the second himself before he Leafs started some desperate shooting on their own. Mike Karakas got the nod before the first period ended and it was goal-for-goal the rest of the way.

Jackson Scores Twice

Harvey Jackson scored twice on passes from Ogarlie Conacher and Ace Bailey, Toronto forward one and Thompson another. The Hawks' only other counter was Doug Romnes' line, but they are getting along famously the way things are.

Chicago has scored 10 goals in four games. Thompson has been credited with nine points, McFayden with nine and Romnes with seven. Louis Trudel, who scored one goal and Tommy Cook has earned two assists. It's a fast line, one of the newest forward-line sensations in big-league hockey.

Travelling in fits and starts as he did last year, Schriner bobbed up suddenly for the Americans to prevent Detroit from recording its fourth consecutive win. The Yanks were well on the way to achieving this unique record when they let in a little more than two minutes to play in the extra session at New York and the game was over.

Then Schriner, prize rookie of last season, Yanks' key man Art Chapman, Pic passed to his centre, headed into position for a shot on return and made goalie Norm Smith, A few seconds later the Calgary boy banged the puck home for a gang raid and broke away for another goal.

Cude is Hurt

Tommy Gorman's Maroons, making their second start of the season, stumbled on the western combination of Goldsworthy and Kelly after getting an early lead. Gus Marker sent Kelly on his way, and he was with an early first-period, but the flying Goldsworthy erased that misgrip before the session ended.

In the third period Goldsworthy stood from end to end with a solo rush to drive the winner past Coalie Bill Beveridge. Cude was injured in the last minute of the game when "Hooley" Smith crashed into the Maroon goalie. Cude was out for some a week or two and Canadiens depended on Lorne Bill Tasgher of Cleveland or Abbie Cox of Springfield.

B. YACHT CLUB AWARD PRIZES

Third Annual Party is Most Enjoyable Affair

Belleville Athletic and Yacht Club held their third annual Welcoming and presentation night at their club rooms in the Belleville Yacht Club, Thursday evening. President M. Gallaghan occupied the chair and after welcoming the guests called on B. Stephenson and E. Fry, who entertained with a Hawaiian guitar duet. These were followed by Bill Ellis and his musical saw and Rinckie Mehoken who obliged with a step dance.

The president then called on several of the guests for speeches, which included Mr. R. Dutt, Alex. Hill, Ald. W. Harvey, Harry Rollins, Ald. Reynolds, Ernie Fields, Reg. Hinchey, Chas. Hyde, Eddie Logan, Laurie Lewis and others. This was followed by a piano selection by O. MacLaurin, who presented the trophies, which had been won by the Belleville Yacht Club's fleet during the past season.

Following this the Radio Four entertained followed by Jimmie Belcher after which supper was served and the rest of the evening spent in dancing until the early hours of next morning.

During the evening 34 Trophies were distributed. Also included the Bank of Commerce Cup to the Kajmia softball team.

Ice boat sailing was spoken of by the members and it looks like an ice boat fleet this winter.

Also it is understood that a ladies' Auxiliary to this Club is to be formed. Notice of this will appear in the near future.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

With grim hope in their hearts, J. Gallihan (O); outsides, Morrison (O), Lee (B), Coach? We honestly don't know. There are three players picked from the Orfums, three from Belleville and three from Oshawa with Lindsay contributing two and Cobourg one."

The future of baseball in Belleville will be decided this evening when the B.A.B.A. holds its annual meeting. The outcome of this conclave will decide the future of baseball in Belleville. The question of the possibilities of continuing in senior O.B.A.A. circles or dropping back to intermediate will be a paramount item on the agenda. The meeting will also name delegates to the C.O.B.A. meeting being held in Peterboro tomorrow, through which the good or bad news, as the case may be will be conveyed regarding the decision of this evening's meeting. Belleville has always been noted for being a good senior baseball town and we are certain that if a contending team is placed in the O.B.A. during the season of 1936, the public will support it and while we are on the subject next year's baseball we would urge all sportsmen and lovers of athletics to get out and work in the cause of daylight saving at the forthcoming municipal election. Incidentally and for the information of the local members of baseball we understand that two good and proven senior baseball players have located in Belleville recently and are hard at work. They were not imported by persons in any way interested in the ball team.

After completing two splendid hour practices at the Jack Harty Arena this week, Eddie Trewin's Belleville packsters face the cold test verses Prescott in the Kingston City loop this evening. The locals will doubtlessly line-up as follows; Goal, Ben Morden; defence, Ingram and Barney Yorke; centre, Cy Partridge; wings, Carl and Harry Ingram; alternates, Stanley Bailey, Doug Powers, Pete Morgan, Jimmie Kemark, Jim McGuire and one other yet to be named. While on this subject we'd like to remind the Peterborough "setter-inside" that flirting is not halfway between Belleville and Campbellford. Nothing is closer to Belleville owing to change recently made in Highway No. 34, so it's "heights to yer" my man.

Now that the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union has entered in upon the hall of "shamateurism" along with numerous other major athletic activities throughout the Dominion, why doesn't the A.A.U. of C. get busy on the matter and propose ruling that came out of Alberta last year—allow the mingling of amateur and professionals in their entirety. After all, how can a working man afford to take two days a week to participate in so-called amateur sports? It is not even good common sense.

Despite the fact, that three of Irvan Mickalloff's heralded wrestlers did not put in an appearance at last night's local wrestling show, the fans were treated to three thrilling bouts. First and foremost we have to doff our chapeaus to Gordie Farrell, our personal choice No. 1, for saving the show, when the above advertised wrestlers of Irvan Mickalloff's stable failed to make their connections. Although Farrell is not the gamest or the total-point setter in Bel ville Tuesday's card will be an exception.

N. H. L. STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Paul Thompson, left winger of Chicago Black Hawks, who collected four scoring points in Chicago's 4-3 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs and leads all N.H.L. marksmen.

Sweeney Schriner New York Americans hero of a 3-1 triumph over Detroit Red Wings. He scored two goals in overtime.

Wilf Cude Canadien goalkeeper, who played a brilliant game in Montreal's defence. He suffered two broken ribs near the finish.

his career he was a great defenceman with Montreal Canadiens. Later he played for Ottawa, Senators and last winter was playing manager of Quebec Beavers, minor league club.

TIGERS-QUEENS FOOTBALL GAME IS NOW ASSURED

Play in Hamilton on Saturday Regardless of Rulings

AB BOX TO PLAY

Will Help Balmy Beach to Try And Defeat Sarnia Imperials

Toronto, Nov. 22.—(CP)—Beset by difficulties and red tape, more difficulties and fresh red tape, the Hamilton—Queen's football game will go on in the Ambitious City of Hamilton after the largest blare of publicity any gridiron contest has been favored with in years.

They will play the historic H.A.A.A. grounds with football crowds from Toronto, Kingston, Hamilton and other points and with non-fans who will buy tickets just to see what makes them tick and get so many headlines. Red tape may clutter the boards tomorrow in Hamilton but financial success is assured.

The College battalion from Queen's, about as scared of the Hamilton Tigers as a full grown bull elephant is afraid of a gazelle, left Kingston at noon today with a band and hundreds of undergraduates who believe Ted Reeve's intercollegiate champions will overpower the Hamilton machine and qualify for the Eastern final.

Queen's moved toward the battle front without the approval of any responsible body save the Queen's Athletic Board. They are still waiting to hear from the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Association, whose approval is necessary before the contest will be recognized as the Eastern semi-final.

Tigers Also in Wrong

Tigers found themselves also in the official wrong through the action of the Ottawa branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada declaring all players in the Interprovincial Union under suspension. There was a tendency, however, to regard this action, arising out of the Jerry-Hillard ineligibility case, as outside the jurisdiction of the Ottawa branch.

Tigers, in addition, played Ottawa three times before they read newspaper stories, that Roy Berry might be John Hilliard. They didn't play Roughriders after the revelation, but they did play Toronto in the A.A.U. of C., meeting at Halifax, that the eligibility of Hilliard was under such a general suspension.

The Tigers wedded to Hamilton and Secretary R. W. Hewlison of the Canadian Rugby Union said last night that Tigers—Hamilton fans would go on, regardless of anything the executive of the various bodies do.

Without any three-ring circus to help it along, the Sarnia—Balmy Beach O.R.F.U. game in Varsity athletic stadium here today, with about 10,000 spectators and produce a brilliant game. Box will be back to help the Beaches make their first appearance in the mighty Canadian Championships.

Carrying an eight-point lead obtained in the first O.R.F.U. game series at Sarnia last Saturday, Imperials are not expected to lose either the game or the total-point series. But the Toronto East-End Club has shown in the past that the three games these teams have played against each other isn't likely to be an exception.

WALTER PARNELL SAVES SHOW BY HIS SMART WORK

Loses Bout, However, To Methodical Joe Katelmach

TAYLOR DEFEATED

Had Honor of Registering Quickest Fall Ever Seen Here

Although substitutions were needed in all three bouts of professional wrestling at the Belleville Arena last night proved most satisfactory to nearly 600 wrestling fans when three sterling bouts were presented, much to the satisfaction of the general run of fans. Although the pugnacious Walter Parnell, 210 pound St. Catharines local villain, was defeated by Joe Kalelmach, 230 pound Winnipeg youth in the feature bout, the loser proved the aggressor throughout and literally outed the latter with neck and chin, although the opening bout, between Irish Steve Taylor and the diminutive Eddie Anderlo, ran a close second for speed and cleverness of exchanges. Anderlo eventually proved too powerful and won while Taylor had the distinction of registering the quickest fall ever registered in a local ring, when he applied his famous Irish Whip to win the second round in exactly five seconds. Two semi-final bouts proved slow and methodical, when Jack Pearl, 195, defeated Howard Martin, 190, in exactly 24 minutes flat.

Although three of Irvan Mickalloff's imported wrestlers from the United States were advertised to appear in a local card last night, substitutions were needed at the ringside when four failed to make train connections, while coming from Detroit. Although the fans were naturally somewhat disappointed, they remained to get more than their money's worth, especially in the final fixture when Parnell staged his usual villainous role as the saviour of the night's performance.

The main attraction opened with Parnell assuming his usual villainous tactics and throughout the match he was the timekeeper in the ring. His objections were overruled by Referee Wells, however, when Parnell immediately attacked his opponent, Joe Kalelmach, and created hostilities by applying a series of backbreaking holds and finally had lying defensively on the mat. Kalelmach proved smarter than usual and finally tied Kalelmach and Referee Wells both up in the ropes, which gave the latter much to the amusement of the fans who were howling for blood, consequently Kalelmach rallied slightly, however proved somewhat sorry, but Parnell weathered the storm and hurled Kalelmach bodily from the ring. Upon the latter's attempting to kicked the Winnipeg youth, a la Jim Savoldi, Parnell first jumped with a press after flattening Kalelmach with a drop kick in 13.19 minutes.

Parnell continued his ferocious attack on Kalelmach as the latter was found opened with Parnell hanging Kalelmach between the ropes' strands. Referee Wells intervened and upon being released Kalelmach attacked Parnell with a few choice and knee smashes, that gave the latter the opportunity to secure body lungs. The brawl developed into a free for all with Referee Wells and attempts being applied until Kalelmach literally pounded the St. Catharines veteran into submission and eventually fell on him to win the second round with a crotch hold in 12.25 minutes. Although Parnell was the aggressor throughout the final round and looked to be certain winner as he carried an effective body scissors hold on Kalelmach played possum, gained a second wind and with a flying body press and deciding fall after seven and one half minutes in the third round!

Crutain-Raiser Thriller

The curtain-raiser proved the second best bout on the card, a 45 minute bout between Irish Steve Taylor and Mike Anderlo, the mighty atom of energy from Italy. Anderlo opened hostilities by gouging Taylor's eyes and ferociously attacking the latter with knees, fists and feet. After softening the local youth with two terrific body slams Taylor proved an easy victim for a press and leaden from the first fall in eight minutes. They returned to the ring for the second round, Anderlo advanced to meet Taylor, dove out of a blue sky, the local Irishman secured a hold on Anderlo's right arm, hurled him over his head with the famous Irish Whip and, flattened Anderlo in exactly five seconds as the fans went wild with glee. Anderlo showed his superior strength in the third round, however, when he won the round and the bout after wearing Taylor down and applying the Japanese frog scissors for a half nelson.

Jack Pearl, 195, Toronto and Howard Martin, 190, Detroit, battled and tugged through three short rounds in the semi-final bout, Martin won the initial fall after a series of elbow smashes that lowered Pearl to the mat and Martin applied a successful body press. Pearl came back and evened things up by using time with aeroplane leg scissors as used by Jim Browning.

Canadien Goalie For Time Plays With Broken Ribs

(By Alex Dell)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Nov. 22.—(CP)— As Wilf Cude, veteran player on the National Hockey League has seen was being rushed to hospital in Montreal today when it became known the youthful goalkeeper finished last night's game with Chicago Blackhawks despite two fractured ribs and a shredded muscle in the Canadiens won 3-1.

Cude's display excitement in the closing minutes as the world champions drove in five-men among the crowded Chicago goal defence. They tried and do the spills turning back Cude's shots but he was equal to the chances of sending the game into overtime.

One minute to go, a shot, and Cude was down with the puck under his body. Coach Pit Lepine, fearing full tilt into him as he fell, rushed to the goalie's aid but the play on the ice for several minutes after the whistle attracted him then slowly regained his feet.

The final minute of the game was played with Cude hugging the last of the 38 drives he turned aside in the final period. Dr. Lepine, dressing room Dr. P. H. Forgue, Club physician found two fractured ribs and a shredded muscle in the left side. He ordered the goalie to take Cude to the hospital.

Walked to Car

"Not for me," said the Wolverine as he cautiously and slowly left the door of dressing and nothing could persuade him to do so. "I'm all right", he claimed as he reluctantly consented to be hospitalized for the examination, but he went on his feet to the automobile that took him there.

Meanwhile, Lepine was the driver of the car that took the game Habitant goalie to St. Luke's hospital where the full extent of his injuries will be determined by X-ray. It was the opinion who gave Cude his first Major League job with the old Philadelphia Quakers.

Manager Gyrio Maiden, a Canadien scout, was the man who first called had been sent out for a goalie to take Cude's place against Toronto Americans here. The driver of Tasgher with the Cleveland Americans, Abbie Cox of Springfield, Mass., Canadiens' regular defence team, or Bennie Grant of Montreal Maroons, in the same circuit, if sought.

TROUBLE BROUGHT GARDINER STATES

Telegrams Passed in Regina Riots Read at Probe

REGINA, Nov. 22.—(CP)—Mordecai Gardiner said passed between Hon. J. G. Gardiner and Premier Aberhart, of Alberta, Mr. Gardiner, M.P., Mr. Bennett, at that time Premier of Canada, "were the direct cause of the riots" in Regina on June 14, the Regina Commission investigating the riot here today.

Mr. Gardiner, now Federal Minister of Agriculture, explained to the Commission in detail yesterday the position and attitude of his government in those pre-riot days when "we were without a police force." Reiterated in his evidence was the conviction that from June 13 on Federal authorities took control of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, suspending provincial authority and taking charge of the Regina situation.

Mr. Gardiner's account showed the individual personal touch he took in the contention the railways had brought the men to Regina and were responsible for their presence.

Finally on June 27 a telegram from Mayor Bennett to Premier Gardiner made a change of front. Mr. Gardiner said that Mayor Bennett said: "We have not the slightest intention of changing our position." He called on the provincial government to assist in maintaining "the fabric of our society and the institutions of our country against the illegal threats of Communists and Communism."

Next week Mr. Gardiner's reply to Premier Aberhart, refusing provincial government to guard trains and order additional "Riot" police had no problem till you imported one."

MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

On entering the United Church on Sunday evening to see the background of green and brown and a tall silver cross standing in the centre of the platform gave a sacred impression and the same impression continued all through the service.

Rev. A. Fowler conducted the service, assisted by Mrs. Boyd the choir sang evenly an appropriate anthem.

Before the lights were out, except a colorful spot light on the Cross, Mrs. Boyd sang the beautiful Christian (Mrs. W. Montgomery) Martyr, first going at the front and gave her message. Miss Doris (Mrs. W. J. Lasseter) clothed in a black robe and veil placed a black veil over the cross followed by Fear (Mrs. Gooding), Pride (Mrs. Wilson), Sorrow (Mrs. J. J. Way), Unbelief (Mrs. Redcliffe), Indifference (Mrs. E. Masters), Death, (Mrs. A' Arthur), all these entered the church. Then the lights brightened to hope. Then the Graces appeared dressed in white carrying wreaths and they were Life (Mrs. C. Mohlmann), Faith (Pearl Meyers), Hope (Nellie Sprung), Humility (Pearl Cranfield), Joy (Gillespie McCool), Truth (H. Cole), Love (Mrs. Read). Each telling a beautiful story and taking the places of those in darkness. This group stood in the spot light while the poem was read by Poulter, Mrs. Austin, Clifford Rogers and Alden Arthur respectively "The Old Ragged Cross" in Colored Lights.

3RD SIDNEY

THIRD SIDNEY — Mr. Newman of the Sidney Baptist Church in Toronto conducted services at Alton's Church on Sunday. The congregation was small owing to the close of the W.M.S. and was the annual autumn thank-offering service, the offering amounting to over twenty-five dollars. The sermon series was evangelistic. Both sermons preached by Mr. Newman were stirring messages well worthwhile for the Mission Work.

On Monday evening Mr. Newman gave a most interesting illustrated lecture on the work in Bechuanaland. Prior to this he gave an illustrated lecture at Century Church also on the work in Africa. This was especially interesting as Mr. Newman has been there himself. Mr. Newman's progress toward recovery since his recent attack of pneumonia and 'flu is such as to be around again.

Miss Aletha Parry and Mrs. Allan Latta spent the tea hour on Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Parry.

Mrs. H. Hubbs entertained some ladies to tea on Thursday afternoon.

There was a good attendance at Alton's W. M. S. Wednesday of last week at the home of Mrs. R. W. Mower, thirty being present. Mrs. Mower had charge of the program the calendars that had been handed in, were opened and counted and found to contain over twenty dollars. A vote of thanks was tendered to Miss Aletha Parry, the President for the trouble and work she had taken in the matter of distributing these calendars and the management and planning of the amount realized.

Mr. Chas. Hinchliffe of Toronto, spent a couple of days this week with his brother Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Hinchliffe.

Several people from this Line attended the Eastern Star Bazaar held in Belleville on Wednesday.

Mr. Stanley Kells and wife have returned to their home here, after spending the summer months in Manitoba.

CENTRE

Centre—Mr. Donald Spencer spent a few days last week in Oshawa.

Mrs. Myrtle Bass of Belleville is confined to her home with the grandmother, her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. Wellington Howell and sisters spent Friday afternoon at Warkworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gilles and family spent Saturday in Shannonville.

Mr. and Mrs. James Holiday, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Holiday and Miss Mary May spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hoover of Hoards. Mr. Walter May remained there for a week or more.

Mr. Nelson Parliament and Mr. Wellington Howell and sisters took dinner on Sunday with Mrs. Ella Giles.

Mr. and Mrs. Ridley Anderson spent Tuesday in Wellington.

Mrs. Harvey May spent Monday evening with her sister Mrs. Seth Bonter, Bellecliffe.

Mrs. Willie Fox returned home on Monday from the Bellecliffe General Hospital much improved in health.

Mr. Roscoe Hubbs is spending a few days with his brother Harry, Ameliasburg.

Miss Jean Carson who has spent some time with her sister Mrs. Percy Thompson returned to her home last week.

PASSES FAIR NIGHT

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—(CP)—Hospitality authorities today reported that Charles Murphy, former Postmaster-General seriously ill here, had passed a fair night. His condition was said to be unchanged. Senator Gideon Murphy, 71 years old, is understood to have undergone a blood transfusion yesterday.

Tweed and District

Tweed — Tweed Chapter No. 148 of the Order of the Eastern Star met on Thursday evening. A social period followed the transaction of business, during which a presentation of a beautiful wool blanket was made to Mrs. Alex. Nicholson, (nee Miss Gertrude Brown). The following address was read:—

Dear Gertrude,—

You took us all by surprise by your sudden leap into the state of matrimony. However we offer our sincerest congratulations and wish you years of joy and happiness.

On behalf of the members of Tweed Chapter No. 148, O.E.S., we ask you to accept this gift as a token of our esteem. We hope to enjoy years of happiness together that you have really settled in Tweed.

Tweed Horticultural Society Directors met in the Council Chamber on Tuesday afternoon with the President, Dr. R. R. Nicholson in the chair. Directors present—Mrs. A. C. Blakely, Mrs. M. Drinkwater, Mrs. Wm. Jones, Mrs. Wm. Quinn, Mrs. S. O. Way, S. H. Conder. The Secretary read the unexpected decrease in government grant from forty-five dollars in 1934 to seventeen dollars in 1935. This, along with some increased expenditures for the year, has placed the Board in a situation which will result in a considerable deficit at the end of the year unless some additional revenue can be obtained in the near future. Committees were appointed to arrange for a card whist and euchre if possible play by local talent.

The A.F.P.A. of Tweed and Madoc purchased their play entitled "Things Hum" at Sulphide Recreation Hall on Tuesday evening. Everybody enjoyed and played a number of selections and received a big hand from the audience.

Tweed Rebekah Lodge No. 226, Sub-Grand Sister Meda Lewis, President of the Rebekah Assembly, and the District Deputy President Sister Effie Bailey of Stirling, at their regular meeting on Friday evening. A number from Crescent Lodge, Thomasburg, also attended. Sister M. Lewis was presented with embroidered pillow slips during the social hour by Tweed Lodge.

Mr. C. W. McCaw and family have moved into a house belonging to W. J. Austin, Port Hope, recently vacated by Miss A. M. Rayburn. Miss Rayburn has moved to her new property purchased from Mrs. C. W. Tucker.

GOVERNMENT MAY TRANSFER CAMPS

Political Activity Slows up as Cabinet Ministers Away

Ottawa, Nov. 22—(CP)— With Prime Minister Mackenzie King and several of his colleagues absent from the capital privy to the political activity at the moment was expected up. Departmental heads are busy with their estimates in preparation for next week's meeting summoned about the middle of January. Other matters dealt with are equally far from political.

The question of transferring the relief camps for single, homeless, unemployed men is still under discussion between the departments of labor and national defence. Some time must necessarily elapse before the transfer is completed since the labor branch will have to create a new staff to supervise these former camps. Further administration the defence department employed civilians, while the camps were under the various military districts.

Several changes will shortly have to decide where seats in the House of Commons are to be found for Finance Minister C. A. Dunning and Minister of Agriculture J.G. Gardiner. Both were formerly Premiers of Saskatchewan; but it is unlikely that seats for the two will be found in that province. Mr. Gardiner will run there, but Mr. Dunning will likely have a seat found for him in either Ontario or Quebec.

Sound Pictures Made of Rogues To Help Police

Trenton, N.J., Nov. 22—(AP)—How crime fights fire is developing to make sound pictures for their fight against crime.

The idea of utilizing talkies to aid police in recognizing "wanted" criminals came to Captain Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the State force, when he saw a gangster movie. It occurred to him he wasn't likely to forget the face of the man he had seen talking and moving on the screen.

He borrowed a sound camera, made pictures of prisoners, and showed them to state troopers. All agreed they made identification much easier than the difficulties confronting the man who sees only an ordinary rogue's gallery photograph.

DO YOU SUFFER WITH YOUR FEET?
—Then You Need
Zam-Buk
Swollen ankles, corns, sore aching feet, and similar foot troubles are not only painful and unsightly, but as any doctor will tell you, when neglected they often cause blood poisoning, permanent ill-health.
So if you want to keep well and walk in comfort, rub Zam-Buk into the feet every night in warm water, and after drying the ankles, instep, soles and between the toes. The refined herbal oils in Zam-Buk are readily absorbed into the skin to the seat of the trouble.
Pain, Swelling and Inflammation are quickly relieved by Zam-Buk. Hard skin, corns, and bunions are softened and soon disappear. Cracked heels, sore toes, and feet are made easy and comfortable. Start now with Zam-Buk and use it regularly.
Rub ZAM-BUK In Every Night

"My feet became very painful and swollen, and I had to walk with a stick. Zam-Buk soon relieved the pain and swelling, and I am now perfectly free from trouble." (Signed) Mrs. S. Bickell, Sydney, N.S.

PURE POISON IN BARREL BOTTOM

Carelessness of Employee Probably Responsible For Deaths

San Francisco, Nov. 23 (AP)— A full barrel of deadly poison was reported today by Dr. Leo C. Geiger, City Health Director, to have been mixed with baking soda and at least eight persons in Hundreds of San Francisco housewives.

A department store employe's carelessness, Dr. Geiger said, may have been responsible for introduction of the poison into the soda. At least three deaths have been attributed to the poisoned kitchen staple.

The health director said the discovery was made when the store owner turned over to the health department one of three empty barrels of "baking soda." the store had sold in bulk form during the past month.

He explained an employe had ordered from that town to display barrels were refilled, as their contents were sold, from the barrel.

Dr. Geiger said a few pounds of poison—its less active of the two kinds in the contaminated baking soda.

On the outside of the barrel the crude admonition, "do not touch this barrel," had been printed three inches high with black crayon. The barrel also bore another legend, "poisoning powder."

The employe, questioned by city health officials, said the barrel was found in one of a number of piles of empty barrels of "baking soda."

Dr. Geiger said when the employe was questioned how he could identify it, he replied he remembered the crayoning on the side of the barrel.

Asked why, despite the warning on the barrel, he had opened it and thrown the contents into the other barrels, the employe, Dr. Geiger asserted, did not answer.

ABERHART WANTS COSTS REDUCED

Claims Province of Alberta Much Over-governed

Edmonton, Nov. 22—(CP)— A reduction of municipalities with the Alberta Government to consider cutting costs of government was a proposal from Premier Aberhart before the annual convention of the Alberta Association of municipal districts today.

"I'm not saying that you should all be fired from your jobs," said the premier in addressing the convention, "but I want to say I am asking you to consider whether this province is over-governed."

"I am the Minister of Education in this government. Do you think that 10,000 people can control education in this province. We have 3,000 school trustees. There are 3,000 school secretaries, and that means 3,000 adults. The city of Edmonton with a large population has 23 people in control of education."

"If things in Alberta are not right we should consider how we can reorganize. Give us a chance to have a recommendation from you or you can have a committee," said the premier.

"I'm not mean Social Credit," he explained. "I have not had time to think of that yet."

Representatives Discuss Atlantic Air Service

Ottawa, Nov. 22 (CP)—Representatives of the United Kingdom, Northern Ireland, the Irish Free State and Canada were expected today to begin discussion of plans for establishment of a transatlantic air service. Preliminary official talks of these countries were accompanied by a conference of Imperial Airways, the British company which, should the service be created, will conduct it.

Three routes have been considered, the first is the northern course from the British Isles to Ireland, thence to Greenland and either via Labrador to Canada, or direct from Greenland to the United States side of Hudson Bay.

The second route is the direct flight from Ireland to Newfoundland, back-tracking the course already flown by Alcock and Brown and Hawkins, in 1919 and achieved by Lindbergh in his solo flight.

The third is the southern route, from the British Isles to Bermuda, and thence north to Nova Scotia or New Brunswick.

'Day of Mourning' Succeeded by Calm

Cairo, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Complete calm prevailed today after Nationalist students who called a "day of mourning" for their comrades slain in last week's anti-British riots failed yesterday to enforce an intended general strike.

Fifty demonstrators against British influence in this nominally independent kingdom were arrested and seven native policemen were injured.

CANCER CLINIC ASSURED

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 22.—(CP)— Establishment of a cancer clinic in Windsor, was assured today with the enthusiastic support of the Health Welfare campaign. The three-day drive came to a close last night when subscriptions totalled $54,000 —$4,000 more than the objective.

Of the amount collected $15,000 will be used to equip a cancer clinic, while the remainder will be divided among the Red Cross Society and the Victorian Order of Nurses.

CHAPTER 12.
THE STORM

In the tropics night takes immediate possession of day. Even as Anthony Fane spoke, the night sky about them shut had been a deep blue but a moment before, was obscured as though blotted out by an animal mass. There was a moment of hush, of waiting; then the whole world seemed falling in a jagged, roaring swirl of color and sharp-urgent as a scream, glorious and horrifying as judgment day.

Janie, standing tensely against the dipping rail, clung to his muscled surface, her fascinated gaze following the strong cords of lightning as it slashed through the black-ness above. And in that flash she had a moment of wishing that she might wipe out the past two weeks entirely; begin them over again without the nagging, corroding anxieties of Mildred and duty and a debt that she could never pay. Just for so many evenings she had watched hokum the bowl of the gnome-like pipe.

"Better sit back here farther, Janie," he said. "You don't know what these rains are when they come—you're going to get wet." Obediently she stepped back, started to answer, but the words trailed off in a weak flutter of words. It was the first time he had touched her—... the first time he had used her name. The first time, too, that she had seen him look at her as eyes. His glance sent a disconcerting flood of color over her face. She felt a most unaccustomed in the rhythm of her pulse, a disturbing pain, looking down from his, swept the entrance to the steerage-cabins beneath. Everything now like an impenetrable veil of blackness against the lighter gloom of the deck.

She said, more for the sake of saying something than anything else: "How ghastly hot it must be for those people down there tonight."

"Probably enough it isn't, at all," Anthony Fane replied. "This isn't a bad boat, really. I've traveled ships in my time that were hell and the hold smelled like a pigs of pet foxes."

Janie's eyes came back to him with a startled realization of his words, waiting for a better answer on the worn brown boots, the brown shabby trousers, the brown throat open at the collar, on the friendly gnome-faced bowl of the pipe cupped in his strong brown hand. Who was he?—what was he?—this stranger who had come into her existence so disturbingly from the even tenor of her days; who talked of Conrad and Stevenson and the silver Boat as other men talked of the weather.... I've who traveled steerage with the casual aplomb of habit? I've been over her there, little she really knew about him after all. She felt a wild series of panic, half fright, half shy elation. "I don't care—that's what I want to be—I don't care," she heard herself say, "I don't care at all what he is. This is the only time I've ever had any fun in my life, and all that sadness out there—" She laughed nervously into the face of a resounding crash of very near thunder that split the sky; her eyes glowing with a sudden, impatient movement she was again on her feet, hugging the big silk wrap closely about her.

The rain fell in torrents, driving straight down from above; the crackling, stabbing flashes of lightning chasing madly about in a world that for several seconds had been welded blackly together like nine-pins. Janie stood away from Fane, laughing at him over her shoulder; small chin lifted proudly, slightly, all of her small, straight body braced to the tilt of the ship's deck. All the lightning in the heavens were strangely mixed with the lightnings within herself....

"It makes me feel about as big as a pollu-dot," she said softly. "It's terrible—and terrifying—and—well, it makes you wonder what has happened to all those things you worried about yesterday! Mildred, for instance; I don't suppose there's a marriage in the world that hasn't some sort of problem involved in it."

"Frankly," Anthony Fane said, grinning slightly, "One party hold the hoop and the other jumping through. Your Mildred just happens to be a bloke that's it."

"Oh, what do you know about marriage?" Janie said, still with that childishly malicious spark in her blue eyes. Then she flushed and bit her lip in embarrassed amusement. What, she asked herself had made her say a thing like that? When if he were married.... But his quiet voice reassured her on this point almost at once.

"I don't know a thing about it, of course," he said. "I've never had time for matrimony; but I've read about it." He smiled again, his quizzical, detached smile. "Which makes me wonder, not for the first time," his voice deepened disturbingly, "why anyone as lovely as Miss Janie Madden should be—well—"

"An old maid!" Janie prompted recklessly. She was softly incandescent, ardent, restless; and it made her flippant. "Oh, being an old maid's not bad, you know," she finished airily. "It's like drowning; you don't mind it at all, after you quit struggling."

Instantly she wished the foolish, terrible words unsaid; so cool, so keen and level was the glance he bent on her, startled, smiling face. "I've got to stop this.... I must be mad...." she told herself wildly.

"You—an old maid!" Anthony Fane said in reply. His eyes flickered briefly over the fragile chiffon frock, over the slender-heeled slippers and the set of the small dark head on the proud white shoulders. For a moment the girl thought he was going to shake her by those shoulders. In a desperate endeavor to recover her lost poise, she hurried nervously on. "I'm ill," she said concisely, "and not at all likely to lose my head over romance and thrills."

"No?"

His eyes drew her closer to him, seeming learn by the rain-lashed darkness, even glad, drawing her on. He made her come to him..... and then, just before she could quite, with a choking cry, turn away, he caught her in one strong hand, and forced her head back, and took her lips in a kiss that seemed unutterably strange; roused in her many emotions she had never known existed, a mountainous wall of black water towering enraged upward to the ravaging deck; an icy upsung spatter or spray; and the world was split with thunder, forked tongues of burning flame. She was flung violently up against him, her cheek against her hair, trembling, incontinent, breathlessly spent. She gave a quick, startled gasp; the whole world swung back into place, and the voice of Anthony Fane said in matter-of-factly in her ear: "If I were your age, by child, I'd be in the cabin with the others, instead of this devilish rain before you can catch cold!" But the arm holding her brought her hands he had held one of them to his hard chest. She thought incredibly of his head set against the breeze as he lighted his pipe—then, "Janie, if you've something for me; something I've been waiting to ask you to do for some days?"

"Of course," Janie replied. She said it in a voice that was not hers, utterly unlike her own.

"Would you give me your hand, strong, swift, comforting, closed over her own, lying in her lap. Her fingers quivered beneath it, then lay still, and still. And Janie, the touch of those quiet brown fingers unsteadying her voice, said softly: "Of course, I'd love to have you do that. What time do we dock, do you know?"

PANAMA

Janie peered through her portable next morning at the stream of passengers going ashore. Directly beneath her Mildred stood—chic and perfect from the smart beige and gold sports dress to the last bronze buckle on her frivolous shoes. Close by her side as she drifted down the gang-way was the sinuous Don Felipe—fairly attentive, darkly watchful, his teeth gleaming in his swift, arresting smile. As though feeling eyes upon her, Mildred glanced nervously upward, her wave and parting smile faintly patronizing, insolent, cool.

She'd be cool and poised on the cryder of Vesuvius!" Janie thought, waving mechanically back. "It's only emotional hypnics like me who fall in and get burned." Feverishly the girl dashed cold water over her face, applying the fragrant powder delicately over her lips and nose, running a comb through the crisp, dark waves of her hair. With eyes alarmingly dark, she slipped deftly into the white crepe dress, crammed the small white hat over her curls and picked up a pair of soft ivory-white gloves and her small ivory-white bag.

A second boat-load of passengers was just going ashore, and Janie waited her turn to go down. Ahead of her, as she stood, did Mrs. Minn wring mechanically back. "It's only down the steep gang-way, into the bobbing throng. Behind her, crowding against the rail, stood an impatient laughing group: Little Mrs. Arnold and her much-married spouse, Linda Sutro, looking maddeningly cool in the flimsiest of mists and a black hat with a veil, a coquettishly drooping rose. Teddi-Carl, looking more sleep-eyed than usual, arm in arm with a nice brown-faced college boy. All of them had a expectant air, as though the day promised much. Perhaps, Janie thought, it did. And was suddenly vividly aware of the blue and white bay, the dancing waves, the wet little freighters, moving of the seas and coal-dust, and brine, and of the dancing shore.....

"Good-morning," Janie hesitated, staring in wonderment at the tall figure disentangling itself from the gloom of the sheds and stepped to her side. Startled at the graceful tweeds and the black-banded soft grey hat that changed Anthony Fane so curiously into a stranger she did not know. The resolute mouth, the compelling grey eyes, the arrogant, aquiline nose were the same, but his clothes—"Oh! I know what it is!" the girl said, with a nervous shred of laughter. "It's your boots! I've never seen you without your boots before. And the pipe—"

His laughed back at her. "Theas," he said gravely, "are my store clothes. Even in Havana we country boys never go to the city in our working clothes." Then replacing the grey hat on his brown head, he put a competent hand on her arm, leading her across the dock. "There's a cab here somewhere.... only you mustn't call them cabs in Panama. They're fotingues..... Here we are!"

Once again Peter Evert stood before the walls of Opar, and once again the courage of his black ancestors swelled before the menace of the weird cries within. The ten warriors, who had not been to behind them. Opar before, hailed trembling as the screams arose.

Miguel Romero once more led the invaders, and directly behind him was Wayne Gale. According to the plan the blacks were to have followed closely But the blacks would not enter the blood-curdling opening of the outer wall, so demoralized were they by the screams.

"In with you, you cowards!" cried Evert, menacing the blacks with his revolver, and forcing them into the opening. One of the warriors raised his rifle threateningly. "Put away your weapon, you white man," he said. "We will fight men, but not demons."

Evert lowered his pistol and commenced to plead with the warriors, promising them rewards that amounted to riches to them if they would accompany the white men into the city. But the volunteers were obdurate—nothing could induce them to venture into Opar.

OLYMPICS DOWN CLEVELAND 3-0

Carl Liscombe, Rookie, Scores Goal and Gives Assist

Detroit, Nov. 28.—(CP)—Two goals and an assist in four games, is it must be admitted, a fairly creditable record for a youngster just breaking into professional hockey.

When Detroit Olympics defeated Cleveland Falcons, 3-0, in an I.H.L. fixture here last night, Carl Liscombe, a rookie from Hamilton, Ont., played in the first game he assisted in the second and hooked his point-total to three, an average of almost one a game.

It is nothing new for Liscombe to garner points. He gathered in enough, while playing for Hamilton Tigers last year to earn the scoring honors of the senior O.H.A.

Olympics' victory was their third straight and it increased their margin over Windsor Bulldogs to two at the top of the western division. These border rivals meet for the third time this season at the Windsor Arena tonight.

Liscombe opened the scoring last night, when he batted in the rebound of Wildman's shot in the first half-way through the first period. [illegible] two players engineered the second goal when Wildman back handed Liscombe's pass-out into the net early in the second session. Ten minutes later Rurr Williams converted "Flip" Foster's perfect relay into the final score of the game.

Wildman, whose sale to New York Americans was announced prior to the game, gave a heads-up performance throughout while another stand-out was Johnny Gallagher. Kinnon, produced to shield for the Red Wings in the near future.

United States Having Trouble To Find Team

Detroit, Nov. 22.—(CP)—United States, like Canada, is having trouble with its Olympic Hockey team preparatory to Sierak players, selected to try out for the team, having been declared ineligible because of their connection with the suspended Michigan-Ontario League, according to George Graves, President of the Michigan A.A.U.

"These boys are all playing in an outlaw league and none of them is eligible," said Graves yesterday. "Their selection was a slip on the part of the Olympic Hockey Committee, which did not know the facts," he added.

The M.-O. circuit was suspended by the National A.A.U. Monday as a result of a quarrel over division of gate receipts and fee payments between league officials and Michigan amateur authorities.

Seven of the players are members of the Holzhaugh-Ford team while others belong to the Sherroles and Tool Shop squads. The Holzhaugh players are Wesley Lampea, Joe Hemlich, Rudolph Zuhlke, Keith Grossman, James Sandine, George Rockwell and Matt Wiltanen. Others are Reid Bobson, Ernest Klingsted, Laurel Davenport and Donald Hunt.

Even if the League is restored to good standing there is some doubt about the status of Crossman, Robson and Hunt. The latter is now officiating while Crossman and Robson are reputed to be Canadian born.

Candidates for the team will number around 60 and are scheduled to begin their final work-outs at New Haven, Conn., Dec. 7, in addition to competing in Olympic Winter games at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, next February, the team will tour Europe with games scheduled in London, Paris and Switzerland.

Rochester, N.Y., Nov. 22 (CP) —University of Rochester officials who accepted cheerfully the "de-emphasis on athletics" policy of the Institution's Part-time Faculty, Mr. Alan Valentine, have dropped a "de-emphasis" plan of their own, it was learned.

BRILLIANT WIN FOR FREE STATE

Jumps High And Long And Over a Hard Course

Toronto, Nov. 22.—(CP) —The Irish Free State army team advanced into the third day of the Royal Winter Fair Horse Show today with one brilliant victory firm in its grasp. Riding Gallowglass, Captain F. A. Ahern, last night won the International military broad jump.

The jumps were both high and long on a hard course. Gallowglass was called upon to jump off a tie with one mount each from the United States, Canadian, French and Dutch army teams.

Lieutenant-Colonel H. S. Tunnis of the Canadian Army team, riding Holiday, was second. Sanin Bell of the Dutch Army team, was third; and Yolani III of the French Army team was fourth. Fifth and sixth prizes were won by Avoca and Wampoon, respectively, both ridden by Captain C. G. Jadwin of the U.S. Army.

There were 54 entries in the class and jumps all were four feet six inches high. They were six feet across and more than a dozen horses had failed to clear when Gallowglass covered it without a fault. Eventually the other prize winners cleared and were called back to jump off the tie.

In the jump-off Gallowglass knock over a tricky double pole jump, but as Holiday and Wampoon were over two obstacles.

Second, third and fourth places were decided by time.

EXHIBITION TILT FOR WINNIPEGS

Play Assumption College of Windsor Before Eastern Finals

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 22.—(CP) —Eastern Canada Rugby fans will get their first glimpse of Winnipeg, Western Canada Senior champions, when they play Assumption College in an exhibition game here either Nov. 30 or Dec. 2.

Negotiations for the appearance of the rugged westerners in Windsor were completed last eve. between Vern De Geer, sports editor of the Windsor Daily Star, acting for Winnipegs, and Father W. P. Mc-Gee, Athletic director at Assumption.

Following conversations between these two, De Geer telephoned Winnipeg and got Syd Draper, secretary-treasurer of the Club, to confirm the arrangements.

Windsor Grads are scheduled to play Woodstock in a Junior O.R.F.U. playoff here Saturday, November 30, and it is just possible the exhibition game will be played as part of a double-header that day. Charlie O'Brien, manager of Grads, has expressed his willingness to this arrangement. Otherwise the match will take place Saturday, December second.

As Assumption College compete against only United States College the game will be played under American rules, the other half under Canadian. With half a dozen members of the Windsor Club former big ten conferences stars the Lancers will be equally at home under either regulations.

Winnipeg are expected to visit either Wednesday or Thursday of next week and will work out at the University of Detroit stadium in preparation for the game here. For the past two weeks most of their practices have been indoors because of wintry weather conditions.

Three Injured in Trenton as Auto Hits Switch Engine

MR. MRS. TRIPP SAMUEL SMILLIE HURT AT TRENTON

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

All Except Little Boy Sustain Serious Injuries

Trenton, Nov. 23 (Special)—An accident, which might have been more serious indeed than it resulted in loss of life, occurred at the C.N.R. crossing on Front Street in Trenton, shortly before six o'clock last evening, when a car driven by Mark Tripp, prominent citizen and merchant of that town, having as passengers, Mrs. Mark Tripp, her uncle, Samuel Smillie of West Toronto, and Paul Tripp, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Tripp, collided with a yard engine proceeding east on the C.N.R. line at the downtown station of the C.N.R. The car was struck with considerable force and was dragged the side of the tracks. A crowd soon gathered and the unfortunate occupants of the car were quickly removed from the automobile, which, it is further reported, is serious. It was necessary to take them to the Belleville hospital for treatment. Miss Dra. W. J. Johnston and Jack Parley were first upon the scene. They secured an ambulance from Cobley's and two from McMaster and Norbrey were secured by Constable Ellis and Constable. At the hospital, it was ascertained that Mark Tripp suffered from a fractured wrist, severe knee and head cuts and multiple bruises over the body; Mrs. Tripp a broken right arm below the shoulder with severe lacerations on the face and head, while Mr. Smillie had a leg broken and severe head cuts. Young Paul Tripp escaped from the accident without a scratch.

Mr. Smillie had been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Tripp and at the time of the accident, the boys were driving him to the north station of the C.N.R. in order that he might catch the night train to Toronto. How the accident occurred has not been ascertained but an investigation will be launched. Joseph LaSalle of Trenton was the magistrate in charge of the coroner. The hospital authorities stated today that all the injured were resting comfortably after their narrow escape and no serious complications were expected. Dr. George H. Stobie is in attendance.

PEOPLE CARELESS WITH CIGARETTES

London Hotel Find Women Worse Than Men in This Particular

Winnipeg, Nov. 23 (CP)—Miss Cora Hind writes to the Free Press from London of a conversation with a housekeeper in a hotel regarding damage done by smokers: "Thousands a year cannot cover the damage done by cigarettes. We do try our best to prevent fires and burns, but it seems no use. Lighted cigarette butts are laid down anywhere and everywhere but on the ash trays and we do try to have them everywhere."

"Look," she said, "at that window in front of you. See the hole in the yell-ow long brown stain, so deep in the good enamel paint it must have been done by a fire. Yes, even the bath tub was furnished with a cigarette rest and scorer, and large dressing glass and high standing mirror were furnished likewise.

"When the housekeeper passed the breath I asked 'Which do you find the worst, men or women?' 'Women,' was the reply. 'And I like to say so some of their homes. They seem to have forgotten the good breeding and recent hangings.' And that, on cigarette-smoking friends, is that."

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

E. W. Tranter, retired navy captain, fishing in the Gulf Stream, Sept. 15, snagged and beat his tuna boats overboard.

Yesterday Captain Tranter, skipper of the charter boat Sea Hawk, returned to port with several fishermen and large quantities of red cedar.

Captain Tranter turned them over to Mount Sinai police, with an affidavit stating the circumstances of their discovery.

Los Angeles, Nov. 23 (CP)—For nearly 25 years Miss Gertrude Hawk, 46, has been a patient at the General Hospital, but has never appeared in all disease to work in the contagious ward at the General Hospital. She never had been ill.

Two weeks ago she panicked her employers accidentally, then a safety pin. She died yesterday of blood poisoning.

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 23 (CP)—Women are better hotel keepers than men—and there are at least 2,000 of them in the United States, Fisher told a Hotel Greeters' Convention.

1. Women can bounce rowdies when men can't.

2. Women are better homemakers.

"No matter how drunk a man may get," said Miss Fisher, formerly President of the National Greeters' Auxiliary, "he won't fight a woman who is in charge."

Chicago, Nov. 23 (CP)—Two cases of bubonic plague, the dread one late at night the police said was spreading in the Chinese section, and her brother Joseph, 13, are now under a 7-day quarantine.

They were shot and critically wounded last night by Mrs. Sabina Wolf, 40, Chicago Widow, as following an argument over the girl's friendship for Wolfson, she turned on herself. Stella, 18, left home before the shooting.

Shanghai, China, Nov. 23 (CP) Soldiers guarding Chinese girls are being trained as tourist guides by the Shanghai Grading Service. The girls, stylishly dressed, are taught to recount graphically the many of them from well-to-do families. They work from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and get 70 cents Mex (25 cents Canadian) an hour conducting parties of tourists.

Winnipeg, Nov. 23 (CP)—Holding an 8-to-1 victory 39 times greater than the 5-to-1 victory a year ago, Mayor John Queen today was given his second term as chief magistrate of Winnipeg. His daughter, Mrs. Gisela Queen-Hargrave, was elected to the board of trustees. Mayor Queen's averaged 34h less opposition. Cecil H. Green, by a majority of 10,982.

FOUR MEN HELD ON SUSPICION

Arrest Follows Hold-up at T.T.C. Office, $500 Being Taken

Toronto, Nov. 23 (CP)—Police held four men today on charges of complicity in the holdup of the motor traffic branch office of the Toronto Transportation Commission last night, when two men, one armed with a revolver and the other with a navel-of knife, escaped with $500 which overlooked $1,777 in money and tickets.

The handful armed robbery have been laid against Albert Davis, 30, Frederick Morley, 23, both of 24 Fred Moore, 41, and Edward Le Bard, alias Johnston, 35, police say. Guns and ammunition were also seized, the officers said. They indicated the four men would be questioned regarding other recent holdups in the city.

The handful who made a fair raid on the Transportation Commission office hurriedly scooped $500 from the till as the staff stood with arms raised. They missed $3,000 in money and tickets in the safe as well as the $1,777 in another drawer of the till.

Crawley Wood Ran a Most Disappointing Race

Manchester, Nov. 23 (C.P. Cable)—R. Warner's Free Fare today won the Manchester November Handicap by five lengths from Lord Derby's Trapston. Lady Fluvanna's Jesmond Dene was third, a length and a half behind Trapston. Sammy Wragg rode Free Fare, a 22 to 1 chance.

Nineteen ran. Free Fare won about $7,500 for Mr. Warner.

Gordon Richards, champion jockey, declined Lord Derby's orders to try for a win by leading the whole way, took Chrysler II to the front from the start and soon had clear of Free Fare. Crawley Wood was the favorite at 7 to 2) and The Poni.

Chrysler II Once in Front

Entering the straight Chrysler II still led Bacchus, Ramatarod, Free State, Astyanax, Jesmond Dene and Trapston. Richards' decision to make a run-away looked like succeeding.

But furious and one-half from home, Chrysler II suddenly weakened and C. Smirke, Bacchus' jockey, sent Free Fare swept to the front in the saddle's fashion and Free Fare started to run good at the post. The time for the mile-and-one-half course was 2 minutes 33 1-5 seconds.

J. B. Walker's Bacchus was 4th. H. E. Cottrell's Crawley Wood, 12 Lane up, proved a great disappointment, never perfectly managed and finished 12 or the winner.

Trapston, who ran second, had been backed from 33 to 1, but the third horse, Jesmond Dene, was a 22 to 1 shot. After completing the race, officials placed Bacchus fourth, Carriff fifth, Ben Nevis sixth, Chrysler II seventh, Labor Member eighth, Astyanax ninth, Ramatarod tenth, Poni Boy 11th and R. B. Bennett last.

WESTERN PIONEER DIES IN IRELAND

O. A. Critchley Was Noted For His Strength 50 Years Ago

London, Nov. 23—(CP)—Known 50 years ago as the strongest man in Western Canada, O. A. Critchley, father of Brig.-General A. C. Critchley, died suddenly while visiting relatives in Ireland.

Born in Manchester 73 years ago, Mr. Critchley went to Canada when 19 years old on account of ill-health. He was a tireless shooting and fishing in the foothills of the Rockies and in the outdoor life developed a powerful constitution. He stood six feet, four inches and weighed 224 pounds.

Mr. Critchley was elected to the Alberta Legislature after one of the most remarkable political campaigns in the history of the province.

He began his campaign by driving a team of horses in the streets of Calgary. Asked for an explanation, he said he came to the city "to get some practice before the campaign."

He was elected by a majority of one vote.

Returning to England some years ago, Mr. Critchley was one of the pioneers of greyhound racing in this country. He was for a time managing director of the Greyhound Racing Association.

Trade With Russians Viewed as Possibility In Liberating Channels

Difficulties in Way of Mutual Trading Have Been Numerous

PROPAGANDA ISSUE

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—(CP)—Indications the government is considering a re-appraised policy to "free the channels of trade", may open negotiations with Russia with a view to resuming trading relations with that country, were seen today in the comment of Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce, that he believes "we should trade with every country". The minister was answering a question directed bearing upon the report the government was contemplating a resumption of trade relations.

Difficult Position

For some years the position of Canada and Russia has been difficult. The years ago this country broke off relations with the Soviets, following the Arcos house raid in London and publication of the famous Zinoviefr letter. Russia was charged with using its Canadian agencies as clearing houses of communist propaganda. This led to reflection in Canada and resulted in the Social Trade Communistes of Montreal, Joseph F. Guerra, returning to his own country.

Prior to that there were little interchanges of goods between the countries and in particular, Russia had bought some horses in Western Canada but the transactions were not on a large scale and details.

Matters continued somewhat unsettled for several years until a delegacy arose against the importation into Canada of Russian anthracite furs and timber. It was charged the natural products of the Soviet were the result of slave labor and Russia was employing political principles considered out of date by Canadian and other nations.

Under Problem

Added to this was the destruction of Canadian markets for lumber in the United Kingdom by the Russian practice of under-selling any price at which Canadian exporters might sell their products, principally lumber.

Early in 1931 Canada clamped down on all Russian imports of woodpulp, coal, lumber, timber, asbestos and manganese ore. Russia's reply was the cessation of purchases of wheat and Russia was employing political principles considered out of date by Canadian and other nations.

BULGARIA CABINET RESIGNS IN BODY

Former Finance Minister Called by King to Form New One

Sofia, Nov. 23 (CP)—The cabinet of Premier Andrei Tsolov resigned today and George Kiossevanov, former finance minister, was called upon by King Boris to form a new government.

Political tension in Bulgaria has not relaxed since exposure of the plot two months ago against the life of King Boris in which high army officers and former cabinet members were involved.

It is believed a cabinet of technical experts headed by Kiossevanov will be formed which will give special mission would be to organize and carry out parliamentary elections following the elaboration of a new electoral law.

Formation of the new government will probably be announced along with the official statement of the present cabinet's withdrawal.

NORWAY SOPRANO GENIUS IN ROLES

Kirsten Flagstad, Glamorous in Public Life, Simple Figure in Private Life

New York, Nov. 22—(CP)—Ruth Sedgwick, writing in the Herald Tribune, says: "Perhaps never before has the phenomenon of the overnight success been so completely and magnificently illustrated than it is in Kirsten Flagstad, who made her debut at the Metropolitan last winter, has been established as the most gifted Wagnerian soprano.

"As an artist she is a towering being—a genius in whom all the virtues as are all supreme artists. On the stage she can become a versatile and glamorous princess; a thundering goddess, beautiful, and terrible, inscrutably. She has superb musicianship, an effortless method, and tremendous power. She is completely unknown outside of Norway until a year ago. Then Lauritz Melchior, Flagstad has built up one of the important musical legends of the day.

"At the heart of that legend, there is a shy, quiet, dignified woman—in private life Mrs. Henry Johnson. Flagstad, Norway her sash-blonde hair parted in the middle, her candid gray eyes looking out like a child's. Entertainment and amusement as a world which absorbed by the glitter of society, perhaps for appearing once a year in the Baptist Church choir as soprano, 'is discontinue and become a private person, she adds. 'I have no choice. I am torn along.'

"A little bewildered at first by its glare of publicity, Flagstad is fast and soon became fond of New York. She finds entertainment by polly and admires the well-preserved old buildings. What she really likes to watch, however, are chauffeurs and policemen quarrelling and laughing with each other. No one can make her believe, though, that Americans accomplish more than Norwegians, for all the scurrying they do.

"She was greatly relieved to find when she got to New York that she would see the end of her mother. It been that the buildings were so high that one never has to face the sun on the sidewalk to catch a glimpse of blue sky through the overhead.

"Fru Flagstad, Kirsten's mother, is called 'the musical mama of Norway.' For two generations she has coached and trained the young singers of her land. A gifted pianist and orchestral conductor, too, she became a musician largely because her father was one. He was never put a husband with that ambition. Her father was at first as a violinist, told her. 'You had better prepare yourself to earn your own living, 'unfortunate child'. By the time the child was 13 she was a concert pianist, soon on the state appointment, and in that way she came to the Oslo Theatre, a state institution. There she met a young violinist who happened to be red hair, and they were married."

Attempt by Ethiopians to Cut Italian Line Frustrated

Addis Ababa, Nov. 23 (CP) — A great and decisive battle will shortly take place between the Ethiopian and Italian forces, Emperor Haile Selassie declared today.

"The battle now communiques," he said in an interview, "in no way correspond to reality but the Italian press correspondents continue to supply erroneous to comment upon them. An elementary knowledge of the political and military situation is enough to show their inaccuracy."

It was claimed London Ethiopia's two victories in the Makale region around the strategy of central Italy's northern armies off from their vital lines of communications to Eritrea was successful.

Attack Fails

Asmara, Eritrea, Nov. 23 (AP)—Ethiopian troops under Degiac Ohs-leman, one of the chief leaders under Degiac Ayelu Burru, Governor of Northern Ababa, were driven back today by Italian forces when they attempted to penetrate Italian-occupied territory.

The losses were not announced but authorities said they believed the Ethiopians suffered heavily because they were caught attempting a frontal crossing of the Takkase River where the Italians had lined up the heaviest concentration of machine guns.

Italian occupation of the Takkase sector, west of Makale, had driven the Ethiopians under Degiac Sburu into a frenzy because the Italian troops prevented them from reaching the river and obtaining water.

FERGUSON SILENT AS TO FUTURE

Rumour He Will Re-enter Politics

London, Nov. 23 (CP Cable)—"At present I cannot say anything about my future plans," declared Rev. Ferguson, former Canadian High Commissioner to London, yesterday today on rumors that he would soon re-enter the political arena.

"I am tired for a bit of a rest," he added, intimating that he would retire from active politics.

Mr. Ferguson has just relinquished his duties to Hon. Vincent Massey, newly-appointed High Commissioner, who arrived in London on November 13. Premier of Ontario for seven years, Mr. Ferguson left Toronto in 1930 to take the High Commissionership, which he held until he resigned in politics.

It is also been rumored that Mr. Ferguson would remain in England indefinitely, but he told the Canadian Press he would stay in London until Christmas only to complete unfinished business and take a rest.

DETECTIVE DIES BY HIS OWN HAND

Retirement And Lack of Action Blamed For Loss of Reason

New York, Nov. 23 (CP)—John J. "Big Jack" McCluskey, retired captain of detectives was known as a man who loved action. He had spent most of his life in the police department. He was 67, almost 6 feet tall and 240 pounds. He decided to retire January 1 by Police Commissioner Valentine.

"Big Jack" thought he would try a whirl at detective stories but he wasn't used to secretary work. He was used to living action, not writing it, Inspector Kenny said.

There, an hour later, his body was found. He had shot himself through the mouth. In a pocket was found a note to his wife. It read:

"Dear Win: I am losing my mind. Forgive me."

Royal Scarlet Degree
Put On At Frankford

The Degree Team of the Royal Scarlet Chapter moloved to Frankford on Wednesday and put on the degree. Five candidates were exalted to the highest degree in the Orange Association. At the completion of the work Most Worshipful Bro: Geen was requested to address the Companions on the foundation and teachings of the Order. Light refreshments were served at the close.

WARNING GIVEN
TO RADIO OWNERS

Radio listeners are warned by a notice of the Department of Marine appearing on page 7 of this issue that on and after November 30th, proceedings will be instituted against radio owners who have not paid their licence fee for the present year. Inspectors are making their rounds from postmasters in larger centres, radio inspectors, radio dealers, or from the department or others authorized to sell them.

PRESENT BIRTHDAY
CAKE TO BENCHER

Colonel W. N. Ponton, K.C., has returned from Toronto where he attended a meeting of the Law Society of Upper Canada at Osgoode Hall. Representatives of the County Law Libraries is proceeding under the Chief Librarian. Many cases of tragedy were brought before the Benchers, a reflex of the times from which we have been passing but from which, it is hoped, we are emerging. An interesting feature was the presentation of a birthday cake with 99 lighted candles for Dr. Walkem, K.C., of Toronto, on the attainment of his 93rd. birthday. He was born in Belleville in 1842 and is still hale and hearty. One barrister, who had been absent, was restored to the Roll of the Court.

MR. S. J. FISHER IS APPOINTED INSPECTOR

S. J. Fisher, who held his agency business in the city about a year ago to Haig Bros., after having been in the agency business for over 30 years, has been appointed inspector for the field now for the Canadian Portage La Prairie Mutual Insurance Company. Announcement of his appointment has been made by A. E. L. Wetmore, branch manager of the company in Toronto.

Mr. Fisher, a former member of the Council of the City, is also Dominion Casualty Insurance Agents' Association, well known throughout the Bay of Quinte district.

CURLING STONES ARE STORED AT CITY HALL

Salvaged from the old curling rink, now being torn down for removal to another site, between thirty and forty curling stones used by members of the old club in the city have been picked up by the local department of public works and are now stored in the basement of the City Hall, where owners may claim them by identifying and proving their property. The majority of the valuable stones are minus handles and the fact that they have served as playthings for children of that neighborhood during the past period, when the rink was not in operation.

CARBON COPY KEPT
OF LICENCES ISSUED

Through a new system adopted in the issuing of 1936 auto markers in which a carbon copy will be kept on file in the local office, city police will be given more assistance and a greater means of identifying automobiles by Mr. S. E. Vermilyea, registrar for this district. Each marker issued will be made in duplicate, after which one copy will be kept in the local office. Formerly police were force to depend on the local office for their information.

WORK OF REMOVING RINK PROCEEDING

The skeleton steel structure of the old curling rink on George Street is being rapidly exposed this week as workmen continue the task of taking down the building for its removal to the city hall on Church street. So far the work of dismantling the building has proceeded without incident. The heavy corrugated steel panelling of roof are being lowered with block and tackle to prevent buckling when removed. Steel girders set solidly in their concrete moorings will present the largest problem of dismantling, it was indicated.

UNITED VETERANS TO HONOR JELLICOE

Members of the United War Veterans' Association of the city will pay tribute to memory of the late Earl Jellicoe former Commander of Grand Fleet, Grand Fleet in the Great War by a church parade which will be held in St. Thomas' Church on Sunday morning. Veterans, who are expected to be accompanied by officers and non commissioned officers of the local Argyll Light Infantry to whom an invitation is extended, will line up at the Armouries at 10.30 a.m. wearing their medals and will march to the church from there. Special address will be given at the church by the

TURKEY PRICES WILL BE HIGHER

Larger Birds Sold From $3 to $3.50 On Local Market

What price the Christmas turkey this year?

Frankly butchers of the city or farmers who displayed samples of offerings of poultry on a largely attended market this morning do not know. One thing however is certain, it was stated by the majority—turkey this year will be higher in price than they have been for years past. On Saturday's market, only an odd bird was offered for sale. Turkeys however, was not brisk at the prices asked, from 22 to a smaller turkey to $3 and $3.50 per bird. Other fowl will be proportionately higher. Butchers of the city, who are being approached by owners of turkeys express their willingness to pay odd lots but as yet have no quotations on the block. Eggs and fresh pork is expected.

Butter at 28 cents per pound, or a low pound rol for 25 cents; eggs at 40 cents for No. 1 grade and 30 cents for No. 2 in shell. Potatoes in prices asked one week ago. Butter, however, is up about a quarter, several will be selling from 40 to 46 cents per pound before Christmas. Eggs are also expected to be dearer.

Due to an expected rise in prices later, potatoes were not being bought in quantities today by local housewives at from $1.25 to $1.35 per bag or 35 cents per peck. Staple vegetables showed little increase, with turnips, onions and the finer vegetables selling at 40 cents per peck; carrots, 25 cents per peck. Beets were retailing at 30 cents the peck.

Chickens, fat and plentiful, at the inside market were enjoying a fairly brisk sale, being quoted at from 75 cents to $1 and $1.25 each, according to size. Ducks were a little dearer, a few selling at $1.50 and up to $1.70.

Dissatisfaction marked due to the recent trade pact between this country and the United States led this week to considerable fluctuation in the price of live stock. Today beef cattle showed some price strength and live, were being quoted at 7 1-4 and 7 1-2 cents dressed. Calves were also bought at 15 cents, dressed.

Little change on the open market were slightly higher in price, selling at from $5 and in some cases $10 per pair.

Plentiful offerings of fish were also offered for sale. Perch were quoted at six and eight for 25 cents; pickerel, dressed, 15 cents and sold at 10 cents per pound. Due to their scarcity ,only a few lake trout were offered at 18 cents per pound.

ICE CHOPPED FROM WATERING TROUGHS

Farmers of the district chopped ice from the troughs in water stock on their farms this morning as temperatures descended to the 24 degree point of the season late last night, and in the city pedestrians walked carefully to avoid slippery ice ponds on walks and roads. Garages and service stations reported business of the district touchboard cars booming and service trucks were busy hauling the reluctant machines to their stations where engines could be thawed out. A few burst radiators were also reported.

Lowest point during the night and early morning as given by the local pumping station was 24 degrees above, although in the rural sections, it is believed, it was three meters dipped to a low 10 and 12.

Opera Star Gets Kick for Luck

New York, Nov. 22.—A kick from the foot of a newspaperman greeted Gertrude Wettergren, Swedish soprano, when she arrived here yesterday. The kick was administered at her command—the good luck, she said. "You must kick me," said the singer who will make her American debut with the Metropolitan Opera Company, "or else my whole trip will be ruined." The reporter hesitated, casting an apprehensive glance at her husband. "Kick me hard," said her, yes must," Wettergren said. The reporter obliged.

Splendid Talent Displayed by Amateurs in Contest Sponsored By Merchants Last Evening
Collegiate Auditorium Packed by Interested Audience on Opening Night
SNAPPY PROGRAM
Chas. Dolan as Master-of-Ceremonies Carried Proceedings Along in Fine Style

Last evening was decidedly "Community Night" at the Collegiate Auditorium as an audience that taxed the accommodation of the hall gathered for the first amateur contest in the city, sponsored by the retail merchants as part of the Community Campaign. Over forty entertainers entered the contest and several others were invited to be, with judges faced with a serious task in deciding the winners. Miss Inez Foster was awarded first prize for her rendition of a farmerette dance; second prize was won by William Bland and Charles Dracup as Amos 'n' Andy and the third prize was captured by "The Missouri Mountaineers, Thomas Stewart, Allan Evans, Don Grass and Walter Taylor. The third prize recipients were particularly brilliant in their winning a prize they earned the opportunity of having an audition with CFRB.

Complete with song, microphone and a master of ceremonies de luxe in the person of Chas. Dolan, the show was a pleasing one from start to finish, style, and in spite of the unusual number of entrants the 11.30 program was not unduly long. So popular was the idea of an amateur contest that thirty other acts wished to compete but it was impossible to include them last night.

Orchids to Chas. Dolan.

With Charles Dolan as Master of Ceremonies the audience was kept in high spirits between numbers, the genial comedian saying that Mr. Bowen had better look to his laurels. His interviews with the entertainers were gems of humor, especially the passage at arms with a bewildered farmer about how he wandered into the stage between numbers.

The contest was well conducted, Manager Bowen of the Community Campaign were allowed to arrange for two numbers over the program, and if the act they sponsored won, the audience was to determine the votes. The time limit was rigidly adhered to, Mr. W. J. Boyle acting as timekeeper, and contestants quickly were behind the scenes to assemble for appearance on the stage. The program was directed by E. T. Hart and R. B. Vincent, campaign managers. The stage ran like a well perfect setting for the event, with its background of rich red draperies.

The audience which had come without any particular knowledge about the program, remained to cheer the contestants as their talented performances successively took place. It was astonishing to think that so many of the young people were spending their spare time developing a particular talent. Music and dancing seemed to be the favorites, bobbles, and solos and group numbers less even in the ascendant. Some very promising musicians made their first public appearance last night at a tender age, and the occasion also marked the debut of older folks who have developed their talent to home performances.

Record Audience

The most original act was the boxing contest by the tiny Palmatier brothers, Jimmie and Bobbie, instructions added variety to the program. Solos, duets, trios, quartettes, group and semi classical selection were offered and the variety of talent shown was large. The gong was used only once and the quartet whom it silenced sought by that to indicate that they could "take it".

The decision of the judges, Miss Jessie Tuite, Miss Nellie Merry and Miss Leona Riggs, was popular with the audience and the announcement of the winners was made by Alderman Ellis. Mary Acting as Mayor. The prizes were seven dollars and a half, five dollars and two fifty in merchants cards. The Community Campaign contestants sponsoring the winning acts were Mrs. Ruby Baker, who received one million bonus votes; Mrs. Ellis Bowen, five hundred thousand, and Mrs. K. Cleaton, two hundred thousand. The members of the Missouri Mountaineers, who stood for the entire performance, agreed that the evening's entertainment was the most original and interesting they had witnessed in some time.

The program follows:

BUILDING ROUTES OVER SKY-TRAILS OF ALCOCK-BROWN

Daring Flight Recalled as Experts Discuss Regular Air Service

London, Nov. 23 (CP)—Plans for establishing regular air services between Britain and Atlantic seaboard of composite aircraft and a large type flying boat are in the experimental work immediately, recall the historic first flight of the late Sir Alcock 16 years ago by the daring and celebrated British pilots, Sir John Alcock and Lieut. Arthur Whitten Brown, who were knighted for their achievement.

(Representatives of the United Kingdom and Northern Ireland, the Irish Free States and Newfoundland met in London last week to discuss an inter-departments i committee on the imminent establishment of technical and international details of trans-Atlantic airmail and passenger services.)

It is recalled that the late Sir Alcock's experience in the year after his first air crossing there in a flight across the Atlantic with a bear. His companion, Lieut. Brown took 15 hours and 57 minutes, a time that has not been approached by any succeeding flight. The Atlantic, North and South, has been received and plans of adventures since.

The interval between the pioneer flight of June 14, 1919, and two flights which are now acclaimed the first non-stop flights across the main point of similarity between these flights and the present day British regimes are concerned in the fact.

Alcock and Brown set out from St. John's, Nfld., in their biplane fitted with two 350 horsepower engines. For more than 15 hours they flew through fog, storm and cloud and then landed in Ireland, the first men ever to make the flight across the Atlantic ocean non-stop. Many of the troubles at the end of unprecedented heroism. The airmen were enveloped in fog and thick cloud which them the dense tons of clouds. For long periods Alcock flew blind. The high speed indicator became choked up by the fog and the airmen sighted one time the plane got into a spin at 4,000 feet, but the tops of the clouds only about 50 feet above the sea. Alcock managed to right it before it hit the water.

Fortunately the engines did not falter, and by the time they sighted two lonely little islands off the coast of Ireland, they had found Clifden wireless station. The have accomplished the feat was sufficiently remarkable, but the manner in which they accomplished it was even more remarkable.

It was eight years before Lindbergh duplicated the feat of the British airmen and it was 12 years before the first flight for the west was beaten. Since those early flights aeronautical engineers have made marvelous progress. Ranges have been increased as well as pay loads. Navigation is of huge importance in mechanical trustworthiness. The modern airplane is a complex machine, having high security and perceptage applicability to the every day recipe of practical possibility.

The first picture is of two heroic pilots, masked and goggled, battling the fog, storm and cloud, unable with no other aid than a compass. The second picture shows navigators in cabin armchairs or large wireless directed flying boats crossing the Atlantic in fair weather and writing stiff letters to the company if the passage arrives 10 minutes late.

Windsor Council Asks Committee Abolished

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 23 (CP)—A startling resolution calling for the abolition of a letter will be despatched to the Ontario Government by the Windsor the finance committee of the Windsor City Council, it was decided at a lot of the Finance Committee at the end of this year.

When the resolution was discussed at a meeting of the finance committee of the city council it was first suggested a "monster" delegation descend on Toronto for the purpose, but the economical proposal of Ald. Garnet Edwards a letter be sent instead, was finally adopted.

"The whole council should go down to Toronto in a body and tell Acting-Premier Hepburn they are not satisfied with the Finance Committee," declared Ald. Angus MacMillan in support of the original proposal.

In the resolution the committee declares its belief money can be saved through removal of the committee. The committee which controls the finance of the city, has

POLICE BLOTTER

The event of the sudden drop in cents and last night it distributed the paramount cause for the falling off of transients seen in Belleville today. Some of these "knights of the road" presented themselves at the police station in search of a warm night's lodging last night, they being liberated early this morning.

Activities were at their lowest ebb in local police circles during the past 24 hours, no motor accidents or serious crime being reported at the early hour today. Local police were called to a Bleecker Ave. residence on Friday night where a family quarrel was in progress. Policeman Constable Fred Laird placed the matter and found that a son of the woman laying the complaint, had walked over a Bridge by scrubbed floor only to have his mother order him out. Peace was immediately upon being admonished the youth is alleged to have struck his mother. Charges are pending, the investigating officer reported.

Germany Mobilizes 1,000,000 Men
France Fortifies Border Points

By MARCUS J. ADAMS

PARIS, NOV. 23—Simultaneously with the announcement of the completion of the conscription of two new German "war years" between 1913 and 1916—comes the announcement here that France is rehabilitating her troops along the German and Belgian borders and examining the status of her modern fortresses she has lined along those boundaries.

In Paris the French move is made on the supposition that war is near.

In Berlin officialdom pleads that they are mystified by the "provocation" which was alleged by the police president. The conscription will raise Germany's standing army to 1,000,000, or greater than France's.

FAMOUS ROSENBERG PLAN

The two new moves bring to mind again the famous Rosenberg plan for the extension of the Germanic Empire throughout Europe—a plan toward which she is definitely heading. Rosenberg's map shows, in most of Russia, part of France, and a great slice out of Soviet Russia.

The re-militarization of Germany is today considered the greatest threat to world peace; her factories are turning out armaments as fast as their machines will permit; her navy is being re-built; her army already one of the most powerful in Europe.

Meanwhile, in France, with European tension fast rising to its breaking point over the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, France's eastern fortifications are being rushed to completion ahead of schedule.

The "impregnable line" running from the Belgian to the Swiss frontiers, the strongest fortification in modern times, will be manned and ready to repel all invaders by the early spring of next year, it is estimated in military circles here.

General Maurice Gamelin, vice-president of the council and generalissimo of the French armies, has just completed a thorough inspection of the French frontiers. And as a result new regiments both infantry and artillery, have been formed covering troops have been grouped in more strategic positions and far-reaching military defenses effected.

FRONTIER FORTIFIED

The entire frontier line has been divided into specially fortified sectors, each under the command of a lieut. Two more are known to tions. Around this fortress are grouped four fortified sectors. Longuyon Thionville, Fl'ange and Metz-Frontmont. Two more are known to have been created at Rohrbach and Bitche but these sectors with their deadly field of fire are naturally kept secret an officer pointed out.

Metz, former German stronghold, is now the key point of France's eastern defences. The circle daily traversed to the crumble of artillery and the tramp of "poilus" marching to or from their frontier stations.

Behind the Metz sector are grouped four other fortified sectors, Thionville, Fl'ange and Frontmont. Two more are known to have been created at Rohrbach and Bitche but these sectors with their deadly field of fire are naturally kept secret an officer pointed out.

Sleek New 1936 Models Presented by Chevrolet

Master And Standard Chevrolet Also Included as Favorites

HYDRAULIC BRAKES

Today's announcement of Master and Standard Chevrolet Sixes for 1936 brings two favorites into the motor car limelight with new body models, considerably redesigned in chassis and body design, more beautiful than ever and with new performance data on tap. These Chevrolet 1936 lines are being presented by the public at dealer showrooms locally and across Canada.

Both cars have stepped ahead of last year in design and features, but of the two the lower-priced Standard has made the greater advance, appearing in entirely new dress. Last year the Standard differed materially both in appearance and in construction from the Master; this year, the two lines are identical in most major features of styling, engineering and performance, the chief difference being a matter of wheelbase.

The Master, offered with its popular knee-action springing, has been re-styled in its more important appearance elements, notably by the adoption of a higher and narrower radiator and hood, with a distinctively original radiator grille.

Outstanding among the many new features of both Master and Standard models for 1936 are perfected hydraulic brakes, improved engines having higher compression ratio (6 to 1), balanced carburetion, full-length water jackets, and other changes resulting in better cooling and approved gasoline and oil economy.

Front doors of all models of both lines are now hinged at the front.

The entire steel Turret top, exclusive last year with the Master Models, has been adopted this year for the Standard line also. Spoke-type pressed steel wheels are also seen on all models.

Body interiors of Master models show marked advances in comfort and style. An important innovation is found in the design of the front seating arrangements of the Master coaches. Instead of the usual divided and hinged front seat of two-door models, a single seat cushion extends the full width of the car, permitting three passengers to ride comfortably. The seat-back is divided, the right side section being hinged to fold forward.

Standard Completely New

Chevrolet's Standard models for 1936, besides incorporating features that appear for the first time on the Master, do their place in the line as entirely new models, with a new box girder chassis frame, more powerful engine, longer wheelbase and larger bodies. The line of body types has been increase by the addition of five new models—the Regular and De Luxe Coach with built-in trunk, the Regular and De Luxe Coach with roomy trunk, and the Cabriolet.

The Standard model wheelbase, formerly 107 inches, is now 109, while its 6 over-all length, last year 179 1-2 inches, is 12 to 13 inches greater. Bodies are longer and wider, with more leg room, new seats and additional head-room. Car weight is increased 135 pounds. Springing has been improved by the use of longer front and shorter rear springs, which minimizes pitching.

Side rails and cross members of the new Standard frame are all of rigid box section, a type of construction that has appeared on costly European cars but never before in the low-price field in this country.

Horsepower of the Standard, formerly 74, has been increased to 81 at 3200 rpm, by changes in combustion chamber design, valve operation, and carburetion in combination with an increase in compression ratio from 5.6 to 1 to 6 to 1.

Clutch improvements include the use of a new "Anti-Grab" process of treating cushion springs of the disc, and a more accurate alignment of the release levers.

Fuel tank capacity, formerly 9 Imperial gallons, is now 12. A refitalized gumerator has been adopted.

Hydraulic Brakes on All Models

In changing to perfected hydraulic brakes on both chassis models, Chevrolet has adopted the principle of hydraulic brake actuation to its own design of brake mechanism within the brake drums. Instead of the cable operated floating cam formerly used at each wheel, a master hydraulic cylinder with double opposed pistons is used to actuate each pair of one-piece articulated brake shoes. The master cylinder, whose piston is moved by the brake pedal to transmit pressure by a column of fluid to each of the wheel cylinders, is mounted on the frame.

Engines of the Master and Standard models are identical in design and in horsepower and torque. Maximum horsepower is 79 at 3200 r.p.m. (an increase of 5 h.p. for the Standard), At 1000 r.p.m. horsepower is 30; at 2,000, it is 60. Maximum torque is obtained over an unusually wide range of engine speeds. 56 foot pounds being maintained all the way between 900 and 3000 r.p.m. Increase in compression ratio to 6 to 1 is credited with effecting a 6 per cent improvement in fuel economy.

Chevrolet's balanced carburetor is another innovation to promote fuel economy and easy starting. Air pressure in the float chamber is balance with that in the carburetor intake to effect a constant ratio of air to gasoline in the fuel mixture and to offset the choking effect that automatically comes as the air cleaner becomes clogged with dust.

Cooling System Improvements

Major improvements have been made in the Chevrolet cooling system to maintain lower engine temperatures and to attain important benefits in the control of engine oil temperatures and of cylinder block and valve push rod expansion. The latter change is the adoption of full-length water jackets. Formerly, only the upper part of the cylinders was water jacketed. In the new engines, the water jacketing extends far below the lowest point reached by the head of the piston, nearly to the lower edge of the piston skirt at the bottom of the stroke. The rings thus come in contact only with cylinder wall surface that is constantly cooled. Below the full depth of the cylinders is surrounded by water, the cylinders warm up evenly. A most valuable effect of the full length water jacketing is its automatic control of engine oil temperature.

LONSDALE

Lonsdale—The weather is much cooler, very nice for November.

The many friends of Mr. Wm Haight will be pleased to know from the last report his condition is favorable after undergoing his 3rd recent operation in Kingston General Hospital.

Although the weather was not very favorable on Thursday evening, there was a large crowd at the Crossroad Choir Concert.

Mr. Ray Kingsley expects to have a shooting match in the near future. We wish him success.

Mr. Clarence Martin, Enterprise, is spending a few days with his uncle, Mr. Wm. Martin.

Mr. Francis McCullough called on friends in this vicinity on Thursday morning.

Mrs. Moore, Trenton, visited her friend, Mrs. Wm. Martin, on Wednesday.

Mrs. M. O. McCullough is spending a few weeks with her nephew, Mr. Wm. Martin, Enterprise, Mrs. Martin and friends.

A number of friends in our district attended Mrs. Martin, were shocked to learn of her passing away in the Belleville hospital where she had gone for treatment. Deceased was born and lived in operation for goitre a year ago but had not fully recovered. Some month ago she contracted pneumonia and pleurisy and was taken to the hospital where she passed away only a few hours after entering. Deceased was Miss Mary Jane Bund, married to Mr. Charles Hurd, Shrigley, two sisters, Mrs. Jas. Jarvis and Mrs. Thomas Bussby, Aime Lake, two brothers, Messrs. Jas. and W. G. Burd. Marlbank. The funeral was held at Lime Lake Church. The Pastor Rev. W. D. Craig delivered many comforting words taken from the next in the 55th Psalm, 6th verse. "Oh, that I might have the wings of a dove and fly away and be at rest," chosen by herself. The many floral tributes have given further testimony to the esteem in which she was held. Burial took place in Lonsdale Hill cemetery beside the remains of her father and brother who predeceased her some years ago. Sympathy from this community is extended to the friends.

GILEAD

Gilead—The Ladies' Aid held a Birthday Tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Huffman on Thursday evening. A large number were present and enjoyed the programme and supper.

Ploughing is nearly completed in this neighborhood.

Miss Helen Hall, Latta, has returned home having spent a few days with Miss Gladys Yorke.

Mr. Arthur Balcanquel attended the MacDougall Show in Toronto last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis McCullough and family also Mrs. James McCullough, Enterprise, spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lemmon.

Miss Grace Balcanquel is spending a couple of weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacLaughlin, Trenworth.

Mrs. Belle Yorke of this line who has been spending some time with friends in Detroit, Ringgold, Fayetteboro, is somewhat improved after her recent illness.

Belleville-Corbyville Drive Favorite in Buggy Days

George Ruttan Tells of Outings of Young Blood in Sunday Best

A Belleville baker recently intimated that he might consider hiring an extra man to assist him in the art of distributing the daily batches of bread to his customers throughout the city. Business, it was reported, was distinctly on the upward, seven or eight applicants for the job turned up. They were all questioned closely.

"Can you hitch up and look after a horse?" the candidates were asked. One half dozen of the job seekers shook their heads guiltily. "I never did, either, but I can learn if I get a chance", brightly responded the seventh.

Here is a still wondering how many youths there are in the city to whom the harnessing of a horse is a mysterious and unknown performance.

Back in the seventies and the eighties the horse was more common, one of the veteran horse shoers and blacksmiths of the city, George Ruttan, will agree. Still at his forge daily, Mr. Ruttan, one of the few remaining smithies who learned his trade real and truly under the old system, of which present generation were still in swaddling clothes and has carried it on faithfully since, can recall other days when the well dressed ladies of the city were driven about in the open carriages used to convey the elderly dames taking the few remaining airings of the season. Mr. Ruttan drove many a "spanking" of a summer evening, and debated with his "friend" whether to sit out on the front "stoop" or go for a ride in his "rig." Her father was a man of "means". He considered the young man a "rake", if not indeed a downright "dude" and decided to take his daughter away to a more "select-ing place". It is curious, commented the subscriber, how words rise and fall. Some get kicked into the alley and some are invited into the parlor. The word "coon" for example is vulgar today but it was genteel enough when Chaucer used it. And when the soldiers of the Civil War skedaddled, they resurrected a word that was once dignified. This particular word has a habit of hiding for centuries and then coming out in new form. After it had served its purpose as "skedaddle" in the sixties, it vanished only to reappear a few years later as "scram" with the injunction "23 for you" added to it.

There was once a man who was too lazy to subscribe to a local paper so he sent his boy next door to borrow theirs. In his hurry, the boy tripped over a bee hive worth $30. He was not hurt and in less than ten minutes his face looked as if he had worn it over the. The man heard the boy scream and went to help him. He didn't notice the barbed wire fence until he fell against it and ruined a $5 pair of trousers. The old cow noticed the hole in the fence, got through it and killed herself eating corn the next field. His wife heard the shot and started to the door and she tripped over a pail which had four gallons of cream in it. All went into the cream, crept into the parlor and spoiled a $30 rug. When the woman went to the door she fainted and lost her set of false teeth worth $10. During all this hubbub the daughter ran away with the hired man and the dog chased it hens off the nests where they were setting. The cat got loose and chewed up a pair of trousers and a night dress on the line.

CANADIAN DELEGATE

Canada will be represented at the London naval conference on Dec. 12 by Commodore Percy W. Nelles, chief of the naval staff, department of national defence. He will be accompanied by Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner.

promptly took it into his head to run away, strewing the occupants along the road way, and upsetting the carriage around some handy tree by their third rush. Those days was added, even with all this, were the good old days.

And in this review of older days and older customs, a subscriber asks where also are the words of yesterday. What has become of the "dishpatch" young man who went "swarking" of a summer evening, and debated with his "friend" whether to sit out on the front "stoop" or go for a ride in his "rig." Her father was a man of "means". He considered the young man a "rake", if not indeed a downright "dude" and decided to take his daughter away to a more "select-ing place". # 1936 Master and Standard Chevrolets Replete with New Features

New Master and Standard Chevrolets for 1936 show marked advances in appearance and in engineering. Perfected hydraulic brakes, high-compression engines with full-length water jackets, and balanced carburetion are among the mechanical improvements. The solid steel Turret Top Fisher body is now used on the Standard as well as the Master De Luxe models. The illustrations show: Top right, the Master Six special sedan with built-in trunk. Top left, the front seat improvement in Master coaches, the seat being in one piece and the right half of the back being movable. Lower right, the simple arrangement of Chevrolet's perfected hydraulic brakes, all models. Lower left, a De Luxe Convertible and the Regular coupe of the Standard Series.

CIVIC ARENA

Monday brings into the municipal election arena candidates for the offices which carry responsibility of guiding the City Council, the Board of Education, the Hydro Commission, and appointments which will follow directly the result of next week's campaign.

Once again Belleville calls for the service of citizens to give themselves and their best and to exercise their wisdom as voters a week hence and, those who are elected in the capacity of legislators, to give wholehearted effort to their tasks.

There is no need to stress the responsibility which rests upon the council, and various civic bodies. Five years of lull have pointed out certain weaknesses to which all bodies are prone as in over-expenditures and undue expansion under the spell of prosperity. Five years have taught the importance of a great reserve force in the citizens' stability and in their material resources.

While the world is coming steadily out of the depression, various bodies must practice economy because these are still days of municipal, national, and world convalescence.

SPELL OF FINE WEATHER

Recent weather was given the final approval of all the people. Not even fuel dealers complained in the face of the delightful setting of the late autumn days.

Early prognostications were for a severe winter. Now the mild winter advocates seem to rule, and the public agrees gladly because it likes mild winters.

Indian watchers have of course long ago decided that these are not Indian summer days, that season having past with its October haze.

ENTERPRISE AND SERVICE

Newspapers are accustomed to face emergencies every hour of the day and live well up to their reputation, but the Stratford Beacon-Herald which faced the unexpected in a fire which put the plant out of commission temporarily heroically overcame the obstacle, and served the public at the usual time and place. While the blaze was still in progress at two o'clock in the morning a news photographer took pictures, had them finished at three thirty o'clock rushed them to London, where cuts were made, and brought them back to St. Thomas whither a portion of the Stratford Beacon-Herald staff had been transported to get out the paper and at nine thirty o'clock the amazing Beacon-Herald was out as usual with pictures and story of the fire before many citizens knew there had even been a serious blaze.

Self-interpreted service is also due to modern mechanism, but more to modern business organization and enterprise, and the sense of responsibility to the public.

LOOKING NOW TO EAST

The unity of the world today what with all the strife between component parts and threat which fearful nations claim lies underneath the uninterfered silence or strange utterances of public men was proven once again as a North Chinese state threatened to come into being. All was set for the proclamation of the new organism breaking away from Nanking, but the proclamation did not come.

It was naturally for the public to turn for the moment from East Africa to see what would take place in the Far East for there many believe momentous issues may arise and this seems to be one. Scarcely had the world heard of the plan and worried what would be done by other nations with the imminent threat of Japanese expansion into China when somehow the hand of the proclaimer was halted in mid-air as they planned to cut the gordian knot binding the four states to the Chinese National Government.

Was there talking place in the East in another form what was being fought out in Ethiopia, the people wondered.

But for the moment the public stress is eased, though it is certain that underneath goes on the incessant activity of diplomats.

The halting of the plan for the proclamation of the North China state on Wednesday satisfied the world that the nations were not only having regard to the Ethiopian affair but also affairs in a far different corner of the earth.

China with no real centralized authority which is effective, stands in an anomalous position in the world. Nibbling at this huge land is tempting but it is possible that the nibbler will be swallowed up by the quiet Chinese.

The change of scene of news centre was of public interest in view of concentration of interest on the European and African problems for the present months and years.

I truly enjoy no more of the world's good things than what I willingly distribute to the needy.—Seneca.

THE WOODS THAT BRING THE SUNSET NEAR

The wind from out the west is blowing.
The homeward-wandering cows are lowing;
Dark grow the pine-woods, dark and drear—
The woods that bring the sunset near.

When o'er wide seas the sun declines,
Far off its fading glory shines—
Far off, sublime and full of fear—
The pine-woods bring the sunset near.

The house that looks to east to west,
This, dear one, is our house of rest;
Yonder the stormy sea, and here
The woods that bring the sunset near.

—Richard W. Gilder.

DOWN WHERE THE HILL-BILLIES GROW, where the mountain creeks are lined with stills, row on row, the code of family morals is very strict. The gals of the household must be home before dark-ness covers the earth and gross darkness the people—and that law of the hilly-billy people has just received Front Page prominence by a murder trial which hinged on the right of a father to take the strap or the switch to a grown-up daughter. The daughter had engaged in an education and was teaching school. She despised hilly-billy notions and the unwritten law of the mountains, so she took to staying out late at night. Her father undertook to punish her. She resisted, took a stick and beat her father so severely that he died. She was found guilty of murder after an interesting trial and will have to serve twenty-five years imprisonment for her crime unless sooner pardoned—which seems to us a decision of law that the modern girl must not murder her parent because her opinions differ from Pappy's. It may also be a warning to Yankee women who persist in punctuating their husband's anatomy with bullets that taking the law in their own hands will prove rather expensive in future. Seems if the men folks were at last to get a break in Uncle Sam's domains where the female of the species has been more deadly than the male, and getting away with it.

J. P. MORGAN, ONE OF THE MONEY KINGS OF THE EARTH, views with apprehension the New Deals and all the other deals which he considers raw deals in that they have raised taxes to a staggering emipence. Says he if the taxes continue to increase in the United States all the large fortunes will be wiped out in a few years and inititative destroyed. Taxes were formerly considered as a necessary evil but folks are beginning to think better of her business management. Signs of civic, provincial and national affairs would result in a declining tax rate, in sharp contrast to the present condition of affairs which presents a constantly climbing tax rate. Seems to us that we used to hear of a city in Scotland where the public utilities, including tram lines, were so efficiently managed that the tax rate declined so rapidly as to suggest a possible vanishing act altogether in the natural course of events. Worth considering, eh, what?

JUST IN TIME FOR THE CHRISTMAS TRADE THE FAMOUS JONKER DIAMOND has been placed upon the market, the price being $1,500,000—a million and a half when you say it quick—Stand back now, don't rush, let the line form up on the right and have the right change ready if you wish to buy the Jonker for your lady friend. A poverty-stricken farmer in South Africa named Jacobus Jonker found this diamond and became rich overnight. It was found near where the famous Cullinan diamond, the largest cut stone in the world, was found. The Jonker is 726 carats, about the size of a hen's egg, and was found on January 1, 1934, a good way to start the New Year. The Jonker will be displayed in jewellry stores in Pittsburg Boston and other cities and if not sold intact will probably be cut into smaller diamonds.

First Choice

The doctor of a country village had two children who were acknowledged by the inhabitants as being the prettiest little girls in the district.

While the two children were out walking one day they happened to pass quite near two small boys; one lived in the village and the other was a visitor.

"I say," said the latter to his friend, "who are those little girls?"

"They are the doctor's children," replied the village boy. "He always keeps the best for himself."

CONTESTS LIKELY IN LARGE CENTRES
After Nomination, Many, However, Are Back in Office

(By The Canadian Press)

Without the formality of a vote, public officials in many villages, towns and townships of Southern Ontario today were back in office for another term, while in cities and larger towns free-for-all election contests were indicated.

Nominations yesterday in municipalities in all parts of the province returned four Mayors, several Reeves, Councillors and Public School Trustees unopposed for office by acclamation. The likelihood of similar "unanimous" elections would be disclosed when the usual batch of nominations are filed finally at the specified time tonight.

In a majority of municipalities nominations will be held during the later date, nearer to voting day, which is the first of the year.

Contests in Larger Centres

In Ruthenian centres, such as the township of Ashfield and West Wawanosh, the Reeve and full council were returned by acclamation.

The situation in larger centres promised wide open contests. Four were nominated for the Mayoralty of Ottawa, with Mayor P. J. Nolan himself asking re-election. Mayor Herbert Wilson of Hamilton who retiring to concentrate on his seat in the House of Commons, gained in the last general election in Hamilton West, had invitations to contested fight for his place.

Mayoralty campaigns also appeared imminent at Brockville, Cornwall, Kingston, Chatham, Brantford, Woodstock, St. Thomas, Owen Sound, and other cities.

"ALL, NOT VASSAL"

Members of this party are greatly responsible for the anti-British agitation. Right is Prime Minister Hoare of Britain. In a recent speech he declared that he for his party had the slightest pro-Italian sentiment. "We want to be Great Britain's ally but not its vassal," he said. He blamed British Foreign Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare for the critical situation in Egypt today.

REFUSES OFFER SCHOOL BOOKS
Toronto Education Board Does Not Favor Aid on School Books

Toronto, Nov. 23—(CP)—Following a private Board of Education meeting, Mayor Stewart Lyon announced the Board had decided to refuse the government offer of free two-thirds cost of school books for primary children from relief families.

Chairman Carrie said while the motion passed unanimously, several feeling was for maintaining the present policy under which the city provides free text books to all pupils in public schools and supplies those to needy families in separate ary schools.

"We take the stand that the city should not order the text books for Separate School pupils paid out of relief funds," said Mr. Carrie.

$50,000 MIDWAY AT FAIR CLOSED
Bingo, Crane Games, And Other Types Stopped by Attorney-General

Toronto, Nov. 23 (CP)—The Royal Winter Fair has still nearly a week to run but today there was one less midway attraction. The Beasley's $50,000 midway closed by police acting under Ontario Government instructions.

Following orders from Crown Attorney J. A. McFadden, instructed by Attorney General Roebuck, Toronto morality officers yesterday ordered the midway closed.

Beasley immediately conferred with his counsel, R. H. Greer of Toronto. Mr. Greer stated the Criminal Code to support his advice to Beasley to open the midway and "force an issue".

The operator, however, declared he had spent $50,000 worth of equipment which won't be landed into Toronto again and called it off to avoid it.

Closing of the show which included such games, "Bingo" and several other types came as a surprise. Attorney-General recently announced a war on slot machines but there was no intimation of shutting down games in fairs.

Earlier in the day, however, Hon. Duncan McNeil, Minister of Agriculture, said a ban would be placed on gaming devices at Ontario Fairs next year and failure to observe it would bring cancellation of the government grant.

SUSPICIOUS VIEW OF U.S. ACTION
Brings Country Close to Countries Subject to Reprisals

By George Jordan, Copyright 1935 by The Associated Press)

Rome Nov. 23—Fascist authorities expressed open suspicion over Secretary Ickes's call on the United States oil industry to halt shipments to Italy and Ethiopia, declaring this action brought the United States closer to the ranks of "sanctionist" countries subject to reprisals.

Fascism's leaders said the American oil administrator's request was a serious threat to their war-time oil supply.

They disclosed they were weighing the chances the Washington administration would have its way with the oil interests which until now, they asserted, were disposed to continue selling to Italy, an old friend and customer.

Should this barrier fall definitely, Fascists pointed out, they would be forced to seek elsewhere the fuel vital to their mechanized armies driving for conquest in Ethiopia.

Underground communications Italy leaves to oil supplies would be rendered uncertain. The principal source then would be controlled by companies of what would be considered by Italy as "sanctionists" to be dealt with under the "eye-for-an-eye" policy.

Says Paroled Man Ordered New Cars

Stratford, Ont., Nov. 23 (CP)—Six months in Burwash Reformatory was the sentence given by Magistrate Makins today to Clayton Franks, formerly of Preston, who a week ago pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to obtain an overcoat by false pretences. Crown Attorney Goodwin said Franks had gone around the city ordering new cars and many other articles with no intention of paying for them and he was now on parole from Burwash.

Alfred and Arthur Peabody of Wallaceburg were sentenced to two months' hard labor after pleading guilty to charges of chicken thefts in Wallace last Fall. Provincial Constable T. Oldfield of Palmerston told the court they will face similar charges in a Huron County Court at Goderich.

Ethiopian War Waged Here By Black, White Toy Soldiers

Belleville Toy Shops Supply Men and Armaments For Toy Warfare

MANY NEW TOYS

The portly business man leaned over the counter of a downtown store and with a twinkle of mischief in his eye, picked among some of the more interesting exhibits of the heaps of highly colored toys laid out for inspection by one of the larger stores.

"They didn't have such things when I was a boy," he sighed, absorbed in the workings of some mechanical device which, with a single winding of the spring leaped into instant and noisy action. "The kids nowadays have all the fun."

Santa may not have arrived in the district from the North Pole as yet, but his willing workers have preceded him and with a liberal hand have strewn local toy counters with the most amazing assortment of toys ever seen in any pre-Christmas period. Many varied types of workmanship, more ingenuity than ever before is being displayed in simply endless array. A brief stroll through any of the larger local stores now cramped in the first of the work preliminary to the hectic Christmas rush.

"Many of the toys this year are showing an educational trend. Science is to the fore with microscopes, sets, star gazers outfits and complete chemistry outfits selling fast. And one complete that the ordinary chemical tests and reactions are carried on by the upper classes in schools may be readily duplicated.

Toys that are pulled by string, toys that run on rails or are pedalled by the youthful owner's feet have some semblance. Even Mickey Mouse's gaze have been somewhat whittled down in order to reduce the wind resistance as he flies gaily from one trapeze to another, or whizzes noisily on a hand car around a circular length of track. This year the little boy or the father who likes to play with trains can get a real kick out of the latest model Twenieth Century Limited in shining aluminum and silver speeding at a bullet-like pace around and around its glistening track as long as the current is turned on and the little motor within keeps functioning. And if the is a wreck on the line, there are mechanical auxiliaries and regular wrecking cranes with which to clear the tracks for the next train coming along.

While machine shops, stamping mills or wood working plants can be fabricated from the complete sets of steel assembly parts, containing girders, beams and all the requisite construction parts. In many cases a small electric motor accompanies the set, to drive the machinery when once set up.

The Ethiopian influence has invaded other toy counters, lead soldiers, both white and black are lined up in solid ranks. Kinky headed dolls with ebony skin are ranged side by side with white colored nurses bearing the large Red Cross on their neatly starched uniforms. Guns and tanks and machine guns galore litter an adjoining bin which has by far the largest number of eager spectators of junior age. There are airplanes also with complete crews to manage the trailing machine which poke their wicked snouts from within the dark interiors and there are anti-aircraft guns to blast the invaders from imaginary skies and heavy artillery to shell the redoubts and imaginary trenches.

But the plaster dolls, as from time immemorial, the kind that wink and close their eyes and say "mama" are also dressed up in their ribbons and blonde hair and intriguing sports and formal wear clothing. A change to suit every whim of the youthful owner. There are wooly Wild West outfits and complete soldier uniforms with which Johnny can go to extended wars.

There are all sorts of old fashioned toys and books and games which go on in popularity year after year. "And they'll all sell well too," confidently predicts the manager of the store.

Second Time Objective In Flight Not Reached

New York, Nov. 22 (AP)—For a second time in two days, Lincoln Ellsworth was back at his base in the Antarctic region today after an unsuccessful attempt to fly across the Antarctic continent, he revealed by wireless to the New York Times and the North American Newspaper Alliance.

Ellsworth and his pilot, Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, of Winnipeg, made a previous unsuccessful attempt Wednesday. Yesterday's attempt was nearly halted when after a start from the Dundee Island base, they encountered a barrier of mountain peaks 11,000 feet high and were unable to fly over them because of low clouds.

MISSING 4 DAYS DENY BEING LOST

Two Elderly Prospectors Were Looking After Nickel Deposit

Sudbury, Ont., Nov. 22 (CP)—A little bearded by the long trek from Hope Pilot and Paul Mathieu, two elderly prospectors, reached here late and sound today after being reported missing from their camp in the Chief's Lake district for four days.

Walter Pilot, one of Pilot's sons, had just reached town to enlist the aid of snowshoes and dogs in the search for the missing men. He will inform the searchers of the two men's safety.

Pilot and Mathieu said they didn't know where they were for a short time but denied they were lost. They said they met a trapper and had stayed with him. They had other years before "mercy killings" were even debatable topics. Dr. Warriner said he ended the life of an injured man who, had he lived, was likely to be a helpless cripple. He performed this mercy killing 48 years ago, and my conscience has never troubled me. I would do the same thing again today under similar circumstances," he said.

MERCY KILLER

Dr. A. M. Warriner, 79, eminent physician who studied under Oliver Wendell Holmes at Harvard medical school is quoted as having "confessed" that he had killed for mercy many years ago, and to have expressed his willingness to do it again. Forty-eight years ago, many years before "mercy killings" were even debatable topics. Dr. Warriner said he ended the life of an injured man who, had he lived, was likely to be a helpless cripple. He performed this mercy killing 48 years ago, and my conscience has never troubled me. I would do the same thing again today under similar circumstances," he said.

APPOINTMENT TO CABINET MADE

Lord Londonderry Only Member of Old Cabinet Omitted

Secretary for the Colonies, J. H. Thomas, replacing Malcolm Macdonald.

W. S. Morrison was appointed to the junior position of Financial Secretary of the Treasury.

Mr. Duff Cooper, former Grenadier Guards officer, is the only newcomer to the Cabinet. He has been Financial Secretary to the Treasury since 1934.

Lord Londonderry is the only member of the old Cabinet to be omitted from the new one. He was Lord Privy Seal.

The Prime Minister will appear only once Parliament with virtually the same Cabinet personnel as the last.

Since Malcolm Macdonald remains in the Cabinet, although trading posts with Mr. Thomas, it is presumed he will obtain a seat—ont to succumb to stood to qui to ning in a by-election.

The younger girls assisting were, Misses Kathleen Montgomery, Edith Wallbridge, Isabel Peck and Kathleen Bedford. While the fancy work was in charge of Mrs. Hickey and Mrs. B. LeBarr, the table was the centre of attraction with its many pretty and attractive practical gifts for Christmas shoppers. The proceeds were very gratifying, $18.48.

Abolish Game Devices, Slot Machines at All Fairs

Toronto, Nov. 22 (CP)—Gaming devices and slot machines will be barred in future from all Ontario Agricultural Fairs under threat of government grant cancellation, Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture, said in a statement to the press at Royal Winter Fair headquarters today.

The ban will go into effect next year regardless of enabling terms in the Criminal Code, the Minister said. He further intimated he would ask the federal government to amend the Criminal Code so the devices would not be given the present privilege.

The ban will be effective on every Fair, from the biggest to the smallest, Hon. Marshall stated enabling legislation will be sought in an amendment to be brought before the House at the coming session of the Provincial Agricultural Societies Act.

The minister said he had watched the operation of one of the machines and was convinced the gambling devices were not in the best interests of agricultural exhibitions. He further said he had already been in touch with the Federal Minister of Agriculture on the question.

Mr. Charles A. Hulley who fractured his left wrist in a fall last week, is progressing favourably.

Tweed and District

Tweed—The annual fowl supper and concert were held on Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Actinolite United Church. A large number from Actinolite, Delphi and the surrounding district partook of the splendid supper served by the ladies of the church. The concert which followed was held in the auditorium of the school. Rev. Theo Smith, pastor, acted in the capacity of chairman and expressed his pleasure at being given the opportunity to welcome the largest crowd in several years.

Rev. Mr. Lowery of the United Church, Glenvale, gave a very fine and humorous address. Rev. M. O. Price, who also spoke, stated that the program of the evening and also the entertainment was to raise funds to clean and repair the interior of the church. Mr. Price spoke of the old church which had served the spiritual needs of the Actinolite people a great many years ago, at that time a large membership of the church was 380. A gallery was erected for the choir of the church and each Sunday a choir of sixty voices and a band of forty pieces provided the music for the services. At that time, stated Mr. Price, Actinolite was the largest place north of Belleville and between Perth and Marmora. There was but a "church" of Actinolite and its few people came to the latter place to worship on Saturday night. The present church replaces the former edifice which was burned many years ago, and is one of the most historic buildings in this part of Ontario.

Another item of the programme was the drawing for a quilt. The lucky ticket was drawn by Mr. Price, and was inscribed with the name of Mr. Frank Reid.

The other items of the program included quartette selections by Dr. and Mrs. M. O. Dales and Mr. and Mrs. Reid, and readings by Mrs. Connor, Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Lowery.

"In Old Kentucky"

Shows Will Rogers At His Finest in Comedy Sentiment Romance

A glorious romance under southern skies brings Will Rogers to the screen of the Bells Theatre today, where he is starred in "In Old Kentucky," Fox picturization of one of America's favorite drama.

Adapted to the screen by Sam Hellman and Gladys Lehman, "In Old Kentucky" thrills and delights with a drama of pounding hoofs and racing hearts in the romantic bluegrass country.

Set in the heart of the blue-grass country, the story revolves about horse-loving people, their feuds, romances and the thrills in their lives.

Steve, as a shrewd and philosophical horseman, is the intermediary between the two feuding families of Charles Sellon and Charles Richman.

Through a series of hilarious adventures, Rogers guides the sweethearts until the crashing, pounding finish climax brings a surprising ending that smooths the paths for the lovers.

Others who are active in the story of "In Old Kentucky" are Louise Henry, Alan Dinehart and Sidney Dale.

Cast as Rogers' faithful friend and hostler, Bill Robinson looses his nimble feet on a series of his incomparable tap dances as Fox newsreaders Rogers a few of his steps so that the homeland can hear the heart beat of the southern lady in, "In Old Kentucky," his last and greatest picture to be presented at the Bells today, Monday and Tuesday, matinee daily. Sunny all-star comedy, "Hurdy the Bride", and the Belle Latest World News.

Outstanding Romantic Drama.

The year's outstanding romantic drama, "The Love Parade," starring Fredric March, lovely Maria Oberon and Herbert Marshall, comes to the Bells next Wednesday for three days, matinee daily.

"The greatest picture in 1928 years" is the Broadway Melody of 1929" featuring the cast of Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby, Charles King, Jack Benny, Eleanor Powell, Robert Taylor and Una Merkel, is announced for exhibition at the Belle next Saturday, Nov. 30, for four days, matinee daily.

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Raven"

Karloff and Lugosi in Haunting Mystery Romance Opens Run of Victor Jory's Best

"The Raven," which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre, is a stirring, imaginative film, co-starring those two skill-chilling artists of Frankenstein and Dracula, Karloff and Bela Lugosi.

It required a lot of daring for Hollywood to tackle Poe and especially his "Raven," which remains the most sensitive thing he ever wrote. However, the screen adaptation by David Boehm deserves commendation.

The plot of the story is purely imaginative, of course, with the symbol of the raven supplying the motif of the narrative. A mad doctor Vollin, is suffering from a torture complex and sets out to destroy those who injure him. His prize victim is an escaped criminal who comes to him to have his face changed. The latter distorts the man's features and makes a slave of him, then he sets a gang of a beautiful girl and when her father tries to save her he is in turn caught in the delirious machinations of the mentally unbalanced doctor.

There are some excellent photographic effects in the film and the sets are unusually vivid and impressive. Readers of Poe will undoubtedly find many familiar details in "The Raven," which has been faithfully transcribed to the screen.

"Streamline Express"

The handsome Victor Jory, the matinee idol, plays the role of the "Man of Time Control" protector of fascinating Evelyn Venable portrays the role of the temperamental leading lady. Victor Jory after escaping from a prison camp, with the help of his pal Fuzzy Knight, finds she has gone to christen the "Streamline Express." When he reaches the station he tries to get aboard the crack flier, but he is forbidden. From there it's full steam round of laughter, funny situations and good, clean comedy. Vince Barnett has the leading comedy role in the film and he have you in spasms.

A good, wholesome entertainment for the whole family. Don't miss it. Shows at 2.30, 7.00. Last complete show at 8.30.

MOSES A. JAMES OLDEST EDITOR IN CANADA IS DEAD

Canadian Statesman, in Bowmanville, Edited by Him 57 Years

ACTIVE IN TOWN

Bowmanville, Nov. 23.—(Special)—Reputedly the oldest editor in the Dominion, Moses A. James, for 57 years editor of the Canadian Statesman, and for nearly half a century Bowmanville correspondent of The Globe, passed away at his home in Bowmanville, early on Friday morning.

Mr. James, who was in his eighty-seventh year, had been ill for some time. A former Mayor of the town, he was active in virtually every walk of community life, besides being considered outstanding as a writer and a business man in the newspaper profession.

Born in England

He was born in Bradworthy, Devonshire, Eng., on Jan. 14, 1846, and when 3 years of age came to Canada with his parents on a sailing vessel, the trip taking some nine weeks and three days. Up until the age of 20 Mr. James remained on the farm with his parents in Whitby and Darlington Townships. He then took up school teaching, and for ten years followed the highest salary paid a teacher in Durham County, $400 per year.

In 1876, without any previous experience, he purchased the plant and equipment of the Canadian Statesman which he operated successfully for more than half a century, absorbing during that time no less than three local newspapers.

He was an indefatigable worker in anything he undertook, and was active, in his younger days, in church and fraternal affairs. In 1902 and 1904 he served as Mayor of Bowmanville, while for many years he was a member of the Town Council and Secretary. He also served as Commissioner for the united counties of Northumberland and Durham.

In agricultural circles he was Secretary-Treasurer for many years of the West Durham Agricultural Society, Secretary of the Darlington Township Agricultural Society, President of the West Durham Farmers' Institute, and a director of Bowmanville Horticultural Society.

Active Church Worker

In church affairs he was closely associated with the Methodist and United Churches, being for many years Treasurer of Trinity Church, Bowmanville, a position now held by his son, Mr. W. James, prominent editor of the Statesman. He was also a member of the Official Board, the Quarterly Board, the Sunday School Board and numerous other church societies.

In fraternal circles he was a member of Wellington Lodge, A.F. & A.M., being the oldest Freemason in Bowmanville having joined nearly sixty years ago. He was also a past President of Wellington Lodge, Sons of England, Past District Deputy of the I.O.O.F., member of the Ancient Order of Foresters, the United Order of Workmen, Royal Arcanum and the Royal Templars. For thirty-five years he was Secretary of the West Durham Liberal Association, and was at one time mentioned as candidate for the Federal Parliament, but declined which he declined to accept.

For a number of years he directed editorial the Statesman, handing that business over in 1919 to his son, Norman S. James, and his son-in-law W. Jamot, the former passing away in 1928.

Travelled Widely

He was an active member of Bowmanville Lawn Bowling Club and one of the founders of the Canadian Club here. He was fond of travelling and crossed the Atlantic thirty-three times. He entered a great deal of time to the cause of temperance, of which he was an ardent advocate, and was also one of the most active members of early press associations.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. William A. Wood, and Mrs. James A. Phillips, both of New York City; two sons, Dr. M. A. James of Cleveland, Ohio, and George W. James, editor of the Statesman, Bowmanville; one sister, Mrs. George J. James, also survives. His wife, Mary Jane Bray, predeceased him in 1927, having celebrated their golden wedding three years previously. The funeral will be held from Trinity United Church on Sunday, with Rev. H. J. Armstrong conducting the service.

As Party Searches Prospectors Appear

Sudbury, Ont., Nov. 23 (CP)—With search parties out from the woods for them, two elderly prospectors walked into Sudbury today and denied they had been lost.

Philippe Piton and Paul Mathieu, the two veteran prospectors were reported missing Sunday from their camp in the Chief's Lake area. They were believed lost in the deeply wooded hills only a sandwich each.

Rolland Piton, son of one of the missing men, headed a search party and throughout yesterday trys through the country in search of the hope his father would hear. He returned home early this morning and learned the search yesterday.

THAT little person who usually wades into her food with such gusto . . . how upsetting to have her turn up her nose at her good dish!

For usually, there's trouble brewing when a child is listless and has no appetite. Something is wrong—and often that something is constipation.

The toll-tale signs

When you notice the tell-tale signs of constipation—loss of appetite, or fretfulness, moping or "touchiness"—give a laxative promptly. But—make sure it's a children's laxative.

Give Castoria! It is made especially for children—from babyhood to 12 years. It is a safe laxative for young systems. Contains no narcotics, no harsh purgatives. Will not cause nausea or painful griping, as laxatives which are too strong for a child may do.

Even "Rebels" take it happily

Babies think it's a treat. And even the fastidious rebels are won over and take it eagerly. For Castoria has a pleasant taste that children love.

Ask your druggist about Castoria next time baby's baby had his regular examination. Let him assure you that it is safe and effective, suitable for babies and growing children.

Keep the thrifty family-size bottle always ready in the medicine cabinet. Give Castoria for acid stomach, colic due to gas, diarrhea due to improper diet, the symptoms of a coming cold—and for constipation.

CASTORIA

from babyhood to 11 years

Little Benny's Note Book

I was late for supper again last nite, and I tried to wawk in the living room with a expression as if nothing unusual wasn't happening with it really was. But as usual it was being pritty usual for me to be late, and pop said, A stranger in the feast. We pop called it his own flesh and blud, I'd almost forgotten what he looked like after all this time, he said.

Being sourcastic, and I said, Well running from home for a week or more without being impolite to a old lady.

Pollitness is the finest flower of civilization, pop said. It prevents domestic friction and international blowout, and I said, Its pretty near among the first to encourage it in the boys in whose care I am. It is now an inadinctive virtue. At the same time it must be used with a grain of politeness to make you as late as all this, he said, and I said, I will guess, and pop kept on asking me such a lot of questions that I didn't get to eat much.

What kind of questions? pop said, and I said, Do you mean what was some of them?

That's a fairly accurate summary of my meeting, pop said, and I said, Well, we all do when we if I could see any green in her eyes that I think I'll close my eyes today, and she asked me who did I take her for, at the time and not where did I get so much nerve.

For Peet sake what old lady are you talking about? pop said, and I said, Mommy Simmins. I went in her store and asked her if she had any Peet, and she said, Is she doing ope all those questions, I said.

Yee gods, eat your supper, pop said.

Which I marted to, ma saying, Such a boy.

Meenior me.

Stirling and District

Stirling—Many branches of the Canadian Red Cross were present at the big rally held on Thursday afternoon and evening in the Orange Hall, Stirling. Many members from all parts of Eastern Ontario gathered at the C.P.R. station for the reception committee to welcome Sir Herbert Holt, honorary president of the organization who attended both the evening and afternoon session as the guest speaker. From the station the long line of cars headed for the lodge hall room where the reception was given in honor of the distinguished guest. Reeves, deputy reeves and civic and religious bodies of the city were present along with many well known officers. Among those present were Mrs. Sir Herbert Holt, Colonel Cannon, Colonel Macdonnell, K.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O. after whom the Belleville branch of the Red Cross is named, Lt.-Colonel Manard, Mayor J. C. Reynolds of Kingston; Col. Sutherland, Col. Redmond, Chief of Police; Lieut. Coleman, L. H. A. R. Corps; Rev. Canon Church; Rev. Maj. Kidd, Chaplain of the 21st Batt.; Joseph Hall, Lieut. Col. I. R. Waddell.

Mayor Reynolds, Colonel Cannon, Ross delivered a special address to the delegates of the visiting organization in the interest of the Canadian Legion. In the evening a city dinner was served in one of the mixed audience including members of the Legion and also the ladies of the Legion were present. At this meeting which was held in the famous Memorial Hall of Kingston which is one of the finest of its kind in the world. Col. Sutherland presided and stated as chairman and the entire gathering on request of General Ross remained standing in memoriam of silent tribute to the honor of fallen soldiers.

Both of these fine instruments may be available to help the new organization.

Annual Chicken Supper of St. James' Church

The annual chicken dinner and bazaar of St. James' Church was held in the Community Hall on Wednesday and Thursday evenings of this week. The reputation created by the efforts of the ladies of the congregation in the past is one that creates a great deal of interest in any function which they undertake. The hall was handsomely and tastefully arranged for the event with the tables accommodating about a dozen guests. Those in charge of the tables worked in a systematic way which avoided any confusion or delay and the large number of guests present were much delighted with the abundance and quality of dishes placed before them. The ball was very artistically decorated for the occasion which was one of the community's most interesting social functions. Directly after dinner many fancy selling games of chance offered to the public as a medium of entertainment were well patronized. Many useful and expensive prizes were won by Miss E. Delaney who directed the activities at the candy booth which was popular through out the evening. A booth offering a display of fancy needlework was under the supervision of Mrs. James Legrow. The list of lucky ticket winners and the articles they won were as follows—Miss E. Conger, Belleville, Walnut Library table; Billy McGee, Stirling, two decorative vases; Blakiston; Vincent Corbett, Trenton, carving set; Mrs. Thos. McAvoy, Ivanhoe, end table; Mrs. Ed. Conger, Stirling, Canadian Club Ale; Mrs. Ed. Conger, Stirling, large gold piece; Orland Moore, Trenton, electric heater.

Thanks are extended to all those who assisted in and a generous collection taken.

Thanks were made to have a Social evening at the home of Mrs. Geo. Middleton on Friday next. A hymn was sung and the meeting closed with prayer by the president.

The Eggleton Young People's Union met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Chambers on Monday night of this week.

The president, Miss D. Maddullen presided over the business part (11). after which Rev. Turner led in prayer. The scripture lesson was read by Leonard Waterfall. Solos by Marjorie Maddullen, Readings by Lenora Shapley and Mona Wright. Duet by Mrs. Chambers and Mrs. Wright, Reading by Mrs. M. Wilson and Marian Maddullen. Instrumental by Mrs. Wilson. Mrs. O. Stapley was appointed editor for the ensuing year. Mrs. Mrs. P. Pichett was appointed to make plans for lunch at next meeting. The remainder of the evening was spent in games.

PRESCOTT WINS BY A SHUTOUT OVER BELLEVILLE

Score is 3-0 But Count Should Have Been Close

LOCALS WILL CLIMB

Eddie Thomas Has Smart Team Which Will Improve

Missing many opportunities to cash in on plays, Belleville army in the Kingston Hockey League, on Friday evening went down to defeat in the Harry Arena, Prescott being winners by the shutout route. The score was 3-0 with all the markers coming in the middle frame but for once the score does not represent the play, as Belleville had far more chances to flash the red light but seemed to lack the discouraging when in a scoring position.

The local team under the management of Eddie Thomas has the makings of a real squad and will no doubt earn a playoff position in the loop but their work last evening certainly showed up the lack of practice. The plays for the most part were slow clicking, the forwards were bunching at times and the defence was not steady in the pinches but all these faults will be straightened worked out as the team shows possibilities. The game was a rather spectacle was not interesting by reason the line combinations did not play much system, it being a case of follow the rubber and check. The winners found a fast team, but seem to have power but there were times when they were quite ragged and Belleville could not come out of the slump.

In the first period there was no score but Belleville missed many chances and forwards in the second frame connected for three markers, their total for the night, but for the goals they were lucky a bounding puck beating Morton, while the third was clearly earned. Prescott opened the scoring at the eight minute mark, Fielding getting the called four minutes later and the same player got his second, but he netted the rubber. In the last frame Ethier, Berlinge, "Pete" Morgan missed but not in succession and just before time was called, Morgan had the goalie beaten but hesitated his shot. S. Cook in the Prescott net was the individual star of the pastime, his blocking at times being uncanny, while at other times he was just "right there."

Harry Morgan was used sparingly after he had injured his wrist in the first frame and this disrupted the various lines used by the Coach. Sergeant Major Ethier played on the defence while Berlinge, St. Louis, Fowler "Pete" Morgan were the best up front. The game was clean with seven penalties being handed out of which the home team received three. The line-up:

Belleville: Morton, defence; Morgan and Yorke; centre, Berlinge, wings, Ethier and St. Louis; subs, Harry Morgan, Ethier Powers and McGuire.

Referees—Waits and Smith.

U. S. FOOTBALL

New York, Nov. 23.— (AP)— Football machines of United States rolled out today for the climax of the regular season, destined to narrow the race for mythical honors.

A feeling of expectancy was in the air as the undefeated and Untied Golden Bears of California locked with Stanford.

In the East, Princeton and Dartmouth, both with spotless records, clashed to settle the championship of the Eastern "Ivy" League before a crowd expected to exceed 60,000, largest in the history of the Tiger Stadium. Harvard and Yale were scheduled to resume their old rivalry with Yale a distinct favorite.

Notre Dame, defeated by Northwestern and tied by army, was a favorite to defeat a coming Southern California team. Ohio State, which Notre Dame knocked from a dream of a United States title, lined up with Michigan.

Pick O.R.F.U. All-Star Team From Beaches and Imperials

Hamilton Tigers Score 8-1 Win Over Varsity

By ELMER DULMAGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, Nov. 22.—(CP)—All-stars of the Ontario Rugby Football Union will be on parade here to day when Sarnia Imperials and Balmy Beach clash in the second and final game of their playoff series. The third annual O.R.F.U. all-star team, announced by the Canadian Press, was selected entirely from the Imperials and Beaches.

Hamilton's badly beaten Cubs, third entry in the Ontario circuit who scored only one point in four scheduled games, failed to develop a player of all-star ranking. Sports writers and coaches selected the team as follows:

O.R.F.U. all-star:
Flying, wing—Gordon Paterson, Sarnia.
Half—Hugh Stirling, Sarnia.
Half—Rocky Parsons, Sarnia.
Half—Ormond Beach, Sarnia.
Quar.—Ab Box, Balmy Beach.
Snap—Bruce Spears, Sarnia.
Inside—Bob Reid, Balmy Beach.
Inside—Pat Butler, Sarnia.
Middle—Ernie Hempey, Balmy Beach.
Middle—Stan Reers, Sarnia.

Smallest of the senior gridiron groups, the O.R.F.U. shows in its array of all-star talent tremendous attacking strength behind the line, extraordinary defensive strength in all parts and a wingline that threatens to topple over backfield combinations to the forward wall.

But the backfield is Sarnia's own. Perfect cricket here and it is the country's greatest all-round rugby division, topping even those of Toronto, University of Toronto, Hamilton Tigers and Ottawa Rough-riders in the variety of attack it can develop and the steadiness of its defence.

Sitting Real Pretty

Paterson, Stirling, Hirting and Beach, all big fellows except Parsons, are remarkable performers because each is definitely a two-way offensive star. They are the backbone of the Imperials. Add to that list leagues or playoff fixture to have been Stirling is one of the best punters in football in addition to being a fine place plunger, forward passer, pass receiver and secondary defence player. The Sarnia Beach boy who stands alone on the Canadian gridiron as the Imperials' defensive man, was named specifically for that post on the all-star lineup.

Flying wing, Paterson for the Imperials, the 230-pound Beach from Ottawa, has established himself as one of the great performers of this decade. He has been a Dominion champions, a ballstrip-star of a plunger and a terror of opposing backfields. Then he is a stand-out close to the top among forward passers, pass receivers, defence players, scoring captain and the sturdy little wing who, in the same here three years ago from Universities, was elected to the all-stars for the first time. Paterson is a fine passer and ball-carriers in addition to packing the deadliest tackle.

Beach and Stirling were given a unanimous call by the selectors and only one other player in the team's ranks came on the ballot. Paterson won the flying wing berth, by a close margin from Armour Munro, kicking halfback on the Sarnia team.

Box at Quarter Back

Ab Box, former Argonaut captain who won't be playing for Beaches in the final game today was named quarterback of the all-stars by a wide margin over Sarnia's Archie McWalters of Sarnia. This was McWalters' first senior season and the high school boy was a revelation from the start. Box's presence made the Beach attack click when he was injured.

Bruce Spears of the Imperials went to snap, although he seldom plays there. Selectors seemed agreed that Captain Bob Reid of Beaches and Pat Butler of Imperials were the best inside wings in the union, so they moved Spears over to centre, deciding by the merest margin over Tubby Bell of Balmy Beach.

Middles went to Ernie Hempey, Beach strongman who is regarded as the best middle in the circuit and Cliff (Pal) Parsons already Sarnia performer, Syd Reynolds* and Stan Reeve were decisive winners of the outside berths.

Jack Sharkey Successful in Comeback Bout

Boston, Nov. 32.—(AP)— Jack Sharkey was safely past the first milepost in his campaign to regain the heavyweight title today, victor in a strange contest which he won by two knockouts.

In his first appearance in Boston in seven years Sharkey at 198 pounds, bowled over Eddie (Unknown) Winston, 187, Hartford negro, for the count of 0 after 1 minutes and 10 seconds of ballin the heavyweight division at Boston Garden last night.

A minute and 10 seconds of the first round had gone when the cautious Winston was felled by two uppercuts. Referee Johnny Martin counted Winston out and then, supported by one of the judges, accused the negro of not trying and declared the fray no contest.

The crowd—and there was a garden hold has attracted in years—roared its disapproval. Winston's manager, Jack Magner, appealed to members of the State Boxing Commission to allow Winston to fight. Finally, commissioner Daniel J. Kelly consented.

The negro was more aggressive as the second fray began but after two or three light jabs to Sharkey's head his courage. Two or three more light jabs to the head and the Hartford lad's work was done for the night.

Sharkey dropped Winston twice in the second round, the first time near the count of nine and the second time at the two-minute mark, for the 10-count.

TECUMSEHS HAVE REAL KID LINE

Materially Assist in Keeping London Undefeated Team

(By the Canadian Press)

Big-League Scouts turned their eyes to the junior international "Kid" line today as they checked over the London Tecumsehs record of five straight wins in the International Hockey League and decided the prospects were the chief reason for the sport that carried the Ten Oaks to top of the Eastern section.

The fascinating trio of Walter Bremeneun, Joffre Daniels and Bobby Bell, freshmen from amateur ranks, delivered in the pinch last night to lead London along to a 5-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Shamrocks at Pittsburgh.

The line-up is one of the maniest and in each case, all three climbed aboard to grab goals in the scoring list.

At the same time on Windsor ice the Detroit Olympics continued undefeated as they toppled the Windsor Bulldogs 7-1. The victory, fourth straight for the Olympics, gave them a four point lead over Syracuse in the International standings.

The win was achieved only after a jump off with the French Army team who won 3-2 after the two teams for first place.

Barely inconspicuous in the U.S. team's win was the smart performance of Gallowglass, ridden by Capt. F. A. Aherin of the Irish Free State Army team, who were victorious in the open jumping scoring at stake, in which military mounts also competed. Gallowglass jumped off twice to win, once with Capt. Aherin and once with Lieut. Col. Elsworth Bibby.

The U.S. team and the French team, the latter composed of Colonel Hit, Lieute and Chubilun, ridden by Captain Pierre Clave, Captain A. Jousseaume and Captain R. Nobili, in the three jumpers show abroad, were tied at two faults each.

They came back for a jump off and the U.S. team on. The winners showed two and a half faults over the French team showed six.

The Royal Dutch Army team was third and the Chilean team was fourth. Fourteen teams entered the event, including Canadian and Irish Free State Army teams.

MAROONS PLAY TORONTO LEAFS

Stanley Cup Winners Will Have a Busy Week-end

(By the Canadian Press)

The Stanley Cup finalists of last spring will undergo a double test over the week-end, but their most important they will renew National Hockey League hostilities. The Maple Leafs and Montreal Maroons come together tonight in Toronto, with the Leafs intent upon flattening the Redmen, who trounced them three straight in the 1935 Stanley Cup series.

Neither has a clean record at the moment, Maroons having dropped a 3-1 decision to Canadiens Thursday night while Leafs were accepting a 4-3 beating from Chicago Black Hawks. More than 13,000 are expected to watch the struggle.

Sunday night, Maroons will engage the unbeaten Black Hawks at Chicago, while the Leafs play the Red Wings in Detroit. In each case the Canadian clubs will be underdog, if for no other reason than the three players they have lost in two nights.

Philadelphia Quakers over the week-ing of his Leafs, Conny Smythe nevertheless called Chicago the strongest team in the League after Black Hawks had won Thursday night's game. He was impressed by the speed and checking of Clem Loughlin's men.

Buoyed up by an overtime victory over Detroit, New York Americans tackle the fleet Canadiens at Montreal tonight. The other Sunday night contest brings together Boston and New York Rangers at Boston.

U.S. ARMY TEAM SCORES TWO WINS

Three Abreast Over Difficult Jumping Course Won After Jump-off

Toronto, Nov. 23 (CP)—With two victories in international events to its credit, the United States Army team prepared today to ride on to further triumphs at the fourth night of the Royal Winter Fair Horse Show.

The U.S. Army trio, Amanda Wigmun and Blackie, ridden by Captain C. C. Judson, Major W. R. Bradford and Captain R. F. Thomas, the Canadian Army team competition in which mounts were taken three abreast over a difficult jumping course.

The win was achieved only after a jump off with the French Army team who won 3-2 after the two teams for first place.

Barely inconspicuous in the U.S. team's win was the smart performance of Gallowglass, ridden by Capt. F. A. Aherin of the Irish Free State Army team, who were victorious in the open jumping scoring at stake, in which military mounts also competed. Gallowglass jumped off twice to win, once with Capt. # A. A. U. Delegates Go Forth To Stamp Out of All Amateurism

Convention at Halifax Concludes After 3 Day's Session

STRICTER RULES

All Officers Re-elected With W. A. Fry as President

(By Arthur Markel)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, Nov. 23.—(CP)—Delegates went forth today from the Dominion Amateur Athletic Union's Maritime Athletic Union of Canada determined "to stamp professionalism out of amateurism."

In what President W. A. Fry, re-elected last night to his second term of office, considered the most important legislation in 60 years, the Union threw out all proposals designed to allow any intermingling of professionals with amateurs.

Rules of amateurism are so radical as to seriously affect the vital amateur principles for which the Union has stood for 60 years, he stated in his presidential address.

A more exacting system of control over sports from which gate receipts are received was enacted by the convention.

Denouncing the evils of "deceit, dishonesty and hypocrisy," the Union will demand from its 11 branches and Allied Sports' governing bodies "audited financial statements and careful investigation" of the promotion and backing of all teams playing before a paid attendance.

Must Pay

Drastic action to secure moneys owing the Union was taken at the closing session last night when the Eastern Ontario, Thunder Bay and British Columbia branches were ordered to pay up back dues and arrears within three months or be suspended by the parent body.

In the opinion of delegates, the dues and arrears of the Eastern Ontario Branch Executive to reign unless Union backed up their suspension of all Athletes who played with or against Ottawa Roughriders of the Interprovincial Rugby Union this fall from gruelling amateur competition.

Officers Re-elected

Hamelin was not in the path of American Football Players entering Canada to play amateur Rugby and falsely secure amateur cards. The move was precipitated by charges that Hamelin's team with Ottawa Roughriders under an assumed name.

The American Ruby players applying for amateur registration in Canada, however, have made "statutory declarations of their Athletic status" and no difficulty will not be issued until a month after application is made.

Before the meeting closed last night, a day ahead of schedule, W. A. Fry, Dartmouth, N.S., was re-elected President, John Leslie, Edmonton, Alta. Secretary and C. H. Robinson, Winnipeg, treasurer. The re-elections were all unanimous.

FRANKIE CLIK BOUNCES BACK IN FIGHT PICTURE

New York, Nov. 23. — (AP) — Frankie Klick, San Francisco veteran, bounced back into the middle of the lightweight picture today by virtue of a decision victory over youthful Al Roth of New York.

Klick, old as fighters go, had few admirers among the Madison Square Garden last night until he called on the ring craft he had perfected through the years. He then set out to give Roth a boxing lesson.

Weighing 133 1-4, Klick won the unanimous decision in 10 rounds before 8,500 persons who paid approximately $15,000 to see the fray. Roth weighed 134 1-2.

Expect Tigers And Imperials To be Winners

When today's football games have been played on the field, leaving only the fireside grandstanders to decide whether Queen's should beat Varsity, Hamilton Tigers should beat Beach should top Sarnia Imperials, it is widely expected that the Tigers and Imperials will be ready for the eastern final.

Tigers, Big Four champions, are favored over Queen's for two reasons: (1) Huck Welch is in the midst of a most astounding scoring burst, assisted by Johnny Ferraro who is a better player than most of the gridiron world knows, and (2) the Tigers have a considerable edge in experience and weight over the college champions.

Should the Tricolor upset these Tigers, atop Welch and Ferraro and sweep into the eastern final, then it will be time to rise and acclaim a really great team. Ted Reeve's boys are Dominion champions as Ripples will be underdogs today against Tigers, but the Tiger supporters against the University of Toronto last Saturday.

But the Tigers heavily favored to win the O.R.F.U. title for the fifth consecutive time. If Ab Box, pushing attack of Balmy Beach, were able to start, Beaches would be conceded a chance. Without Box the east-end team is expected to give Sarnia good, hard battle and go down fighting.

BAILEY'S TEAM GIVEN LICKING

Hamilton Cubs Did Not Develop a Player For Ranking

(By the Canadian Press)

Determined not to let Toronto Ten Oaks down in the race for the Eastern section of the Senior Ontario Hockey Association chase, Hamilton Tigers stepped into the Bailey's University of Toronto Club line tonight to down the latter's hopes and the Moley City crew should repeat their previous dose, when they trounced Oshawa contemporary have a big laugh? On the other hand if the Fry-Kennedy squad downed the Blue Devils in a sudden death tilt it would just about annihilate their statements of superiority.

Now that interscholastic football is all washed up in the Bay of Quinte zone and with the ever-approaching cold weather at hand, we have been wondering why a strong senior interscholastic hockey group, similar to their football group, could not be formed and proved a highly successful affair. Schools like Albert College, St. Michael's Academy, O.S.D., and Belleville Collegiate Institute, to our mind a classy interscholastic hockey group could be available. All four teams could appear in double-headers played at the local arena proceeds to be split three ways at the season. If the interscholastic loop proved a go up to speed a brand of hockey as they did football, a league could be soon formed and be assured. When 200 fans will attend an interscholastic football, it would, at the case when Albert and B.C.I. would meet this fall, that such a much larger attendance would naturally follow when all four schools are competing in one night at the arena.

We understand that Clem Allen, local hockey enthusiast, who already has a new wrinkle up his sleeve for the winter months, Clem is now busily considering opening a Belleville Athletic Club, with rooms in an historic portion of the Bridge street building. The idea is to erect assembly hall which will seat several hundred spectators and stage local boxing bouts about every fortnight or possibly every three weeks during duration. Then again Promoter Allen could stage Steve Taylor's wrestlers once a month also.

If the local wrestling promoters want to put a real bale the good graces of the fans, especially after Thursday night's disappointments, they had better stage their best procurable card next week. What we believe would meet with public approval and draw the largest crowd ever to attend the grunt and groan rackets, would be to stage a "villain night". What we mean by that is to have on one night Wee Willie Davis, Ivan Rasputin, Jack Claus (they've never met yet), get a rough and tumble referee such as "Benny" Dunlop and toss Jim Wilson in for the main event with Pat Regnaclean Mike Anderio to start off hostilities. A double card could not pack 'em in, well nothing would. Of course to make the show all the more interesting we have every bout to a finish, the best two out of three falls. Another night's embarrassing situation for us fairly to the fans, however, we know, as we read four different telegrams from the Yankee grapplers errands from Detroit and Ivan Mickalloff, but the atmosphere surrounding the entire affair isn't a bad taste in the fans' mouths, but if the promoters hold another card of this nature, and the one suggested above, we feel assured that the fans would forgive and forget.

Cobourg bound and in high hopes of completing the Lake Shore group in the intermediate O.R.F.U. in at least second position, the local football squad headed westward at noon today. The Kennedy-coached crew until entered the league of getting into a play-off with Oshawa. How? Well, they don't care much how it happens, so long as they can carry their luck against the "Blue Devils" just once more, of course if this happens to come to pass and the Moley City crew should repeat their previous dose, Oshawa's contemporary have a big laugh? On the other hand if the Fry-Kennedy squad downed the Blue Devils in a sudden death tilt it would just about annihilate their statements of superiority.

Now that interscholastic football is all washed up in the Bay of Quinte zone and with the ever-approaching cold weather at hand, we have been wondering why a strong senior interscholastic hockey group, similar to their football group, could not be formed and proved a highly successful affair. Schools like Albert College, St. Michael's Academy, O.S.D., and Belleville Collegiate Institute, to our mind a classy interscholastic hockey group could be available. All four teams could appear in double-headers played at the local arena proceeds to be split three ways at the season. If the interscholastic loop proved a go up to speed a brand of hockey as they did football, a league could be soon formed and be assured. When 200 fans will attend an interscholastic football, it would, at the case when Albert and B.C.I. would meet this fall, that such a much larger attendance would naturally follow when all four schools are competing in one night at the arena.

We understand that Clem Allen, local hockey enthusiast, who already has a new wrinkle up his sleeve for the winter months, Clem is now busily considering opening a Belleville Athletic Club, with rooms in an historic portion of the Bridge street building. The idea is to erect assembly hall which will seat several hundred spectators and stage local boxing bouts about every fortnight or possibly every three weeks during duration. Then again Promoter Allen could stage Steve Taylor's wrestlers once a month also.

If the local wrestling promoters want to put a real bale the good graces of the fans, especially after Thursday night's disappointments, they had better stage their best procurable card next week. What we believe would meet with public approval and draw the largest crowd ever to attend the grunt and groan rackets, would be to stage a "villain night". What we mean by that is to have on one night Wee Willie Davis, Ivan Rasputin, Jack Claus (they've never met yet), get a rough and tumble referee such as "Benny" Dunlop and toss Jim Wilson in for the main event with Pat Regnaclean Mike Anderio to start off hostilities. A double card could not pack 'em in, well nothing would. Of course to make the show all the more interesting we have every bout to a finish, the best two out of three falls. Another night's embarrassing situation for us fairly to the fans, however, we know, as we read four different telegrams from the Yankee grapplers errands from Detroit and Ivan Mickalloff, but the atmosphere surrounding the entire affair isn't a bad taste in the fans' mouths, but if the promoters hold another card of this nature, and the one suggested above, we feel assured that the fans would forgive and forget.

The future of organized baseball in this city is in dire danger today following the resignation of the entire executive body of the B.A.B.A. last night at the M.C.C. and the confidence staunch supporters of the diamond pastime answered the call for the annual meeting and election of officers of that body for the coming year, with the ultimate result that today there is no O.B.A.A. baseball association in Belleville, the meeting requested us to represent the Belleville Intelligencer at the meeting and election of officers of the C. O. B. I. at Peterboro today. Just what is to be gained by sending a delegate to the league meeting remains quite vague at present. With the passing of the B.A.B.A. the future minor league ball clubs, operating the Juniors, is to be regarded. The season four junior ball clubs were operated in Belleville in a league that saw more local kids playing baseball than in many years past. A foundation for the preservation of local talent was established. Is it to be cracked upon the rocks of ruin and left floundering? Surely these kids deserve some consideration if they like to play baseball. Maybe the Kiwanis Club will take them over in their entirety, but at present, well, who knows?

When President "Ernie" Newsome announced his retirement from the presidency, the meeting tried to persuade him from dropping from the helm, but the unanimous wish of many of these present being passed to vote all baseball in Belleville to the Kiwanis Club was carried out without success. To quote Mr. Newsome: "Gentlemen, if the baseball and delight in pitting out with the boys, that rumors have reached my attention that any operation of a senior baseball team in the Belleville zone in view of Stewart-Warner is not desirable. My first duty is to see that each reflections cast in its direction and therefore we are going to withdraw from baseball in Belleville. Personally, however, I might state that I am still supporting a ball team with a donation and my attendance at every game. Mr. Kiwanis Club, if you are interested in operating a team if you feel better stage their best procurable card next week. What we believe would meet with public approval and draw the largest crowd ever to attend the grunt and groan rackets, would be to stage a "villain night". What we mean by that is to have on one night Wee Willie Davis, Ivan Rasputin, Jack Claus (they've never met yet), get a rough and tumble referee such as "Benny" Dunlop and toss Jim Wilson in for the main event with Pat Regnaclean Mike Anderio to start off hostilities. A double card could not pack 'em in, well nothing would. Of course to make the show all the more interesting we have every bout to a finish, the best two out of three falls. Another night's embarrassing situation for us fairly to the fans, however, we know, as we read four different telegrams from the Yankee grapplers errands from Detroit and Ivan Mickalloff, but the atmosphere surrounding the entire affair isn't a bad taste in the fans' mouths, but if the promoters hold another card of this nature, and the one suggested above, we feel assured that the fans would forgive and forget.

In Toronto there are many commercial ball clubs, while Peterboro has the Johnson Sea Horses, Oshawa the General Motors team and in Hamilton there have been numerous commercial teams, why not Belleville, we ask?

Belleville's Kingston City Hockey League is now one fare quite as well as was expected last night when they started a 5-0 drubbing at the hands of the Prescott squad. While remarking about the game this morning Manager Thomas said: "We had enough chances to win two or three ordinary games even in the last period, but the boys just couldn't start to click. Don't worry we'll be in there before the final reckoning. I've got a pretty fair band of willing workers, but unfortunately being strange to each other, as is St. Louis, Harris and others, we were just beginning to make plays when the final bell sounded, so I look for better results when we play our next game Wednesday," added Eddie. Of course With only a single schedule it means that a team must be up and hustling if finish in a play-off position so the locals will have to get a fizzle on if they expect to finish in the money.

Over the week-end a meeting of the Arena companies throughout Eastern Ontario will be held in Belleville.

Virginia Sullivan

Janis could feel walking with him, he noted again the dauntless fashion of carrying her small self, the determined valorousness about the set of her shoulders and small, high-held head—and knew that he spoke the truth.

X X X

"Well, how about it?" Anthony Fane asked in a lazy drawl. They had come out of a musty shop hidden behind an iron-barred show-window full of incredible rapacness and filth. "Is it anything like you thought it would be—or hadn't the movies educated you to the idea that in the tropics for canton-flannel shells with ecru-lined sandals and crash-lowni turbans.... and sero nacles?"

Janis smiled somewhat shamefacedly beneath his accusing grin. "Well, I suppose I did rather look for romance to block the traffic," she said. "You know—lotus-eaters and latticed windows, at least, with perhaps just a soupcon of opera-bouffe. But, anyway, I love it just the way it is," she asserteated passionately. "Every bit of it! From the goats and the oily, gesticuling women and the babies crusted in skins to that cathedral we are visiting this afternoon—" She stopped, conscious even now of a slight, incredible incoherence at the memory of the cathedral's incredible gold-leafed altar, its dim paintings shining darkly beautiful through the gloom. Conscious, also, of the level, disturbing grey gaze of the man who walked slowly by her side, forging a purposeful way for her through the throng.

For the best part of two hours they had walked about the new Panama. Seeing everything, stopping a little, talking scarcely at all. For the last half hour—since the cathedral, in fact—Janis had been acutely aware of that wild surge of feeling that had swept her the evening before under the dim, watching stars—aware that it possessed her now—was possessing them both, in spite of the man's still brown face and quiet eyes....

Then, abruptly, with a sensation curiously akin to shock, both of them became aware of something else. A rather derelict building, in the miniature tornado of flaming red curls, flying pink skirts and a shrill, unmistakable voice calling both their names at once. From the depths of an open barouche standing beside the curb the person of Mona Moore literally catapulted itself into their arms.

"Tony! Tony Fane! Why, you old rascal! Tom Marsh! And little Miss Madden, too—I say, now, fancy meeting you here! Now listen, Janis, you've got to—all of you both—holding out on Mona like this. When did you come, kid, eh? Tony! Why, I hadn't the slightest idea she knew you. Dashed mysterious and sinister, I call it! Hey, boy!" This last to the driver of the shabbily resplendent barouche. "Get in, children, please, and let little Mona drive you wherever you're going. We've got to talk this reunion over—"

"We were going," said Anthony Fane in a slightly dazed voice, "to Jake's Panama Tavern for tea."

"Jake's Tavern it is, then! Isn't that just swell! I was heading there myself—so you haven't upset any plans at all!"

"Eh, but you have!" Anthony Fane had himself somewhat grimly, as she entered the musty depths of the barouche. "And in more ways than one!"

CHAPTER IX.

MONA TAKES COMMAND

"Jake," Mona said conversationally, dabbing from the days when men were men and barkeepers kept their books on a slate. He likes me," she added confidentially; then with a shameless grin: "Jake thinks that nothing is too good for Mona to do for me—and neither, I hasten to add, do I!"

She referred to the ease with which they had secured a table in the narrow, odorous interior of Jake's Panama Tavern; crowded with a picturesque collection with a piquant composite of every known nation in the world. With every known nation in the world. With every known nation in the world. With

SANCTIONS MAY INCLUDE COAL

British Government Might Support The Extension

London, Nov. 23 (AP)—A general belief existed today that the government might support an extension of sanctions against Italy to include oil and coal as such an embargo could be operated effectively.

The League Council inclines oil in the list of products banned to Italy for its warring in Ethiopia. It was more likely as a result of "indirect co-operation" by the United States.

Newspapers referred in this respect to Secretary of State Hull's strictures to United States oil interests to halt shipments to warring Italy and Ethiopia pending the appearance of the Washington administration's neutrality policy.

The British government's views on an oil embargo were expected to be disclosed to other League of Nations powers by Anthony Eden, minister for foreign affairs. It was suggested, if he visits Geneva next week he might attend the committee of 18 to consider the proposal.

The British note declined to reopen the question and affirmed adherence to the league covenant.

One newspaper described Italy reply to Italy's note to individual nations applying sanctions as a "coup of the stiffest diplomatic notes of recent years."

ELECTION CROWD FREES FOUR MEN

Riotous Scenes Take Place at Chicoutimi Meeting

Chicoutimi, Que., Nov. 23 (CP)—Four men, arrested for disturbing the peace, broke away from police after a crowd forced their release last night following the smashing of windows in the city hall and the breaking up of a Liberal meeting scheduled to be addressed by Hon. Hector Lafertie, speaker of the Quebec Legislative council.

Troubles started when the meeting called in favor of Roland Pelletier, Liberal candidate in Chicoutimi, was opened by Dr. Edgar Tremblay, chairman. Many of those arrested four hecklers and took them to the cells in the basement of the city hall where the meeting was held.

The lights of the hall went out and in the confusion, Mr. Lafertie, the candidate, and Dr. Tremblay left by a side entrance.

Demonstrators outside hurled sticks and stones through the city hall windows, breaking 75 panes of glass. They stormed the hall bearing back municipal police who drove the protesters back but was relented when it was decided to release the four men on bail.

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE

Toronto, Nov. 23 (CP)—Toronto Industrial share market spent the short Saturday session in consolidating its position slightly above Friday's close. Distillery issues recorded gains ranging up to 3¼ and International Nickel closed around 30½ for a net gain of ¼.

Brazilian came back to close at 10¾ for a net gain of ¼ and Massey-Harris at 9¾ was also up ¼. C.P.R. showed a gain of ¾.

Distillers-Seagrams closed ¾ up at 36¾ and Walkers added ¼ closing at 32¾. Industrial Alcohol A and Brewers and Distillers registered smaller advances.

Imperial Oil was down ¼ to 30¾. Foods recorded a mixture of narrow losses and gains and in the utilities an advance of four points for Porto Rico Preferred was the only important change.

TORONTO MINES—Close

Toronto, Nov. 23 (CP)—Prices were irregular generally in quiet trading on the mining section of the Toronto exchange today.

Price changes were few. One gold group included losses of about ¼ cent for Lake Shore and Teck-Hughes and a gain of the same fraction for Malartic. Noranda, Sturgeon River, Pick Hughes and Pioneer recorded recessions of 5 to 10 cents each.

Base metals were firm to lower in about 3. Recessions of 2 to 5 points were posted also for Anglo-Huronian, Cobalt Cove and Canadian. Noranda Cove and Central Patricia held to the up side.

Noranda failed to make up any of Friday's gains, however, as the prices weakened moderately for Noranda and Sullivan. Hollinger-Consolidated was the only one of these issues held steady at 1.35. Beattie Silver touched 80, off 3 cents.

Board Room Gossip

As Supplied to Biggar and Crawford by Financial Service

POOL IN PAYMASTER

It is learned on good authority that a strong pool has been operating in Paymaster for the past week or so. The stock has been moved from under 30 to 36. News from the property is good, with the latest development indicating that production for October was $50,972, a new record, and operations have now started a new shaft. The mill averaged 307 tons daily last month. Recovery for the first 19 days of November was $30,232 so it would appear that another record month will be held, particularly because tonnage is being maintained right along at an average rate of 25 tons daily is expected this month. Grade of ore has also improved in the last half of October from .21 oz. to .25 oz. per ton.

The company is issuing a complete progress report to shareholders this month.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

The current rise in the shares of C.P.R. is predicted not only on the belief that the commercial truce treaty will result in heavier traffic for the Canadian railroads, but also on the fact that the road's earnings for the month of October are expected to show over 1934. A comparison of the preliminary figures available indicates what can be anticipated when the official earnings are announced on Thursday of next week:

| | 1933 | 1934 | Change |
|---|---|---|---|
| Oct. 1st. | $2,316,000 | $2,605,000 | Inc. $711,000 |
| Oct. 8th. | 3,397,000 | 2,705,000 | Inc. 633,000 |
| Oct. 21st. | 2,651,000 | 2,908,000 | Inc. 156,000 |
| Oct. 31st. | 4,534,000 | 4,418,000 | Dec. 92,000 |

It is noted from the above figures that gross revenues of the C.P.R. for the month of October showed an increase of $1,646,000 as compared with 1934.

MERGER

There is nothing that causes more talk in the financial district than the possibility of a merger of two or more corporations. At the present time the Street is full of rumors of a possible merger of Distillers-Seagrams and the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Corporation. How will the terms be arrived at? That is the question. Distillers-Seagrams is a consolidation of five of the concerns in the Distillers Group. It was soon learned that the objective could only be obtained by disregarding fixed assets and working on a basis after the inventory position of each company had been taken into account as well as their sale volume.

It was discovered that each calculation placed Gooderham & Worts, Walkers 37¼ p.c., Alcohol 30 p.c. and the others 25 p.c. Walkers would have improved their position in this deal during the last few years.

Yesterday we called the attention of our readers to the market that it became known that negotiations were underway, and the point was stressed that the ticker was indicating a sea for three days. If such proved to be the case, it would be necessary for Distillers-Seagrams to offer a substantial premium to acquire the more promising equities. In our opinion Rye has been more than discounted prospects, indicating that discrimination is most necessary in a merger trader.

British Opinion on Outlook for Copper

The following opinion from Brandeis, Goldschmidt and Co. Ltd., London on the copper situation will be of interest to our copper is interesting.

Consensus on the whole have been in favor of the belief that it will have to come into the market very shortly, but the developments do not hold, this will give the market a fresh stimulus and may raise prices higher than is perhaps good for trade.

Sherritt Gordon Rises to $1.90 on Better Copper Prices

Sherritt Gordon, a very sensitive indicator to changes in the price of copper, has again come into the limelight and yesterday sold up to $1.90 for the first time in over 18 months. President Lindsley said to shareholders at the annual meeting ten days ago, that the mine may reopen next spring if the price of copper is at a price of 10 cents per pound for copper.

Well-informed opinion is bullish on the outlook for copper and talk is heard that the international refinery metal circles that the metal will advance to 10 cents or higher within the next four months.

With 10 cent copper and 3 1-4 Exchange, Sherritt Gordon could operate at an appreciable profit.

Gold's Lake Gold Mines—President's Report

Gold's Lake Gold Mines—President's report at annual meeting showed weakness in stock. Says that all phases of mine operation are proceeding normally; mill averaging 150 tons daily.

Nickel—Canada's nickel production at the end of September was substantially increase in October. In October production was 5,000,000 pounds of nickel from Canada, more than whole of last year.

Central Patricia—Production in first two weeks of November was close to $60,000 and indications are that output for full month will exceed $100,000.

Pickle Crow—The main vein has been cut on the 400 foot level and three new levels. November promises to be a record production month for the mine.

The consensus in the Street is that the public has only stepped into the market within the last week or so. The average trader or investor usually waits for the market to definitely establish an upward trend before gaining sufficient courage to take a position. If the public only now beginning to buy stocks on a major scale, no one can forecast how high prices may go before a good-sized reaction occurs.

Outside buying has become a factor in the local Stock Exchange in important financial centres as London, Paris and New York have been accumulating Canadian issues on a large scale. Economists are unanimous in their opinion that this country is making very rapid strides toward normalcy and foreign interests are choosing the leading securities to participate in this recovery.

Very optimistic earnings figures are being made for International Nickel for 1936. Many countries are increasing their armaments and extensive shipbuilding programs are on the tapis, with Great Britain leading the world in this respect. Estimates are that International Nickel will show even higher earnings in the final quarter of this year than the 59 cents a share reported in the last three months. Under these conditions, it would not be surprising if the company's income in 1934 was at the rate of between $2.50 and $3 a share, as Nickel's financial position is very strong and its expansion programs completed. shareholders can look forward to a substantial increase in the company's dividend policy has always been a generous one.

The declaration of a special extra of 25 cents on the Class A Malleys in addition to the regular quarterly dividend payable on the 15th, in line with the forecast made by Financial Service. Total disbursements for the year will amount to $1.25 and explains the recent strength in the stock. The management is the opinion prevails that the directors will maintain the $1.25 annual rate, but earnings in the last two years have been substantially ahead of that figure and the company is in sound financial shape.

Brazilian Traction

Net earnings of Brazilian Traction in October were off $142,253 from 1934, this making the fourth consecutive decline, but the first two months had shown six consecutive gains. Comparing the first ten months of 1933, net revenues at $13,630,963 were $568,784, indicating that the results for the full year will be somewhat ahead of 1934 when $1.20 was earned on the 1 million shares.

Holders of Brazilian Traction should bear in mind that this company has paid off considerable of outstanding bonds of its subsidiary company and a strengthening of the financial position has been effected. Net working capital has shown steady increase in each month for the last four years, as will be noted from the following:—1931—$15,630,-000; 1932—$16,000,000; 1933—$9,-632,810; 1934—$13,920,241.

C. P. R.—Paris has been a steady buyer of C. P. R. for several weeks now.

AIR MAIL TRAIL IS BEING BLAZED

China Clipper Progressing Across Pacific to Honolulu

Alameda, Calif., Nov. 23 (AP)—A thunderstorm pegasus blazed a United States Air Mail trail across the Pacific today speeding on from where the pony express halted.

The China Clipper 35-ton seaplane, carrying mail and swiftly under its two-ton load of 115,000 letters expected to reach Honolulu, 2,400 miles away, about 12:45 p.m. E.S.T., 18 hours after it took off here.

Hourly reports by radio informed Pan-American Airways headquarters here of the clipper's progress from the first mail flight of its 8,000 mile flight to Manila, by way of Honolulu, Wake and Guam.

Thousands of feet beneath the glistening plane, ocean vessels toiled through the waves their mail due to arrive days and weeks after the sky liner.

30 DEATHS TOLL OF STORM IN ITALY

Rome, Nov. 22.—(AP)—A terrific two-day storm which scourged Sicily and Southern Italy subsided today following reports of more than 30 deaths and menacing rumbles from Mount Etna.

Navigation of the Strait of Messina, between Italy and Sicily, reported after the high winds and heavy seas subsided, but boats were left from Etna, in Northeastern Sicily, flames leaped from the volcano's crater and rumbles were heard.

Seven slight earthshocks were felt at the nearby Sicilian seaport of Messina but were not registered at the Observatory.

Several houses collapsed at Catania, on the Sicilian coast, inhabited of 14,000.

Houses and public buildings crumbled at Reggio di Calabria, a city of 40,000. Damage there was estimated at 10,000,000 lire (more than $800,000).

NINE ARE NOMINATED FOR OFFICE OF MAYOR

46 Named As Candidates for Aldermanic Seats; 3 for Commissioner Foster, Samson, Baldwin Wards Acclaim Public School Trustees

Need of Strong Council Is Urged by Nominees For Office of Mayor

Several Satisfy Intention of Contesting Mayoralty

CIVIC OUTLOOK

Ex-Mayor Reid Presides At Public Meeting

Candidates for Belleville's Mayoralty in their statements to the people of the city in the City Hall this morning were brief and to the point in their remarks.

Alderman Harry Hill, introduced by chairman ex-Mayor George A. Reid, expressed his appreciation at being nominated for the office for the entire position. "It's not been too pleasant a job being a member of the council in the past," he said, "I hope that this will be realized when the electors finally realize this. Belleville is the best city in Canada. I'll be glad to continue this service if I am allowed.

"If I am elected," promised Ald. Hill, "I will carry on as I have done during the past term. I have no envy with me my platform, as it has been in the past," declared Ald. Hill.

Managership Favored

W. A. Woodley, former member of the council, proposed a third change in the present form of a city platform, commission would give the city more efficient service. "The time for which you people will have to pay would be a minimum or a maximum of $600 after your affairs. This job of being a mayor needs a full time man instead of anyone," declared Mr. Woodley, "Belleville," he continued, "was in a better financial condition than the majority of other Canadian cities."

Ald. Thos. Marshall declared the chairmanship of Board of Management of Hospital should be second in importance only to the Department of Public Works in the matter of money spent.

300 Per Cent. Return

"Every dollar that has been spent by me during the past year has returned two dollars profit to the taxpayer," declared Alderman Marshall, "we did spend a lot of money last year but we have a lot to show for it."

"If I am in council for 1936 there is another thing that I will insist upon and that is that the negotiations approaching council will be kept upon the open floor and not in committee as has been done."

Alderman Wm. Graham told his hearers of sixteen years as a member of the Board of Education and as a labourer in the city's employ in council as his qualifications as mayor. He also complimented Chief Harvey, the esplanade project would be given full consideration.

Sewage Control Needed

Ex-Alderman Harold Armstrong declared the need of a proper control to carry on the affairs of the city during the coming year. He dealt directly with the sewage and said that Alderman Woodley that a planning commission was needed. "In some places it has been a success; in others a fiasco. The interested must come from the taxpayers. Remember that. If money is to be spent the city has to be backed up."

Ex-Alderman R. D. White, Alderman Hamilton and Alderman R. D. Arnott did not respond when their names were called.

A vote of thanks to ex-Mayor Reid for acting as chairman was moved by Alderman Hamilton and seconded by Alderman Armstrong.

Molten Rock Spews 400 Feet Into Air

Hilo-Hawaii, Nov. 25 (AP) — A scarlet river of lava rolled towards Hilo today, the boiling mass fed by great fountains spouting from a new rift in Mauna Loa Mountain.

The molten rock spewed 400 feet into the river by the pressure of subterranean gases, followed a bed left by an eruption in 1852 when lava flowed to within five miles of the city.

In places, the speed of the flow was estimated by Harold National Park staff men at 36 miles an hour. Its pace diminished as it cooled, however, and Hilo fear was felt for this city, separated from Mauna Loa by one family of cones.

Heavy forests and fertile farms, rough table lands.

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Demolished, Nov. 22.—(AP)—A large bronze statue of St. Christopher, patron saint of motorists specially cast to adorn the garage of police headquarters here, was seized by the secret police, acting on orders from Berlin. Reason for the seizure was given as "undesirable religious propaganda."

The local authorities made amends by consenting to have the Saint melted down and converted into a dozen busts of Chancellor Hitler, Air Vice Minister Goering, to be placed in the 4 fferent police stations.

Washington, Nov. 22.—(CP)—A new era for "public executions" in America, Federal Prison Island off San Francisco, thwarted in crime, has been turned to the higher life.

Sanford Bates, director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, said 26 of the inmates of the Prison which houses the most dangerous criminals in the country graduated courses from the University of California, 21 Capone men among them.

Bates saw no objection to the men studying if they want to," Bates said. "Then they do it on their own time."

Milwaukee, Nov. 25. — (CP)—Steam Arch, 78, kept his vow.

He said he'd never go to the new house when he was taken before a judge recently after his home had been condemned by the City Health Department.

He was right. He died.

HUBERT BOUDREAU GIVEN 3 YEARS

Pleads Guilty to Theft of Watches From Jewellery Store

Hubert Boudreau, 37 year old Montreal resident, with a criminal record of some six previous convictions read against him in today's local police court, was sentenced to serve three years in Portsmouth Penitentiary after he pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering Angus McFee's jewellery store and stealing twelve watches by Magistrate Ponton, K.C. Hubert Boudreau was charged with the theft of Thos. Y. Applegate's watches. Boudreau pleaded not guilty, but was found guilty as charged and received the same sentence for each offence, the second sentence to run concurrently with the former. S. G. Duncan, K.C., local Crown Attorney conducted the prosecution, while Boudreau was not defended by counsel.

Upon the reading of the charges of breaking, entering and theft, from McFee's jewellery store, produced as exhibits were the watches which Crown Attorney Duncan produced from a cardboard box. One of the accused showing him to have been convicted of theft on six different occasions previously, and of two breaking jail on two occasions. Mr. Duncan asked for the maximum sentence of five years in the penitentiary, but His Worship took a little more lenient stand in the matter and meted out the three year term.

Boudreau pleaded ignorance of the theft of Mr. Mills' automobile, which was identified by irrefutable citizens as being the man seen getting out of Mr. Wills' automobile on Bridge St. after it had been reported stolen from Campbellford. As a three year sentence to run concurrently with the previous sentence was the sentence of the court, Boudreau was led from the court protesting his mistaken identity had convicted him of the automobile theft charge, but His Worship pointed out that the evidence of the eyewitnesses of the crime was overwhelming and with a record of some 13 years standing.

ELEVEN DEATHS IN VARIED GUISES OVER WEEKEND

Couple Drown, as Ice Gives Way While Skating

TWO BODIES FOUND

Arthur Ellis, M.P.P. Held on Criminal Negligence Charge

By The Canadian Press

In varied circumstances, the explosion at Sudbury, a speeding locomotive at Langstaff, handsome Jesse James at Huntsville, motor cars and escaping coal gas, sudden death found 11 persons in Ontario over the weekend.

Three others evidently had died two or more days ago, but their bodies were not found until Saturday.

A few miles north of Toronto, at Langstaff, the locomotive of a Canadian National Railways freight train struck a motor car yesterday and killed Robert Miller, 78, of Stouffville. Northern and Central Canadian National Exhibition and Internationally known President Emeritus, died at his home Miller, 51.

At Sudbury last night explosion of a large acetylene tank in the express office of the Canadian National railway station took the life of John R. Jones, night telegraph operator, and injured Harry Hunt and Collin Collins, his assistant, were hospitalized. Jones died in the explosion which blew out one end of the station. Both were caught in the debris. Hunt with a fractured leg, Collins with burns to his hands.

Ice Gives Way

David Hildebrandt, 51, farmer, and his niece, Miss Roberta Parks, 26, a stenographer, both of Collingwood, were drowned when the ice gave way under them.

A "set" gun placed in the Muskoka woods, to trap wild animals, claimed two wanted to kill deer was stumbled upon by Clark Fobes, 20, of Bracebridge, and his body was found yesterday by searchers. He had been shot through the heart with the bush since Wednesday. It was believed. Around Toronto, the city police detective bureau was attached to the trigger of the gun which took away the Indians life in the tragedy.

In the Saugeen River at Walkerton a dog began barking at an object in the water. An employee of the Walkerton Tannery, a close scrutiny of the object and found the body of Jesse Hepfner, 60, missing since Wednesday night. She had been hurt by the death of her husband last July.

Found Dead in Creek

Fraser Reid, who disappeared from hi shack near Orega, mine in Larder Lake district, was found dead in the district during last Thursday's blizzard, was found dead in a creek, with a few inches of ice in a creek.

Fifteen-year-old Donald Armstrong, who disappeared last Saturday, when a shotgun he was carrying on a rabbit hunt discharged as he was pulling it through a fence after him, Mrs. George McNeely, 74, also of Bracebridge, was found asphyxiated by coal gas in her home yesterday.

At Sesley's Bay near Gananoque, Joseph McAlason, 69, one of the oldest boat manufacturers in Leeds County was struck dead by a motor car in front of his factory, and Ellis, 43, of Toronto, was south, was arrested on a charge of criminal negligence.

In West Toronto, Miss Phyllis McCarthy, 18, was fatally injured by an automobile which also seriously injured her companion, Gordon Wilson, 21, Toronto. Before Robson, 18, was charged with manslaughter.

Alphonse Trudell, farmhand, was struck from behind and killed by a motor car at Tilbury township on the Ottawa.

W. D. E. Shiach of South Gower, Ont., died of injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile ran down a slope as he was trying to cross a highway between two ditches and broke his back.

EARTH SHOCKS FELT

Callander, Ont., Nov. 25 (CP)—Persons from outlying districts came into Callander, the Dionne quintuplets' "home town", reporting they had felt four earth tremors about 6.30 a.m. last Wednesday. The tremors were believed minor after-shocks of the quake that was felt throughout a great part of Eastern North America Nov. 2.

Two Boys With Broken Necks Join in Hospital Sick Room

New York, Nov. 25.—Although he could not get out of bed because of a broken neck, he got a big kick out of seeing Frank Sinatra, Jr., 9 at 241 Fifth Street. Both the boys are suffering from broken necks, but they are expected to recover in due course. William has been there three weeks.

"I'll be out of here soon around," he said to Frank. "I can't understand why I'm not walking, but he's a swell little kid, let me tell you." Frank, Jr. is a year younger than William. Both boys broke their necks ought to be able to use each other up okay, don't you think?

He was heartily agreed with. The reason Frank cannot talk very well is because his baby teeth are gone and the others have not grown out yet, hospital attendants explained. But his children get a great deal of entertainment from the radio, and he is very much at the hospital, as was struck by some

JUTLAND'S HERO IS LAID TO REST AT NELSON'S SIDE

Stately But Simple Ritual At His Obsequies

IN ST. PAUL'S

Cortege Passes From Old Abbey to St. Paul's Cathedral

By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 25 (Tuesday)— With every mark of honor the Royal Navy and the sister services could offer and amidst the stately but simple ritual of the Anglican Church, the body of Earl Jellicoe was laid within St. Paul's Cathedral's walls.

The Admiral, who died last Wednesday, lies in a crypt close by Admiral Nelson's marble tomb under the centre of the dome, flanked by the graves of Collingwood—who led the vanguard of the action—and Beatty, who succeeded the rearguard at the battle of Trafalgar.

Since Friday night the coffin had been in the Henry VII chapel of Westminster Abbey, one of the Empire's most architecturally beautiful resting-places for its full medieval beauty. This lying-in state was entirely private. The coffin was covered by the Union Jack and surmounted by the Admiral's cocked hat of the Order of the Bath and a wreath of chrysanthemums from his family.

Guard of Sailors

Naval ratings from Chatham mounted guard over the catafalque. During the coffin was taken from the Abbey to one Guards Parade, immediately in the rear of the Admiralty building, where the procession was formed.

Preceded by a naval guard and massed bands, the coffin was borne on a gun-carriage. High officers of the Royal Navy walked on either side as pall bearers. Then came other officers bearing the Admiral's insignia, and naval ratings carrying wreaths from the Navy and from official donors. All the latter—at the request of Earl Jellicoe's family—were composed of poppies made in ex-servicemen's factories.

Beatty Walks in Cortege

Earl Beatty, who commanded the last battle cruiser squadron at the Battle of Jutland and succeeded Jellicoe in the command of the fleet in 1916, arose today from his bed of illness to walk in the cortege behind the gun-carriage.

The Lords of the Admiralty and their assistants, the service representatives of the cabinet, the Prime Minister and his colleagues, representatives of foreign navies and contingents from the British Dominions followed.

Canada Represented.

The High Commissioners for the Dominions, including Vincent Massey, representing Canada, Commodore Percy Nelles, chief of the Canadian Naval Staff, represented the Royal Canadian Navy.

The United States navy was represented by its Commander-in-Chief, Vice-Admiral Harry Yarnell.

The Lord Mayor of London and sheriffs of the city attended in state.

The sentences of the Anglican burial service were read by St. Paul's choir as the procession moved forward.

Archdeacon Ernest Sharpe read the passage from the Book of Revelation, "I heard a voice from heaven," the congregation sang the 23rd psalm, "The Lord is my Shepherd". Prayers were offered by the Bishop of London, Dr. Winnington-Ingram, and by the Dean of St. Paul's, Very Rev. W. R. Matthews.

The hymns included "Jen thou art the King of Glory, O Lord," and Cecil Spring Rice's "I vowed to thee my country." The Last Post was sounded in the cathedral when the King attended his Jubilee service.

Queen Marie Favorite Flower

The final hymn, sung before the Archbishop of Canterbury gave his blessing, was the late Earl Jellicoe's favorite, "Eternal Father Strong to Save". As Dyke's familiar music rolled out from the organ, 19,000 wreaths covered the great echoes of St. Paul's.

Ethiopian Victories Turn Tide of Battle Is Addis Ababa Claim

Italian Defeats in North And South Reported at Capital

FORTRESS LOST

Crack Troops Gain Dual Victory in Three Days

Addis Ababa, Nov. 25 (AP)—The Ethiopian government announced today the tide of battle on the northern front was definitely turning in favor of Ethiopia as the result of two victories within three days by crack troops under Dedjazmatch Worse.

Simultaneously, semi-official reports from the south stated the Italians had been driven from Gorrahei, a fortified town in Ogaden province, with heavy losses. The Fascists had seized the town early in their penetration from Italian Somaliland.

From the east the palace received word from Dedjazmatch Kebbedeneh Yahis, commander in Aussa Province, whose chief, Haile Selassie asserted was a deserter, stating "the situation in my province is satisfactory".

100,000 Icelanders Relatives of Royalty

Montreal, Nov. 25.—Something like 100,000 Icelanders claim relationship to King George of England, What's more, they can prove it, Asgeir Asgeirson, former President of Iceland and Director of Intelligence, said in an interview here.

Mr. Asgeirson said the relationship goes back about 1,000 years. "But it certainly can be proved that practically every Icelander is related to King George. You see, Harold, the first Duke of Normandy and the ancestor of William the Conquerer. Now his brother went and settled in Iceland about the year 1,000. He stayed there and by this time his blood has spread through whole Iceland.

"As for proving the relationship—that's easy. It is the very easy for any Icelander to trace his descent back for at least thirty generations. It certainly can be proved," he said, adding that parish records, kept and preserved for the last 1,000 years, simplified the task.

ELLSWORTH PILOT UNHEARD FROM

Nothing Heard Since Shortly After Takeoff on Saturday

New York, Nov. 25—(AP)—A worrisome silence separated Lincoln Ellsworth and Herbert Hollick-Kenyon of Winnipeg from their base ship in the Antarctic today.

Ellsworth and Hollick-Kenyon, who left Dundee Island on a flight to Graham Land, 2,140 miles away, last communicated by wireless with the base ship at 10.45 a.m. (E.S.T.) Saturday, only a few hours after their take-off, the New York Times and the North American Newspaper Alliance reported.

Their approach to the Times from Ellsworth's motorship, the Wyatt Earp, asserted, however, the silence "is not a cause to anticipate serious trouble but calls for immediate action to find out what is going down depots if nothing further is heard from them."

BAN PROHIBITS GIFT OF FLOUR OF BRITAIN

Montreal, Nov. 25.—(CP)—Pope Pius XI will have to do without an annual gift as a result of the Italian ban on imports of Canadian flour.

Two barrels of flour are in a shed at Montreal harbor, scheduled for delivery to the Italian agent of a local milling company. They will be returned to the company.

The agent has always present the Pope with flour, an annual present from the company.

Martial Law In Tientsin; Coup Fails

Tientsin, China, Nov. 25 (AP)—Martial law prevailed here tonight following the collapse of a coup by agitators for autonomy. Police armed with bayonets were posted in the streets.

Another move to separate the autonomy movement from a warning from the Japanese military authorities that encroachment on the demilitarized zone would be tolerated.

This warning, Peiping reported, came when Gen. Sung Chen-Yuan, Hopeh-Chahar overlord, dispatched troops to Tungchow to deal with autonomy demonstrators.

Nanking, Nov. 25 (AP) — The Chinese government's hopes for checking a spread of northern autonomy depended today on the loyalty of Gen. Sung Chen-Yuan and a chance Japanese authorities might be induced to re-appoint, in a newspaper's estimate.

MELLVILLE HALL, NATIVE, IS DEAD

President of Hall Typewriter Co. Passes in Montreal

Montreal, Nov. 25.—(CP)—William Melville Hall, 71, well-known in the typewriter business here for the last thirty years, died at his home here today after an illness of several months.

Born in Belleville, Ont, Mr. Hall moved to Montreal while still young. At his death he was president of W. M. Hall and Company, Ltd., and the Corona Mama Harries of Nashua, Vt., survives.

WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 25 (CP)—A storm of considerable intensity appears to be centred over Lake Superior, unites south of Sable Island and moving northeastward in the general direction of the Grand Banks. Light snow has fallen in some sections of Northern Ontario while other parts of the Dominion the weather has been fair.

Lake Superior — Southwest to northwest winds; partly cloudy with scattered flurries and a little warming somewhat colder in west portion.

Manitoba—Fair and rather cold.

Saskatchewan—Fair and rather cold; local snowflurries; rather cold in northeast portion.

Alberta—Partly cloudy and comparatively mild.

CARS COLLIDE ON KING'S HIGHWAY

Alleged to have side-swiped another automobile, a motor car driven westerly by John Connors, Cobourg, struck a motor car driven easterly in the opposite direction and driven by Leo Lee, Brockville Children, on the King's highway, Colborne-ville about 8.30 p.m. last night. The accident was investigated by Provincial Constable Fairman Sam Evrice and resulted in a charge of reckless driving being laid against Connors. The officer announced today.

According to Constable Evrice, Connors was proceeding westerly and as he was about to pass another motor car, the driver of the same direction and on a sharp curve, Mr. Connors failed to allow sufficient room for passing the approaching automobile driven by Lee. The radiator and front fenders of the Sen Lee-driven car were damaged while the left rear mudguard and fender of the Connors car were badly damaged during the impact.

MEMORIAL HELD FOR LATE ADMIRAL

As a token of respect to the memory of the late Earl Jellicoe, former Commander of Grand Fleet, who died during the Great War, about sixty members of the Belleville and Vicinity Veterans' Association marched quietly to St. Thomas' Church Sunday morning and there joined in Memorial Special prayers were recited and the Vicar, the Rev. A. Beasley Payne delivered a highly interesting and impressive sermon dealing with the life of Earl Jellicoe and the many lessons and the inspiration to be derived from his life. His text was "Their bodies are buried in peace, but their names liveth for evermore."

FIRESIDE HOUR LED BY STUDENTS

Albert College boys took charge of the Fireside Hour of Bridge Street Church Young People's Society following church service last evening, and conducted an interesting program. Jo Clarke, as chairman, conducted the devotional period assisted by Lloyd Shorten.

The program included a solo by Harry Aldersley, reading by Jack Beach, a selection by the Albert College quartet, and a talk by young people's work by Harold Kennedy, and a piano solo by Leonard Sylvester. The service was held in the church parlors and was well attended.

FIRE DEPARTMENT HOLDS TEST RUN

For the purpose only, a fire alarm was turned in by the Consolidated Optical Company's plant on Coleman St. shortly before 1.30 p.m. today. The test was for promptness and demonstration purposes. The new pumper was present into service and proved quite efficient, throwing a heavy stream of water well over the top of the three storey Consolidated Optical building. The test run proved most satisfactory, Chief Lynch announced.

ALBERT STUDENTS INSPECT MILLS

Students in the Business Administration and Commerce Courses of Albert College made an inspection of the plant of Downes-Coulter and Company Textile Mills, Trenton, on Saturday morning under the supervision of Dean Thomas McMullen and Professor J. D. C. Blaine, director.

The visit was most educational and supplemented the classroom studies of the industry through actual observation of the plant in operation. It was a revelation to many that woollens and worsteds such a high grade were being woven within our local community. The visit proved most entertaining, gave a splendid illustration of the value of experience and personality in business.

Six in Running for Council And Two for Reeve at Tweed

Present Council to Continue in Charge Until January First

Tweed Nov. 26—(Special)—At 8.00 p.m. Saturday night qualification papers were signed and filed with the council for both township and councillors. Those in the field for Reeve are: T. H. Ketcheson (1926); S. B. Rollins (an ex-Reeve). For Councillors: W. Ellis (1928 councillor); J. W. Kingston (1928 councillor); Napoleon Kisar; C. Mc-Ward; H. Tobin; Wm. Graham, (Four to be elected).

For Public Utilities Commission Jos. Rashotte is elected by acclamation to serve for a period of two years. C. H. Kerr is the other member, having been elected in January last for a period of two years.

The present council will continue to manage the affairs of the town until January 1929 when the new council will assume the direction of municipal matters.

Nomination Meeting

Nominations for Reeve, Councillors and Public Utilities Commissioner for the village of Tweed were held in the Township Hall on Saturday afternoon, November 23rd. Standing room was at a premium as the ratepayers and other citizens filled all available space to hear from Reeve Sayers and the members of the Council on account of their stewardship for the year 1928. At 2.30 P.M. Village Clerk W. J. Morton declared the nominations open and called for nominations for Reeve:—

T. H. Sayers, nominated by M. Drinkwater, seconded by Ed Pilchett.

S. B. Rollins, nominated by D. W. Sills, seconded by H. A. Grier.

For Councillors:—

Ray Quinn, nominated by E. Myles, seconded by P. B. Powell.

J. W. Kingston, nominated by Jos. Emerson, seconded by S. B. Mickle.

S. R. Drury, nominated by W. Ellis, seconded by S. B. Rollins.

J. J. McCready, nominated by Geo. Francis, seconded by Arthur Alexander.

C. E. Way, moved by M. Drinkwater, seconded by Ed Pilchett, that Norman King, moved by Jos Pilchett, seconded by E. Myles.

D. D. Wilson, moved by P. B. Powell, seconded by S. B. McCabe.

Duncan Morrison, moved by Alex McConnachie, seconded by Geo. Whalen.

H. P. Purdy, moved by W. H. Sayers, seconded by J. W. Kingston.

E. Myles, moved by S. R. Curry, seconded by P. B. Powell.

Jos. Rashotte, moved by Jas. Emerson, seconded by J. W. Kingston.

Public Utilities Commission:—

Jos. Rashotte moved by Ray Quinn, seconded by O. A. Quinn.

T. B. Foster, moved by J. W. Kingston, seconded by Ray Quinn.

Mr. D. H. Morrison was elected as chairman. Roll was called as follows, as was the case with Dr. P. T. Bowlby, Mr. D. H. Morrison was subsequently chosen to officiate as chairman, asked that the members of the old council be given a hearing and that any criticism which might be offered regarding the conduct of the town's affairs be of a constructive nature.

Parks Board Reports

The Community Parks Board financial report was given by Mr. W. S. Gordon, the chairman, Mr. Gordon, accompanied by the secretary, passing of Mr. M. J. Quinn a membership in the Board, which was filled with him on the council for two years and had hoped that he would continue with the Board. Mr. Gordon sat the park was operated at a deficit of $1,000 for the year 1928.

At the present time there is an outstanding debt of $2,000 against the amusement tax would have gone a long way towards reducing the note, as Mr. Gordon also thought that much assistance could be had from Park. If some individual would take over and develop it, a greater revenue could be obtained from the park. Mr. Gordon also thought that much assistance could be had from Park. If some individual would take over and develop it, a greater revenue could be obtained from the park. The wading and wonderful pool is a splendid illustration of the value of experience and personality in business.

High School Report

Mr. K. W. Jones, chairman of the High School Board, gave the report of the High School. In the absence of the Inspector's recent report which was highly satisfactory. Of the 19 results accomplished by the staff. During the past few years, the percentage of passes in departmental examinations had been steadily increasing with the maximum being attained this year. This excellent record has resulted in an increased registration to a total of 148 at the present time. More outside pupils were in attendance. Mr. Jones stated that the financial burden on the town-ship was not correspondingly lessened. The Board was faced with the need of adding a fifth member to the staff and in addition sufficient to the building if the present rate of increase continues.

Mr. Jones reported that this financial statement did not include the County grant which would not be received until December 15th and this accounted for the smaller balance on hand.

Board of Hydro Commissioners

Reeve Sayers, chairman of this Hydro Commission, gave a report of this department of the public utilities. During the past year, stated Reeve Sayers, there had been a small reduction in rates as a result of delegation sent to Toronto. The reduction had been from 6 cents per K.W.h. on the first 130 K.w.h. to 5 1-3 cents and from 3 cents to 1 1-2 cents on all light used above that amount. Later the D. H. P. C. had reduced the first rate further to 5 1-3 cents on the first 200 k.w.h. and to 1-2 cents on all above that amount. This amounts to practically a 20 per cent. reduction. During the present year a rebate amounting approximately 18 per cent. of the consumer's 1934 bill had been refunded in addition to the 20 per cent reduction in rates. This rebate affects the consumers November and December light bill.

High Rate Explained

In response to a question as to why Tweed was charged $30 per horsepower while Madoc was charged $44 and Stirling $30, Mr. Sayers explained that the was due chiefly to two causes: first, because Tweed must maintain the line from Tweed to Sulphide and jointly with the latter place, maintain the line from Sulphide to a point about a mile east of Madoc, and also because the maximum amount of light and power has not used locally.

During the year receipts were as follows:

|---|---|
| Revenue, electricity ... | 18462.53 |
| Water rentals ... | 1650.20 |
| Total receipts ... | 17113.63 |

A balance is on hand of $4313.20. This splendid surplus made it possible to obtain the rebate referred to and to pay off certain debentures.

To date, since the purchase of the local system in 1921, eight debentures had been paid—$24,000 in all, and the first three. Reeve Sayers explained himself as being in favor of paying off the long term debentures which he thought should be paid by the future users instead of the present users.

Activities of Council

Following this very satisfactory report, Mr. Sayers gave a very full review of the activities of the Council during the year. The reeve paid a warm tribute to the memory of the late Councillor C. J. Quinn, whom he considered one of the best members of the Council. Reeve Sayers was a man noted for his clarity of thinking, his sound advice and his willingness as a councillor; he never did citizen in every respect whom Tweed could ill afford to lose. Councillor H. F. Purdy who had moved to Belleville in the early summer was a fine councillor who was not afraid to have an opinion of his own and express it.

During the four years in which he had served as member of the village council, Tweed had passed through times of greater stress than ever before in common with all other places. He had always given his best efforts and he considered he be considered the best in Hastings County.

Receipts Show Increase

A full financial statement, showing receipts and disbursements in the various opartments was given by the auditors. During the year receipts from various sources, chiefly by arrears of taxes, showed an increase of $1186 over the estimated receipts. During the year relief and charitable calls had increased greatly. The large miscellaneous item was explained by Reeve Sayers as being for sewer, who stated that water revenue for the year showed a profit of $600 above estimates. That the year saw the freeze-up of the water mains had entailed an expenditure of approximately $250 for thawing.

Roads Retired in Debt

The debt on the High School will be paid off in 1936 and will result in a reduction of 9 mills in the tax rate as the annual payment is $13,436.31. In 1941 the Consolidated debt on the Consolidated School amounting to $471 annually will be paid and the sidewalk debenture debt of 1952 in 1947. These three items will result in a tax reduction of 9 mills. The debentures on the present plant will be paid off in 1950 and on the waterworks and sewer in 1960. Those last total $13,436.31. The Hydro debt is $263.

During the past year an increased activity was noted in the Dundas Point Foundries and Gordon Mackay Co. where payroll totalled $30,000. for the year. This had resulted in considerable employment to a great many workmen.

Council Under Fire

There was a lively crossfire between Reeve Sayers and ex-Reeve S. B. Rollins regarding the hearings paid to those employed by the town on relief work. Mr. Rollins contended that government regulations permitted payment of a rate up to 40c an hour for such work with the government paying two-thirds of this amount. On the other hand, Reeve Sayers stated that as 30c per hour is the ruling wage in relief work in others municipalities, Tweed could not expect to receive special consideration in this regard. During this exchange one of the audience who had been on relief at one time, so far forgot himself as to call the epithet "liar" at Reeve Sayers. This drew a sharp remonstrance from the audience and a rebuke from the chairman who stated that such terminology was unseemly. The guilty person did not have the good grace to apologize for his uncalled for remark.

As Reeve Sayers resumed his seat he was applauded at length, as the majority of those present felt that he had made an excellent reeve and had "piloted the ship of state thru' the difficult shoals and rocks of the depression and was on a fair way to bringing it safely into port."

Council Speaks Briefly

Mr. J. W. Kingston, councillor for 1928, in his brief remarks spoke of the general regret at the passing of Councillor M. J. Quinn. He believed at the beginning of the year that an increase in the tax rate would be unavoidable, but careful management of the town's finances had made it unnecessary. He expected to be a candidate for election and would always look to the welfare of the village uppermost if elected.

Mr. Jos. Myles referred to the late Councillor Quinn as a very able member of the council, one of the most sensible, sane-thinking men he had ever met, whose death was a serious loss to the community. Mr. Myles spoke in glowing terms of the Tweed Collegiate Board and of the Superintendent, Walter E. Park. A bouquet was also handed to Reeve Sayers for his fair treatment to municipal affairs.

Mr. S. B. Rollins, nominated for the office of Reeve spoke at some length in discussing the affairs of the town. Mr. Rollins stated that he was not seeking the township, but had been urged by many citizens to be nominated for the office. He spoke briefly on the condition of those who were on relief and voiced the opinion that if they were given 6th an hour for 4 or 5 days work done, they would soon be able to pay their arrears of taxes. Mr. Rollins thought that considerable necessary work could be provided for these men by continuing improvements on the Park, particularly on the cultivated flow or six acres that along the waterfront east of the present skating ground. He expressed the belief that a conference of some kind between the heads of the various men of the village meeting with the council might offer valuable suggestions for bringing about improved financial status.

Mr. S. R. Curry, editor of the Tweed News, addressed the audience briefly but to the point. He was delivering, he said his first speech from a municipal platform and was thankful for all the kind words the council as he felt his residence in Tweed had been a very happy one in quality, as well as finding the job of running a newspaper among all his energies. He pointed out that new, young blood on the council was a good thing, and that he might be chosen as a representative for that year 1936, they be given the hearty support and co-operation of all the ratepayers.

The chairman in concluding the meeting drew attention to the new qualifications which must be done in time not later than 12 noon on Saturday preceding. A property owner must not be in arrears and had not been in arrears for more than three months in arrears at rent for one year. The meeting was concluded with the National Anthem.

MIDNIGHT CRASH CAUSES INJURY

Mrs. Wm. Drew of Sulphide Victim of Hurts in Collision

Tweed, Nov. 25 (Special to Ontario Intelligencer)—Mrs. William Drew, wife of William Drew, R.R. 2, Sulphide, Ontario, was injured in a motor accident which occurred on the Belleville-Tweed highway when a car driven by her son Douglas Drew, collided with one driven by Robert Sayers, Tweed, at a point about two and a half miles south of Tweed at 12.30 a.m. today. Mrs. Drew was taken to Foster's farmhouse and Bethel Church, where she was given medical attention and turned over in the ditch. The extent of Mrs. Drew's injuries could not be determined as yet.

The injured woman was taken to the surgery of Dr. Burrough and later to her home.

Mrs. Drew was not injured, nor was Palmateer but the latter's car was badly damaged.

Constable J. C. Hayes investigated the crash.

YOUNG PEOPLE ASSUME CHURCH

Mr. H. B. Simpson of Albert College is Guest Speaker

The first church service to be conducted under the auspices of the Young People's Union of John Street United Church was held last night. The service opened with H. B. Simpson, B.A. of Albert College being the guest speaker. Mr. Simpson had under the direction of Thomas Monaghan, with Miss Marion Leadbeater, chairman of the Cultural Committee, reading the Scripture and Miss Frances Bush, Chairman of the Christian Fellowship, leading in prayer. At the conclusion of the service a fellowship group composed of fifty assembled in the church parlors with chairman being the pastor, Rev. Robert Hall. Solos were given by Miss Louise Hall and Miss Bush. Mrs. Jack Hackborn with Alec Gordon assisted at the piano and Mr. Gordon also delighted with a number of piano selections. Jack Hackborn acted as song leader for the community singing. Light refreshments were served at the close of the program.

Mr. Simpson brought with him a message on the youth problem both in the past and present and how necessary it was for the youth of today to prepare themselves for the responsibilities they would have to shoulder in the years to come. He eulogized the work done by the youth movement and spoke in glowing terms of the excellent work being accomplished by the John Street group. Thomas Montague also spoke on the activities of the year which included an appraisal of work in youth bodies, the formation of groups to examine into the value of present programs for entertainment, being the chief factors. The service was well attended.

POLICE BLOTTER

Sergeant Arthur Booth answered a call to Clark's service station at 7.50 a.m. today, where it was discovered, that the premises there had been entered and a few articles stolen. The officer discovered that entrances had been made by means of forcing a rear window. The premises had been completely ransacked, but nothing reported missing except a few crayons.

Late Saturday afternoon Wilfred Hutchinson, Carlyville, reported his automobile had been stolen. Mr. Hutchinson had parked his machine on Front St. near Victoria Ave. upon his return it was missing. Early Sunday morning, while going over his beat, P. C. Arnots, found the vehicle abandoned behind Smith's Hardware. It was returned to its owner on Sunday.

A number of youthful pals are alleged to have caused disturbance on Chatham St. on Saturday afternoon by throwing old vegetables on the verandah of a residence. P. C. Taylor investigated and ascertained the names of a number of aged boys, who were instructed to report to the Chief Constable after school hours today for questioning.

Thirteen transients slumbered peacefully in the police station over the week end, 13 on Saturday night and six last night.

BARN IS BURNED IN P. E. COUNTY

Owned by Darcy Young, Melville Land All Contents Lost

Shortly after the midnight hour on Saturday the barn of Mr. Darcy Young at Melville, Hillier township, Prince Edward County, was discovered to be on fire and with its contents was destroyed. Origin of the blaze not ascertained. A child in the home awakened inmates by its cries owing to illness and a relative by reflections upon a window in the rear was ablaze. A team of horses, the only animals in the building, escaped without the flames. So rapid was the spread of fire that nothing could be saved. A car fell a prey to the devouring elements also the contents consisting of the usual crops and farm machinery. The loss amounting to a considerable sum was partially covered by insurance.

A. E. DOBBIE PAYS VISIT TO BELLEVILLE

Mr. A. E. Dobbie, published of the Record-News, Brantford, Ont., was a visitor to the city today and called at the Ontario Intelligencer office. Mr. Dobbie was formerly publisher of the Ontario Whig, Kingston.

POLICE COURT

Although he was not present in police court a charge of impeding and incommoding peaceful passengers was dismissed against Geoffrey Hutchinson, Carlyville, reported by yesterday's local police court, held before His Worship Magistrate K. J. Sutter K.C., who pointed out there was no city by-law covering this matter.

"I'm sorry, but I guess you have no alternative than to dismiss this case," stated Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C. as he observed outward signs of disappointment.

"Yes, I guess the case will have to be dismissed, but I would recommend, that this man stay away from Belleville in the future, Crown Attorney Donnan concluded.

Following a mental examination by three physicians, Thomas Levesque, Belleville, was found mentally deficient and recommended to the Provincial Mental Hospital at Kingston. Levesque was arrested in Belleville on Nov. 19th on a charge of indecent assault upon a five year old girl. The accused had faced similar charges on previous occasions, the court ordered a mental examination followed. He will be removed to the Institution next week. Levesque was arrested in court, when the physicians' findings were announced.

A charge of the theft of beef from the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company, Corbyville, preferred against Gordon Stapley, was dismissed in police court today, the charge not being proven. The case had to be further enhanced by the lack of evidence from the Corbyville plant.

A transient, who became slightly intoxicated last week and was charged for sentence until today, was instructed to leave the city within 24 hours while a charge of vagrancy for the I.C.A. was enlarged until Monday.

Mrs. Frank Smith gave one of Edgar Guest's poems "A Gift from Heaven".

Miss Faye Andrews then read the following address to the young couple.

Mount Pleasant,
Nov. 21st., 1938.

Dear Mildred and Aubrey,

We are gathered here this evening to extend to you our hearty congratulations and best wishes for a happy and peaceful life together.

Mildred, we shall miss you in every department of our church work in which you so willingly and efficiently served. We have listened with a great deal of pleasure to both your solos and readings.

We are pleased to know that you are not going far from Mount Pleasant and that you may be able to be present at our midst often.

Aubrey, we know that you have won a helpmate of such excellent worth and we do congratulate you most heartily. We trust you will always find her as is quoted: "helpmeet under command, wife, a helpmate, true through life.

We ask you to accept these gifts, hoping that you may receive them in the spirit in which they are given.

Both Mildred and Aubrey suitably replied, thanking their friends for the many parcels and inviting them all to visit them in the future.

A address song "For they are Jolly Good Fellows" and the parcels when opened revealed a large assortment of china and silver, blankets, china, silver, table reflector and rocking chair.

All joined in singing the National Anthem and Grace, and then a bountiful array of sandwiches and cake were served.

Born at Mount Pleasant on Sunday, November 17th 1935 to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rowe, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Johnson and Carlyn were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Johnson.

Reverends J. okel of Rawdon circuit and Foley of Springbrook circuit attended an evangelistic meeting of the Bay o. Quinte Conference in Belleville and plans were made to hold the Conference next June in Oshawa.

The Council sanctioned the repair of culvert on Lot 30, Con. 3 Rawdon.

Plans were made to either renew the road insurance for balance of year with Consolidated Insurance Co., or enter renewal for one year with A. E. Wilson.

The following accounts were ordered paid:

|---|---|

November 19th., 1938.

Dear Harold and Jean,—

We, your friends and neighbours of this community, have gathered here to-night but we may celebrate with you the happy occasion of your marriage. You Harold have grown up among us; during that time we have learned to appreciate your willingness and cheerful manner.

To you, Jean, coming as a bride to our community, we extend a hearty welcome and trust as the years pass, you will find us friends worthy of the name. To you both we extend our sincere congratulations for a long and happy married life.

As a token of our love and best wishes, we ask you to accept these gifts from your friends and neighbours, signed on behalf of the Community, Muriel Sine, Mrs. J. Shoemaker, Lorne Hagerman, Fran Sarles, John Caughell, Clare Tucker and Kenneth Cooke.

The bridegroom has suitably replied and thanked their friends for the lovely gifts and invited one an all to pay them a visit.

Among the gifts were a china cabinet, table, chair, silver, linen, china, and kitchen accessories.

After a delicious lunch at midnight a social time tripping the light fantastic to music supplied by all enjoyed a delightful game of cards. Erma Reid, Messrs. Lorne Hagerman and Thomas Sarles and others

FIRE FOLLOWS AN EXPLOSION

One Dead And Two Injured As Sudbury Station Burns

Sudbury, Ont., Nov. 25.—(CP)—One man is dead and two others are in the hospital here following an explosion and fire which gutted the Canadian National Railways station here last night.

Firemen entering burning building after a tank believed to have contained acetylene gas tore through one wall found the charred body of John R. Jones, night telegraph operator under his desk.

Robert Brown, jeweller, and Colin Collins, his assistant, were hurled to the platform outside and lay there until Ernest Gauja, one of the first rescuers to arrive, took them to hospital.

When fire fighter William Andrews examined the office after firemen won a two-hour battle with the flames he found a tank supposed to have contained oxygen, spattered with oil. Nearby was an oil drum. It is believed oil, escaping through a leak in the drum, came in contact with the oxygen causing spontaneous combustion and the explosion occurred, when the flames reached the acetylene.

The tank was spattered all over the room by the explosion which sent the heavy concrete wall into Louis Street 50 yards distant.

Waiting rooms in the station were deserted as the train for Toronto had departed ten minutes earlier.

VISION OBSCURED CRASH REASON

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller Instantly Killed as Train Hits Car

Toronto, Nov. 25 (CP)—Preparations were being made today for an inquest into the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller of Scarlettville, killed yesterday, when their coupe was hit by the locomotive of a Canadian National Railways freight train at Langstaff, a few miles north of the city.

Police attributed the accident, which took the life of the first farmer president of the Canadian National Exhibition and his wife to the fact that their view was obscured Mrs. Miller's view of the approaching train.

Members of the engine crew, it was learned, were uaware of the crash and Mr. Miller's body, wedged in the wreckage of the motor car, was carried almost a mile on the cowcatcher of the locomotive. Mrs. Miller's body was thrown into a field south of the tracks.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller, who were 78 and 81 years old respectively, had left their way from Stouffville to visit Mr. and Mrs. John McLeod, at Toronto. Mr. McLeod is manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia. They also had intended visiting their only son, Harrow at Hamilton. Mr. Miller was internationally know as a livestock breeder.

58 HORSES SEEN IN ONE CONTEST

French Team Wins Difficult Figures Eight Trial

Toronto, Nov. 25.—(CP)—A neat little trick, if you can do it, will be attempted by 58 horses, with officers from the militia of Six Nations School at the Royal Winter Fair's horseshow tonight.

The difficult figures eight course event concluded with the French team in first position, the Cavalry Team of Canada, United States, Irish Free State, France, Holland and Chile tonight will attempt the military handy course. The trick in this course consists of jumping over each of the sides of a three-sided box, doubling back after completing the hurdle.

The United States demonstrated its superiority Saturday night by putting three riders into the mounted class—although the Frenchman was first. An Irish horse was fourth and a Dutch horse sixth. The Canadian and Chilean officers rode into ill luck and failed even to qualify for the finals.

After seeing two score horses fail to clear the hurdles, a packed coliseum cheered loudly when Captain Andre Jousseaume, of the French team, and Captain C. C. Jacobs of the U.S. team put their horses over with the only clear performances of the 57 competing.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED

Stratford, Ont., Nov. 25 (CP) Harold Cousins of St. Marys appearing today for sentence on charges of damaging highway signs and mail boxes and reckless driving, was granted suspended sentence on the two former charges on condition he pay costs amounting to $26.01. On the reckless driving charge he was fined $10 and costs Cousins has already spent eight days in jail.

PIECE OF STRING MAY SOLVE DEATH

Believe Youth Was Wounded by Bullet of "Set Gun"

Midland, Ont., Nov. 25—(CP) — Upon a small piece of string tied to the trigger of a home made gun police hopes today as they sought to solve the shooting, which led to the death of Clyde Tinney, 20-year-old Port Harbor youth.

Object of a wide search since last Thursday, when his hunting companion, Philton Morrow, 19, found after wandering lost when he set out to bring help to the injured lad, Tinney's body was discovered just before dusk yesterday with a string around one foot.

It was believed he had been wounded by a bullet from a home gun placed in the woods by Indians to hunt deer. The gun could not be found.

Arrangements were made to bring the body to Bala, Muskoka summer resort, today while Constable Robert Beatty of the Ontario Provincial Police, remained behind to investigate.

Young Morrow and companion separated from their hunting companions, A. D. Wheeler and Alphonse Moreau of Honey Harbor. When Tinney was shot he was believed he had been struck by a stray bullet from a hunter's gun.

Morrow stayed with the lad a while and went to get help. Intensive search for Tobey started Thursday, when search had been found.

Indians place "set" guns in the bush country, attaching one end of string to the trigger and other to a tree. When a deer steps on the string the trigger is released.

CAR OFFICE ROBBED

Toronto, Nov. 25 (CP)—Dispatcher Edward Covey of the De Laza Cab Company reported to police today an armed robber forced him at pistol point to lie flat on the floor and ran out with $113 from the till.

Metals in "Forbidden" States In New Star, Nova Herculis

Commonplace Substances Possess Properties Rarely Seen by Astronomers

SHOWN BY SPECTRUM

Pasadena, Calif., Nov. 25 (AP)—The "forbidden lines" of the spectrum, something fantastic almost beyond belief, have appeared in Nova Herculis, the new star which blazed forth last December, like the Star of Bethlehem.

These lines, evidence of substances commonplace on earth in peculiar states impossible to duplicate here, are seen in the giant telescopes of the Mt. Wilson Observatory of the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

In the star, so distant its light takes at least 1,200 years to reach the earth, the astronomers are finding out the things which cannot be learned in laboratories. They have seen iron, nickel, oxygen, nitrogen and sulphur, all in the seemingly "forbidden" states.

It now appears possible this star did not burst like a bomb but fired like a battleship, letting go successive broadsides perhaps first in one quarter then in another. The spectroscope showed these bursts are flaming gases of metals and other ordinary elements but all of them at first in states usually well known to the stars.

Take On New State.

After they had traveled outward for months, at speeds ranging between 300 and 600 miles a second, the gases abruptly, within the space of a week, ceased to act like the ordinary things they had been and took on "forbidden" antics, states seem to be distant nebulae, puzzling seldom caught in the making.

The first new iron was light changed. For what happened the scientists have an explanation, and a name, metastable state. When iron is heated to the state of vapor and gives off light, the light is the energy released by electrons flying from one position or state in the iron to another. These transitions or jumps which take place according to definite laws are called "permitted" and give the usual lines in the spectrum. But ordinary conditions such as are found in the laboratory the life time of an electron in one of these states between collisions with other electrons or atoms is very short, barely a millionth of a second.

If, however, the density of the vapor is very low, atoms become infrequent and an electron can stay in a given state for minutes or even hours without being knocked out of it. A metastable state is one from which it jumps only very improbable and requires a long period of time. So if the density becomes low enough that it is produced by jumps from metastable states which give the "forbidden" lines.

ROYAL JUBILEE FOREST IN PALESTINE

Jews of Canada are now engaged in a campaign with the Empire committee for the planting of 10,000 trees as Canada's contribution to the project of Jews of the British Empire to honour King George V. Fifth's Jubilee by the planting of a forest in the hills of Nazareth, Palestine. The chairman of the Canadian Committee is Mrs. A. J. Freiman, O.B.E., well known philanthropist.

The King George V Jubilee Forest is one of the finest tributes which can be paid the British monarch whose reign Jews recognize as one of happiness and achievement for the Jews. Trees are of inestimable importance to that land and his more fitting tribute to the King could be projected. The Jews have been given by Britain, encouragement to look to a national homeland. By shouldering this responsibility, the King Emperor and his advisers have given new life and hope to hundreds of thousands who would otherwise have been homeless and in despair.

After centuries of neglect and vandalism, Palestine has been denuded of her trees. Soil has been washed away and marshes have been formed, and pestilential fevers have followed in their train. From the point of view of health, beauty and economic development, the progress of Palestine marches with the reclamation of this soil—soil that can be recovered by afforestation—giving shelter and shade, increasing the rainfall, and creating a rich and profitable medium for tillage. The barest knowledge of the Scriptures brings to the mind of everyone some of the most graphic pictures in all literature, indicating what the tree means to the people of that land.

His Majesty is graciously presenting a tree from the Great Windsor Park to be planted as the first tree in the Jubilee forest. In response to many requests, the committee is pleased to arrange for a section in a commemorative volume to be published to be devoted to trees planted in the names of departed relations and Jewish soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice in the Great War.

It is expected that every synagogue, institution, society and organization will wholeheartedly co-operate in this unique project to mark the loyalty of the Jews of the Empire to the Crown.

There is to be a children's corner in the forest. A single tree in this corner will cost one dollar and a half. The child donor will receive a certificate recording his or her name and the number of trees planted.

The hills that look over the Plain of Esdraelon, where Saul fought the Philistines were once covered with dense woodland. On the plain itself are the small holdings of the new Palestine that is and is to be. A million trees are to be planted on 1,500 acres of land out of half a million dollars. The work will provide work for 500 Jewish refugees out of Germany.

A NATIONAL CHURCH SPEAKS

Recently the Church of England passed a resolution against race proscription in Germany, which is considered highly significant. A writer in the New York Times comments upon this attitude of the British Church: "There is no voluntary religious organization speaking. It is the Established Church. It is the representative of the British Government in the spiritual field. It may almost be called 'the organ voice of England.' The various Bishops meeting in the Church Assembly in London, together with the Archbishop of Canterbury, said no more about the persecution of the Jews in Germany than has been said for example, by Sir Austen Chamberlain and by Prime Minister Baldwin himself. But their solemn deliverances have a meaning and force beyond that of any merely official statement. They echo and repeat the opinions of the British people and Government, but do it with the function and power of a recognized and venerable religious body.

"This Anglican appeal did not go wide of the mark. It had nothing to say about the nature of the German Government. This might be a monarchy or a democracy, a dictatorship or a military oligarchy, for all that appeared in the resolution of the Church of England. The Germans may have, or submit to, whatever regime they please. It is not even a question of the rights of citizenship that is involved, but merely, as one of the English Bishops said, the rights of humanity. The existing rulers of Germany may not be influenced by this protest. But they will not last for ever. The time may come when a new order of government will be set up in Germany and will wish to know what to do to restore the Reich in the confidence and respect of other nations. It will then have a reminder and a guide in the friendly but unhesitating words in which the Established Church of Great Britain has pointed out the terrible moral and international loss to Germany involved in her race superstition and the injustices and cruelties which have flowed from it."

ACCOUNTING

Life is a thing of accounting.
Not merely gold or of cows,
But thoughts, words and deeds that go mounting in debits, assets, profit and loss.

The pessimist says we're deluded,
In the end all we have will be lost;
And when the last audit's completed,
The profits aren't worth what they cost.

That all joy is balanced by sorrow,
That laughter is offset by tears,
Tho' hope live today, yet tomorrow
Fate burdens the heart with grim fears.

The deeper we love, then the steeper
The price that in heartache we pay;
When Fate calls grim death the dark reaper,
To take our best assets away.

Yet tho' this be truth past denying,
Much worth while remains everywhere,
For those who, all cynics defying,
Accept the conditions and share,

Life with its gladness and sorrow,
Life with its laughter and tears,
Life with its hopes for tomorrow,
Life with its joys and its fears.

Montreal. W. J. King.

WHAT AND WHY IS POLL TAX ASKS A READER OF THIS COLUMN, and here's the answer.

The Poll tax is to be paid by citizens 21 years of age and upwards when they have not been assessed on the assessment rolls as tenant or owner, or for income or business tax. The law of Ontario is: "Subject to . . . every other male inhabitant of a city, town, or village, of the age 21 years and upwards, and under 60 years of age, and not otherwise exempted by law from performing statute labor, who has not been assessed upon the assessment roll of the city, town, or village, shall instead of such labor, be taxed yearly at not less than one dollar, or more than five dollars, as may be determined by law of the council, and the same shall be levied and collected as the council of the municipality may by law direct."

ALL ASHORE THAT'S GOING ASHORE—all aboard for India—will soon be heard at the Pier of Brindisi as the opening of a new direct steamship line from Canada to India is opened. Canada is certainly stepping right along as a nation with trade routes reaching to every part of the world, and Canadian goods in demand wherever they are placed on the foreign market. At a luncheon served on board the steamship Duchess of Pittsburg at Montreal last Thursday the possibility of regular and frequent steamship sailing between Canada and India was discussed by the Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce and others, and it was stated that the possibility was almost a certainty. This season the City of Pittsburg was one of fifteen vessels of the same line making the trip between India and far Eastern ports and Montreal. The luncheon was served in the style of India and the entire function had an Oriental atmosphere as the ship's crew is composed of Malays and natives of India. The deck crew is composed of Malays and the saloon attendants are Indian stewards. Canada is not permitted to carry Indian crews into northern waters during the cold months.

A woman went to see a doctor. "Doctor," she exclaimed, loudly, bouncing into the room, "I want you to say frankly what's wrong with me."

He surveyed her from head to foot in his best professional manner.

"Madam," he said at length, "I've just three things to tell you. First, your weight wants reducing by nearly fifty pounds. Secondly, our beauty would be improved by freer use of soap and water. And, thirdly, I'm an artist; the doctor lives on the next floor."

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 25, 1915.

Two men who had been friends for a long time arrived at an arrangement to come to Belleville from their home in the country. One man owned a horse but no harness or buggy, the other owned a harness and buggy. They consolidated their outfits and journeyed to town. All went well for a time until they had a little liquor, not much, but sufficient to cause an argument between them. The result was that the man who owned the horse walked off with it and left the other in town with his harness and buggy. He hired a horse to drive home.

Mr. Wallace Alford of this city received a postal card from his son Harry this morning who is connected with the dental corps at the Dardanelles. He states that he is well.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary in connection with the R. of L. B. of the G. T. R., a social was held at the hall on Pine street. There was a large attendance and the evening was one of rare enjoyment. Mr. F. Flagler won the gentlemen's prize in the euchre competition and Mrs. Singer won the ladies' prize.

50 Years Ago

Nov. 25th., 1885

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wi..ms celebrated in a right loyal manner the 50th anniversary of their wedding yesterday. In the afternoon many friends called to offer their congratulations. During the day Lee Rev. J. Burns, Rector of St. Thomas' Church, repeated the ceremony that made Mr. and Mrs. Williams one in the Springtimes of life. In the evening some one hundred and fifty guests assembled to offer congratulations. A purse of $230.00 in gold was presented by the Hon. Robert ..tead with a suitable address. Mr. and Mrs. Williams made happy replies. Other presents were numerous and costly. About ten o'clock a bountiful repast was announced and was partaken of by the company. The customary toasts were proposed and elicited responses from the Hon. Robert Read, Mr. George E. Henderson and many others. The ladies were richly dressed and as usual they were the life of the meeting. The happy couple took up in the early morning after wishing the bride and groom many more years of wedded happiness. Their handsome brick residence is now ready for occupancy.

The Young Conservative Club will meet this evening.

tion Day and a Liberal was declared elected.

Women Have No Vote

Women have no right to vote, which may be the reason our cute baby was kissed by office-seekers during the campaign.

The veteran Premier Taschereau seeks re-election squarely on his record. He claims Quebec now heads Confederation in many spheres and credits it to being a living extravagant with public funds and to having cut down expenditures and pare the budget to the bone. They would merge several Government services and Senator Fernand Wood, the home of the Lieutenant-Governor, and the Legislative Council they dubbed "the national dormitory" into an Economic Council, a sort of Dominion brain trust.

Series of Demonstrations

The campaign was marked toward its close by a series of demonstrations in widely-scattered points of the Province. In Montreal Premier Taschereau's meeting was marred by intempered by the throwing of frozen potatoes and tomatoes and the breakage of several windows. Police restored order, however, and the speech-making was thus interrupted.

Closest to a riot was the fracas at a Liberal meeting in Chicoutimi. Not one of the scheduled speakers including Hon. Hector Laferte, speaker of the Legislative Council, was given a hearing and more than one audience were smashed by rotten eggs and stones. Mr. Laferte and others had to take a building by a back door when someone switched off the lights.

At Ste. Anne Des Monts, Hon. John Hall-Kelly, Legislative Councillor and recently named Minister without Portfolio, addressed crowds at a Liberal rally.

Separate and joint meetings of Mr. Duplessis and Mr. Gouin passed without incident.

Another feature of the campaign and the last-minute hot shot of 20,000 fake voting cards, of the type used by impersonators in the boiler room of Montreal city hall building. Police also reported that the entire Soviet List of a Quebec ville, Labor candidate in Maisonneuve, were stolen from his committee rooms.

The last Quebec election took place August 24, 1931, and resulted in election of 77 Liberals, 11 Conservatives and two Independent-Liberals. The Liberal party has been in office since 1897 and Mr. Taschereau has been Premier since 1920 when he succeeded Sir Lomer Gouin, father of the Action Libérale Nationale leader.

Montreal, Nov. 25 (CP)—Wooed for the past three weeks with all the artifice known to a recurring election, voters of Quebec were giving their answer at the polls today.

The people had the choice of retaining Premier Taschereau and his Liberal Government to power or electing candidates bearing the stamp of joint approval of Maurice Duplessis, Conservative leader, and Paul Gouin, leader of the Quebec Liberals Nationale.

Announcement of the Duplessis-Gouin union gave a fillip to the campaign, though the allied groups be successful the agreement is that Duplessis will be Premier, while the choice of most Cabinet Ministers will be left to Mr. Gouin.

Polls opened at nine o'clock and close at six, Eastern Standard time. Government candidates will be opposed in all but three of the 90 constituencies. In two ridings Liberals were returned by acclamation, while in the third an allied candidate withdrew the day after Nomina-

Ready to Move On Three Fronts

than a third of a million men were ready today to converge on the Ethiopian defenses from three directions in Italy's east African campaign of occupation.

On the northern front, where, Gen. Emilio De Bono ended his African career today, the Eritrean army consolidated its position for a new advance from Makale when Marshal Pietro Badoglio, becoming commander-in-chief, arrives this week.

On the southern front, Gen. Rudolfo Graziani's army claiming control of the entire Ogaden province, worked on new bases from which to drive ahead to Harar, Jijiga and Diredawa.

From Asmara, Eritrea, in the east, a column moved across the Danakil Desert with its objective reported by Italian war correspondents to be Dessye, about midway between Makale and Harar.

To oppose Italian advances were forces of Ethiopian warriors estimated generally at about double the fascist numbers. Rough calculations compiled from official and unofficial reports from all the Ethiopian fronts were concentrating principally in two localities—one mass forming on the north in the Lake Ashangi region, preparing to give battle to the Italians driving down from there, the other concentrated to be a Harar.

Autonomous Gov't Will Embrace 25 Counties in Wide Area of N. China

Sounds Fee Rescue of China And Close Harmony With Japan

5,000,000 POPULATION

Probably Forerunner of Similar Action by Other Areas

(Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press)

Tungchow, Hopeh Province, Nov. 25 (AP)—An autonomous government was inaugurated today for a wide area of North China, embracing 25 counties in Hopeh Province.

Yin Ju-Keng, Administrative Commissioner of the demilitarized zone, who proclaimed political independence from the Central Chinese Government for this region, announced:

"I stand for the rescue of China and close harmony with Japan."

The newly-proclaimed self-government area included roughly about 8,600 square miles—all territory south of the great wall to within a few miles of Peiping and Tientsin, and also taking in several counties of Southeastern Chahar Province.

Chinese estimates placed the population of the autonomous area at about 5,000,000.

A belief spread widely the establishment of an autonomous regime in the demilitarized zone was a forerunner of similar action by Gen. Sung Cheh-Yuan, Overlord of Hopeh and Chahar Provinces.

Japanese troops, concentrated along the great wall, stood ready to block any effort by the Central Forces of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek to enter the affected area.

Executive power in the new area was vested in a committee of nine, headed by Yin, who also took over personal supervision of foreign relations.

The proclamation by Yin, who tions and military affairs, maintained friendly relations with the Japanese military, said his Government recognized the sovereignty of Nanking but resented against interference by the Central Government in local affairs.

The inauguration made Tungchow, 20 miles east of Peiping and site of the North China American School, capital of the new government.

Yin's proclamation of autonomy denounced Nanking Government's monetary reform program, "isolating nationalization of silver, and said there was need of combatting the Communist "menace" in the north.

SENATOR MURPHY DIES IN OTTAWA

Former Secretary of State And Postmaster General in King Cabinet

Ottawa, Nov. 25 (CP)—Succumbing to the effects of an injury, which had held him bedridden for several months, Senator Charles Murphy, former Secretary of State and Postmaster General, died here yesterday at the age of 72. The death of Senator Murphy marks the first gap in the Upper House since its ranks were reinforced by the former Government before it was defeated at the polls.

The deceased Senator had been a member of the Red Chamber for ten years.

For the last quarter of a century he had been prominent in the public life of Canada and was widely known as a forceful debater with a command of language, that few of his confrers could equal. He was a master of graceful diction, which could be turned to feeling tribute or relentless attack as he willed. As a party man he was a staunch Liberal, one of the Old School of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, whose memory he reverred.

Born in Ottawa in 1863 he spent his whole life in the capital. He was educated here and in this city he practised his profession of law. His entry into the House of Commons was under Laurier when, being taken on into the Cabinet as Secretary of State, he was elected in the constituency of Russel. At each election for the next 17 years he was regularly returned for that riding.

In 1925 he was elevated to the Senate. Since then his activities had been no spectacular.

The deceased Senator was unmarried.

LEAGUE SESSION IS POSTPONED

Called For Friday to Consider Oil Embargo Against Italy

Geneva, Nov. 25 (AP)—The League of Nations announced today, Friday's session of the sanctions committee of eighteen, called to consider an oil embargo against Italy, would be postponed to a date not yet fixed.

The postponement followed a meeting at Paris between Premier Laval and British Ambassador Sir George Russell Clerk in which they agreed to recommend the delay, lest early oil sanctions aggravate dangerously existing political tensions.

Some league sources expressed belief Laval desired more time to attempt conciliation of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, feeling addition of an oil embargo to the arms, financial and economic sanctions against Italy would endanger success.

BIG CITIES TO HAVE CONTESTS

Ontario's first squadron of candidates for 1936 municipal honors was on the field today in scores of municipalities. They qualified to run for office when writing taken place next Monday, by qualifying as candidates Saturday.

A scant half-dozen cities were eliminated from the list which will have many campaigns when acclamations developed. Sudbury's mayor is W. J. Quiles, Owen Sound's is Wallace E. Dickin, Kitchener's is J. Albert Smith, Guelph's is Harry Mahoney and Gurnwall's is Aaron Horovitz.

But there are mayoralty fights to be waged at Branford, Chatham, Oak, Kingston, Stratford, St. Thomas and Woodstock, in addition to many towns.

Lin Yutang interprets one civilization to another in his book "My Country and My People."

The Chinese who has a wide knowledge of Western culture, writes in English of modern China, the Chinese mind, customs, poetry, humor, art, government and social institutions. Dr. Lin has lived in Europe and America and knows the spirit of the East with a critical eye. He is widely read in Western literature and has not only "learned" Western culture but understands it. He writes with the wisdom and humour of his race. Pearl Buck has written a rather clumsy introduction to the volume. "None but a Chinese could write such a book," she says. "It is, I think, the truest, the most profound, the most complete, the most important book yet written about China. And best of all, it is written by a Chinese, a modern whose roots are firmly in the past, but whose rich flowering is the present."

As a newspaperman, Courtney Ryley Cooper covered some two hundred murder cases. Through his experiences with the characters and ways of the underworld, Mr. Cooper is well qualified to write the powerful argument for public support of police agencies in "Tomorrow Public Enemies." Out of some three million criminals whose fingerprints are on file in Washington, the author says the cases of a few thousand are given a special list of "public enemies." The work of the Division of Investigation of the Department of Justice under Edgar Hoover and some of its successful campaigns are described vividly and well. An amazing number of facts are presented, of the underground workings of modern crime, the activities of communication, of gangs, kidnappers, racketeers, criminal lawyers. The story of crime as it exists, in the United States and the efforts of the Division of Investigation to outwit and punish the violators of the law, is an absorbing tale which proves fact stranger than fiction.

"They All Sang" is a musical record of America over half a century, told by the internationally music publisher Edward B Marks. Mr. Marks has known the world of "Tin Pan Alley" from the days of Tony Pastor to Rudy Vallee. His book is filled with memories of personalities of the stage who have lived his famous, minstrels, vaudeville stars, movie and radio singers. The book is illustrated with facsimiles of songs of the minstrel and comedian and the early days of the songs.

The story of the evolution of radio broadcasting is written by two of the men who have been influential in its development, in "This Thing Called Broadcasting." Alfred N. Goldsmith and Austin G. Lescarboura have been associated with broadcasting from its infancy and are acquainted with the problems which the young industry has to solve. The radio is discussed in its relation to the home, the woman, the farmer, sports, education and the church. The rise of broadcasting from a mere novelty to the art it is, is admirably told.

Minature Foundries, Electric Stoves Stream-Lined Trains Among Toys

New York, Nov. 25—(AP)—The creative fancy of the toymakers is manifest again in the Christmas shop windows today.

A mother's ignorance of the fundamental laws of cantilever construction in the suspension bridge may bring much sorrow this Christmas to the child who has asked for a photoelectric cell and received instead an aerodynamic flyer.

A survey of the toy market indicated the industrial revolution was here to stay. Some of the evidence:

Scooters and doll carriages as well as tricycles and electric trains are streamlined; sleighs are now equipped with three runners in order to stably knick-knacks.

Add traction on turns; cement mixers have joined the ranks of the equipment; a microscope set that by a readjustment of mirrors can be transformed into a kaleidoscope, periscope or burning lens; toy sizzle have radios that work.

The play-room should be without the electric stove which is capable of roasting a whole chicken. Old-fashioned construction sets have been augmented by glass-blowing, mineralogical and hydraulic engineering equipment. By learning to use a miniature moulding foundry, creative youngsters may now manufacture their own lead soldiers, medals, medallions, and other de-

REINDEER DRIVE MENACE CARIBOO

Wild Life Expert Sees Danger in Arrival at Hudson Bay

Montreal, Nov. 23 — Canada's drive of a herd of reindeer from Alaska to Hudson Bay to provide food and clothing for Eskimos may turn out to have done great damage to the native caribou of the northlands—more damage than good, according to Prof. T. H. Shelford, University of Illinois who arrived in the Windsor Hotel Friday.

Prof. Shelford is an authority on wild life. His objection to reindeer in the Canadian North is based on the fact that Alaskan caribou have been already driven out of these areas where reindeer had contact with them.

"How do we know," he asked, "what new diseases, what new parasites are given our native caribou by the reindeer? It is never a good thing to mix two strains of similar life. And it was not a good thing in Alaska."

Reindeer had been brought to Alaska in the early part of this century in order to give a stable food supply to Eskimos. It was supposed that the natives there would take to herding the reindeer.

No Herding

"How my information is." Professor Shelford declared, "that the Alaskan Eskimos have practically entirely given up the herding of reindeer. Your Eskimos may do the same."

Professor Shelford believes that there would be a field for common action by United States and Canadian authorities in the Yukon and Alaska area in keeping reindeer and caribou apart. The importation, he thinks, kills off the native deer.

"There are other fields for common action on this continent, according to lecturer. There is for instance, the long discussed matter of providing protected feeding grounds for ducks and other migratory birds along their lines of flight from north to south.

Another project which Professor Shelford finds peculiarly interesting is that of bringing into existence the proposed wild life refuge on the border of Minnesota and Ontario, west of the Great Lakes.

"There already is an Ontario wild life park there," he said. "It is known as the Quetico Park. We, on President Roosevelt's suggestion, are trying to make a game refuge of the Superior Forest reserve on the adjoining Minnesota side."

Allow Wild Life.

He declared his belief that wild life in such a park should be permitted to exist in its natural state.

"By that I mean that I don't believe in killing off predatory animals. I think the wolves and coyotes should be allowed to live because they maintain the natural balance of life," he said.

He pointed out that the Isle Royale game preserve, some 60 miles from the Ontario coast was naturally stocked by moose which crossed the ice to the island one winter, and multiplied exceedingly because no wolves associated with them.

"As a result," he said, "they have eaten the island bare and now they have to be transfered to some other game preserve."

With the Boy Scouts

...A Scout is a friend to all, and a brother to every other Scout — 4th Scout Law.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Good news! A new troop of Scouts and a Cub Pack are "away" to a good start, sponsored by St. Andrews Church Group. Mr. Manley Anderson is Scoutmaster and Mr. Jim Allen, Cubmaster. The best of good Scouting, St. Andrews!

The 3rd Belleville Troop under Scoutmaster Jim Morley is without doubt a going concern as can be expected under such efficient leadership. It would be well worth the time of anyone interested in the training of boys to visit this group any Monday night at 8 o'clock at St. George's Mission. Jim and his boys will extend to you the hand of fellowship and make you heartily welcome.

Scoutmaster Bob Brown is now getting into his stride for Fall and Winter work and we wish them success. Parents and group committees should encourage the Scoutmaster and boys by turning out to some of the meetings.

John St. Group under Scoutmaster Sam Graham is now being re-organized, and under his leadership will no doubt soon be a live organization. Mr. H. R. Frink has joined this group as an instructor, and will be of great assistance to the Scoutmaster.

WORLD BRIEFS

A unique angle of Scouting as a world peace movement was emphasized by its originator, Lord Baden-Powell in an address at Winnipeg when the "hero of Mafeking" declared that the movement in South Africa had made an important contribution toward healing the breach between the British and Dutch, of which Mafeking was one of the historic struggles.

"Lost Children" duty at fall fairs brings Boy Scouts varied experiences. At the Ottawa exhibition this fall a 4-year-old picked up and "not called for" could give neither name nor address. Did he know his way home? Yes, and he pointed, apparently, down the nearby street. Holding his hand, a Scout set out to take him home. Some hours later a willed Scout returned. Home sweet home at last, the small hiker had led him on, and on . . . to a home several miles in the country.

No "Red Indians" had been reported in Scotland, but when lumbermen fighting a brush fire in a pine wood at Berkd heard a yell and looked, their hair rose as they saw undoubted redmen charging through the smoke. While they stared, poised for flight, the Indians attacked the fire, and resolved themselves into Boy Scouts. They were members of the Royal High School troop of Portobello, who as a novelty had been camping Indian fashion and it costume. The fires lasted throughout the night and into the morning, but the smoke-grimed "savages" stayed with it, and rendered valuable aid.

A "Boy Scout Week" to advance Scouting in New South Wales, was officially opened by His Excellency the Governor Sir Alexander Ruthven.

Among those present at the recent world gathering of Rover Scouts in Sweden was a group of very smart and highly intelligent Ethiopian Rovers, according to one of the leaders of the Canadian contingent. There were no Italians.

ATTACHED HOUSE BURNS

Brockville, Ont., Nov. 25 (CP)—A house attached to the cheese factory at Fairfax was destroyed by fire last night with most of its contents, including the furniture of its cheesemaker, Clinton B. Rice.

Insurance on the property, owned by the Fairfax Co-operative Cheese Co. had just expired. The neighboring factory was saved.

HANGS SELF IN BARN

Brockville, Nov. 25 (CP)—Lewis Strader, between 35 and 40 years of age, was found today hanging from a beam in the livery stable which he conducted at Seeleys Bay. Authorities said he left a note addressed to his mother. Coroner McPherson, Prescott, conducted an investigation, but on advice of crown authorities here decided an inquest was unnecessary.

Weddings

WILLIS—BENSON

On Thursday, November 21, the wedding took place at Bonariaw of Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Benson, to Mr. Bert Willis, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Willis, Campbellford, Ont.

LEONARD—CRUJI

The marriage took place this morning at ten o'clock at St. Michael's Pro-Cathedral of Clarinda Anita, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodolph Cruji, Bleecker Avenue, and William George Leonard, C.A., of Kingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Leonard, Collier Bay. Rt. Rev. J. F. Nicholson, V.G., officiated.

The bride was a lovely young town of sea green velvet with matching turban and carried Talisman roses.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Cruji, who wore French violet chiffon and carried American Beauty roses.

Mr. Joseph Crabosit of Brockville was groomsman.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard left on a wedding trip to western cities, the bride travelling in a brown wool ensemble Mr. and Mrs. Leonard will reside in Kingston after December 5th.

BRIGHT—LOCKRIDGE

At Emmanuel Church Rectory on Saturday the marriage took place of Gertrude Margaretta Lockridge, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lockridge, Trenton, and Mr. John Lambert Bright, Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mason Bright. Bishop George Marshall officiated. The bride wore saure blue chiffon velvet with turban to match and carried chrysanthemums. Miss Madeline Lockridge and Mr. Harry E. Bright were the attendants and the ceremony was performed in the presence of about twenty immediate relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Bigby will reside in Trenton.

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL
"Woman in the Dark"
Fay Wray and Ralph Bellamy in Dashiell Hammett's New Story on a Smart Double Bill.

Those who like Hmmett's brand of red-blooded action and constantly unfolding surprise in their movies will have a treat in store for them at the Capitol Theatre this week where Fay Wray and Ralph Bellamy are starred.

Dashiell Hammett probably is America's foremost living writer of mystery thrillers, and in "Woman in the Dark" he has surpassed even his own fine record made in "The Maltese Falcon", "The Glass Key" and "The Thin Man". As in the former, the author starts things moving at a rapid clip at the very first and there is no diminution of pace until the final fadeout.

It is the story of Gary Bradley, who is paroled from prison after having served five years of a sentence for manslaughter, and Louise Keating, a young and beautiful concert singer who is attempting to live down her past.

Gary is out on his pre-lexicent attentions of Billy Robson, a man-about-town who has designs on her affections, she comes to Bradley's cabin at a late hour one night. Nolan, Robson's gangster henchman, arrives at the cabin shortly thereafter, and attempts to take Louise away by force. This is hardly confronted with a situation that is almost identical with the one which had resulted in his prison term.

Fay Wray is more appealing in her characterization of the persecuted Louise, and Ralph Bellamy is splendid as the reformed convict. As the suave man-about-town, Melvyn Douglas makes you hate him thoroughly, and no higher compliment could be paid to his artistry than that. The excellent supporting cast includes Horace Allen, Robert Emmett Jr., Ruth Gillette, Granville Bates, Neil O'Day and Jack Mulhall.

"March of Events"

A new type of newsreel, which is neither a feature nor an actual newsreel, appears on the screen of the Capitol Theatre under the heading of "Ladies Crave Excitement", starring Norman Foster and Evelyn Knapp which opens at the Capitol Today.

This newsreel, for picture purposes, called the "March of Events", shows how news events of the day may be dramatized by the showing of scenes taken years before, brought up to date and analyzed by a competent narrator.

The method employed in the production of these scenes is shown in the sequences which show the blowing up of the Maine battleship. It comes to Norman Foster, at the newsreel company, that the battle which has been derelict for two years, has been sighted, he sends a cameraman on one of Uncle Sam's torpedo boats to film the actual explosion when it occurs.

Shots run in sequence and described by a narrator, dramatize the event and provide the idea for the formation of a newsreel which accepts the industry's award, and entitled "The March of Events".

Also on Monday and Tuesday is our dinnerware nights. Shows at 2.30, 7.00 and 9.00.

THE BELLS
"In Old Kentucky"
Stars Will Rogers in Tingling Horse Racing Romance

The picture that marks the glorious climax of Will Rogers' career, "In Old Kentucky" opened to a breathless audience at the Bells Theatre on Saturday, to bring America's beloved star to the screen in a production in the Derby of absorbing, favorite play.

Skilfully modernized by the scenarists, "In Old Kentucky" is mellow with the humor that brought Will Rogers fame, filled with the romance and excitement of racing thoroughbreds that made his story the favorite of millions of theatregoers.

Rogers has the role of Steve Tapley, a trainer of champions and a shrewd judge of horse flesh in a land where all the horses are fast and all the women pretty.

Around the romance of Dorothy Wilson and Russell Hardie much of the picturesque intrigue that is attendant upon the training of thoroughbreds is the trainer for wealthy Charles Bolton (Hardie) who has won his protected Miss Wilson's grandfather, Charles Sellon, from Richard Cromwell.

The task of training Miss Wilson's colt for the forthcoming Derby brings up only part of Rogers' time, however, for he is also deeply interested in the courtship of a Southerner, played by Esther Dale. And Bill Holcomb, the farmer, contributes his able aid in both these tasks.

Thoroughly human and comingled, this delightful story weaves its way, bringing us to the spectacular climax in the race. And here Miss Wilson defies all precedent by riding her mount to victory and a happy solution for all concerned.

George Marshall has directed with his usual unusual ability in his spirited handling of the picture, working from a fine background of drama, noted humorist, and Gladys Lehman.

In the supporting cast, Bill Robinson makes his bid for consideration as Uncle Billy, Louise Beavers and Charles Sellon, Charles Richman, Irvin Cobb and Donald Meek Henry render outstanding performances in important roles.

Coming soon to the Bells Patricia are featured in "Kiss the Bride," with Joan Bennett and Herbert Marshall at the Bells in many weeks, the Bells Movietone News Platine concluded one of the best varied programs seen here in many weeks. We strongly advise you to see the splendid program of delightful screen entertainment, to be repeated again tonight and Tuesday, matinee and evening. Performances start daily at 2.30, 7.00 and 9.10. "In Old Kentucky" starts daily at 3.00, 7.40 and 9.50 p.m.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—Selective buying helped to overcome profit taking in the stock market but the late tone was irregular. Both U. S. Steel and Bethlehem eased. Crucible Steel, however, got up two points.

A fairly firm range was followed by N. Y. Central, Chrysler, Consolidated Oil, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Coca-Cola. Homestake Mining was up 13 points on a single transfer. Westinghouse lost a point and Montgomery Ward and Johns-Manville gained a fraction. Sales approximated 2,000,000 shares.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—Cautious bullishness ruled in today's stock market. Specialties in rails, oils, motors and scattered specialties showed the best strength in response to the upward push but profit-takers were plentiful.

Transactions on stocks quotations were about unchanged in International Nickel, Canadian Pacific and Dome while McIntyre eased. On the curb Distillers-Seagram was firmer. Hiram Walker was steady but Lake Shore yielded a small fraction. Government bonds were irregular and Canadian funds were 1-32 of a cent lower at 99 29/32 bid.

Shares of Homestake Mining jumped 23 points on a single transfer. Approximately 2,000,000 shares were registered by Standard Oil of California, Chrysler, Studebaker and Johns-Manville. Steel and Power and Light issues were at a standstill.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 25—(CP)—Industrial shares turned about today without getting anywhere up till early afternoon though heavy losses, slightly out-numbered narrow gains. Brazilian and other issues in touch of political unrest in Brazilian and in early afternoon the price quoted at 10 which is down 5-8 for the day.

International Nickel, Ford A, C. P. R. and the oils and Hquors were the leaders. Gold stocks and gold building shares maintained a firm to strong tone.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Nov. 25—(CP)— Base metal stocks had a substantial advance in active trading in the early session of Monday morning trading today while the golds had a lilliputian share of the day's business lagged. The afternoon trading session was slow with prices dropping some of the early gains.

Sudbury Basin climbed 30 cents to 2.80 and was followed within a few cents of the level this afternoon. Noranda was strong at time but Ventures was strong at 1.41 and lost some of its advance later. Nelson-Horseman gained 2 cents to 3 cents.

Trading was again active in God's Lake and the price dipped to 1.17 and then recovered.

U. K. Produce Prices

OTTAWA, Nov. 25—(CP)—Butter was steady and cheese firm on United Kingdom market quotations received by the Department of Agriculture.

Quotations: Butter— New Zealand 100 to 102 shillings per cwt. (22.72 to 22.95 cents per lb); Australian 101 to 102 shillings per cwt. (22.50 to 22.73 cents per lb).

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

Although the Belleville intermediate O.R.F.U. team won their game, at Cobourg on Saturday the total score of 8 to 6, the Lindsay squad downed the Oshawa Blue Devils 9 to 11 thereby giving the Motor City quad the Lake Ontario title for 1935. Oshawa finished first with seven wins and a loss, Belleville was second with five wins, a tie and two losses, both to Oshawa. Peterboro was next in line with four victories, three defeats and a tie with Belleville. Lindsay finished fourth, with Cobourg was in the cellar, it is without fear of contradiction to say that the competition in the Lake Shore group was the keenest and best throughout the province and in th.i intermediate class. At no time during the entire schedule did any one team swamp their opponents by what might be termed as an overwhelming score, the majority of games not being decided until the final whistle sounded and Rugby football has made rapid strides in the Lake Ontario area in the past two seasons and is fast advancing in public favor. A certain has been rung down on a successful season and the group executives at Oshawa, Blue Devils annex the O.R.F.U. intermediate championship and we offer our congratulations Oshawa Blue Devils."

Naturally Coach Kennedy and his backers are disappointed because they learned that Oshawa had defeated Lindsay, as the latter team looking eagerly towards a possible play-off with the Blue Devils. The latter group has had a very successful season and it is understood the Lindsay executive are now angling for their annual meeting at which time they hope to secure a strong team to their members, thereby elevating the group to a higher plane. Coach Kennedy has laboured long and strenuously with his squad and has every reason to be elated showing in his first season at the helm next year Lindsay will be very much in the picture. During the season the Belleville squad has scored 47 points and had 36 scored against them, in the eight games of the group, Oshawa has been defeated Cobourg finished in the cellar position, but it is only necessary to carry the ball over Lindsay's goal line for a touch down, scoring two major in their two games with Belleville. Peterboro and Lindsay failed to cross the local's line for a major in their two games with Belleville, quite perhaps a fitting way to terminate the season's schedule would be Belleville would be to stage an exhibition game between the local O.R.F.U. team and the all-star squad, that was picked from the Lake Shore group senior Interscholastic group recently.

The fat was surely in the fire at the annual meeting of the C.O.B.L. in Belleville on Saturday. Those have witnessed many a Central League occasion, but that one was a honey. Numerous times the meeting was out of order as the fiery fates battled verbally until personal feelings entered into the atmosphere and only through the diplomatic outlines of R. A. Elliott, past C.O.B.L. and O.H.A. president, saved the loop from rack and perhaps ruin. One of the hottest battles for the president's chair existed with Hugh Campbell, former and president of the Johnson Motors team, leading an attack against President Johnson when he declaratively tried to "railroad" his Belleville-Toronto deal through. Campbell threatened to withdraw his Motors from the competition was returned, but final vote showed just who the league and its representatives honored as president-Johnson. President Max Swanston or ugh Campbell and Jack Bellamy, Port Peterboro. President Swanston was re-elected by acclamation for his third consecutive term by an unanimous vote. Mr. Elliott was also re-elected when the meeting was at its topmost and after Mr. Campbell had threatened to pull up stakes. Mr. Elliot said: "I regret to have to say that but Peterboro had a baseball team long before Mr. Campbell ever came into the C.O. B.L. and I feel that Peterboro will have a baseball team long after the league regardless as to what the final decision may be. Swanston has served you loyal and faithful, the C.O.B.L. will carry on, it's gentlemen are we bear to agree on personal differences, or for the good of the game. Remember it is only a game of baseball, after all," concluded Mr. Elliott and immediately President Swanston was unanimously returned to office, thanks to the good work of Mr. Elliott.

Waller Gerow was on hand and formally asked for a berth in the O.H.A. Senior "C" group. Oshawa Ella request was granted by a host of acclaim. The Shamrock interests, however, asked for one request, that was that Oshawa be privilege to transfer any home game stand to the visiting city part. It really was the Gliders wanted was the privilege to play home games in Belleville during Xmas, etc., if it was found that attendance was getting low. Interest in baseball and could not meet their financial obligations. The request was granted unanimously. Although the loss baseball situation looked decidedly gloomy at the time of the annual meeting of the B.A.R.A. last Friday night, it was never so bad as the C.O.B.L., as both Belleville and Trenton Intermediate baseball teams from the league for the next payment of their players' certificate of fee, which formerly existed out at the meeting, that neither Oshawa or Peterboro would be able to participate in the senior or intermediate series of the O.R.F.U. unless the tax was paid. Whether the next payment of this tax was an overstatement or a bluff is not known but these two clubs can attend the semi-annual meeting of the league, they must pay that tax. It only amounts to less than five dollars.

For the purpose of bettering conditions for the public the managers of Belleville Intermediate "A" O.H.A. ranks, held a special meeting in the Belleville Arena yesterday with Frederick Bailey of Oshawa in the chair.

In a one-sided affair the Peterboro' Collegiate gridders won the senior group football championship of Ontario, when they downed Port Colborne C. I. 29 to 1 at Varsity Stadium, Toronto, Saturday. The local intercholastic squad was glad to get revenge on Peterboro, who wouldn't it have been nice if the B.C.I. had hopped over Peterboro and brought these honors to Belleville for a third time?

On Wednesday Eddie Thomas' local puckmen play their second game in the Kingston pre-season O.H.A. schedule. Manager Thomas, who replaced Boyd's Electric when that latter club disbanded recently, is in charge of the Intermediate Belleville game the Kingston writer says: "Provencal will certainly upset the hockey apple-cart last night by taking Belleville into camp. The latter club will be a fair bit of a team this year too. They miss Tim, however, but as Lloyd Gross, Ken Wilson and Morgan get into shape for the season, Belleville will be found to be somewhere up around the top of the heap.

Greek King is Welcomed by Friendly Folk

(By Alexander Sedgwick) .....
(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press)

Athens, Nov. 25.—King George II made a triumphant return to Greece today, marked on the borders of friendly crowd which swept out of control in its enthusiasm for the recalled monarch and was charged by cavalry with drawn sabres.

One person was reported wounded in the jostling which signalled the end of the King's 12-year absence from the throne and the completion of his journey back from London.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Bigger and Crawford by Finanelli Service.

CANADIAN MALARTIC

This is the leading operation in Malartic. It has been in production since April 1935 on the basis of 150 tons a day and the capacity of the mill is to be increased to 300 tons next month. Ore reserves estimated at 1,500,000 tons of 0.07 oz. Costs running $4.35 a ton with the present 300 tons per day. With production of 300 tons a day an operating profit of $90,000 a month is indicated. The mine has developed on three levels and the management plans to open two new levels in the near future. The issued capital is 3,326,885 shares.

ECONOMIC INDEX

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics financial economics Index showed a gain for the week ended November 16 of 7 points, rising to from 97.5 the previous week to 98.3.

CONSTRUCTION

An increase of 54.7 percent, or almost $1,500,000 was shown in the estimated value of building authorized by 58 cities during October over the same month in 1934, this against 52.5 millions the corresponding month last year.

AUTOMOBILE PRODUCTION

An increase of 126 percents was shown in motor vehicle production in October when the total output was 49,000 passenger cars against 21,700 in October, 1934.

The effect of the Canadian-American trade treaty upon the stock market angle—has worn off. The market, however, has continued to show activity on account of itself with a large number of issues advancing and declining each day. It is generally maintained that the public is only now beginning to enter the market and that with interest spread, a bull market of wide dimensions ensues.

Discriminatory buying has been noted for some little time. The securities most favored are the ones that are likely to show prospective dividend payers. The only speculative issues that are in any considerable demand has been the golds. Indeed the bullish trend in this outlook appears to have changed considerably for the better, although some caution will have to be needed before investors can derive full benefit.

From time to time in a bull market, stock prices tend to overreach the improvement which has occurred in business. This is certain to be followed by a reaction and it is during such periods that the disappearance of such a development should occur. The distinguishing part of the conservative investor and affords no grounds for disposal of stocks which have been held continue to fase good prospects. Attempts to "guess" security movements always have no place in the policy of those who hope to profit by long investment. Ahead, retrogression in business is fully warranted. Any important changes which may occur can well be utilized for additions to existing holdings; shares representing companies in the heavy good industries—which still have considerable ground to make up before attaining normal earning power—appearing among the most attractive media for long term capital gains.

ROYALITE OIL

The Royalite Oil Company Limited, subsidiary of Imperial Oil Limited, has distributed to shareholders $4,200,000 in dividends during the last eleven years. The Turner Valley field has had its infancy and judging by the evidence submitted to the Tariff Board conditions in Western Canada are favorable to the development of an extensive oil field. Because of its affiliation with Imperial Oil, the bulk of the work will be done by that company. Splendid progress has been made in the last two years by this company and the outlook appears to be exceedingly bright.

Belleville, Oshawa Suspended; Max Swanston Again Heads C.O.B.L. in Stormy Meeting

Above Named Clubs Did Not Pay Per Capita Certificates in 1935

NAPANEE ADMITTED

Gibbards Will Play Senior Baseball in 1936

Belleville and Oshawa entries in the C.O.B.L. were both suspended temporarily for the non-payment of their clubs' per capita certificates during the season of 1935, when the C.O.B.L. held its annual meeting at Peterboro on Saturday afternoon. The motion for suspension came after it was checked that both clubs' ex. Club had not paid its players' contracts in full while the cheques forwarded from the Belleville entity to the league had been rejected. The suspension of the Belleville side Oshawa must pay their 1935 certificates to the C.O.B.L. before they can play in that league or the O.B.A.A. in any class in the future. The future and the admission of the Napanee Gibbards to the C.O.B.L. were two of the main items of interest to the keenly interested followings ever held in the history of the C.O.B.L., the meeting lasting well over four hours.

Swanston Returned

The return to the president's chair of Max Swanston saw the unanimous vote for the three clubs present, Peterboro, Kingston, and Belleville, and, incidentally, Napanee, and not President Campbell of the Peterboro Examiner, as the Peterboro interests and also assigned the unanimous vote of confidence to whether the Johnson Motors entered the league in 1936 or not. Peterboro will operate a junior league team in the loop. Later Napanee Gibbards were accepted as an entry, now giving the league three clubs in good standing, Napanee, Peterboro and Napanee, while the Oshawa and Belleville entries have been suspended. Both these latter two organizations reimburse the league for the amount of their players' certificate tax for 1935, the C.O.B.L. will then be out $50.00, and the league with still another possible entry to be heard from.

To open the season in the league's history President Swanston welcomed the delegates for the five various entries. Reviewing the past season, President Swanston asked for a moment's silence for the late C.O.B.L. had proved the best baseball presented to the fans in the province of Ontario. "The fans did not support as they might have, but, due to the winning of the provincial title by the Kingston Frontes our league championship is definitely established the superior brand of baseball, that was played in the league," pointed out Mr. Swanston as he lauded and congratulated the Kingston team on its success in bringing a senior C.B.A.A. title to Kingston and the C.O.B.L. The secretary-treasurer's report and buyer's reports were read by Secretary Newton and the reports duly adopted. The league enjoys a bank balance of $61.56, all outstanding credits being owed by Belleville and Oshawa.

O.B.A.A. Criticized

The meeting strongly criticized the parent body, the O.B.A.A., for the manner in which the senior O.B.A.A. playdowns were conducted this fall, it being pointed out that orders had been received by the C.O.B.L. that they must declare a winner before the 15th of September so as to allow the league hurried its play-offs only to have the Kingston Frontes remain idle for nearly three weeks. Hugh Campbell, speaking for Peterboro, strongly criticized the O.B.A.A. pattern of umpiring and asked that umpires from crowded circuits be used in league play-offs in the future. The matter was referred to one further and suggested, that neutral umpires be used during the regular playing season. All league umpires had been attributed the paramount cause of the lack of interest in senior baseball in Belleville. The secretary was instructed to ask the semi-annual meeting in March, 1936 with the O.B.A.A. adjudication upon request from that club. President Swanston asked Walter Arrow of Napanee to present the Johnson Cup to Manager Joe Daly of the champion Kingston Frontes. Manager Daly and Captain Vin McGrade both responded in a suitable manner.

Cups Remained Made

One amendment to the league constitution was made in the manner guarantees for ram games, the by-law now reads—in case of rain after the visiting team arrives the visiting team is to receive $20.00 and upon their return for the replaying of this rained-out game the visiting team is to receive $20.00 also. Secretary Thompson announced that the Reading Co., had donated individual medals to the champion Kingston Fontes.

During the afternoon session Mr. Campbell of Peterboro, suggested that a possible Dominion-wide series could be operated "in the same manner as in hockey and football, each province to send their provincial winners into this play-down. The suggestion was left in abeyance.

President—Max Swanston, Peterboro.

Vice-President— Art Casterson, Napanee.

Secretary-Treasurer — Newton Thompson, Belleville.

The executive shall consist of one representative from each club operating in the league.

Although the Oshawa Club was unrepresented it was pointed out definitely, that Oshawa baseball interest must either play baseball in the C.O.B.L. or remain out of that sport in the future. The clubs and delegates present were—Kingston, Joe Daly, Vin McGrade, Peterboro, Hamilton, Chaplin, Cassels, Fulwell; Napanee—Walter Cerow and Bert Brennan, Belleville, K. J. Colling. Following the meeting the delegates were the guests of the Peterboro Johnson Motors Club.

LONDON TECS INCREASE LEAD

Rochester Cardinals Score First Win in The International

(By the Canadian Press)

Micky Roach looked in the mood to duplicate Saturday's fine fully today although his newly organized Toronto Argonaut club only able to break even in their week-end doings. Not that was because Roach ever failed to did before and Saturday when they trounced the Buffalo Bisons their first defeat of the season, it gave them their first points in the International Hockey League standing.

After travelling at a dizzy clip to trim Buffalo 4 to 3 at Port Erie, Roach and company stopped into Syracuse and after battling on even terms with the locals for five periods, bowed to a 3-2 defeat in the overtime.

Meanwhile London Tecumseh, thanks to the brilliant net-minding of Herb Stuart, increased their lead in the Eastern section of the loop to four points as they beat the Cleveland Falcons 4 to 2 Saturday night at Cleveland. A capacity crowd saw the Tecs bag five goals in the first period and one in each of the last two sessions while the Falcons were held to single scores in the second and third periods.

Rochester Cardinals, new Toronto amateur, proved the hero of the Cards' first win, a 3 to 2 victory, captured the decision in the last of the extra period. The lone counter was scored with the score standing 2 all in the last period. The lone counter was scored with the score standing 2 all in the last period opened. The lone line of scrimmage was holding between the Cards while the back field advanced the ball until when the position Fulwell hooked one in the deadline to break the tie. He duplicated this feat in the last few minutes of play to run down the call-talm on O.R.F.U. football in the Lake Shore group for 1935.

FOLWELL KICKS WINNING POINT FOR BELLEVILLE

Local O.R.F.U. Squad Finishes Season With 8-6 Win Over Cobourg

A SMART GAME

Cobourg Scores Touch to Even Count in Third Frame

Completing their 1935 schedule in the Lake Shore group of the O. R. F. U. the Belleville football squad won their last game of the season by a 8 to 6 victory over the Cobourg Invictus at Cobourg. The Belleville victory assures the Kenilworth-led aggregation of some considerable final group standing. Oshawa Rins Devils winning the league honors for 1935.

Secretary game at Cobourg proved a sterling tussle with the Belleville squad staging a rally in the second period to break a deadlock. The score stood 6 to 0 for Belleville at the half-way mark, with the Cobourg squad the concerted aerial attack, via the forward pass route, knotted the count in the third quarter, Fulwell hoisting two to the deadline to break the tie in the last 14 minutes. Jimmie Fulwell, local star kicking half was again in fine trim and booted 4 of his attempts while his educated toe accounted for three of the Belleville points according a touchdown for the remaining five points. In addition to his kicking activities, it was in this period, that Cobourg scored their touchdown, the second one to be registered against the Belleville defence this season, Cobourg, incidentally counting the other maker scores against Belleville in the last pot previously, Although no stars shone on the local horizon, Coach Kennedy's line of scrimmage held well throughout while the backfield functioned as a unit. Coach Dupton, Cooper and Henderson each drew commendation as did Brewster and Schrum.

The Play

There was no score registered in the initial quarter while Fulwell booted one to the deadline for Belleville point in the second stanza. Cobourg then staged a look-ball, when Cobourg fumbled, and from 30 yards out Belleville line of scrimmage was not converted. With the score standing 2 to 0 for Belleville the third period opened scoring Cobourg purely on the offensive. Four forward passes in succession were completed by the homsters and resulted in a touchdown, Fulwell booted one to the deadline to break the tie. He duplicated this feat in the last few minutes of play to run down the call-talm on O.R.F.U. football in the Lake Shore group for 1935.

Toronto Leafs on Losing Spree Dropping Games to Maroons, Red Wings Over Weekend

Chicago Black Hawks Yet To Be in Losing Column

CANADIENS CLIMB

Shore And Patrick Mix as Rangers Win Over Bruins

By The Canadian Press

Having started brilliantly, Conny Smythe's Leafs went on a weekend losing spree. They accepted a 2-0 defeat from Maroons Saturday night in Toronto, much to the disappointment of 14,000 supporters. Then they moved into Detroit to take a 3-1 whacking from the Red Wings last night.

Maroons, playing like Stanley Cup champions thoroughly subdued the Leafs by snapping up every scoring opportunity. They scored three times on clean breakaways from the centre-ice area of the rink. Hooley Ward and Baldy Northcott went on two of these excursions in the last minute of the game and Ward scored each time.

Northcott scored twice on his own behalf, making the night's work yield four points, and Cy Wentworth, the other Maroon tally. Russ Roll and Charlie Conacher scored for Toronto.

Detroit's First Win

Amiably enough, the Leafs helped Detroit score its first win of the season last night. Marty Barry and Hec Kilrea were the marksmen in a hard fought struggle from which the Wings have now emerged victory. Only brilliant checking by Lorne Chabot prevented the Leafs from pulling out the game after Barry's winning goals down.

Red Metz scored in the third period to reduce the deficit and the goals scored Nicolls Smith for the balance of the game. But the closest Leafs came to scoring was when Joe Primeau's shot struck the goalpost.

Maroons, meanwhile, were feeling the full force of a spectacular Chicago Black Hawk drive. Coy Sebastien Hawks, performing before 14,000 wildly excited fans, scored a goal in the first period and rallied to score a fine offering.

Old Howie Morenz was the sparkplug, scoring the lying goal and nearly getting several more. Eddie Oatleith, rookie centre Montreal Canadiens, filling in for the injured Johnny Gottselig, bagged the game-winning goal with help from Morenz and Alex Levinsky.

Canadiens climbed, apparently in stride at last after an indifferent month, several lads scored on the Canadian section, one game ahead of Maroons, by defeating New York Rangers 3 to 2 in Montreal. Shore, in another great puck-stopping exhibition.

Cude Brilliant

Cude held off the desperate Americans with 26 shots in the last two periods, yielding a single goal to veteran Harry Oliver near the end. Pat Patrick, still the greatest figure in hockey, and Jack McGill potted Canadiens' goals in the second session.

Down to position in the American section, Boston Bruins scored only one goal in three games. Boston's Bruins and only first-place position as they dropped a 1-0 decision to New York Rangers last night in New York.

Dave Kerr had to play star hockey in the nets to hold off the Bruins, but he accomplished it successfully. Murray Murdoch got the only goal in the game, scoring in the second period on a pass from Cecil Dillon midway through the third period for the game's only goal.

The 14,000 spectators at this contest got back the Boston Bruins' Shore and Lynn Patrick came together in a fist fight. They drew major penalties.

N. H. L. STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Wilfs Cude turned away 32 shots to Montreal Canadien's one to help his team won 2-1 from New York Americans.

Kimmy Ward and Baldy Northcott, Montreal Maroons forwards who each scored twice in the 4-2 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs.

Mike Karakas, Toronto's rookie forward, who bagged his sixth goal of the season as the Leafs bowed to Detroit Red Wings.

HOCKEY'S BIG SEVEN

Chicago's high-scoring forward line of Paul Thompson, Doc McFadyen and Art Jackson appeared today in the first big seven line-up in the new National Hockey League season. Thompson and McFadyen are tied for the point-scoring leadership, with six more point than the heaviest scorer in recent years, Lionel Conacher.

Nick Metz, Toronto rookie, and Clarence Schriner of New York Americans also have scored six goals, but neither has been credited with an assist.

IMPERIALS AND TIGERS TO MEET IN EAST FINAL

Sarnia Wins From Balmy Beach 9-1 And Hamilton Whips Queens 44-4

FERRARO A STAR

Football's giants in the eastern sector, Sarnia Imperials and Hamilton Tigers, will come together Saturday in the biggest gridiron collision of 1935, the Ewe Intercontinental final that the following Saturday is unlikely to approach in fury and charging this scheduled eastern championship engagement between bitter rivals.

Sarnia Imperials qualified for the third Sarnia-Hamilton playoff game in four years, the Imperials and Tigers accomplished their common objective Saturday by totally different methods. But it brought them into the final, to be played in Toronto.

The Tigers, Interprovincial Union champions, humbled Queen's University 44-4 with a breath-taking offensive. They took Queens in any quarter of Hamilton's serious intentions. A crowd of 3,000 fans who watched the Bengals score seven touchdowns against one of the best college teams to be produced in years.

Playing before a half-frozen crowd of 2,000 in Toronto, Sarnia won the O.R.F.U. championship for the fifth straight time by defeating Balmy Beach 9-1. Imperials, taking no chances of losing by injuries merely toyed with the opposition, but won the two-game play-off round by 17-1.

While the capable Imperials were whittling away at the Balmy line of extraordinary strength, Hamilton's champions of the Big Four were the home fans reason to roar with approval as they bashed in a stuffy Queen's attack that turned into a battle between champions into a rout.

Ferrara a Star.

Practically anything Tigers tried was successful against the bewildered collegians from Kingston. Johnny Ferraro the star halfback every Bengal offensive gesture, but on a point, to prove that he is one of the best forward passers in Canada, if not the very best. Hamilton gained 227 yards on Ferraro's forward passes, nine out of fourteen being completed.

Ferraro was tremendous attacking power behind the Tiger line with Bruno, Hugh Wilson and Wilf Patterson controlling it. The front line of Tigers was a stone wall that swamped the game but stubborn of the Tricolour line after the first touchdown. Only twice were the Queen's punts and turned two of them were blocked.

Stabbing sharply at the ends with beautifully timed plays, Queen's outplayed Hamilton for one quarter but was the victim of a blocked kick, Ferraro to Bruno, that gave the Tigers having made six first downs and Ferraro's passes flew around consistently. This state of affairs ceased to exist in the second quarter.

Great Football Team.

The Bengals suddenly became a great football team. Ferraro found his college line to bits and when Abe Bruno, Hugh Wilson and Patterson was banished from the game for fighting with Pony Stull the process increased in speed. Queen's were much left in the line to be flattened.

Tigers led 16-2 at half time 27-4 at the three-quarters and then launched a final attack in the fourth quarter that brought three touchdowns, Ferraro to Bruno scored the touchdowns, and a field goal and two singles by Ferraro gave the Tigers point-scoring spurt. He has scored 56 points in the last four games.

Sarnia with an 8-point lead, Sarnia's experienced team coasted through the second half of the Balmy Beach outfit that fought grimly but futilely. Hugh (Dummy) Stirling kicked all the Imperials' points with three field goals. It seemed as if Balmy had received instructions to score touchdowns.

As long as Stirling was punting his mighty shots when danger threatened there was nothing to worry about but Imperials could do no more fancy football than they had shown in the season. They haven't had a hard game yet in the east.

Group Championship to Oshawa Blue Devils

Lindsay, Nov. 25 —Oshawa won the championship of the Lakeshore O.H.A. Intermediate group here when they defeated Lindsay Rotarians 4-2 in the second of the best first quarter for the locals are two Oshawa two touchdowns. The locals scored in the first minute of the quarter to gain 11 points but could not overcome the lead of the Oshawa Blue Devils in the first frame.

Oshawa—Flying wing, Gulliman; halves, Follis, May and McCullough; quarter, Arnour; snap Gray; inside, Bulmur and Hall; outside, middles, Daniels and Cutler; outside, Hamilton and Hall. Referee, Lincoln, Bryant, Bagnall, Follis, Brown Farley, Price and McDonald.

Stewart on Maroons defence. He abated up with the rubber but fell flat about 15 feet from the Canada goal. The netminder relaxed his vigilance for a second, the defence man failed to clear properly Stewart swung his stick, in full stride along the ice, the puck flicked into the open net for a goal and Maroons went on to take the game.

Stewart used to be a league bad man and he's still a burly and knuthad he's been a bit tame. Here's a lot of hockey lore stored up in the head of the fellow who once centred the Maroon "S" line, later held his own in the tough Bruin camp and now pops up in the New York Americans guard. He knows his hockey and how to play it.

Gophers Place Five on Team

Chicago, Nov. 25—(AP)—Minnesota's mighty army placed five men on the Associated Press Western Conference All Star football team selected by the ten coaches for the second straight year but left a large share of the honors for Chicago's John Charles Clay Berwanger.

Berwanger, one of the greatest backs in big ten gridiron history, raised on the strength of his record bracket with the late Walter Eckersall, one of the unanimous choice a honor rarely accorded.

The team:

Ends: Merle Wendt, Ohio State; Henry W. Longfellow, Northwestern.

Tackles: Edwin Widseth, Minnesota; Richard Smith, Minnesota.

Guards: Paul Tangora, Northwestern; Charles Wilkinson, Minnesota.

Centre: Gomer Jones, Ohio State.

Quarterback: Vernal Lavoir, Minnesota.

Halfbacks: John J. Berwanger, Chicago, Ora Simmons, Iowa.

Fullback: Sheldon Beise, Minnesota.

If you see a long rangy laddie with a football under his arm, a pack perched into his shoulders at that, meanderingly ball up the ice in a star-spangled sweater this season—don't be fooled if it's Nelson Robert Stewart of Toronto. He doesn't count do the disinterested act any more than the ex-Maroon ex-Bruin sniper. He's been chasing pucks since 1926 in the major league and each year he's been in just rounding into form. When Nels looks lastest, he's most dangerous. In fact he practically clinched a Stanley Cup once by scoring a goal while lying flat on the ice. ## "CHAPERONED"

— by —

Virginia Sullivan

"I can't say I like all that shoving and shooting around that bar, Mona," he said slowly. "It might mean trouble—usually it does when the American sailor and the British tar get together in one room. For no reason which history explains the outcry carried between them seems to be perpetually strained."

"What's hope it does mean trouble of something!" Mona said flippantly. "Gosh, darlin' I could do with a little excitement. One more day on that ship and I'd have gnawed a piece out the deck-rail, just for something to do! Now then, Tony, turn around here and let Little Mona get a good, clear look at you. Gosh, you look swell! There's a sort of hushed splendor about you in those clothes. By the way, what do you do with your old clothes?"

"Oh, I hang it up carefully at night and then get it out carefully in the morning," the man said smugly. Janie, raising her eyes, caught a curious glint, almost suggestive of warning, in his impersonally smiling gaze; she thought impatiently: "But it's perfectly natural that they should know each other! The doctor said that most people in the Canal Zone knew Mona. I'm imagining all this." Aloud she said: "No thank you, nothing to drink if you don't mind," to the man with the cauliflower ear and the huge gorilla arms who had appeared suddenly beside her, pad and pencil in hand.

"Food," Anthony Fane said firmly to Janie, "is clearly indicated, young woman. You ought to be simply famished by now." He began to write in the order pad, expertly, swiftly ... "Beef, mashed potatoes, chicken and rice.... hot bread-sticks with mashed butter.... coffee...."

"And a banana guanana pasteria," Mona said decisively. "It's the national pastry, Madame: it'll put pounds on you but it's the smoothest dish that ever went over a tooth. Surely though, you're tired from the trip."

"Never." Janie said with a small wriggle of contentment and delight. "And if I were on my own here now I'd probably be ordering ham and eggs with all the unimaginative fervor of the bald gentleman at the table on your right—instead of being all of a dither over naming the social acquaintance of a red snapper shall. As for the pastry—" she glanced briefly at her slim length, "the green light is up. Let's go."

She had had a contemplative moment of worry at the beginning of things as to the matter of expense. After all, a man traveling steerage might not be too burdened with surplus cash. But that worry had died still-born under the subtle-ortative fashion in which Anthony Fane had assumed the reins of host. She was finding all of it exciting, a bit breath-taking and unreal, now that she was saying something gay and delightful, and eager in the faces of those about her. A disgraceful girl, a mere child, passed by; her dark hair clustering in waves, her slight figure panting a little from exertion and heat and on her small face a set, breathless smile. It was hot.... smotheringly, stickily hot, in the harem room. All the table where the sailors were sitting a girl in a soiled lace hat and violent pink blouse stopped abruptly at her perspiring face through the coating of liquid powder that covered it; thrusting her hat wearily back on her limp head, she began a very small waiter staggered painfully into view, setting down his burdened tray with a thump.

"There you are," Mona said, "meet the red snapper shall. It is 10¢ at no cost—" She broke off; a delighted shoeshoes grin overspreading her pert face, at sight of the order of red-coats, look who's here! Little Tom-my Pepper himself—and I've not seen him for over a year!"

Before either of her listeners could move or lift a restraining hand, she darted swiftly across the crowded floor. Almost at once she was back, towing an embarrassed young giant, who seemed at first glance to be mostly brilliant red tunic, smartly carried swagger stick and cap tilted coolly over one clear British eye.

"Miss Mona announced soberly, the pride of the village pub! Sergeant-Major Pepper — of the Marines!"

"Of the Royal Marines, if you please," the giant corrected her patiently. "Glad it'm serve." And he took Anthony Fane's welcoming hand and Janie's delighted shy smile in his stride.

"Ah, ma petite Amie!" Mona sighed shamelessly up at him, standing there. "Just the same old lighthearted lad! Come on now, Pepper, tell little Mona how things stack up down by the old Yanking Pagoda, eh? Even if you don't think this is our dance.... it is!"

And she was gone, sweet unerringly into the throng milling about the dance-floor beyond, in the arms of the Royal Marine. His agrrieved, hurt voice, floating backward over her defiant scarlet hair, with touching distinctness: "I was coming right over to see you, Mona! But there was a gal I had to dodge first y'see; steeped in pitch of the most frightful scent, she was! Fancy me readin' scent, now—"

Anthony Fane, with the grin that so lightened his immobile face, looked at Janie across the small cluttered table; and Janie grinned back. "The Marines," she said demurely, "have the situation well in hand."

"And that being a rather insignificantly seductive hand—would you, by some miracle care to dance?"

Janie, nodding mutely, stood up, holding out her arms. And realized, with a rabid sense of surprise, that for the first time since she had left the dock at San Francisco the problem of Mildred had been entirely absent from her thoughts....

CHAPTER V

THE MYSTERY GROWS

Mr. Fane with his usual courtliness grace so often found in big men, was gliding her surely through the close-packed throng. All about them danced the silent, clinging figures, swaying, intricate Terpsichorean patterns of their own devising—Janie glanced at cheek or head frankly embracing in the dim-lit corners of the floor. The man's arm, exciting Janie's slight shyness, scarcely incited her, yet she was conscious again in every fibre of his nearness. He said, after a moment, in his quiet voice: "You dance exactly the way I thought you would."

The girl glancing up into the cool light eyes so near her own, saw them sparkle with a strange intensity; felt again, in spite of herself, the vaguely frightening sensation, the throbbing, breathless sense of excitement that had swept her the night before within the circle of that hard arm. She wanted desperately to say something impersonally gay: the sort of thing Mona would have managed so well. Instead, she said somewhat inadequately: "I've rather a competent guide—it's fairly difficult to navigate, isn't it?" And she thought: Isn't it? Am I dancing at all. It's—oh, what's the matter with me, anyway? I'm acting like a silly schoolgirl!"

And then, without warning, a big woman in a sleazy velvet gown backed into her with such violence that she was thrown momentarily from her feet. Instantly instinctively Anthony Fane's arm tightened, drawing her breathlessly closer to himself. For a moment she was held there—close up against his breast. Feeling the hard, fierce thumping of his heart, the strength of those big arms, and a drowning sense of utter security, utter peace.... Then suddenly she was standing alone and up, he released her and, as the music stopped on an abrupt, sharp note, he steadied her with a casual hand on her elbow. His blue eyes looked at her, down from over her head; his voice, when he spoke, so deliberately matter-of-fact that for a treacherous, puzzled moment, Janie wondered if she had imagined it all. But she was trembling and her eyelids, when she tried to look at him, seemed weighted. "What is the matter with me," she asked herself furiously, "I'm behaving like a—like a—because—because—"

"Look," Anthony Fane said quietly, "there's some devilry over there. Would you care to go over and have a look? I've a hunch the Sergeant-Major's on the spot, judging from the expression on his face."

Mona sat perched on the corner of the bar, high above the crowd that surged noisily at that end of the room. Her face was pale and glassy, in the other the inevitable cigarette. Her impassive, provocative face was turned smilingly toward the red-coated Sergeant-Major; but her attention, Janie saw as she approached nearer in the wake of Anthony Fane, was riveted on the figure of a man who sat facing her in the mirror behind the bar. A tall, blonde young British officer, with a pleasant bored mouth and a genial blue eye.

"But Mona, it'm telling you," the Sergeant-Major was insistently saying, "it'd cause bitter trouble to the Lieftenant, don't you h'understand? It's a loff, a swell, a h'orfficer, h'and I'm a below-decks man! The-likes of h'us don't h'associate with the likes of 'im! Steadily h'American cheek 'tw-ould be h't' h't' tried h' Beedles—h't' thought as 'e' you and me was going to be such friendly!"

"What," Mona asked implacably, "would your grand Lieftenant do, Tommy, if I just went over there now and asked him to buy me a drink?"

"I'E could probably h'ignore you!" said the Sergeant-Major scathingly. And slid haughtily from his seat by her side to disappear into the throng—just as Anthony Fane managed to wedge a cleared space large enough to slip Janie expertly into the first ranks about the bar.

Behind Mona, Janie stood; his palm brown derby tilted rakishly to the fore, one hand sliding glasses with monotonous regularity along the length of gleaming mahogany bar; the other beating time to the ripple of a piano at his back.

"Andante now, Jake," Mona had taken over the direction of the singing again, "thing is, plantain and guinea and the finish—you know! Use the larynx more, my boy, the larynx!"

Biddy Doyle!

"Oh, you're gettin' old and tough, Biddy Doyle!

And your skin is gettin' rough, Biddy Doyle!

"Swell," applauded Mona. "Ah! the stuff, Jake—Hi, Tony! Come over here! She cleared a place beside her perch by the simple process of placing both small slippered feet against the back of a tall sailor at the next table, and, as he rose, propelling him firmly away from it with a thump for the cash customer: Jake!" she called, "drift over this here, Miss Maddon, Jake, this is! sang Jake, in his pleasant throaty tenor, the top notes soaring high above the surrounding din; his ugly, pockish face atrangly absorbed as he came nearer the roaring chorus in which the crowd about the bar presently joined:

"An' what will ye do at-tall, When the snow begins to fall.... Wid your back agin the wall.... Biddy Doyle!

"Swell," applauded Mona. "Ah! the stuff, Jake—Hi, Tony! Come over here!" She cleared a place beside her perch by the simple process of placing both small slippered feet against the back of a tall sailor at the next table, and, as he rose, propelling him firmly away from it with a thump for the cash customer: Jake!" she called, "drift over this here, Miss Maddon, Jake, this is! Anthony Fane of Havana, and Miss Maddon from San Francisco. Bring 'em two Singapore slings and a lime squash apiece. Now—come on, yel choir-singers, let's go!

Tony, the Filipino, turned to see if his companion was following him. They had halted and were standing with blanched faces listening. Then Vitch turned and started back toward the other wall as a fresh volley of shots rang out from the direction of the bar.

"Why go in there?" growled Ivitch. "We should only be killed like Colt and Romero." If we are killed the cause is lost," said Donsky. "But the world will be enlightened by our execution!" exclaimed Zvert. "Think of the gold!" "Fire on our comrades!" asked Tony. "Are you going to try and rescue them?"

"Not the Mexican," said Zvert, "and as for the American, I'm not sure. His friends will probably keep the news of his death from getting back to the coast. Besides," he said with a sneer, "I can't command here. "I will go with you," said Donsky. "Little good two of us can accomplish," murmured Tony. "Who do you think you are, anyway?" he demanded. "I am in command here. When I want your advice I'll ask for it!"

Lantern Explodes When Boy is Kicked

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 26 (CP)—Grant Lowry, 15, of Switzerville, near Napanee, lacked consciousness from shock and injuries received in the fire which destroyed the Lowry boat house at Bath, when he said he was carrying a lantern which exploded.

Mrs. Harry Lowry, mother of the boy, dragged him out of the burning building and carried him to bed. It was possible to save most of the furniture but the building, engines, crops and machinery, was destroyed.

Crew Rests While Ship is Serviced

Wake Island, Nov. 26 (AP)—The crew of the China Clipper rested here today while the huge flying boat was serviced for the next to last hop of its 8,000-mile journey to establish trans-Pacific mail service. The ship arrived here yesterday.

Carrying 1,500 pounds of mail destined for Manila, the China Clipper ran Alrways liner will resume its flight tomorrow at dawn, hopping for Guam, 1,500 miles to the west.

Fingerprint Points To Accused, Says Crown

Brantford, Ont., Nov. 26.—(CP)—John Hart, Regina, who had previously pleaded guilty to charges of vagrancy, was sentenced to six months in jail today by Magistrate Jones.

Crown Attorney Wallace said the finger print on a window sill was discussed to have received a one month sentence for vagrancy, and theft had incurred suspended sentences, he said.

George Wilson, Regina, complainant, pleaded guilty to shop lifting in the Metropolitan stores and had his sentence withheld until Thursday next.

COWS START TROUBLE, SETTLED AT POLLS

Riverside, Ont., Nov. 26.—(CP)—With the harboring of cows within the city limits one of the main issues, the campaign for Riverside's 1936 municipal election was underway today following nominations last night.

The main question involved only one animal, Frank Nowicki's Jersey, named Bella, but there were other cows within the municipality, the owners of which have supported Nowicki in his struggle to keep his bovine.

CANARY AND CORSETS STOLEN AT WINDSOR

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 26.—(CP)—A canary bird and a pair of corsets were among the numerous articles reported stolen today to police in an outbreak of petty thievery throughout the city last night. The canary was taken from the home of William Kidd while the corsets were stolen from a clothesline at the rear of Barney Burwin's home.

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Chicago, Nov. 26 (CP)—Mrs. Betty Chapin, a widow, was awarded $2000 in heart balm yesterday for a bite of apple pie.

In a suit against a restaurant proprietor she alleged the pie contained a piece of tin, which cut her tongue and allegedly impaired her speech.

Chicago, Nov. 26 (CP)—Five women and a child in each of seven side bullfights were killed only temporarily when they found it less heavy to lead in their matadors.

They telephoned for a few trucks. When it arrived they forced the driver to haul the dead and the hurt with a hoist. Then they fled with their car, the truck and the safe.

Boston, Nov. 26 (CP)— This officer at the crossing had a rare chance to learn what people think of him—from their pleas of financial distress.

Word spread last week Patrolman William J. Hall was at the Roxbury crossing station, it was said.

He took it all as a good joke, until the flowers and cooking began arriving at the station. Yesterday he said he had heard about all he could stand, and wished somehow he was alive and sound in bed and fast asleep.

And—he said—just omit the flowers.

Oil Company Loses Money, Probe is Told

Ottawa, Nov. 26 (CP)—A. E. Halverson of Toronto, Sales Manager for the Imperial Oil Company, continued his evidence today before the tariff board's gasoline probe.

Mr. Halverson, representing Alberta, Mr. Halverson said competition set up by the Royalite Oil, big factor, as far as his company was concerned, was the Turner Valley Field. Imported gasoline from Montana was a factor but negligible.

Imperial Oil was losing money on its Alberta business, Mr. Halverson said.

New Principle of Meteorology Forecasts Weather 2 Years Ahead

Meteorologist Evolves Plan Called "Forecasting by Astronomy" with Success

PREDICTS STORMS

Cleveland, Nov. 26.—(AP)—A weather forecast reaching from a rendezvous with a major storm two or many months ago, disclosed today a new principle of calculating the weather far in advance.

He is Selby Maxwell, lecturer in meteorology and doing research work in a laboratory at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

After a third, to date, visit Maxwell said he has evolved a "principle of astronomical computation of the weather," which he terms "forecasting astronomy". He has invented a "magnetometer" to aid him in his computations.

"You can predict the world's weather for two years in advance with the same ease that you might predict a phase for tomorrow," he asserted in an interview.

Last August, he said, he knew there would be a major storm in the Northeastern States about the 20th of September. In October he made 12 charts of the storm's course and placed a blue print of the charts in the hands of navy weather men and his friends. It called for a start on Nov. 11 and on that date he began driving eastward from Chicago. It rained hard at first.

Forecast Confirmed

At Niagara Falls, Nov. 13 he noted how heavy winds had blown back the water of Lake Erie, drying up the falls. Then he hit an ice storm in upper New York State, went over the Atlantic coast in New England and drove southward along the coast. Early sales swept the seaboard last weekend thus confirming the charted course he had predicted.

"It was interesting to note the difference between the storm of the same storm at various points," he said. "The storm struck the Pacific coast like sheet in New York State and the Atlantic gales were all from the northeast. It was almost as if from over Greenland."

Method Explained

His new principle is based on the "pull" of the heavenly bodies on the earth, moon and sun, the irregular, resulting in a slight motion of the earth's rotation.

"That causes the atmosphere, which is fluid, to alter its flow and forth over the earth, just as water will rush out of a pan if the pan is jiggled," he said.

Maxwell compiles the relative charges of the magnetic field of the earth, moon and sun, which "pull" the atmosphere in strangely continually variable shape. From this he knows the variation in the earth's motion and from the lack of variations in atmospheric masses, making possible long range forecasting.

In addition, his "magnetometer" records "pulsations" of the earth's magnetic field instantly. The atmosphere likewise records and shows corresponding changes about 12 hours later.

Drought Next Year

The new science, he said, "During the whole winter there will be about one month's snowfall," he said. "That means about two good snows during the winter, instead of seven or eight.

"There will be another drought next year," he continued, remarking he had foreseen the last one. "The whole northern hemisphere will be subject to a drought until August, then mild all the weather will be wetter than usual."

LIBERAL QUEBEC FALTERS SLIGHTLY IN ITS TRADITION

First Serious Blow to Canadian Liberalism Since 1930

CONSERVATIVES GAIN

Also First Made by This Party Since That Year

Montreal, Nov. 26 (CP)— Solid old Liberal Quebec faltered for the traditional Liberalism yesterday just enough to deal Premier Taschereau the first serious blow it has received in Canadian elections since 1930.

On the heels of a Dominion election in which Quebec led all Canada in sending Liberal members to Ottawa, Premier L. A. Taschereau's Liberal Provincial Government survived yesterday's election with a majority of only six.

From 1930 until this election, except in the Provincial election which swept the Conservatives into power, Premier Taschereau's Liberals have swept through every electoral contest with thundering majorities.

Similarly Premier Taschereau's election first time gain made by the Conservative party anywhere in Canada since the Federal election of 1930. It was the rebel Liberal organization, the Action Liberale Nationale, however, which, allied with the Conservatives, named Premier Taschereau the most grief.

Mr. Taschereau's Liberal membership in the Legislature was cut from 79 to 48 by yesterday's voting.

Followers of Maurice Duplessis' Conservative party increased from 11 to 16, while his Action Liberale

Mrs. Tilford Takes Appeal News Calmly

Woodstock, Ont., Nov. 26 (CP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Tilford, sentenced to die for the poison murder of her husband, calmly visited Guelph when told the appeal on her behalf by Solicitor-General Hepburn McGibbon stated today. Mrs. Tilford was informed of the Appeal Court's decision late yesterday by the jail matron, Mrs. F. Dyer, who was said to have taken the news calmly. Frank Regan, her counsel, is expected to file a statement and is preparing to make an appeal to Governor-General for executive clemency.

SEEK TO BAN CUTTEN FROM WHEAT PIT

Cutten Legendary Figure in Chicago's LaSalle Street

CUBBY HOLE OFFICE

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—Agriculture Department officials planned today to appeal to the United States Supreme Court in their effort to bar Arthur W. Cutten, millionaire grain speculator, from trading pits for two years.

They also indicated they would seek to have Congress amend a section of the Grain Futures Act under which a Federal Circuit of Appeals reversed yesterday a government suspension order issued last March.

In suspending Cutten, a native of Guelph, Ont., the grain futures administration headed by Secretary Wallace charged that he manipulated big market deals to manipulate wheat prices in 1933 and 1931.

Government Frustrated

The Court of Appeals ruled in Chicago the writ phrase "is violative of" in the law prevented the government from suspending traders for past violations.

For years Cutten has been a legendary figure on Chicago's LaSalle street. In addition appeared in the wheat pit, shunned publicity and until recently maintained a "cubby hole" office in a skyscraper near the floor of the pit.

The letterhead on the office door read "Chicago Portraiting Company." One person was the office staff. At the rear was a small private room. Few persons ever entered it.

In bringing charges against Cutten, the government termed him "the biggest speculator in the history of the trade."

Feeding Figures

While he was charged with millions behind which he commented on the only Cutten grain buying they were still probably return to be purchased to feed the pigeons in the window sill of his office.

The white haired trader once was quoted as saying he knew little about the wheat he was trying to make a little money like "anybody else."

HEPBURN BACK HOME BY DEC. 6

Will Lead Ontario Delegation to Ottawa

Toronto, Nov. 26 (CP)—Premier Hepburn is returning to Toronto from a Montreal visit today and will lead the Ontario delegation to the Dominion-Provincial Conference at Ottawa, Acting Premier Nixon announced today.

Mr. Hepburn left the Premier is much improved in health but it is not likely he will be able to attend the sessions of the conference that he should be present at the inception of some of the plans of the premier to alter his earlier decision to remain away.

Lottery Racketeers May be Arrested

Boston, Nov. 26.—(AP)—The Boston Traveler in a copyrighted story by Paul Benjamin today charged a Federal predicted today the arrest in Boston, Worcester and Springfield of lottery racketeers alleged to have taken millions of dollars from New Englanders.

Ford, the Traveler says, asserted the swindle was operated by numbers pool slips.

"The $50,000 Keno game at the Chicago World's Fair lads of State in Worcester," the paper quotes Ford a saying, "cost Massachusetts citizens $250,000 at least."

FALL DOWN SHAFT FATAL

Peterboro, Ont., Nov. 26.—Robert Shearing, 70, an employe of the Quaker Oats Company for the past twenty years fell down a hoist shaft today and was fatally injured. The accident occurred shortly after Shearing had started work.

Threat of Airport In Hamilton Stirs Toronto's Mayor

Toronto, Nov. 25 (CP)—Mayor James Simpson said today American Airways, one of the major lines in the United States, is negotiating with the city of Hamilton to develop its airport with a view to establishing a Canadian base.

Mayor Simpson said the information was communicated to him by Col. George Drew, former Ontario Securities Commissioner, who plans to call a meeting of Toronto's airport and island tunnel. The Mayor invited Hamilton to be "side-tracked" and he understood American Airways is using Hamilton to expand $50,000 on its airport.

The Mayor said under existing agreements he has at its finger tips the airport for a proposed Trans-Canadian air mail service as well as the trans-Canada service and "if Hamilton spends $50,000 more it will be agreements signed and we will lost this business."

OIL EMBARGO DEBATED DEC. 6

Rumania, India, And Russia Ready to Ban Export to Italy

Geneva, Nov. 26 (AP)—League of Nations' officials said today the next meeting to discuss the imposition of an oil embargo against Italy probably would be Dec. 6 or 9.

Rumania and India have joined with Soviet Russia in expressing readiness to extend the existing embargoes against materials to Italy to include oil, coal, iron and steel.

India made no reservation but Rumania, like Russia, made the acceptance conditional upon its being instituted by all producing and exporting states.

133 Years' Terms Imposed on Pair

Sarnia, Ont., Nov. 26.— (CP)— Total of 133 years imprisonment was imposed here today by Judge Forest, Ont., and John Gallens of London, when they appeared in court today on criminal charges. The sentences will run concurrently with penitentiary terms of from 1-3 years, imposed at Toronto, Kitchener and Stratford.

Only possible each received terms of five years on each of 13 charges of breaking, entering and theft and one year each for theft of automobile at Thedford. Each appeared on a seven year for passing a worthless cheque. Apprehension of the pair followed a series of store robberies in Western Ontario.

Tennis Court Net Catches Fugitive Car

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 26 (CP)—Following a 55-mile-an-hour auto chase in the west end of the city early today Acting Detective Young and Constable Gilbert arrested Sam Brown and Harold McKeown, both of Toronto, alleging they were in possession of a car stolen in Toronto.

The fugitive car failed to make a turn and plunged into the wire netting protecting a tennis court.

Constable McGee asked McKeown to flee on foot through the park. He gave chase and overtook him, despite three shots fired by Detective Young. Constable McGee and Detective Young picked up Dewhirst.

PAST RECORD 'TELLS'

Brantford, Ont., Nov. 26.—(CP) —"In view of your past record which by no means can be ignored you are sentenced to six months in jail," said Magistrate Jones to James Bullock found guilty of taking the car owned by Allan Kneale, Brantford.

NEW EVIDENCE IN HAUPTMANN CASE BELIEVED FOUND

Wood Secured in States Believed Identical With Ladder Wood

RANSOM MONEY?

Alleged to Have Been Passed on Boston Lately

Boston, Nov. 26.—(AP)—The Globe in a copyrighted story, says investigators, examining evidence in the case of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted kidnapper of the Lindbergh baby have discovered in Massachusetts, wood they believe identical with that from which the kidnap ladder was constructed, and handwriting experts say they have match the ransom notes.

The Globe copyrighted story says the investigators have discovered bills they hope to prove as some of the ransom money.

The wood upon which they plan, in part, to base testimony in the trial was discovered, the copyrighted story says, in the little town of Hopewell, near Trenton, New Jersey.

The money, which, the Globe says, investigators have found in their possession, is said to have been passed in this state by a man who, it is alleged, is now directly under suspicion of the kidnapping.

The Globe copyrighted story says said the investigation had been going on for more than a month and the paper learned the Hauptmann defense planned to reveal new evidence uncovered in Massachusetts before Hauptmann's appeal is heard by the Supreme Court.

The Globe said it learned the defense obtained word to Judge Ashby, which they consider the same as that used to construct the kidnap ladder, which was found in the home which they hope to ask for a new trial.

Will Not Name Man

The informant refused at this time, the story says, to name the man they say passed some of the ransom money, but said the investigation may require another week, the paper says, and the defence counsel are apprehensive lest it is interrupted by a premature publication of details.

C. Lloyd Fisher, chief of the Hauptmann defence counsel, has made at least four trips to Boston to check up the discoveries, according to the copyrighted article, which said he considers the Massachusetts evidence very important.

Some of the discoveries were made in the Globe copyright story in a former camp in the vicinity of Vinton Pond, Addison.

No Knowledge

Flemington, N. J., Nov. 26.—(AP)—Counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann's defence counsel, said today he had no knowledge of discoveries seeking new evidence in the case, which involved kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby had discovered in Massachusetts wood they believed identical with that from which the kidnap ladder was built.

"This is as much news to me as to me." Fisher said of a story a Boston Globe copyrighted article declaring counsel had found new evidence.

"The only possible basis for such a thing is that we have found no new evidence. I have not been to Massachusetts. There is nothing to that article."

$798.26 Reported Stolen

Toronto, Nov. 26.—(AP)— The chief investigator for Bruno Richard Hauptmann declared today he had learned on "unimpeachable authority" that Lindbergh ransom money had turned up recently in Boston and Worcester, Mass.

Emerges From Campaign With Only a Majority of Six

LEADERS ALL WIN

United Opposition Will Have 42 Seats in Next Parliament

Montreal, Nov. 26.—(CP)—Leader Alexander Taschereau still rules the Province of Quebec, but Premier Taschereau's Liberal party has lost more than half its majority with 48 years of power.

The Liberal party after 48 years in office will have a new lease on life in yesterday's election, according to returns early by the slim margin of six seats. Premier Taschereau was returned in 47 of the province's 90 constituencies, one independent Liberal was elected, while the joint Conservative-Action Liberale Nationale Opposit on captured 42 seats between them.

By party designations, the Conservatives under Maurice Duplessis won seven seats, and the A.L.N., elected by Paul Gouin, was victorious in 36 constituencies.

Leaders All Elected

The three leaders were elected with comfortable majorities: Premier Taschereau in Montmorency by 1,500 votes; Maurice Duplessis in Trois Rivieres by 1,200 votes and Paul Gouin, Provincial Treasurer in Dorchester by 1,000 votes.

Premier L. A. Taschereau Given Slim Mandate to Continue Liberal Rule

Former Mayor George A. Reid, Stirling, Conservative chairman at the nomination speaking yesterday at the city hall, voiced sympathy for Mrs. Reid, personally and his own personal appreciation of the illness of former Mayor. "We all sympathize with Mayor Tice, who has been confined to bed since the first of the year. Years in his busy lives which are prevented him from being with us today. We hope that he will soon be restored to health." Mr. Hartman went on to pay fine tribute to Mayor Tice.

At the same time Mr. Reid expressed best wishes to Mrs. Jones S. Tice, aged mother of the Mayor, that she would soon be perfectly recovered. He pointed to the motley through which the line passed and to the cheer which she now felt as the mayor began to speak, and expressed the sincere concurrence.

Ex-Alderman Harold Armstrong, who sat in council for years with Mayor Tice, also expressed the wish that the feelings of the electors be expressed to Mayor George A. Tice, in a card of recovery and complete restoration of health.

MARK TWAIN DAY IS CELEBRATED AT ROTARY CLUB

J. O. Herity Gives Fine Address on Famous Humorist

CENTENARY SATURDAY

Hannibal, famous and fierce Carthaginian general, is commemorated and perpetuated in the city of Hannibal, Missouri, famous and literary asserts of the honor of being the home town of Samuel Langhorne Clemens, who will go down to posterity as the apostle of stingless humor, pen-named Mark Twain.

Belleville Rotary Club observed Mark Twain Day Monday in recognition of the fact that Saturday next will be the 100th anniversary of the birth of Samuel Langhorne Clemens, famed as "Mark Twain".

A little journey into the homes and haunts and heart of the great humorist was taken very delightfully by the Rotarians and guests present, followed by that ever-amusing tour, J. O. Herity. Incidentally the attendance was the largest of the season, and the club was treated very wholly to humor in which the witty ones of the club contributed to the joy of all, even the speaker, who enjoyed the fun-quips and repartee, and used it as a fitting accompaniment to his talk.

Past President Frank Dolan introduced the speaker and Past President Gordon Bone and President Bert Boyce expressed the appreciation of the assembly for the very able address given.

Charming Picture.

A charming picture of the true Mark Twain was presented by the speaker, his striking personality never left no sting, glimpses of his home life, and his wonderful love for his wife. Mark Twain and Mrs. Clemens Poe were the two greatest geniuses of their time, and Mark was as opposite as the poles in temperament from Napoleon, after giving an analysis of humor, what it is and is not, the speaker paid a high tribute to the love for his wife that he was able to boast that he had used many pen-names in the best book of his joking but never lost a friend thereby. Mark Twain had the same quality known as that of making and keep friends. It is interesting also to note that the genius of Mark Twain was recognized and his humor appreciated in England before the United States awoke to his importance.

"Innocents Abroad" was quoted by the speaker, where Mark Twain's humorous pen broke behind a scene of the dusty old customs of the lands of ancient glory. How he stood before the Sphinx, Cradle of Adam and voiced his brief, that his illustrious ancestor had never had the pleasure of meeting his illustrious descendant, and "Twain" longer at so many exhibits of "The True Cross", which must have consisted enough lumber to build a ship and enough nails to fill many bags. Thus the immortal laughs superstition out of existence.

Mark Twain left school when he was eleven years old to the relief of his teachers who had evidently come to him but a very dull boy from Hannibal, but he was to be correspected. He drifted into the printing business as an early age, became a journeyman and gravitated into journalism and even indulged his hobby to become a pilot for a piece of a great steamboat on the mighty Mississippi River.

A kindly intimate picture of Mark Twain whose humor helped to soften and mellow the asperity and sorrows of a world in which laughter is all but scarce was painted in glowing words by the speaker, and those who heard it will remember with appreciation on Saturday is the hundredth anniversary of the birth of the great humorist, genius and poignant, but whose deep sense of humor which he gave to the world always gilded the clouds with that lining of silver which makes life so much the more worth living. —Samuel Langhorne Clemens, "Mark Twain".

Nine Missing Persons Thought Killed by Itinerant Oil Worker

Oklahoma City, Nov. 26 (CP)—Investigation of the fate of nine missing persons focused today upon the condition of Chester Comer, 35, itinerant oil field worker, gravely wounded in a gunfight prior to his capture yesterday.

Comer, a bullet in his brain, grasped a barely understandable admission of partial guilt before lapsing into a coma.

E. Smith Hester, McClain County Attorney, said Comer confessed he killed Ray Evans, prominent Shawnee attorney; L. A. Simpson, Pied-mont farmer, and Simpson's son, Warren, 14, and hid their bodies.

Comer's first and second wives were added to the list of missing. Federal agents probed the possibility Comer may have killed four Illinois tourists, George La Lotte and Albert A. Heberer and their wives in New Mexico several months ago.

Three bodies....Oh, piles of bodies," Hester stoked the smoldering fire.

"I wouldn't be surprised at anything we may run into," said Col. Charles Daly, State Crime Bureau Chief, as he directed a 24-hour research for the victims.

Daisy Comer, belongings found in Simpson's car in which Comer was captured, "increase our fears for those missing."

STRUCK BY TRAIN TWO ARE KILLED

Car Dragged More Than 450 Feet by Passing Train

Kitchener, Ont., Nov. 26 (CP)—Two men are dead today following a fiery crossing smash at Baden yesterday when a Stratford bound Canadian National Railway train struck a car bound for Kitchener.

Joseph Rietfied, 38-year-old Mount Forest basket worker, died a few seconds after being extricated from the wreck. His nephew, 31-year-old Frank Stietzel, said to have been driving the car, died in St. Mary's hospital early today.

The condition of Robert Stietzel, Joseph's brother and Frank's father, is very critical, the hospital reports.

The Stietzel car was dragged more than 450 feet as the passenger train, due at Baden at 3.22 p.m. flew over the highway crossing.

Witness say the crossing wigwag was working and the whistle of the engine had sounded.

A good view of the crossing is afforded from the direction in which the car was approaching the tracks.

Two on Truck Safe as Train Cuts It

New Liskeard, Ont., Nov. 26 (CP) —Thomas Dribnall, section foreman and his son Edward, narrowly escaped certain death here today when a northbound Ontario Northlines train struck and demolished the rear of their truck on a Public Planning and Northern Ontario Railway level crossing. Both escaped uninjured.

EVIDENCE OF OPTIMISM

Toronto, Nov. 26.— (CP)— The Presbyterian Church in Canada, emerging from the depression and rapidly assuming its old position and stride, said Rt. Rev. D. T. L. McKerrol, D.D., Moderator, Minister of Victoria Presbyterian church, today following his return to Toronto after a tour of Canada.

Stolen Articles Found

"Comer had a brief case belonging to Evans whom he told me he killed," Daley said. "In addition, we have a couple of revolvers which might have belonged to a young boy, face powder and women's toilet articles and some small baby's boots.

"If he had two pistols besides the one he used in the gunfight yesterday and a large quantity of ammunition."

After Comer's capture by Oscar Mountin, Blanchard Marshal wounded in the arm by Comer, a pencilled note was found in the dead man's pocket. It read:

"If I am not killed in this car it will be a surprise to me. I have nothing to regret. I had rather be dead than be a public slave."

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Comer, Oklahoma City, identified the captive as their son, Chester Comer, 35, dead.

Mrs. Comer related their son, Arnold, 18, is in an Arkansas asylum for killing a man, woman and baby four years ago. A year ago he killed his cell-mate and since has been in solitary confinement

Mrs. R. A. Chilliers, stepmother of Comer's first wife, Elizabeth Simpson, said she had been missing since August.

Fear also was expressed for his daughter and Mrs. Lucile Stietzel Comer, whose father, Charles Stietzel, said he last was heard from in McLean Texas, September 14.

NEW EVIDENCE IN HAUPTMANN CASE

Department of Justice in New York York said "we have no information on this matter."

"I have been informed," the investigator said, "that some $70 in ransom money has been received by the Boston Federal Reserve Bank since Hauptmann's arrest. It is continuing to show up. My authority is unimpeachable, despite the denials of police."

Letter Written After Kidnap

The investigator said he had recently found in a house near Asbury Park, a letter dated March 19, 1932, 10 days after the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped, which read, in part:

"Why don't you return that poor little Lindbergh baby? you have had it long enough."

He said the writer and recipient of the letter were known and he would soon have "a full accounting from them."

In the same house, the investigator said, he found a "similar" to that used in the ladder believed to have been used to carry the ransom to the Lindbergh nursery.

"It's the same kind," he remarked, "and I'm having it examined by experts."

He cited reports the same house yielded ransom bills as "absolutely wrong," and added, "I wish it had, however."

Baby's Clothes

Besides the handwriting and wood, the investigator said, several articles used by a lady were found in the house as well as newspaper clippings of another kidnapping, executed in some respects similar to that of the Lindbergh baby.

The investigator said the ransom bills not traced to Hauptmann were all peculiarly folded, twice once and one down.

The investigator said that while he was not adequately versed in chirography to ascertain if the handwriting on the ransom notes was the same as that on the letter found near Ashbury, he had observed several characteristics identical in both scripts.

These, he said, were curiscues and dots that had been found by at least one handwriting expert but never introduced as evidence.

POLICE COURT

Three inebriates appeared before Magistrate R. J. Ryder, K.C. in a special police court held in Chief Kidd's office this morning two male and one female pleading guilty to charges of intoxication. One of the male prisoners managed to raise the necessary five dollars for his other fellow the ten day jail sentence in default of payment, thereof. As for the female intoxicant, she appeared in the court room and accused Ida Wrenlip that her husband would soon appear and pay the conventional ten dollars and costs. Upon the arrival of spouse, however, the head of the house refused to pay up. Was the male being subsequently transferred to the county jail where she will spend the next ten days.

Only four transients applied at the police station for a night's lodging last night, all being informed that inside the city were their dismissal this morning. Crime and major motor accidents were at a very low ebb in Belleville last night, neither being reported to the authorities.

Col. Graham Speaker

As guest speaker of the evening Mr. J. R. Graham of this city introduced by Deputy Reeve Robeson, chairman pointed to Confederation as the most highly organized section of the riding. "If the result of polling day had the enthusiasm and unity that has always been so noticeable here, then the last election would have told a different story," he declared.

"The situation has changed now and we know what the verdict of the people is," he said. "It is difficult for us to say anything really constructive at this time, except that we should continue to hold these meetings from time to time, if only for the pleasure we get out of doing it and meeting our fellow workers. These meetings can be looked upon as vote catchers, but rather as opportunities of spending a social evening."

"We took victory another election night away, but when it does come we will be ready for it. And it may not be long. As the last contest, Mr Graham, pointing to what he termed the total misunderstanding of facts and elements which entered into the election, were in a measure responsible for the defeat of the Conservative party, aided Mr. Graham, pointing specifically to the election talk of "Section 98" as an example and the ten dollars and Stevens entry had also been responsible for part of it.

Member is Heard

James P. Hill, M.P.P. for East Hastings in a brief address declared that Conservatism, said in many instances, misrepresentation and been responsible for the defeat of the Conservative party throughout the country. "People were grabbing at straws, there was unrest in the country. Many factors over which we had no control were responsible for this."

"Thurlow", reminded Mr. Hill, "is one of the best Conservative ridings in Canada and had always been known to have a good amount of itself at any election. Residents of the riding should be sure to have no regrets over the last election. And with the new Conservative party a long trail of broken hearts and homes had been left due to the Liberal party office seeking workers through no fault of their own, were thrown out of work without warning and their places taken by new workers."

Mr. Hepburn, declared the speaker, did not realize the full importance of the position he now held, that of guiding the destinies of such a large Province as Ontario for the party, Miss Thomas, Mrs. Lucas, Mrs. J. Spence.

Poll No 5, (College Hill)

Mrs. H. Chambers; chairlady; Mrs. A. Martin, Mrs. W. Orlik, Mrs. J. Fox, Mrs. S. May.

Poll No 6 (Carrollton)

Mrs. Downey, chairlady; Mrs. C. Mills, Mrs. E. Ingleton, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. O. Beer.

LORD TWEEDSMUIR PRAISES ONTARIO

Best Stocks of New And Old World Drawn Upon, He Says

(By Charles Nichols, Canadian Press Staff Writer).

Toronto, Nov. 26 (CP)—To Ontario—"A miniature of the British Empire"—Baron Tweedsmuir was welcomed Monday as Canada's 15th Governor-General.

In stately Queen's Park before which a crimson line of the 48th Highlanders formed a guard of honor, Baron Tweedsmuir was welcomed by representatives of the province, the city of Toronto and several organizations representing religion, art and patriotic endeavour.

Seated in the velvet-draped speaker's chair with his consort, Lady Buchan, beside him, the Dominion's new Governor-General expressed his warm thanks for the addresses of welcome. He spoke of his "immense appetite for further knowledge" of the country wherein he represents his Majesty.

Imagination Fired

"It might well fire the imagination of any lover of history to be welcomed by the representatives of a great province which, in its time, has made so much history," the Governor-General replied to Acting-Premier Nixon's welcoming words.

"Ontario," he recalled, "has drawn to her the best stocks of the new world and of the old—the heroic band of United Empire Loyalists, the cream of English and Irish settlers and my old foe, the Scottish highland and lowlands—so that she is a full sense, today a miniature of the British Empire."

Referring to himself, Tweedsmuir as a most worthy successor to the long list of British statesmen who had preceded him in the new office, Mr. Nixon presaged more perplexing problems to be faced than those confronting previous Vice-Regal representatives.

Difficult Times

"While you assume your Vice-Regal responsibilities during the most difficult period of the world's history and man, with your advantages, face perplexing problems, we feel that the calm consideration and sane judgment which has characterized your actions in other spheres will still be evident and will result in satisfaction to you and profit to Canada," Mr. Nixon said.

Appointment Welcomed

Mayor Simpson, Toronto's left wing mayor, spoke for the people of the city in "rejoicing" over the naming of his Excellency as the King's representative.

The people of United States too would welcome his appointment, Mayor Simpson said, and would look forward to greater co-operation between the Republic and Great Britain.

Addresses of Welcome came also from the Synod of the Diocese of Toronto, the United Church of Canada in Ontario, the Toronto Women's Press Club, St. George's Society and the Irish Benevolent Society. To each Baron Tweedsmuir replied briefly recalling in every case an association different otherwise, with the organizations represented.

Flowers to Lady Tweedsmuir

A bouquet was presented at the end of the ceremony to her Excellency by Mrs. Kirby, wife of the Chief Whip in the Ontario legislature.

An informal reception was held by their Excellencies at the conclusion of the addresses. Hon. Peter Heenan, Ontario Minister of Lands and Forests, being the first to come forward to chat with the Governor-General.

Following the reception Baron and Lady Tweedsmuir departed for Government House where they will remain during an afternoon free of official functions.

Trenton and District

Trenton, Nov. 26 (Special)—The Trenton Rotary Club heard a very interesting talk on "A Trip to Scotland" last night at their regular weekly luncheon held in the Hotel Gilbert. The speaker was Mr. J. F. Middlejohn, a member of the teaching staff at the Trenton high school, who visited in Scotland two years ago. President George Shorter introduced the guest speaker to his fellow Rotarians. Mr. Middlejohn started his talk with the Rotarier trip across the Atlantic and carried the listeners up to the time they were with him on the delightful cruise. His first Sunday in the Old Country took him to the Presbyterian Cathedrals. He was astounded by the true spirit of religion among the Scottish people. Economy, as the Scots are noted, was not shown on his entire trip. In the speaker's estimation Glasgow has more cycling enthusiasts than any other city he visited on his trip. On a count by one of the speaker's friends, five hundred bicycles were counted at one time. Scotland cannot be mentioned without linking the names of their two famed poets, Robert Burns and Sir Walter Scott, he said. He referred to the great band "Old Lang Syne" which is known throughout the entire world. He thanked the Rotarians some wonderful pictures of Scotland in a scrapbook kept by Mr. Middlejohn. Many beautiful scenes of the lochs and waterfalls of the Scottish country were scanned by the interested members of the club. He spoke of the History of Sir Walter Scott and its twenty-seven volumes. Several lines of the work of Robert Burns and Sir Walter Scott were recited by the speaker. Visits were thoroughly enjoyed by the listeners. He told of the coronation of the King and Queen, Holyrood Palace. Another interesting fact was missed by the speaker was that in Edinburgh there are three men to each lady. The Edinburgh Castle, with its several lines of the work of Robert Burns and Sir Walter Scott were recited by the speaker was that in Edinburgh there are three men to each lady. The Edinburgh Castle, with its several lines and many items of history in connection with the historic palace were told. During the Great War it was used to house German prisoners. At the present time it is made useful as a storage for ammunitions. He finished with the glowing remarks as to the friendliness of the Scottish people.

A vote of thanks was extended on behalf of the club by Rotarians Squire Gerow, Norman Baker, Trenton Court.

Archie Mitchell doesn't hold much fear for the jail house as he just was released last week and celebrated his birthday on Saturday and landing in the clutches of the Trenton police authorities yesterday when he appeared before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., Belleville, he was given the choice of paying fifty dollars and costs or going to jail for thirty days. He will be Mitchell a Merry Xmas or a Happy New Year. Constables Thomas and Sergeant Project at the airport was charged with stealing two pairs of boots from White's store. He pleaded guilty. Crown Attorney R. C. Donnon, K.C., asked that the case stand over one week while his record was looked up. Accused was out on bail remanded then and there but he will appear later for the sentence. Crown Attorney Donnon stated that one of the boys from the air station were also charged with the theft were some real bad actors there also and that a number of United States appearances in court and suggested to His Worship that they start sending them to the penitentiary. Mr. Dougal was also charged with stealing from the boots from the same store but he pleaded not guilty and the Crown offered no evidence and he was discharged.

A local youth pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing and he was assessed ten dollars and costs.

Chief Hall who rules here in the country was charged with using markers issued for a motor car, on a truck. Chief Hall produced the markers and had them in the station. Chief Hall paid the fine and costs the markers were returned to him. When asked where the car was he calmly stated that it was outside. He had driven in to court in the new Ford of another and later a lecture by the magistrate he went on his way, car and markers together.

Badminton Club Prepare.

Last night the members of the Trenton Badminton Club met for the purpose of electing officers and for the coming season and outlining the program for the winter term. Gordon Flynn was elected president with Dr. J. R. Renton as vice-president, Miss Dorothy Hall as second secretary-treasurer for the year. Mrs. G. Hazel as social convener and Alex Young will be in charge of the men.

The Badminton Club have moved their quarters from the old Graham garage on Dundas street east to the old Government Motion Picture building which was given the use by the Hepburn government after they closed the studio. Several alterations to the building preceded the formal opening next Monday night.

Several selections of the position of bailiff in the town of Trenton have taken place since the Hepburn government dismissed the former bailiff, Charles Kerr, and they held the position for some time but was recalled on the request and again C. York was picked until the recent appointment of W. Campbell.

The office of Davidson Court Clerk has also turned several times. James McGinty was dismissed after the government changed and Walter Adams was appointed. Later he was dismissed and Miss Katie McHenry, daughter of the former clerk, was called in to look after the office until the position was fulfilled. The most recent appointment is Mr. T. J. Johnson. The new bailiff and clerk were on hand yesterday afternoon at the regular sitting of the Division Court before Judge Deroche of Belleville.

OLDEST EDITOR GONE

Moses A. James, oldest editor in Canada, is dead at Bowmanville. For fifty-seven years he held the post of editor of the Bowmanville Statesman.

He brought local journalism to a high plane as readers of the Statesman know. He was interested in every phase of the life of the municipality and the district. His outlook on life was eminently sane. He had the large view, the only way which spells progress and satisfaction.

How Mr. James managed to do it time for so many efforts is difficult to understand for those who find most of their time and energy taken up by one job. But he managed not only to run a successful newspaper which would be a credit to any municipality for its high tone and its comprehensiveness, but also to co-operate with and guide others in many fields of endeavor. His life was well-rounded out and self-fulfilled had no space within it.

One remembers how years ago a well-known local citizen, Dr. (now the Hon. Dr.) J. A. Faulkner was taken ill on his way to Toronto and entered the hospital at Bowmanville where he was operated on for appendicitis. Daily Mr. James visited his bedside and afterwards sent daily news stories of the progress of the doctor's recovery to the Daily Ontario at Belleville. This incident was a little insight into the breadth of Mr. James' sympathies and kindness.

To such men death has no anxiety, for he has reaped from life the best that is in it because he has given the best of himself to it and because he has made life easier and richer for those who lived with him and came after him.

Mr. James possessed that quality of sturdiness and stability usually associated with the natives of England. He was born in Devon, and received his education in Ontario rural schools and on the farm, later turning to teaching. In 1878 he bought the Statesman's plant and began that long career unrivalled in Canadian journalism. He retired in 1919 from active participation but was still associated with the paper.

MAYOR TICE

Citizens feel sincere regret that Mayor Tice was on account of illness unable to take part in the nomination ceremonies which he has presided since he first entered the city council a decade ago. It was his fate to fall ill at the time marking the completion of a decade in city service as alderman and mayor. He was in the minds of electors yesterday as nominations proceeded and on every hand were heard appraisals of his service.

No citizen regretted more than the mayor himself his enforced absence from the week of nominations and the election campaign. A period of 10 years of service has been within the depression period, which has made heavy demands upon the time and energy of the city's representative. His term as mayor has been completely within the bounds of the depression, a trying and testing time.

He has been an excellent presiding officer and executive. In debate he has the faculty of cutting to the heart of a contention and many a debate which gave appearance of dragging out to interminable lengths has been cut short by his perception of the core of the matter.

His early recovery from his illness and complete restoration to former strength and activity is the wish of every citizen of the municipality.

THE STORY OF THE ROAD

The last report of highway traffic conditions tells a sad enough story.

Something is to blame. Not the motorist for all deaths, nor the pedestrian either. Sometimes the weather conditions, sometimes the condition of the roadway or the section through which the roadway passes, often the motorist and often the pedestrian. When the motorist is driving on occasion of unfavorable conditions of weather the law holds him responsible for seeing that extra precaution is taken to prevent injury or damage. A man travelling on a crowded highway is expected to take unusual care. The pedestrian, too, is rightly expected to take care of himself and not step into the face of danger. But often he has to walk on the highway and then he does run risks.

The responsibility is great, and rests upon driver, the occupant of the car other than the driver and the pedestrian. Only eternal vigilance on the part of all will eliminate a great share of tragedy and pain.

Some day the pedestrian will be the happy man who can indulge in his pastime of walking on a path set apart for walkers. These will stimulate walking, one of the most enjoyable of exercises. Suburbs of many cities, in days gone by, possessed walks. While there was a need for them in those times when roads were muddy and dusty it would be cleared in winter, there is even greater need today for death rides the highways for the unwary. Some walks were taken out when the highways were built and steps were not taken to replace them. Some day they will come back.

GEORGIA AUTUMN

Winter comes slowly here. There is no reason
To bar the door too soon against the cold,
Here season mellows softly into season:
Green into russet, russet into gold.
Only the empty boll that nods and rustles
On the forsaken stem has sensed the frost
Over the clearing where the possum hustles,
Seeking the dubious haven of the lost.
Only the boll, the possum,and the amber-
Reluctant scuppernongs that crowd the vines
Belie the honeysuckle's fragrant clamber
They and the dusky purple muscadines
Are Winter's word, whispered with lazy breath.
Here summer sleeps—it never quite knows death.

GREETINGS AND NEWS FROM TEXAS

OUR DALLAS, TEXAS, CORRESPONDENT, sends the following odds and ends of news concerning happenings in the Lone Star State which may be of general interest:

Twenty-nine years ago a man bought a railway ticket—he never used it until a week ago when he boarded a train and gave his ancient ticket to the conductor. The ticket was accepted without comment and turned in with the conductor's report. The General Passenger Agent says he will keep the ticket as a souvenir of one man's confidence in his railroad.

Somnabulism, otherwise known as walking in your sleep, can be a very dangerous pastime, or habit, or what have you. Fort Worth man, addicted to the habit, walked abroad one night and in the current course of events stumbled onto a verandah of a private residence. He failed to respond to the command "Who goes there?" "What do you want?" and consequently stopped, or was stopped by a load of birdshot which the householder had in reserve for late and un-credentialled callers. The somnabulist awakened in the hospital and hopes that the lead absorbed will effectually cure his habit of sleep walking.

Father of a marvel in memory feats J. E. Massey, of Dallas, is a bit absentminded himself. He laid a parcel containing seven dozen neckties on a truck while he conversed with a friend—the truck moved off and with it the neckties which have not been recovered.

Dallas baby of nine months swallowed a handful of thumb tacks. She was blue in the face and apparently dying when the ambulance arrived at the home, but when she arrived at the hospital she was laughing and playing with her toes. Apparently the jolting had dislodged the tacks and kept them moving.

Dallas college professor was appointed a delegate to represent his college at a convention to be held in San Antonio, Friday, Octover 25. Shortly after he was notified that the convention had been postponed one week. He forgot the postponement and called off his classes for the original date, going to San Antonio where he found the convention hall closed. His classes received another holiday the following week.

A Prairie Creek Farmer, O. L. Horton, was hauling wood. He fell from the truck and a wheel passed over him, jarring the truck so that the whole load of wood fell off the vehicle upon his recumbent body.

Dallas firemen are gathering broken toys which will be rehabilitated and used to make Christmas brighter for Dallas kiddies who otherwise might find their Christmas stockings filled with Old Mother Hubbard found the cupboard. All of which goes to show that Belleville, Canada, has no monopoly of the Christmas spirit as exemplified in the fire brigade.

Associated Press despatch from Belleville, Canada, published in Dallas papers tells of a Hastings farmer who captured some starlings painted them a bright yellow and turned them loose. The painted starlings tried to fraternize with the rest of the starling colony but were received with hostile coldness—resulting in all the other starlings moving off that farm leaving the yellow birds in lonely possession. Hasting farmers always like that—whenever they were bothered with a nuisance they invented some way to abolish it. Good Old Hastings.

Bank of Montreal Statement Shows Usual Strong Position

Total Assets at $782,772,872 Show Gain of Over $33,000,000 — Liquid Assets at $535,274,811 Aps. Equal to 74.43 Per Cent. of All Liabilities to the Public—Deposits Make Gain of Over $45,000,000 and Stand at $676,944,866.

Strong in all departments, the annual statement of the Bank of Montreal just issued contains many interesting features.

The statement, which covers the fiscal year to October 31st, 1933, appears elsewhere, is issued in an easily understandable form, evidently in order that the general public may more fully appreciate the security that is afforded both depositors and shareholders. The statement shows that at the close of the fiscal year the total assets of the Bank were $782,772,872 as compared with $749,106,178 a year ago, an increase of over $33,000,000.

Included in total assets are liquid assets of $535,274,811, against $501,347,207, a gain of over $40,000,000, and equal to 74.43 per cent. of all liabilities to the public. An outstanding feature is the holdings of government and other bonds and debentures amounting to $361,789,944, as compared with $317,358,812 a year ago, an increase of over $43,000,000. In keeping with the Bank's policy, the greater portion consists of gilt-edge securities which mature in early dates.

The immediately available cash is represented by cash on hand and money on deposit with the Bank of Canada of $87,711,026; notes of and cheques on other banks $27,514,566, and money on deposit with other banks of $97,051.

Call loans outside of Canada now stand at $18,851,555, down from $32,133,944. The decline may be attributed to the unusually low interest rates that have prevailed in the principal money markets of the world. At the same time call loans in Canada have declined to $4,435,778 from $5,389,207.

Current Loans Lower

While there have been reports of gains in many lines of business, the Bank itself has not shown a tendency to increase, with the result that loans to manufacturers, farmers and merchants now stand at $295,811,311, down from $343,477,243. This would appear to indicate that many customers have been able to finance the present increase in business from their own resources.

Of special interest is the continued tendency of deposits to expand throughout the country, and, as a result, total deposits have now reached $676,944,866 from $630,918,855 a year ago.

An informative feature of the report is contained in the section where the Bank shows that it has total assets of $782,772,872, with which to meet payment of liabilities to the public of $718,107,779, leaving an excess of assets over liabilities to the public of $75,665,093.

Profit and Loss Account

The profit and loss account shows earnings slightly down from the previous year. It also indicates that the Bank's taxes to Dominion and Provincial Governments are in excess of $1,000,000.

Profits for the year amounted to $4,007,302, against $4,105,096 in the previous year. From the profit taxes to Dominion and Provincial Governments took $1,010,000, leaving for distribution $3,005,212. Added to this amount dividends to shareholders took $2,880,000, leaving an amount to be carried forward of $125,212. On the profits of $3,005,212 3 2 were equal to 3.93 per cent. of capital, surplus and undivided profits. After provision for taxes and dividends the balance brought forward increased the balance of profit and loss carried forward to $1,938,075.

The Rev. Allen Petrie, who is attending Queen's University, spent yesterday at his home in this city.

Dr. W. B. Cross of Trenton, has been appointed an associate coroner for Hastings County.

From Mr. W. C. Mikel, City Clerk and Solicitor, we learn that there are within the city limits 879 1,700 acres of land that this amount of property is owned by 1,231 freeholders. This is owing to the fact that several have votes in different wards, total 1,461. This is the total number of votes which could, if all were polled, be cast for the money bylaw. There are also in the city 1,438 tenant votes, and in some of these instances some of these could vote upon a money bylaw. The necessary ratepayers in the latter case would be that their tenure of lease be for so many years as are the debentures.

Ald. O. S. Tickell announced today his intention to run for Mayor in the approaching election. Ald. Petrie, Ald. Tickell and Ald. Pepe waited upon the Hon. Rev. Monsignor Farrelly yesterday afternoon to ascertain upon what terms he would dispose of the hospital lot at the corner of Church and Bridge streets, for a public park. Monsignor Farrelly assured the Committee that he was in favor of the ground being utilized for public purposes and intimated that he would not ask an advance upon the amount paid by the Women's Christian Association, namely, $5,000, for the grounds. He will call his committee in the near future, when the question of selling the lot will be considered and Ald. Petrie will be notified of the result.

Letters to the Editor

CANADIAN RED CROSS
631 Jarvis St., Toronto 5,
November 21, 1933.

The Editor,
The Ontario Intelligencer,
Belleville, Ontario.
Dear Sir:

May I have the hospitality of your columns for the following statement about the Red Cross and the Ethiopian War.

The Ethiopian Red Cross has appealed through the International Red Cross Committee of Geneva to all national Red Cross organizations to help in its duty of succouring sick and wounded soldiers. Without question, beside help the Ethiopian Red Cross is facing an almost impossible task. Insanitary conditions, lacks both experience and money.

A number of national Red Cross Societies have already responded to the appeal. Several European Red Cross Societies are arranging to send trained personnel. Others have made substantial gifts of money. This is undoubtedly the most urgent immediate need.

I appeal to my fellow citizens to join our Canadian Red Cross Society to do its part in fulfilling the original and primary task of the Red Cross, "to furnish aid to the sick and wounded of armies in time of war." Please send contributions to the Honorary Treasurer, F. Gordon Osler, 631 Jarvis Street, Toronto, Ontario.

Yours faithfully,
Norman Sommerville,
Chairman, Central Council and Executive Committee.

Trenton and District

TRENTON, Nov. 26.—(Special)—On Friday evening last the members of the King Street United Church Men's Club had the pleasure of listening to an interesting speech delivered by Mr. J. W. Tamblyn of Toronto. Mr. James Scyfer introduced Mr. Tamblyn and told of his many qualities and his connection with many social societies including his chairmanship of the International Boys' Work Council of Optimist Clubs of America. He is also headmaster of Forest Hill Community School and two years ago made a demonstration school for the Department of Education, Province of that time he was Principal of Junior Vocational Schools of Toronto for mentally handicapped boys. Mr. Tamblyn is an ardent church worker and a great leader.

Mr. Tamblyn chose as his subject "Some Phases of Citizenship", but dealt with the school children of today, the chances they have, and the wrong attitude that the people of today have on the rising intelligent ones. He referred to the first citizen before Christ. The teacher taught them mentally, physically and spiritually. He was a firm believer that the same practice should be used today. He said that in the past he had done experimental work for the department of education and this work had been solely confined to adolescents. He spoke of the different attitudes these children would take on with different teachers. In the past eighteen years five thousand of these boys have been put to work in Toronto and the stories. It was not the most intelligent child that caused the most success. It was the one that showed stability. He concluded with the prediction that the school of tomorrow would be taught in a different way, it would be more like the Public School system of today.

On behalf of the King St. Men's Club Messrs. George Cobley, W. J. Northland A. C. Priddy spoke of the merits of the fine address delivered by Mr. Tamblyn. Many visitors from the town and surrounding towns attended to hear Mr. Tamblyn.

Badminton Club in Old Stable

It seems that the forming of a Community Hall and Athletic Club is a hard job in Trenton. Recently Mayor Ory called a meeting with the people would turn over the old Government Motion Studio, that was given the town of Trenton by the Provincial Government, as an organized Athletic Club that would look after the building and its upkeep. A week ago a meeting was called in the town hall but only discussions on the subject took place. Dr. J. W. Farley was in the chair. It was decided to appoint eight from the meeting to meet the Mayor and find out just how the situation stood. The eight consisted of Mrs. J. Stark, Miss Haslam, Dr. Farley, Dr. J. E. Henderson, Thomas Cable, Harry Smith, Oswald Larry B.A. and James F. Dey. The only time available was Monday last in the afternoon as Mayor Dory was leaving town for the week. Only one of the committee appeared and it was decided to call another meeting on Friday last. Through business, the mayor could not be in attendance and others were either sick or out of town, who comprised the committee, Councillor Ruth O'Rourke occupied the chair with Councillors Whitley and La-Brash attending. Representatives of the Trenton Badminton Club had been given the use of the armer temporarily and at the meeting this privilege was extended. It seems a shame that this opportunity of forming an Athletic Club is falling away as most everything in the sporting line in Trenton, is doing. With the exception of two companies that have formed athletic club recently, and the town hockey league that is getting some knocks at present, but the members do not know why they have to knock so early as the league has not started to function as the sports are on the decline.

The studio could be made into the finest club in the eastern part of the province but when money is mentioned the whole show seems to halt. Well, maybe someday it will be operating and then the ones who can't see the light now will be the "I told you so". Let's hope the citizens can get together and have a real place to meet and play at their favourite line of recreation.

R. Armstrong Heads Club

The annual election of officers of the Dufferin Ave., School House and School Club was held recently in the auditorium at the school. Mr. Rex Armstrong was elected to the presidential chair. Other officers chosen were as follows: Hon. President, Mr. F. W. Fairman, secretary, Mrs. James Saylor, treasurer, Mr. J. E. McKibbon, 1st vice-president, Mr. J. Smith, 2nd vice-president, Mr. E. H. Wiggins, 3rd vice-president, Mrs. J. Funnell, 4th vice-president, Mrs. F. Burrows, 5th vice-president, Miss Bradley, 6th vice-president, Mr. H. Campbell, 7th vice-president, Mr. F. Sharbert. The following will head the various committees, social, Mrs. N. Sprague, Welfare, Miss F. Vandervoort, membership, Miss Hayes and sports, Messrs. F. Sherbert and H. Campbell.

Reports of the treasurer for the past year were most gratifying and a good balance is on hand for the new officers. Miss McKibbon's close with the book as prize for the class with the most parents present at the meeting.

Rev. F. Arthur Smith presented the awards to the marksmen of the school. Fred Burtt was presented with the Strathcona Trust medal while the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association cup was won by Robert Burr and W. Hewson, who wore tied for the honours. The rifle team members who were successful in getting over 90 points out of a possible 100 were presented with silver spoons and included R. Burr, D. Sweet, D. Cooper, H. Sullivan, M. Brown, C. Inglis, J. Bush, G. Webb, F. Burtt, B. Green, W. Hewson, C. McMurray, W. Dickson, G. Moore and R. McVittie. Smaller spoons were awarded to B. Behan, B. Thompson, L. Spier, M. Kean and S. Bowerman.

A fine musical program was presented and thoroughly enjoyed. The following taking part: Marie Gahn North, piano solo, Jack Sprental and Irene Vandervaker, vocal duet; guitar duet by Jean Sprental and Reg. Berry.

The singing of the National Anthem closed the first meeting of the term.

Y.O.U.N. Party

"Happy-Go-Lucky", a three act comedy, was presented, two nights last week, in the Masonic Temple under the Victorian Order of Nurses. Good crowds both nights were well pleased with the play which was under the direction of Mrs. Clarence Saylor, Mr. Kenneth Crouch, president of the Trenton Y.O.U.N. announced that the committee was more than pleased with the results of the show. The characters were well portrayed and presided Abel Mainwaring M.P., Robert Smithson; Milroy (Butler to Mainwarings) B. Campbell; Sylvia (Mainwaring's daughter), Anna Langdon; Lady Marian Mainwaring, Mrs. A. Flemming; Rev. Adrian Sylands, C. M. ## $22,000,000 in Jewels, Coins Starts Indies Treasure Quest

Miami, Fla., Nov. 25 (AP)—Buried gold hired treasure-hunters across southern waters again today.

Seeking $22,000,000 in French coins and jewels they believe hidden on an island of the British West Indies, Frank Garray, Miami salesman, and several companions clear-ed for Caribbean port 200 miles from this city. Garray asserted he had a chart given him by a dying skipper he befriended and granted-sion of the British Government to dig.

T. Howard Kelly, New York writer, organized a party of seven men to begin a search for pirate gold soon after Jan. 1, near the city of Fernandina on historic Amelia Island.

Kelly said Lieut. George Lovesee of the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, a member of the expedition, already had located the spot he selected from an analysis of historic of the finding of gold coins on the island.

Administrators of Carnegie Trusts Honor Benefactor on His Centenary

Dunfermline, Scotland, Nov. 26—(AP)—Men and women who dwell and lives to the spending of the former laird of Andrew Carnegie met here today to do honor to the famous benefactor on the centenary of his birth.

In a palatial $60,000 music hall built by Carnegie money, they will review tonight at a banquet the work of a period of unprecedented philanthropy earned by a man who was born in a humble weaver's cottage here.

Members of the four British Carnegie Trusts will explain how, over a period of 30-odd years, a total of nearly $10,000,000 was expended in philanthropic enterprise.

Personal tribute to Carnegie is to be paid by Principal Sir John Adam Smith of Aberdeen University who enjoyed a personal friendship with Carnegie.

Little Benny's Note Book

Me and pop was taking a week rests in bed and pop said, Why politics do my eyes deceive me or am I about to witness my wrest mama being balled out by the city most vicious traffic cop?

Meaning some man sitting in a automobeel with a silly expression waiting while the traffic cop swarmed over to him slow with his arms crossed and his head sticking out, me saying, Why is he your wrest enemy, pop?

Because I did him an injury once and I've never been able to forgive him for it, pop said. I hails by carencroy, but on the other hand we're too far away to hear what he said.

And we wawked over closer to where the car was saying, Ising, So, my fine foxy frend, you have got caught red handed in pasting the stop sygnal, did you?

No, officer, the man said, and pop said, That's about enough out of you, I'm doing the tawking now, you're under arrest, so come allied, are you? Well, cant you anser me when I ask you a de dwel? he said.

Well, officer, the man said, and the cop said, That'll do, never mind my long winded explinations. I'll do all the explaining that's going to be done, and bleave me you need a little, for I'm sure I have that cause all the accidents to innocent people can then try to come across with a bit of gamy excuse, but you cant pull that across with me, so know it all, do you hear? Well, do you hear? he said.

Yes officer, I do, the man started to say and the cop said, Never mind the explaining that's going to be done, and bleave me you need a little, for I'm sure I have that cause all the accidents to innocent people can then try to come across with a bit of gamy excuse, but you cant pull that across with me, so know it all, do you hear? Well, do you hear? he said.

Yes officer, I do, the man started to say and the cop said, Never mind the explaining that's going to be done, and bleave me you need a little, for I'm sure I have that cause all the accidents to innocent people can then try to come across with a bit of gamy excuse, but you cant pull that across with me, so know it all, do you hear? Well, do you hear? he said.

Which the man did looking grad to, and the cop saw pop standing there with a happy expression on his face, and said, What's all this, do you wans anything? and pop said, No I do, officer, I want to felicitate you on the masterly executing of a brilliantly conceived exscortation.

The traffic cop just scratching his head and saying, Yeah? Well I s'pose you take yourself a mile away from here, and I will do the same. Meaning to keep on going, which we did.

TILFORD APPEAL IS DISMISSED

Sentence of Death on Elizabeth Tilford to be Carried Out

Toronto, Nov. 26—Mrs. Elizabeth Tilford's conviction and sentence to death for the murder of her young husband must stand, the Court of Appeal ruled, dismissing her appeal. She is to be hanged on December 17.

The decision was authoritatively understood to have been unanimous, thus making impossible a further appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

All that can now save the three-time-married Toronto housewife, a woman from the gallows is the exercise of executive clemency at Ottawa, it being within the power of the Crown to commute her sentence to life imprisonment. Mrs. Tilford would be the eighth woman to die on the gallows in Canada since Confederation, the most recent having been hanged at Montreal last March, if she had not been reprieved as in Ontario was 52 years ago.

When the Court of Appeal of fixed Judges, headed by Chief Justice Sir William Mulock, filed into the court room late yesterday afternoon to pronounce their decision, a deep hush immediately settled there, Mr William was accompanied by Mr. Justice Riddell, Justice Middleton, Mr. Justice Fisher and Mr. Justice Henderson.

Three magistrates were brief. The Chief Justice tersely announced that the Crown's appeal was dismissed. "Reasons for judgment will be given later," he added. "We do not think that would be wise to delay our decision in view of the early date set for the execution." That was all.

The appeal hearing has occupied two full court days, reviewing all the circumstances which preceded the death from arsenical poisoning of 29-year-old Tyrrell Tilford.

Throughout both the trial and the appeal, Mrs. Tilford was represented by Clarence D. Counsel, and Frank Regan. The Crown was represented by Hon. E. Bayder, assistant Crown Attorney of Toronto.

Mr. Regan indicated last night that immediate steps would be taken to have the minister of justice consider the case with a view to commuting the sentence.

WEDDED 50 YEARS CELEBRATE EVENT

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Grills Honored on Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Grills, Donald street, well known residents of this city, observed the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage on Monday evening, Nov. 25th, and received congratulations in connection with the celebration at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Grills, Metz street.

Elizabeth Ann Buskard, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Buskard, became the bride of William H. Grills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Grills of Thurlow, Rev. Mr. Palmer of Shannonville, officiating. Since their marriage they have resided in Sidney and Thurlow, where they were very prominent in the community. Years ago they retired from active farm life and moved to Bellevile. To this union were born eight children all whom are living, six being present at this anniversary event, Mrs. Ernest Huffman, (Nellie), the eldest daughter, was unable to attend because of illness.

Flowers of yellow and white were used in the decoration of the rooms and the tea table with its gold candles was centred with a beautiful three-tiered wedding cake.

Mr. Harry Townsend read an address and Miss Verna Huffman presented the guests of honor with a gift, a silver tea service in gold watch chain.

After cutting the cake their heartiest congratulations and best wishes to the bride and groom, a short musical programme was given after which a buffet lunch consisting of sandwiches, cake, ice cream and coffee was served. All then joined in singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again". This brought to this happy event to a close. There were about thirty-five present.

VISITS CITY IN INTEREST OF SOCIETY

Miss A. D. Pope of Toronto, a graduate of the Toronto Bible College, is in Belleville in the interests of The Upper Canada Tract Society. Miss Pope is succeeding Miss Davidson, who visited this city in former years as representative of the society, and who is now engaged in the Toronto district.

The Upper Canada Tract Society was founded in the year 1823 and for seventy-five years has been sending representatives into scattered parts of the Dominion. It maintains chaplains and missionaries on the Welland Canal and at other points on the great inland waters, namely, the Royal Arthur, Sailors' Institute at Port Arthur, Ont., the Sailors' Institute at Kingston, the Sailors' Rest at Toronto. It provides loan libraries and literature for the inmates of lighthouse and supplies books for soldiers, Royal Canadian Police and children's hospitals.

Program of the London Singers Delights Belleville Audience

Well Chosen Numbers And Excellent Presentation Call For Many Encores

C. McCORMICK ASSISTS

Rollicking old songs and chanties tempered with the finest modern verse and hauntingly beautiful examples of lieder made the program of John Coss and the London singers an event of unforgettable charm for the members of the Belleville branch of the Canadian Conservatory of Music. . . . . It is an opportunity the city has had of hearing these artists and had the audience had their way, the singers might still be singing, so insistent was the applause, and so relentless were the hearers to face the realization that the program must end.

John Coss is a consummate artist. He gathered for his program vivid bits of widely different styles and welded them into an artistic whole. With the utmost delicacy and skill he directed his singers so that the effect each audience heard was as one instrument. Through subtleties of swinging enthusiasm or compelling power, the violins and 'cellos and clarinet added the audience of their number.

Of particular pleasure to the local audience was the fact that the singers included two of the well distinguished musicians Mr. Clifford McCormick, pianist and pianist.. To welcome back to the city a favourite son in his new association as soloist with the London singers made the evening even more enjoyable for music lovers. Mr. McCormick has been frequently heard here in recital. Last night he showed that as accompanist he is an artist unexcelled, sustaining and supporting the singers with a fine understanding.

Program Well Arranged

Mr. Coss had arranged his program, with a purpose, that of giving his singers opportunity for attainment. And so gems of artistic creation were selected with charming and appealing old songs and rounds that everyone loves. The audience enjoyed clever humour and the artists were most generous with encores. An easy naturalness of presentation, combined with dramatic and expressive style made the singers entrancing and left one home with each other.

The first number of old English songs, Mr. Coss chose his first group. The most popular of these was the quaint old English song "The old ballad 'Ale Havers' proved the first encore but certainly satisfies. The songs from Shakespeare were sung by Mr. Coss, an artist in his own right. His voice is broad and strong in quality and was at its best in these stirring numbers. "Orpheus with his lute", by Sullivan, Bantock, Quilter, were perhaps the most appealing.

For the lieder numbers, John Coss chose very widely varied numbers, and the lyric beauty of Grieg's "Solveig's Song" and Schubert's the jolly drinking song "Trink-Kan-on" by Mozart and Schumann's well known "Two Grenadiers" ("Zu") lost nothing in the London Singers' interpretation.

Stirring old French songs and English rounds and catches by Purcell and Morley added to the group of charities. In this the singers were assisted in the performing their duties was perfectly interpreted by the singers and one felt the rocking of the waves and pulling of the seamen of long ago.

The program opened the Belleville concert season most auspiciously. The artists were assisted by Mr. F. C. MacLaurin, president of the members of the Lindsay and Port Hope groups who were present.

Scene from Will Rogers' last and greatest picture, "In Old Kentucky" at the Belle tonight only.

Home Guide Aids In Lifting Heavy Burden of Colds

A GREAT HELP TO MOTHERS

Much of the heavy burden that colds impose upon Canadian families can now be avoided with the help of Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. This practical home guide to fewer and shorter colds has just three simple steps:

1. To Help Build Resistance to Colds

Five normally-mild colds can upset simple food and keep elimination regular. Drink plenty of water. Take some exercise in fresh air—outdoors preferably. Get plenty of rest and sleep.

2. To Help Prevent Many Colds

At the first warning nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze, use Vicks Va-tro-nol—just a few drops up each nostril. Va-tro-nol is especially designed for use in the upper throat—where most colds start. Used in time, Va-tro-nol helps to prevent many colds—and to throw off head colds in the early stages.

3. To Help End a Cold Sooner

If a cold has developed, or strikes without warning, rub throat and chest well with Vicks Vapo-Rub. Vapo-Rub acts two ways at once: (1) Through skin surfaces like the skin, like a poultice or plaster; (2) By inhaling its vapors direct to medicated vapors, direct to inflamed passages. Through the night, this combined vapor-poultice action loosens phlegm, soothes irritation, helps bring relief.

The worth of Vicks Plan to others has been demonstrated in clinical tests among 14,702 people—further proved in everyday home use by thousands.

What this commonsense, medically sound Plan can do for you and your family can be proved only by trying it. You'll find full directions for following it in any package of Vicks Va-tro-nol or Vicks Vapo-Rub.

Madoc and District

Madoc, Nov. 26.—On Friday evening the Y.P.A. of St. John's Anglican Church presented a three-act play in the Masonic Hall entitled "Patty Makes Things Hum". A very large number attended and the following cast provided excellent entertainment: Capt. Little, B. Huyck; Mr. Green, C. Elliot; Mrs. Green, Mrs. McCrary; Mr. Smith, S. Lott; Mr. Brown, Smith, Mrs. Carrier; Patricia Little, Jean Phillips; Helen, Constance Morrison; Hope Dunbar, Eleanor Aylesworth; Colonel, Bernard Mirchell; Hyacinth, Jean Nickle. The introductory remarks were made by Rev. Hope Smyrne. During the intermission, a musical program was given by the Trend-Sulphide Band. Following the play the sponsors, the Ladies' Guild of the church, served the band and the cast with a lunch.

Mrs. R. Latimer and family, Miss Helen Miller of Peterboro spent Sunday with Mrs. R. West.

Mrs. Cora Haworth has returned to her home in Niagara Falls N.Y. having spent the past few days with Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Aylesworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Whytock are attending the Royal Winter Fair this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whytock attended the funeral services of Fred Uniad Church on Sunday.

HILLIER 3RD.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Woman in the Dark"

Fay Wray and Ralph Bellamy in Exciting Picture's New Story on a Smart Double Bill

Those who like liberal doses of hair-blood-action and constantly increasing suspense in their movies will find a treat in store for them at the Capitol Theatre this week where "Woman in the Dark" opened yesterday.

Deadhell Hammatt probably is America's foremost living writer of mystery thrillers, and in "Woman in the Dark" he has surpassed even his own fine record made with "The Maltese Falcon", "The Glass Key" and "The Thin Man". As is his wont, the author starts things moving at a rapid clip at the very outset and there is no diminution of pace until the final fadeout.

It is the story of John Bradley, who is paralled from prison after having served three years of a sentence for manslaughter, and Louise Loring, a young and beautiful concert singer who is attempting to live down her past.

Fleeing from the too-persistent attentions of Billy Robson, a man-about-town who had tried to win her affections, she comes to Bradley's cabin at a late hour one night. Robson, accompanied by Convoy, his henchman, arrives at the cabin shortly afterwards and attempts to take Louise away by force. This is the dramatic conflict for which the plot is almost identical with the "Public Enemy" picture, launched from the East, Russell Hardie, who immediately falls in love with Nancy Hartingale, girl next door, Judy Watson.

Through plot and counterplot, the two families vie for advantage until the day of the big race arrives. It is then that the smashing surprise climax comes. And Will Rogers proves his worthiness and his ability as racing maker.

Bill Robinson, king of tap dancing, is Rogers' sidekick in "In Old Kentucky", and heads a supporting cast which includes Dorothy Peters, Louise Henry and Alan Dinehart.

George Marshall directed the picture from the script by Sam Hellman and Gladys Lehman. Edward Butcher was associate producer.

Old Tyme Matinee

Manager Forban of the Belle Theatre is staging his annual "Old Tyme Matinee" in connection with the Belleville Fire Department, at the Belle Theatre, this Thursday, November 28th, at 4.30 p.m.

This special after school matinee performance is staged entirely for the kiddies, as a specially selected program has been arranged for presentation, including a rip-roaring Western drama, and a program of Mickey Mouse and other comedy cartoons.

The admission to this performance is one old toy. Each boy or girl will take their toy to No. 2 Fireball near the upper bridge, where they will be presented with a ticket by the firemen entitling them to a seat for this special show to be held at 4.30 p.m. on Thursday.

Here is your chance boys and girls, to make some kiddie happy, by cleaning out and storing away along an old toy to the fireball where the kiddies will call for the next four weeks making them over like new to make hundreds of kiddies happy on Christmas morn.

AT THE BELLE

Crowds Compel Belle Theatre to Hold Will Rogers' Last Picture, "In Old Kentucky", Until Wednesday.

Terrific crowds since Saturday to witness Will Rogers' last and greatest picture, "In Old Kentucky" have compelled manager Forban of the Belle Theatre to hold over engagement until Wednesday. This will give any of the eternal favorite's admirers one more day to see the undignified triumph of his glorious career as a star.

All of the romance, the rich down-to-earth humor and kindliness that characterize Rogers' performances have been captured in the picture which marks the climax of the great star's career, "In Old Kentucky", at the Belle until Wednesday, matinee daily.

Adapted and modernized from Charles Neville Buck's famed thirty years America's favorite—"In Old Kentucky" presents Rogers as a philosophical, humorous horse trainer who breeds colts into champions and conquers the hearts of men and youngsters in the sunny south.

The plot of this colorful romance revolves about the rivalry between the leading Kentucky families, both anxious to produce champion horses.

Rogers is the trainer for the wealthy Hartingales, and for the Martingales. And the Ehatucks replace him with the best available help from the East, Russell Hardie, who immediately falls in love with Nancy Martingale, girl next door, Judy Watson.

Through plot and counterplot, the two families vie for advantage until the day of the big race arrives. It is then that the smashing surprise climax comes. And Will Rogers proves his worthiness and his ability as racing maker.

Bill Robinson, king of tap dancing, is Rogers' sidekick in "In Old Kentucky", and heads a supporting cast which includes Dorothy Peters, Louise Henry and Alan Dinehart.

George Marshall directed the picture from the script by Sam Hellman and Gladys Lehman. Edward Butcher was associate producer.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Los Angeles, Nov. 25.—(AP)—It was just a bit complicated today when Judge William James in Federal Court.

Judge, 32-year-old Canadian, wanted to become an American citizen.

"Are you William James Judge?" inquired Judge William James.

"William James Judge, Judge," admitted the applicant for citizenship, who subscribed the oath of allegiance to the United States Judge affixing his official signature, "William James, Judge."

Livestock

Toronto, Nov. 26 (CP)—Opening trade was very dull on all grades of cattle on the Toronto Livestock market today. Receipts were light with 2200 head of stale cattle left over from yesterday's close. Calves were steady, hogs unsettled, sheep and lambs steady.

Receipts as reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were:

Cattle 850, calves 170, hogs 520, sheep and lambs 470.

A few butcher cows sold steady at $2.50 to $3.25 with canners at $1.75. Butcher cattle were slow from $4.50 to $4.75.

Calves were steady from $8 to $8.50 for choice and downward to $6 for common vealers. Heavy calves sold mostly from $4 to $5.

Hog prices were established during the morning.

Lambs were steady at about $8 for good ewes and wethers and from $6 to $7 for culls and bucks. Sheep were steady at $1 to $4 cwt.

HOGS

Toronto, Nov. 26 (CP)—Losses up to 15 cents were recorded at reporting market points today. Chatham was down 15 cents, Kitchener and Stratford down 10 cents, while other points were unchanged. Prices:

Kitchener $7.00, Stratford $7.00, London $7.00, Peterboro $7.00, Hull $7.35, Chatham $6.85.

MAT VILLAINS' CARD ASSURED
Walter Parnell And Chief Lynx Features Wrestling Card

The first step in staging the proposed "villains' night" wrestling program at the Belleville Arena on Thursday was completed this morning when Walter Parnell, the St. Catharines mat villain, affixed his signature to a contract to meet Chief Lynx, the pugnacious and ferocious Hama Reserve Indian badman of the wrestling ring in the main bout. Despite the fact Parnell was defeated at the hands of Joe Kelsall in their last week, the promoters are of the stability of Parnell signed him to meet the Indian. Kelsall, manager of Kaleimach. Both Parnell and Chief Lynx have proved to be drawing cards in Belleville and always can be depended upon to give the fans a break-taking exhibition. The promoters are also endeavoring to sign a rough-tough opponent for Al "Sunny" Dunlop, the Cleveland badman of the ring! If a suitable opponent for Dunlop is procured tonight, a battle royal in both main bouts can be assured for Thursday night. A supporting preliminary bout will also be presented.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 26.—(CP)—Swayed by a new display of weakness on the New York Board, Toronto industrial listings lost ground in the afternoon trading. All the International leaders worked lower by fractions to a point. Holders were encouraged by the fact that trading was on a small scale and prices weakened.

Liquor Stocks were about the heaviest group, Distillers-Seagrams slipping to 35 1-2 for a loss of a point while Industrial Alcohol A and Walkers Common were off 3-8 to 1-2 each. International Petroleum was the heaviest of the oils, selling off to 38 3-4.

Textiles, Foods and Implements were lower. Cockshutt Plow sold at 8, off 1-2.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, Nov. 26 (AP)—While scattered firm spots appeared in today's stock market, backsliding tendencies predominated among most of the recent favorites.

Dents in the Industrials were firm among Dominion stocks while International Nickel and Canada Packers rallied about even. On the curb Hiram Walker improved a major fraction while Gypsum, Lime and Alabastine Corp.-Seagrams eased. Gold issues were generally firm. Canadian funds held unchanged at 99.00 cents.

Resistant shares included Bethlehem Steel, American Chain, American Commercial Alcohol and Great Western.

Eastman Kodak dropped about 4 points. Among others off fractions to 2 or as were Case, Westinghouse, Auburn, Chrysler, General Motors, Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas and Johns-Manville.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Nov. 26—(CP)—Toronto mining market dragged throughout the Saturday hour of trading today, weakness on the industrial board having spread a note of caution to the trading. Lower copper and silver prices on the London market also acted as a deterrent to buying. Narrow price recessions outnumbered gains.

McIntyre was the weakest of the big golds, losing 2 to 2 points. Lake Shore, Pioneer, Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves all eased down narrowly. Some of the base metals maintained a firm front, including Noranda, Sudbury Basin and Falconbridge and in the silvers a generally weak tone prevailed.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, Nov. 26 (AP)—Stocks were unsettled today in a comparatively narrow session.

Produce Prices on Montreal Market

Montreal, Nov. 26—Changes since advanced in the week a little stronger in tone than at the close of last week, while other lines ruled unchanged.

The cheese market was 111c to 11½c for No. 1 Ontario and Quebec 11c for No. 1 Ontario white, current activity. These prices compared with 10½c to 11c at last week's close. Receipts, 83,601 boxes. Domestic demand for cheese was a little better, causing the upturn.

There was a stronger tone in the local egg market, with receipts light. The day's arrivals were posted as 7,295 cases. Graded shipments arriving in carlots or l.c.l. lots were mainly No. 1 and No. 2 values, 29c to 34c for A-medium, 31c to 32c for A-pullets, 24c to 27c for B, and 26c to 34c for C.

The butter market was quiet but steady at 28c to 28½c for No. 1's in cartels or l.c.l. lots. Receipts, 1,229 boxes. Shipments to the retail trade were quoted by jobbers at 27c for solids and 28c for prints.

The poultry market was unchanged.

BLACK HAWKS MEET MAROONS IN MONTREAL

Chicago Now Only Unbeaten Team in The N. H. L.

LEAFS IN BOSTON

Bruins Have Scored But One Goal All Season

By ELMER DULMAGE

Canadian Press Staff Writer

The onrushing Chicago Black Hawks only unbeaten team of the National Hockey League season, will carry their newly-found wallop into Montreal tonight and try it on the champion of the world, Tommy Gorman's Maroons. The occasion is fraught with significance.

The Hawks with four victories and one tie on the record, have proved the potency of their attack only to Chicago spectators. In their only away game they were held to a scoreless tie by Detroit Red Wings. Tonight, Glen Loughlin's men will see how Maroons behave at home.

Instead of the highly effective "forechecking" system Gorman himself taught them when he coached the Hawks have started to spread their wings this fall. No longer are they a defensive unit, a fast-skating clan, that always skated fastest when hemmed for their own goal.

They have produced the early season point-scoring leaders in Carl Thompson, Don McFadyen and Doc Romnes, Young Milan Karalas' work-ing in goal behind an inspired team, that has afforded him great protection, has yet to lose his first N.H.L. decision.

Went Ahead in Hockey

But the Hawks are on the road now and for some reason the work ahead will be harder. Maroons, having won two and lost two, are 3-4-1 record, for instance, to win tonight. The Hawks take on Rangers in New York Thursday night.

Toronto Maple Leafs, fighting to break a three-game losing streak, play the Bruins in Boston tonight. The Bruins have played three games and scored one goal. Two have been scored against them. This is a disparage state of affairs for the machine pivoted by Eddie Shore, and the Leafs plan on beating it while open.

With Shore and Babe Siebert on one defence, Teddy Graham and Roger Jenkins on the other, and Tiny Thompson in goal, the Bruins reckon they have the best defence bolwark in the game. The Leafs estimate on their own behalf, that Charlie Conacher, Joe Primeau and Harvey Jackson remain the best firing line in the business. The collision is expected to be worthwhile.

In New York, the Rangers and Americans hook up in their first duel of the season. Gotham hasn't had time to decide yet whether Red Dutton's renovated Americans are ready to replace the bloodiest, as popular tenants. They hope to discover this tonight.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

George S. Dudley of Midland again heads the O.H.A. for 1935-36, being re-elected by acclamation along with five other officers of the association. The announcement came yesterday following the closing of nominations on Saturday night. W. A. Hewitt, secretary of the O.H.A., announced. The annual meeting is slated to be held in Toronto on Saturday next at which time six other executive members must be elected to office. Those re-elected to office for the 1935-36 season were: President, G. S. Dudley, Midland; first vice-president, A. H. Schlegel, Preston; second vice-president, James Douglas, Branford; treasurer, Sheriff J. F. Flanagan, Whitby; secretary, W. A. Hewitt, Toronto; and convener W. W. Davidson, Toronto. Incidentally Reg. Conacher of Kingston and Sammy Lowe of Oshawa have been nominated to run for executive positions and will stand for election next Saturday in Toronto, as these two are the only nominees for office from Eastern Ontario the clubs from the east should band together and see that both Mr. Crawford and Mr. Lowe are elected. The welfare of hockey in the east has been disregarded just about long enough, so up to the individual clubs to band together and vote in two executive members from the east this year.

Skipper Eddie Thomas is angling to get "Beatie" Wilson out of the local hockey squad for tomorrow night's game in Kingston. Wilson has been said to indnce Wellston out of retirement in hockey circles. Marion is a lot easier to the locals for at least ten days more. Harry Smallwood, declared back eligible enough, so the Frescott-Belleville game last week and will be out of the game for at least two weeks. The injury sustained when he was checked and broken in the back of his hand, however. Whaiton is resting at present, but is considered. Still in the running, however. Thomas is contemplating substituting the annual meeting of the O.H.A. next Saturday at which time there may be some little controversy regarding certain rulings in the east. It is understood that the Gerald "Cheerful" now playing in the Toronto Mercantile Hockey League, are angling for a berth in the O.H.A. Sheer hockey talk, Georgie, it ain't boiler down the cotton.

When the C.A.A.A. chose the Port Arthur Bearcats to represent Canada in the coming Winter Olympics that body should have reserved the right to augment the Ports to a degree where by Canada's hockey entry would uphold her traditions of past Olympics. It is a known fact that competition for Canadian hockey teams has become more stiff every year Olympic play since 1920 at Amsterdam. Not only in United States, but all over Europe the standard of hockey is being elevated considerably each successive year, so in 1936 Canada needs her strongest team to retain her world-wide hockey supremacy. The C.A.A.A. are considering a move whereby they may include some of the Halifax Wolverines. 1935 Allan Cup winners in with the Port Arthur team, but is it not a well known fact that the better players of the Wolverines have taken the moneyed jump and are today playing professional hockey.

In the United States an all-star team is being groomed daily for the Olympic games in Germany next year—and appeals are pressed, that other clubs should have a chance to prove they are better than the western champions after the Dominion championship Halifax Wolverines passed out of the picture, which he considered.

E. A. Gilroy, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, was definite in his statements in addressing an influential dinner held by officials of the Central Ontario Branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada here last night. He said the Port Arthur team would make the trip to Germany but added there was a possibility that Canada would be strengthened by "two or three" players from other clubs.

Dealing with the appeal that the Montreal Royals, eastern semi-finalists, should be given the right to meet the Bear Cats in a playoff for the Olympic honors, Mr. Gilroy said the Quebec team were no more entitled than the North Battleford Beavers, western semi-finalists.

For that matter the C.A.A.A. President said, he thought the best team of the four in the Allan Cup semi-finals last winter was the Flin-Flon boys who represented Saskatchewan title. He referred to their brilliant performances in beating the Toronto Cats 8-1 in first game of the west-ern finals only to repeat same score in the next two series tills, to lose out.

Twelve players will make the trip Mr. Gilroy said, adding that the players who would be added to the Bear Cats for strength would be named by a committee.

BRANTS ROMP TO EASY 5 - 3 WIN

Keep Pace With Hamilton Who Can Only Tie Niagara Falls

City The Canadian Press)

Out to slow the home-town fans they have hopes of heading places in the Ontario Hockey Association senior race this winter even though they did take a trimming the first time out, the Brantford Brants returned to their winning ways last night.

It was the green-shirted Kitchener lads, that fell victims to the Brantford plan as the Brants romped to a 5-3 victory. The Brants needed the win to keep pace with the Hamilton Pats in second place in the western section as the Pats, also making their first home stand, held Niagara Falls Cataracts group leaders, to a 1-1 tie in the only other game of the night. All was quiet on the eastern front of the league.

Kipp started things for the Brants, when he beat Krieger's rink-wide pass to score the first goal. Smith tied it up a short while after Rowaldt beat goalie "Zip" Kuntz to put the green-shirts one up. Their advantage was shortlived however as Ketcheson passed to Orton, who made no mistake. Kipp got his second goal of the period 50 seconds later.

Fight Breaks up Game

After a scoreless middle session, Brants increased their lead 5-2 part way through the third period on goals by Webster and Cooper. Krieger, the green-shirt defenceman, capped the scoring at the midway mark.

A fight in the second period between Thompson and Major nearly broke up the game. Referee Jack Hemphill was fined a five-minute penalty on both players and the Falls team fight the ice in protest. Hemphill was on the verge of awarding the contest to Hamilton, when the Cataractes decided back and play the fun.

All the scoring was done in the wild second period. Thompson put the Cataracts scooped up a pass from Werby to open the scoring just after the start of the period. They held the advantage until the 12-minute mark, when Barrow went down alone and beat Mower with a hard shot.

The teams played haphazardly during the third and overtime periods with both goalies taking it easy.

WON'T CONSIDER ANY PROTESTS

Port Arthur Bear Cats With Additional Will Be Team Chosen

Toronto, Nov. 26—(CP)— Port Arthur Bear Cats will defend Canada's prestige in hockey ranks at Olympic games in Germany next year—and appeals and protests, that other clubs should have a chance to prove they are better than the western champions after the Dominion championship Halifax Wolverines passed out of the picture, won't be considered.

Mickey Predicts Third Pennant For the Tigers

Miami Beach, Fla., Nov. 26 (AP)

As Mickey Cochrane sees the situation today, his Detroit Tigers' chances of winning their third consecutive American League pennant are good.

The Champions' catcher-manager, newly confirmed in his job and given added responsibilities as Vice-President in charge of sale, trade, purchase and release of players, gave his opinion here.

"I'll be tough going, however," Cochrane declared, at the winter retreat of the Tigers' boss president, Walter O. Briggs. "Especially that little who bought the late Frank J. Navin's baby interest to become sole owner.

Mickey said he probably will stand pat on his lineup that ran away with the Junior circuit's race and topped Chicago Cubs in the World Series.

"I haven't anybody for sale or trade and we haven't any deals under consideration. Something may develop, of course, at the Major League meeting in December."

275 YEARLINGS OFFERED AT N.Y.

Included May be The Hambletonian Winner in 1937

New York, Nov. 26 (AP)—With the sport's leading trainers and owners looking for the 1937 Hambletonian winners, upwards of 275 yearlings and proven racers began their annual week-long assault on the "A" Armory Arena today as the Old Glory auction of trotters and pacers opened its three-day stand.

From Dr. Ogden M. Edwards' Walnut Hall farm of Doncrail, Ky., Lawrence B. Shepard's Hanover, Pa., farm, and Ellis Wilson's farm of Langhorn, Pa., and many of the other leading breeding establishments of the country came some of the best yearlings ever to be sold under the hammer at the historic auction.

Horsemen, gathered from far and near, including many foreign countries, were almost unanimous in the opinion that Princess Mariana from the Walnut Hall consignment would top the yearling sale.

DENVER HOCKEY-MINDED

Charlottetown, Nov. 26.—Holding their team together for a try for Maritime hockey honors late in the season, Algonquin officials yesterday announced another exhibition game for tomorrow night, splitting the team into "Abbies' and "Bruins".

As an added inducement to keep the men in Charlottetown, their management announced also they were negotiating for a tour of England early in January provided the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association sanctions the trip.

Meanwhile individual players are said to be flirting with other clubs and an offer from Denver, Col. for two full squads of puck chasers is being followed up by a group of intermediate Abbies.

Officials of the Club hope for a series of games with Halifax, Moncton and Saint John, and are arranging for a holiday exhibition series with "some strong Upper Canadian team".

"Y" BASKETBALL

The "Y" Purples advanced a rung in the Y.M.C.A. house basketball league last night when they defeated the Albert "A" team by the score of 32 to 23. The Purple-clad aggregation assumed an early lead and were never headed, scoring seven terms in the second half, however, as the Purples scored 14 points and Albert counted 12. Herb Burley of the "Y" Purples was the big scorer of the night as he counted 16 of his team's 32 points. Tobe and Miller bagged six each while Tom Burton was the best for the Albert, sinking a basket and a foul shot for nine points. Jones, McDonald and Hodder were the other scorers for Albert.

The Rue-ups—"Y" Purples—Scott, Burley, Tobe, Miller, Baker and Miller. Albert "A" team—Jones, Burton, McDonald, Hodder, McDavid, Chase and Burgess.

Referee—P. Martin.

Texas Christian And Stanford for Rose Bowl Game

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—There's no doubt whatever today in identifying the three outstanding unbeaten teams in United States college football, heading from east to southwest, on the basis of their latest and most notable performances, they are Princeton's Tigers, Minnesota's Gophers and Texas Christian's Horned Frogs.

Stanford shattered California's Rose Bowl hopes with a 13-0 victory before 90,000 onlookers at Palo Alto.

Princeton, in a November like, knocked Dartmouth from the unbeaten class with a 6-0 plastering. Minnesota finished its second straight undefeated and untied season by blasting Wisconsin 25-0. Texas Christian scaled the heights with an astounding campaign by rooting the strong Rice Institute team 27-7.

Since neither Princeton nor Minnesota will consider any post-season activity, the latest swing in football fortunes forecasts the possibility of Stanford and Texas Christian being paired for the classic Rose Bowl game New Year's Day.

The Aga Khan Winning Owner

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(CP Cable) —The Aga Khan, whose unbeaten colt Bahram was the outstanding performer during the racing year marking his race's Jubilee, was the winning owner for the season. He took a total of £49,301 (approximately $246,000).

Bahram, a three-year-old bay colt by Blandford-Friar's daughter, captured the mythical crown by winning the two thousand guineas, the Derby and the St. Leger. Bahram also was unbeaten as a two-year-old.

Sir Abe Bailey placed second among winning owners with £33,276 ($116,366) and Lord Derby third with £18,690 ($93,450).

Frank Buttera led the parade of winning jockeys in the season. He was £59,686 ($298,430). C. Smirke was second with £38,943 ($194,715) and Harrison third with £8,123 ($120,615).

Port Arthur Bearcats, With Stars Added, Defend Canada's Hockey Pride

A fight but speedy hockey fleet, from Port Arthur, strengthened [illegible] and there by selected talent, will represent Canada's prize in the Winter Olympic games this year. The C.A.A.A. meeting in Halifax extended an invitation to the Port Arthur Bearcats semi-finalists last year for the Allan Cup to make the trip to Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, when Halifax Wolves, cup-winners could not muster their playing strength. Wolverines have broken up in the off season.. some players moving to other centres and signing pro. contracts. Only the four of the triumphant Wolverines who conquered Bearcats in a bitter-ly-fought play-off are still available and it is expected that they will be added to the Port Arthur roster. Bob McCranor, a Fort William defenceman, will also make the trip, taking the place of Barry Robillard, only Port Arthur star not available. He is playing hockey in Baltimore. Jim Haggarty, crack centre, is in England, but will be added when the team reaches that country. The players eligible to make the trip are shown above. Included is McCranor of Fort William and the four Halifax players, who will probably be given an opportunity to join the westerners. Players are as follows: 1, Alex Sinclair, centre; 2, Roy Milton, defence; 3, Stan. King, right wing; 4, Arnold Deacon, forward; 5, Bobby McCranor (Port Arthur), defence; 6, Jackie Nash, goal; 7, "Daddy Bubar (Halifax), goal; 8, "Chummie" Lawlor (Halifax); defence; 9, Ernie Mosher (Halifax), centre; 10, Vince Ferguson (Halifax), forward; 11, Bert Cunningham, forward; 12 Jim Haggarty centre; 13, Willie Thompson, forward; 14, Norman Fraay, defence or wing; 15, Cla Seaberg forward.

"CHAPERONED"

— by —

Virginia Sullivan

"Please, if I might have milk," Jane said, "I'd so much rather." Tony said instantly, "Quiero leche, please, Pedro" to the man with the cauliflower ear who now stood with John behind the bar, then grinned gently down into Jane's puzzled face. "He's supposed to be Indian," he commented drily, "but, as Voltaire once remarked, 'He who serves his country well has no need of ancestors!' Mona's in her glory tonight, isn't she? Only you mustn't let anything she says or does feel you."

"Honey." Then, as Janie did not reply, he added in his quiet, mesmerical voice: "When one has run the gamut of most of the bitter experiences of life, one sometimes does strange things just out of sheer boredom, you know. It's that way with Mona. That manner of hers is all which is protective covering as is the natural scaling on Japanese rice I've known her a long time." He paused, added, "One has to know Mona a long time to understand what it's all about."

"There seem to be quite a number of people who understand what it's all about," Janie told herself sharply. And felt a queer pang, almost of jealousy, that anyone from that world above the steerage deck—and Tony among them—knew as much as she did Mona Moore—should share this man's friendship as all. Aloud she said: "I like her. I think she's swell. She's the only natural, friendly person I've met on the whole trip. But I confess she glanced up at him timidly, then, as she hurried herself on at this afternoon, calling out your name——"

Still glancing at him, she smiled at the memory of that moment in the crowded street, then sat quiet still in her chair. His light, intent gaze, fastened on her own, had darkened and deepened oddly; his strong, sensitive hand, long-fingered unbelievably brown, shook slightly as he laid down the menu card he had and leaned forward in his chair.

"When Mona hurled herself across this afternoon," he said, in a voice utterly unlike his own, "she did more than merely say something she could something I've been hoping to keep intact—until I was ready to—well, unravel it myself. Something that I'm going to have to tell you about now, but not here, though!" he amended hastily. "Perhaps tonight, if I don't too late when we get back to the ship——. And, in the meantime——" His grey eyes darkened almost to black——"In the meantime there is something I've been trying to tell you, of the afternoon to tell you, without success. It's that you must usually casual about the sort of thing I did last night. And that, no matter what you thought, what you're going to think and think you're the most unchaperoned thing I've ever known—or ever dreamed of knowing—since I was very young and very believing and sincere——"

"Say, pardon, sir. Could you help me out, sir?" A man, a steward in the white uniform of the Santa Elena line, had materialized out of the crowd at Anthony Fane's shoulder. "It's a message for Miss Moore, sir—if I could only get to her——"

"I'll do with you, steward. Just a moment till I take this young lady back to her table."

x x x

Sob of fiddle and throb of viol and high, soaring lilt of flute and horn. Shuffle of feet and rustle of voices and the flare of a gilt with a piquant, saucy face standing high above the crowd at one end of the bar. Then, even as Janie looked toward her, the girl's face turned toward her, her gay, derisive smile curiously, her face for a moment seeming wiped from her face by a sponge. Oddly rigid, she stood waiting while Anthony Fane, trailing the white-coated steward, fought a slow path through the crowd to a place by her side.

"What's the message it, Mona's waiting for it—afraid of it somehow?" Janie inwardly. "Oh, I hope it isn't anything that matters!

But it quite evidently was. For the steward, having reached the side at last, read, almost rapidly, in a sharp cascade of words, too low to be heard, a note. Anthony Fane, and an unmistakable excitement in his manner, from which little ripples seemed somehow to flow. The green intensity of the girl's usually mocking gaze seemed for a moment to become fixed and numb. Then, her face pale, she rose from her chair and jumped lightly to the floor—beating her way with savage impatience through the waltz of the man as he again moved toward the door.

Janie, standing up, had lost sight of Anthony Fane. Now she saw him again, working his way slowly back through the crowd, on his usually quiet face a look of anxiety, even of pain. Then he caught sight of her and smiled, and the look was lashed as completely as though it had never been. By the time he had arrived at the table where she sat Mona had completely disappeared.

CHAPTER IV.

THE STORM CLOUDS GATHER.

"I think," Anthony Fane said calmly, "we ought to have time for one more dance before Pedro brings that coffee." He held out his hand, drawing Janie from her chair, swinging her lightly once more into the waving sea of dancers on the floor. "Then I'm taking you out of here. I don't like the looks of this crowd at all. There's trouble in the air, or I don't know trouble when I see it."

"But—" Janie asked the question fatefully—"what's about trouble? What was it—that was wrong?"

"Wrong? Oh, nothing very wrong —so." Deftly he dodged a wildly gyrating sailor who was calling comers on the less directly in their path, "That was a steward from the Santa Elena calling her back to the ship. Someone—some friend of hers —was in trouble and needed her, I think."

It was an adequate enough reply —natural enough, as far as explanation went. Yet to Janie, who had witnessed that sudden change, frozen look on Mona's face, the heart-breaking anxiety in her eyes, it came as something of a shock. She had a feeling, a sense of being politely shut out, quietly excluded from something she was not supposed to know. Something that was between this man and Mona Moore that was——"Oh," she thought forlornly, "why did I ask him about it at all? Why can't I mind my own business! As though it mattered, as though it ever could matter how little or how well he knows her!"

Flushing a little, he looked her eyes, encountering that light, intent look in his which but a short time before had left her so unaccountably shaken, and which now in spite of her unconscious resentment, stirred her again so that her blue eyes darkened and fluttered down before his own. "Please"—the man's soft-edged voice seemed reaching out to her there in the crowded, sordid room—"don't look like that. Really —believe me—it's all right. He smiled at her again, reassuring, brave. "We can't possibly fail to like this place, you know."

"I know," Janie said, and felt a surge of unutterable happiness and lightness again. Whatever it was that lay back of the seeming strangeness of his friendship with this amazing girl would be clear to herself in time. "And meanwhile it really is none of your business, Miss"—she held herself aloof—"if she's in trouble of some sort, and quite evidently she is, it's entirely probable he knows her friends and is merely trying to be of some help." And suddenly she knew that it didn't matter what the reason was; that looking mattered, except that she was here—dancing close beside Anthony Fane's tall coolness, under the level, disturbing glance of his grey eyes, the touch of his hand, strong arm that this was Panama, in the Canal Zone, and that she, Janie Madden, was living in a sort of dream.... a dream which made everything and everyone she had known in her life before seem shadowy wraiths, with this man and herself the only real things in it. For he was real, she knew now—real and sincere and fine....

They went on dancing. Slowly, without speaking, with an almost automatic, rhythmic response to the syncopation of the band. They became conscious, nearing the end of the room, of a disturbance on the floor nearest the bar, a sort of commotion in the air. Jake, Janie saw over her partner's shoulder, was standing there, his playful efforts of a huge British tar who had been playfully pinioned and backed chair surrounded by a sea of shattered glass.

"Let me go, I say—I'll at yer swear at ye," Jake was remarking with mounting wrath. "What I been the four pillars of——" fall on ye, so I do!"

"Those inside lines are guilty for with the cauliflower ear; grinning evilly, a look of oblique menace in his eyes. "Jake's in a jam, all right, in a life that was a mere succession of scrapes and jams, and double brandies, any fight was always a welcome interlude to him. Janie, the manner indicated, had only to say the word.

"Pick," Anthony Fane said in Janie's ear. "is exactly what I've been afraid of. Here, now we'll get this out of this at once—pronto. These lads are just spoiling for a row you know. Let's get back to that table." He guided her swiftly by along the less crowded edge of the floor. Janie laughed suddenly on a note of sudden excitement. "For you know," she said breathlessly, "I'm beginning to understand what Mona meant when she wanted a fight. In a life that was a mere succession of scrapes and jams, and double brandies, any fight was always a welcome interlude to her. Janie, the manner indicated, had only to say the word.

"Pick," Anthony Fane said in Janie's ear. "is exactly what I've been afraid of. Here, now we'll get this out of this at once—pronto. These lads are just spoiling for a row you know. Let's get back to that table." He guided her swiftly

TARZAN THE INVINCIBLE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service).

When Romero and Colt passed through the inner wall, that part of the interior of the temple which they could see appeared deserted and yet they were conscious of movement in the darker recesses of the ruined galleries that looked down into the courtyard.

Romero smiled at Colt. "No use to wait for the others," he said. "Their natural curiosity will lead them reflectively in the dim light. "Then let's get on with the business." answered Colt, "I don't see anything very terrible about going in there, though." "Happy hosiery," he murmured with a solemn mien. "For continued ease." The girl in the soiled lace hat looked up by in the arms of a red-coated marine. With a swift movement she leaned down, snatching a stockings from the sailor's grasp. He was up and after her at once through the crowd, scattering dancers like chaff before the wind.

From the table of American tourists on the other side a big blonde man leaped abruptly forward, tapping Janie gently on one shoulder. "Been—been watching you!" he announced with the gravity of the very drunk. "Been watching you, my sister, and, take—it—from—me, there's nothin' in it..... nothin' in it for a girl like you! Keep away from sailors. Stick to the man you got. Looked like a nice feller, nice face, nice voice." He raised the tall glass before him, taking a long, slow drink. "Yep, American, ain't you?" he queried, with a bland disregard for her calm silence. "Not from St. Joe, Missouri, m'self. Sales-man. You wouldn't guess it, would you? Barber supplies and cosmetics. Lady—" he was obviously warming up to his theme—"lady, I got a face-powder on my list this month give you twice the mileage to the box per face, mind you, than any other face-powder you ever—" Now, where the devil did that

They had not gone far when, from the shadowy archways and from gloomy doorways there rushed a horde of horrid men, and the silence was shattered with the strident intention of cutting off their retreat. Colt was in a strange and tense mood. He fired, but not over their heads. He kept moving forward. He fired above the heads of the grotesque warriors. Romero saw a number of the enemy running along a great room which they had entered, the sight of the strength of the side of the attacking with the evident intention, of cutting off their retreat. He fired, but not over their heads. Realizing the gravity of their position, he shot to kill, and Colt did the same.

"Janie!"

Anthony Fane had loomed abruptly beside Janie, and, half startled, half-thankful, she rose from her chair. At once she was conscious of two things: that she had called her Janie again—and that something had disturbed his usual calm. He was holding her light coat in his hand, and she slipped hastily into it.

"I've been talking to Jake," the man said in a low voice. "It's worse than I thought—we've got to move quick. There's a detachment of American sailors heading for this place to clean up on an old feud the boys of that British ship have with the Santa Elena. Now, where the devil did that waiter go? Pedro! Oh, there you are! Hurry, will you?"

"Lista, señor!" The gentleman from St. Joe lugged with gentle persistence at Janie's skirts. "You remember what I tell you, now! Bein' haughty gets you no-where, see? Unbix the frown front and give us a smile—that's the way. This is a party, y'understand—a party, not a funeral. Age I right? I leave it to this gentleman with you." His wavering smile vanished. Anthony Fane. "Am I right?"

"Sure, you're right, old man," Tony said, "but what good does it do—there's no prize! Come on; this way to the ship, Janie——"

CUTTING OF MEAT PROHIBITED

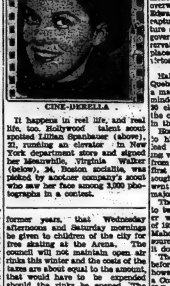
By-Law is Opposed

Alderman Sills was the only one who spoke for or against the by-law and he stated that he was prohibited with the butchers in the elimination of cutting meat on the market only mean that very little meat would be sold in the future. Soon the grocers, bakers, fruit men and others will be after the Council, asking restriction on this and that commodity and what will the Council be able to do. You have chased them all out. The workmen will have to pay the highest price for he does not want a quarter of meat at one time. I believe in legislation for the greatest number and I think, that was what we were elected for and that is class legislation and I am opposed to it. Mr. Robertson for the butchers stated, that meat was just as dear on the market and sometimes cheaper than it was sold for in the shops, the housewife had to take the meat as they came and there were not proper facilities or inspection for keeping meat on the meat block. The butchers he said were forced to pay high taxes, licenses, business and other premises for the upkeep of the City while the meat men on the market got off with a small license fee and he thought there should be some protection given.

Alderman Marshall was against the by-law but was of the opinion the market should be on the same. It is a source of revenue to the City.

Alderman Wills made no comment but voted against the by-law when the question was put. A recommendation for the appointing of returning officers and clerks, and election expenses for the forthcoming municipal election was passed. A new Union Jack will be purchased from a regalia company for use at the City Hall. A by-law providing for which speaks for itself was passed without comment. "It is resolved, that the City Solicitor be authorized to consent on behalf of the City to the Order dismissing the appeal of the Ontario Shore Conservation Authority, in the County Court wherein the assessment of the properties of the Ontario Shore Conservation Authority in the year 1934 for tax purposes for the year 1935 should be fixed at $26,464 for all purposes."



Insurance Report Limited

A lengthy report on insurance for the various buildings now owned by the City and which had been lapsed on various occasions was passed without discussion. The Property Committee has all the insurance now owned by the City insured and no great loss will be sustained. A grant equivalent to the 1935 taxes was made by the Belleville Arena with the same stipulation as in 1935 as a grant to help defray the expenses for the season. Councillor Bell made vague strides in this line and was assured that the games should be encouraged as it gave a number a chance to gain helpful exercise. A by-law to borrow $40,000 from the Bank of Montreal until current taxes are received was passed. Alderman Cushing was in the chair in the Committee of the Whole.

CINE-DERELLA

LIBERAL QUEBEC FALTERS SLIGHTLY

Records Given

Just six weeks ago, at the Dominion election the Federal Liberal party increased its following from the Province of Quebec from 62 to 67 while the Conservative strength dropped from 24 to 5.

The record of Liberal triumphs and Conservative defeats in the last five years follows: Manitoba, 1932, Progressive government changed to Liberal; Saskatchewan, 1934, Conservative following reduced; British Columbia, 1933, Conservative government replaced by Liberal and Conservative party wiped out; Nova Scotia, 1933, Conservative government replaced by Liberal with large majority; Ontario, 1934, huge Conservative majority turned into huge Liberal majority; Saskatchewan, 1934, re-election of province under Conservative leadership replaced by Liberal and Conservative following eliminated; New Brunswick, 1935, Conservative government replaced by Liberal with overwhelming majority. Prince Edward Island, 1935, Liberal party captured all seats in the legislature and turned out a Conservative government; Dominion, 1935, Conservative government at Ottawa replaced by Liberal after sweeping victory.

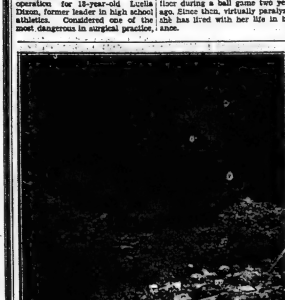
Nova Scotia Remained

Halifax, Nov. 26 (CP)—Return of Quebec province to Liberal government with a majority of only six members recorded Nova Scotians of their 1930 election of 1928, believed to be the closest to a provincial deadlock in the history of the Dominion.

Hon. E. N. Rhodes, who resigned to his native province in 1926 to lead the Conservatives in a sweeping victory that ousted the Liberals from power in Nova Scotia for the first time in many years, will again seek a new mandate in 1936 and trust back to power by the slim majority.

The voting majority was reduced to two when a Conservative recount was started in the legislature of 1928, and the death of Hon. John Mahoney, Minister of Natural Resources, later in the year, knocked it down to one.

The majority of two was restored before the 1930 session of the House, however, when Dr. G. H. Murphy, Conservative member of St. F. X., K.C., M.P. in the Halifax by-election.



THEIR EXCELLENCIES OPEN ART EXHIBIT

Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir made their first official appearance in Ottawa as they opened the Canadian Art Exhibition at the National Gallery.

CITIZENS RALLY TO SAVE HER

Citizens of Newport Beach Calif., have pledged the sum of $1,000 to defray costs of a delicate brain operation for 18-year-old Lucille Dixon, former leader in high school athletics. Considered one of the most dangerous in surgical practice, the operation will be for removal of a brain cyst, which she suffered as a result of being knocked to the floor during a ball game two years ago. Since then, virtually paralyzed, she has lived with her life in balance.

HAWAIIAN VOLCANO ERUPTS AGAIN

Five rivers of blazing lava surged down the slopes of Mauna Loa in one of Hawaii's most spectacular volcanic eruptions in years. One stream stirred a fear with its course for a time being a potential menace to this city of 30,000. The tremendous activity later appeared to die down. The photo shows lava pouring down the mountain side in a previous eruption. The volcanic disturbance created a scene of magnificent color and brilliance which attracts many tourists.

PREMIER TASCHEREAU

lents in Three Rivers, and Mr. Gouin in L'Assomption.

Including Premier Taschereau eight Cabinet Ministers were successful at the polls, while two were defeated, both in Montreal Island ridings, Hon. Irenee Vautrin, Minister of Colonization, bowed to Ald. Henry L. Auger, City Council leader and Conservative, in Montreal St. James, and Hon. C. J. Arcand, Minister of Labor, went down to defeat in Maisonneuve. His opponent was William Tremblay, a former Conservative M.L.A., who ran under the same banner. Mr. Tremblay is president of the Montreal Butchers' Association.

Trend of Times Responsible

In a statement after announcement of results Premier Taschereau declared the recent trend was definitely against all governments which probably explained at least in part the loss of the Liberal majority at dissolution of the last Legislature.

From Mr. Gouin came the statement there would be contestations in at least seven constituencies. He said those the Duplessis-Gouin political organization were sure to contest are Montreal St. Louis, where Peter Bercovitch, Liberal, was elected by acclamation; Montreal St. Lawrence in which Joseph Cohen won a re-election; the Labor-Liberal ticket and Montreal Mercier where Dr. Amable Plante was returned as a Liberal; Mr. Taschereau said he had no statement to make at present.

The agreement between Mr. Duplessis and Mr. Gouin was that if their combined forces were successful the former would become Premier and Mr. Gouin would become the majority of Cabinet Ministers. As it is Mr. Duplessis will continue to lead the opposition in the House with a larger support behind him than yesterday's Opposition Leader since 1897 when the Conservatives began their uninterrupted reign.

Evenly Matched

Never before since Confederation have the forces of popular favor been so evenly balanced. Instead of the overwhelming majorities behind successive Liberal Governments for 38 years, it will be necessary for Premier Taschereau to count noses before he risks a vote. Election of Speaker will be the first Liberal majority to fire.

Of special interest was the rejection of the Government in the Province's two largest cities, Montreal and Quebec, but the retention of its four Liberals out of 15 were elected, while in only one of the four traditionally Liberal seats in Quebec was the Government entombed.

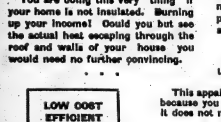
In Montmagny, where political history was made in the very first participation in the campaign of a priest, Mayor J. E. Gregoire of Quebec, the Liberal candidate was successful, defeating Fernand Choquette, Liberal. Rev. Valmore Bolduc also spoke in support of Quebec's mayor.

Throughout the campaign Duplessis and Gouin were given the backing of Hon. J. C. E. Ouellet, Legislative Councillor and former member of the Taschereau Cabinet and Hon. Elsee Theriault, Legislative councillor. Both praised the Duplessis-Gouin union and remarked that Mr. Gouin, like his father, the late Sir Lomer Gouin, Premier of Quebec from 1905 to 1936, was destined to play a major role in Provincial affairs. Sir Lomer handed over the reins of power to Government to Mr. Taschereau in 1930.

Chosen in 1933

Maurice Duplessis, Conservative M.L.A., for his home town of Three Rivers since 1927, was chosen Conservative leader at a convention in 1933. He succeeded Camillien Houde, then as now mayor of Montreal, who was defeated in the Provincial election of 1931. He is a lawyer and a barrister.

In the turnover three former Conservative members of the House were defeated: Horatiada Belgie, Mr. Duplessis' right hand man, was beaten in Chambly by Alex Thunber, Liberal, and in Two Mountains, 30-year-old Paul Sauve was defeated by a small majority by Jean Rochon, Liberal. Mr. Sauve, the baby of the last house, is the son of Senator Arthur Sauve, former Postmaster-General. Bill went back to the Liberal fold. The seat was formerly represented by Aime Guertin who declined to run when he was defeated in the same constituency in the Dominion election as a Reconstruction candidate.



Agricultural Specialist

The agricultural class will be well represented in the new House, all farmers up for re-election being successful. Included in their number is Hon. Oscar Auger, Minister of Agriculture and a professor at the Agricultural College at Ste. Anne De La Pocatiere, who defeated his seat in L'Islet.

Hon. P. Stockwell, Provincial Treasurer, fared better in title-contest than when he first presented himself in 1931. In the last election he squeezed through 25 votes ahead of his Conservative opponent, and this time he worked up a majority of about 300 over Dr. P. E. Pichet, who was defeated in the last Dominion election when he sought re-election as a Conservative in Beauce-Missisquoi.

Dr. Leo Dugray, a former conservative member of the House of Commons for Lake St. John, was more successful than his former colleague Dr. Pickle. He vrested Lake St. John from the Liberal, J. L. Pillion.

How Much of Your Income Do You Burn Up?

Can you afford to waste one ton of coal out of every three you buy this winter?

You are doing this very thing if your home is not insulated. Burning up your income! Could you but see the actual heat escaping through the roof and walls of your house you would need no further convincing.

LOW COST EFFICIENT INSULATION
Adds to Comfort Summer and Winter.
SAVES FUEL

RED TOP INSULATING WOOL

Are you wasting your portion of this saving? It may only be $18.00 (the price of one ton of coal) or it may be $100.00 a year, or more. Think what you could do with the money you would save—additional purchasing power—home comforts and pleasures!

Most of the costly heat loss is through the roof.

This appalling waste goes on year after year, and because you cannot actually see the heat escaping it does not make it any less a fact.

Do not spend any more money warming up "Old Man Winter."

It is estimated that if all the homes in the five largest cities of Canada were insulated it would show a saving in the National Family Budget of over $7,000,000 every year.

Insulation also helps to preserve and give longer life to the roof. Leaks often develop due to the water "backing-up," caused by the ice forming on the eaves and valleys of the roof.

Not only will you save money year after year by reducing your fuel consumption, you also protect the roof and increase the comfort and property value of your home at no added expense.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was around at the fire house tawking to Mr. Riley the broken leader driver, and I said, Is it hard to get to be a fireman, Mr. Riley, or do you half to have special influence?

Naturel aptitude is the big thing, Mr. Riley said. For instance a chap with very thin skin that turns easy has no blasmaes applying for a job as a fire station, and neither has a chap that can't get a little smoke up his nose without sneezing. And then on the other hand we sometimes get fooled by fellows who seem to of been cut out by nature to be firemen, I'm thinking particullly of Bernie De Graie, he said. Oh, who was he? I said, and Mr. Riley said. He was a chap I didn't know myself, to my sorrow and embarrassment. One time on my day off I was wandering through the circus sideshow, and one of the things was this Bernie the Grain. He wasn't a bad looking young chap, with hair the color of well ripened straw and freckles about the same shade, and his specialty was picking up red hot pokers in his bare hands and lovingly running his tongue over them as if they were lollypops, Mr. Riley said.

Oeah, I said, and Mr. Riley said, So you can imagine what a thrill I had in picturing him as a new fireman for Eagle Company Number 6, I offered him a job on the spot, and he jumped at it like a salmon at a sneer. And I must say he seemed to be a credit to us from the very start. From the moment we took him on it seemed we had fire after fire, sometimes several a day strangely enough, because it was the slack season, and Bernie was in the think of every one of them, Mr. Riley said, up those ladders and calling for more. And then azzidentally we discovered a can of gasoline under his bunk and we realized that he had been causing all those fires himself because he really loved fire, like the freek he was, instead of hating it like the conscentious fireman he would never be. So we let him set fire to them to show where he may still be to this day. And now I've got some pollatiks, Mr. Riley said.

Meening good by.

FOUR WILL CONTEST CITY MAYORALTY NOMINATIONS

Harvey, Hill, Woodley And White are Four Who Qualify for Mayoralty

Twenty Submit Papers to Contest For The Aldermanic Board

FOUR DROP OUT

Contests in Two Wards For Position of School Trustee

The largest mayoralty field in the election in a municipal election in Belleville qualified for the Chief Magistrate's chair in this city yesterday, when four citizens qualified to have their names placed before the electors for Mayor of Belleville for the year 1936, when Wm. Harvey, Harry Hill, Richard F. White and William Woodley all signed qualification papers along with twenty nominees for aldermanic honors at the coming municipal electing December 2.

Besides the four mayoralty contestants and 20 seeking aldermanic honors, there will be elections for school board in two divisions within the city by reason of Bleecker Wards, all others being returned by acclamation. M.P. Duff was returned to the Public School Board by acclamation, while still another ballot will be taken by the electors on December second, that being the question of Daylight Saving.

Not in a memory of some of the oldest municipal election followers in the city, when nomination and final minute qualifications last night, could be recalled, when last four mayoralty candidates faced the electors in an election in Belleville, the entire qualifications for the year's election was completed without ceremony, some of the veteran members of the council not qualifying until the last minute, five declared minutes prior to the hour of the last three minutes prior to the deadline of 8:00 p.m. Clerk Ponton of the clerk on the city hall tolled nine o'clock, City Clerk Wilfred Holmes declared the nominations closed. One candidate for aldermanic honors was unable to qualify when it was discovered that Mr. George Sprackett, a present member of the Board of Control, had not resigned his present office in order to qualify for aldermanic honors. His qualification papers were declared null and void following this discovery. Four mayoralty and aldermanic honors will face the electors at the City Hall on Friday night at which time each nominee will be given an opportunity to state his platform for civic welfare or improvement.

Those qualifying for mayoralty honors in Belleville this year are:

FOR MAYOR

William Harvey; Harry Hill; R. F. White and William A. Woodley.

FOR ALDERMEN

Admits Money Lost At Poker, Not Stolen, Informant Charged

Welland, Ont., Nov. 27.—(CP)—Walter Sloan of Cleveland, who claimed he had been robbed at gun point of $9 and later, police said, admitted he lost the money in a poker game, was charged today with "pursuing the Chief of Police to Cleveland to needless expense and causing the chief's time by false representation". Sloan was remanded until December 2.

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Pittsburgh, Nov. 27 (CP)—Twenty-two-year old James Lismont, indicted in Federal Court here for conspiracy to obtain control of telegraph concerns on a charge of threatening a stockholder.

Lisbon, Portugal, sitting nearly, overcame.

The Dalles, Oregon:

Ralph Lee, serving a sentence one to 15 months in a penitentiary at Salem, Oregon, for manslaughter in Lowhorn—

He bowed—shouldered youth sailed and collapsed. Court attaches revived him.

Then Judge Gilbert continued: "You fainted too soon. I was about to say it would be a suspended sentence, but we'll get you probation for three years."

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 27 (CP)—The letter X without a period following it, means, according to a ruling by Judge Arthur A. Dondero in Probate Court here.

Judge Dondero ruled that Andrew George Thanasopoulos and Paul George Thanasopoulos of Westfield, who sought by have their names changed to Andrew Y. Johnson and Paul Y. Johnson, the "Y" to stand for their forenames, could not be allowed the request "Y" with a period was an abbreviation, but they petitioned on condition the period be omitted.

Washington, Nov. 27 (CP)—Twelve years ago Robert Hall escaped from the district reformatory at Lorton, Va. He was 16 and back in custody to his own reckoning.

"I couldn't look a policeman in the face," he told an aide who asked him why he had returned after the 4,383 days since he escaped.

Superintendent H. M. Barnard said the prisoner would have to serve 16 months for the escape if his original four year sentence for assault with intent to rob.

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 27 (CP)—A pair of newly weds visited police Sergeant Eric Howell in uniform if it would be all right to have a wedding in the restaurant owned by Mr. and Mrs. Elizabeth Sackalls.

Sergeant Howell did not think so, since it would be serving liquor to a public place.

"We don't want to get into trouble," explained the bride.

"Then why did you get married?" asked the Sergeant.

SEAMEN CARRY WRECK TIDING

Seven Row Through Raging Storm to Bear News to Ship

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 27 (CP)—Seven seamen rowed into land out of a raging storm today with news of the Norwegian tramp steamer Djekrit which has been adrift with a helpless crew with her rudder gone.

An unidentified ship was standing by the distressed vessel, the seven reported and a tug was despatched immediately to her rescue.

Flight of the crippled ship was considered serious. The storm pounding her was so powerful it had taken the first mate and six men all of last night to row the few miles into harbor. They were near collapse from cold and exhaustion. Finally landed here with the Djekrit's plea for help.

Rescue Expedition is Likely for Ellsworth

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Steps preparatory to a possible rescue expedition for Lincoln Ellsworth and his pilot, Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, were in progress today aboard the base ship, The Wyatt Gale.

Ellsworth and Hollick-Kenyon were last heard from Saturday while they were flying toward the Bay of Whales, former base of Admiral Byrd, in the Antarctic.

Word of the rescue preparations was announced in the New York Times and the North American Newspaper Alliance as another day passed without word of the explorers' whereabouts.

ITALY CANCELS FURLOUGH TO 100,000 MEN

New Troop Movements Are Ordered by High Command

WORRY OVER OIL

Officials Refuse to Explain What Troops Are Meant

Rome, Nov. 27 (AP) — Reliable sources said today it was believed the government had largely "cancelled the furlough" recently extended to about 100,000 soldiers and new troop movements had been ordered.

An authority said Italy was sufficiently worried about oil in the League of Nations concerning placing an embargo against oil shipments to Italy to "make some movement of troops".

Officials refused to explain what troop movements were ordered or whether the 88th division, ordered removed from Libya, had sailed.

OPEN CONVENTION TO DECIDE LEADER

First Vice President Ford of London Thinks of Conservative Meet

Toronto, Nov. 27 (CP)—An open convention to decide a new Ontario conservative party leader for Ontario, Arthur Ford, first vice-president and President of the Ontario Conservative Association, said today at a meeting of the Association Executive.

"The only doubt is when it is to be held," said Mr. Ford. "Toronto people seem to want it right away but we in Western Ontario think it should not come until after the next session of the legislature."

Former Premier Henry is present Conservative chieftain.

EMPLOYMENT STANDS HIGH

Best Figures Since Dec. 1, 1930, Credited to Several Industries

Ottawa, Nov. 27—The Employment Bureau figures on employment level at Nov. 1 was higher than that of any month since Dec. 1, 1930. It stated particularly important improvements occurred in logging, building and building construction, mining, retail trade and municipal also contributed gains.

The gain in manufacturing, contrary to the usual seasonal trend, was especially pronounced in the textile group with smaller increases and some other industries were also helpful. Slight declines in subdivisions released large numbers of workers at lumber camps and sawmills recorded.

Transportation, railway construction, communications and services showed contractions.

Improvement in Ontario

The Bureau reported improvement in Ontario, Quebec and the Prairie Provinces and recessions in the Maritimes and British Columbia. Employment in all five economic areas was higher level than at the beginning of Nov., 1934, 1933 or 1932.

'Hauptmann Appeal Ridiculous'—Jafsie

Providence, R.I., Nov. 27.—(AP)—In the Lindbergh kidnapping case persisted today despite official expressions of disbelief.

An appeal by Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted murderer of the Lindbergh baby, for a further statement by Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" of the ransom negotiations, stirred further interest.

Hauptmann's appeal, issued from his death house cell here, said Dr. Condon "is holding the key in his hands" and with it the key of my cell".

It was recalled Dr. Condon told a Professional Women's Club in Boston a week ago he was still working on the case because "there are some things we wish to clear".

Dr. Condon, however, declined to say today what he meant by the statement.

"Has this involved any further questioning by any other persons?" Mr. Croll was asked.

"I am not prepared to say at the moment," he replied.

FIRES IN 10 YEARS ARE UNDER PROBE

Fire Marshall Scott at Peterborough Hears Evidence

Peterborough, Ont., Nov. 27—(CP)—W. J. Scott, Ontario Fire Marshall, is conducting an inquiry into a fire in the Payette Company pattern warehouse July 11, 1936, and all other fires affecting the Payette interests between 1925 and 1935.

John Thomas Payette, President of the large local furniture company was represented at the inquiry by Thomas H Phelan, K.C. Thomas Payette representing the group of insurance companies and Joseph Sedgwick, K.C., Deputy Attorney-General, acted for the crown.

Payette Owns Factory

Payette, native of Perotanguisheine, is the owner of a string of Canadian pianos, and controls, under this district, Goa and wood, bandsaws, planing mills, and farms constitute the many Payette interests.

Evidence showed $32,143.10 insurance was collected in the pattern warehouse fire. The fire record evidence on Robert Street was damaged several times for a total of $243 collected. J. B. Jennings, Pentanguishene; William Shaver, Midland; Joseph Macpherson, Penetanguishene, and Gilbert Blackburn, Midland, were given as Mr. Payette's local insurance agents, and L. D. Payette, of the Canadian Mutual, Kansas City, as his outside representatives.

Tag Destroyed

A frame lean-to, built on a stable belonging to J. T. Duffield burned Sept. 30, 1931, on which some $750 was collected. The T. Payette Co., belonging to Mr. Payette and formerly leased to the government, was destroyed Nov. 10, 1931, and $3,000 collected in insurance.

Payette claimed a Mr. Huron was heating tar on the ship's stove when the tar ignited.

On May 11, 1933, in the Payette moulding shop and foundry, a fire broke out in the drying kiln and building.

Asked by Mr. Sedgwick if he remembered a ship called the "Tandem D," Mr. Payette said they had been used on Lake Ontario for lumbering and was frozen in two feet of ice in the harbor when the fire broke. The tug was bought from a Mr. Tandem, Toronto, by Ireland and transported by flat car to Lake Nipissing. Cost of the boat in question was $1,000 and $1,500 was paid on the insurance claim.

Fire Loss $2,000

On Jan. 29, 1934, in the Robert Street warehouse a fire loss of $750 was paid. Total loss on the Payette farm fire totalled $6,257.

Mr. Payette, testifying under oath eight-year contract with the Pierce Lumber Co., his son Paul as Callander, July 17, 1934. Asked about the cause of the fire, Mr. Payette said he had no idea. Parts of is origin but that four fires had occurred that year in the district. Total of $60,377 was paid in the sawmill fire.

Department Official Dismissed from Service

Toronto, Nov. 27 (CP)—Hon. David Croll, Ontario Minister of Welfare, announced today that Dr. Bruce Hamilton, former purchasing supervisor of the Department of Public Welfare, has been dismissed from the provincial service.

An investigation into certain contracts for purchase of relief goods has been in progress for some months," said Mr. Croll. "As a result, Mr. Hagsdorn was placed under suspension during August. After receiving reports of the inquiry, we decided that he should be removed from the public service."

CROLL DECIDES ON WITHDRAWAL OF FREE BOOKS

Minister Charges Discrimination by Board of Control

SECONDARY SCHOOLS

Croll Feels Certain City Will Not Allow Pupils to be Penalized

Toronto, Nov. 27 (CP)—Welfare Minister Croll ruled today because Toronto Board of Control decided taxpayers should not be required to provide a share of the cost of textbooks for children of unemployed Separate School supporters, the province's contribution toward free books in the secondary schools must be withdrawn.

The province's contribution toward cost of text books given to relief students in secondary schools averages about $60 monthly. From the province the city has received $336 this year, $1,000 for the first seven months of the current year.

Discrimination Alleged.

After circulating his ruling in a letter to Mayor Leonard Ratcliff, Mr. Croll repeated his charges of "discrimination" and considered "you have acted unwisely and have permitted controversial issues to enter what is purely and simply a matter of unemployment relief."

The Board of Control's decision, Mr. Croll said, "automatically disqualifies the city of Toronto from provincial assistance toward the purchase of textbooks and supplies for school children."

"I feel sure," he write, "that the city of Toronto, in its present financial position, will not permit the secondary school pupils to be penalized because the province cannot now legally contribute to the cost of their books and supplies."

NEW UPRISINGS ARE REPORTED

Censorship Immediately Applied And Measures Taken

Rio de Janeiro, Nov 27 (AP)—Loyal government troops forced the surrender of a rebellious unit of enlisted men at the aviation school here today, dispersing them after a charge against the third infantry regiment which had risen up against the government.

The rebellion which broke out in the natural fortress of Natal, capital of the State of Rio Grande do Norte, in which Senator Juvenal Lamartine is said to have been elected last Saturday.

A group of civilians and privates, stationed at Villa Militar, in suburban Rio de Janeiro, attacked the regiment quartered there, but that they surrendered later, however, in the face of an overwhelming attack by loyal troops.

Mechanical State is Foe of Personality, Tweedsmuir Declares

Toronto, Nov. 27—(CP)—Whenever a mechanical state has been attempted it has always ended in disaster, Baron Tweedsmuir, Canada's new Governor-General, said today in an address on democracy to a University of Toronto Convocation at which honorary degrees and Doctor of Laws was conferred on him.

Certain great countries in the Old World had been prepared to surrender their souls to a dictator for the obligation if only they were promised security. In such cases all freedom of personality was lost and human beings became a disciplined collection of animals.

Universal Interest

The Governor-General remarked, set politics had been thrown his chief subject but now in the ordinary course of events forbidden him. But today when the duties and rights of the State impinged so much upon the private life of the citizen, politics, in the broadest sense, had become to far more universal interest than ever before.

Universally of Toronto, he believed had striven to live up to the conception of Sir James Bryce, British Ambassador at Washington, that there were two categories—popular, an free. An institution might be popular without being free, or free without being popular. The combination meant the attainment of the true democratic ideal—quality of social status, a high level of human dignity and freedom from coercion of thought.

"Let us look, and told truly, that today democracy is at stake," he said. The democratic form of government was the most difficult of all because it set up so high a purpose. It offered a wonderful prospect and it it failed the disillusion was the keener. The true democratic ideal had never been attained in history. Human society had never risen to the perfect balance of law and liberty and today the conditions of its attainment were more difficult than ever.

"Our fathers devised a certain machine of political machine which they believed would safeguard our independence and at the same time permit the tasks of government to be adequately performed," he continued. "That machine may have been too narrowly constructed; in the interests of efficiency it may have to be drastically remodelled. But one thing we should hold fast to is the truth that no machine can be permitted to impair the finest thing in the spirit and weaken the citizen's responsibility toward that community and that reason which are the gifts of God."

Peril of Mass and Machine

The danger came from two sources. One he called the "peril of the mass". In the modern state, because of its vast aggregation of human beings, there was an inclination to think of broad masses of humanity as statistics—popular an free. An institution might be popular without being free, or free without being popular. The combination meant the attainment of the true democratic ideal—quality of social status, a high level of human dignity and freedom from coercion of thought.

"Let us look, and told truly, that today democracy is at stake," he said. The democratic form of government was the most

Silver Loving Cup Given Hon. G. Howard Ferguson

Anglo-Canadian Trading Community in London, Eng., Pays Honor

300 ATTEND

(By Thomas T. Champion)

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 27.—(CP Cable)—In recognition of his services to business interests, a luncheon was tendered today to Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, formerly Canadian High Commissioner to London. Under the chairmanship of Sir Hewitt Skinner 300 of the Anglo-Canadian business community attended and presented Mr. Ferguson with a George IV silver loving cup. Mr. Ferguson was presented with jewelry.

Mr. Ferguson spoke briefly on some emotion said were the gathering gave him a glow of pride and the traffic ties between the two was a feeling of sadness.

"I don't like to say that both my wife and myself leave these islands, this grand city, with profound regret," he said. "I can anticipate a reunion with friends but I have had the best years of our lives here, everyone has been extraordinarily kind. It is a special joy I have been here through that wonderful Jubilee year"

Turning to Malcolm MacDonald and J. H. Thomas, secretaries for the Dominions and Dominion during his tenure of office, Mr. Ferguson continued, "whether you may be secretaries for the Dominions letters lists but your task is to promote the unity and solidarity of bringing us all closer together. You have had great success and influence in progress. With a heart so inspired, it is difficult to say anything," he concluded.

Thomas' Words

J. H. Thomas, Dominion Secretary, alluded to the chairman's reference to previous Commissioners who had passed away revealing that Mr. Ferguson had just said to him, "I hope to heaven he does not think I am passing away yet."

He replied, Mr. Thomas, said, "you can reassure yourself on that point."

He continued, "Howard is unlike me who also just retired from the Dominion's service, he has got a loving cup. I get nothing. For me and postal service office.

MICHAEL SAVAGE IS PREMIER-ELECT IN SPIRITED VOTE

Democratic Party Fails Completely at Polls

4-YEAR COALITION

Premier-to-be is Native Australian, Came to New Zealand in 1907

Wellington, N.Z., Nov. 28 (Thursday)—(CP Cable via Reuters)—Commanding 53 out of 80 seat in the next House of Representatives, Michael J. Savage today prepared to form the first Labor Government in the history of New Zealand. In yesterday's general election the Labor Party won a sweeping victory over the National Government which has held office since 1931.

The final standing of the parties, with six results declared, follows:

|---|---|
| Labor | 53 |
| National Government | 26 |
| Independent | 1 |
| Democrats | 0 |
| Country Party | 0 |

Most surprising feature of the results of yesterday's election was the complete rout of the Democrats. After the formation of their party a few months ago, they had two representatives in the House, but all of their leaders were defeated today, including their leader Hislop. The Labor party elected 82 out of 71 candidates.

Nothing To Fear.

"Now Zealand has nothing to fear from a Labor government," declared Michael J. Savage, Premier-elect of New Zealand in 1931. "Our object is to co-operate with all our people in the task of developing up this Dominion."

Four of the eighty constituencies returned Maori members, two being supporters of the government and two independents. It is customary for one of the Maori members to represent his race in the cabinet as Minister of Native Affairs and it is possible Mr. Savage will appoint one of the Maori members for this purpose.

Final standing of the parties in the last House of Representatives was as follows: Labor 27, Government 46, Labor 24, Democrats 2, Country Party 1, Independents 7. (Statistics differ slightly.)

'TERROR MAN' IS SENT TO GALLOWS

Alleged He Ran Down Cyclist, While Driving a Stolen Car

Wittersee, England, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Archie Charles Mortimer, called a "terror man" for his alleged practice of running down cyclists while driving a stolen automobile, was convicted of murder today and sentenced to death.

The six-foot-tall Lance Corporal stationed at Shorncliffe Barracks, found guilty of fatally wounding Mrs. Phyllis Mary Oakes, beautiful private secretary, by deliberately running her down August 4, in the same manner he had run down front of the stolen car Mortimer was driving before she fell off, endangled in her bicycle. She died August 11 on the eve of her 21st birthday.

A few days later, Mortimer—who said he had been subject to fits since he was struck on the head by a street lamp as a boy—was arrested after allegedly attempting to drive three other young girls in the same way.

$150 THEFT REPORTED

London, Ont., Nov. 27.—(CP)—Smashing the lock on the front door of the Huffman drug store and escaping with $150 in cash last night robbers stole about $50 in goods from the cosy department store, police said today.

COLLEGE STAFF STUDY THREAD MANUFACTURE

On Tuesday afternoon of last week the Business Administration and Commerce class of Albert College, under the direction of Professor Howard L. Dean, Phm. D., McMaster, and Professor J. C. D. Brown, B.A., and M. Trenton, spent nearly two hours studying the manufacture of cotton thread in the large, modern and well-managed plant of Trent Cotton Ltd. Mr. E. H. Nelson, manager of the company, personally conducted the group through the factory and very kindly and clearly explained the purpose of each of the large and complicated machines of which he is in charge. Many of the students who had considered the manufacture of thread a simple matter, upon understanding things were amazed at the precision and intricacy of the great machines. Few realized that there was a plant so close to Belleville which took the raw cotton just as it was picked by the negroes of the southern States and transformed it into beautiful clean white thread at the rate of about 40,000 miles of thread per day.

CLUB WILL HEAR CIVIC CANDIDATES

The annual bun feed of the Wharf Street Debating Club this (Wednesday) night will mark another milestone of the civic event in the history of this organization. For nearly a quarter of a century it has been customary for members of the Council, Board of Education and candidates for office to appear at this function and discuss civic issues. Tonight will be no exception to the rule and it is expected that the Debating Club will have one of the most interesting pre-election programs of the season.

JAMES ROLLINS, TWEED RECEIVES APPOINTMENT

James B. Rollins of Tweed, a 1934 graduate of Queen's University, was recently appointed to the technical staff of the dry-color paint division of McArthur-Irwin Co. Limited. Mr. Rollins, who graduated with a B.Sc. degree in chemistry, was employed with the Hilton Belyea Co. Company at Sulphide for a year after graduation.

FELINE RESUED BY FIRE DEPT. MEMBERS

The fable of the cat in the well was reversed yesterday, and instead of hunting for the agitated animal in any subterranean hideout, fireman of No. 3 brigade, summoned by another agitated feline, Coleman Street yesterday were scanning the top of long tall pine for the cat, a yowling feline, marooned for a whole day in the top most branches of a lofty pine in which it had been chased by dogs, the clawing, spitting cat was finally rescued with the aid of long ladders by members of the department under the direction of assistant fire chief Gerald Vance.

RACCOONS HEARD ABOUT CORN PATCH

The odd whistle of raccoons on the fringes of the late corn patches in Hastings County through this November season which is the most almost unheard during the past few years owing to their reduction in numbers by constant hunting, is again being heard sorry.

Coons are more plentiful this year, according to statements of local fur buyers, who say that while prices the first few pairs, The skins, however according to one buyer have been small and not of prime quality, due perhaps to the continued fall weather, which has been most conducive to the growth of heavy fur.

MERCHANTS PREPARE FOR VISIT OF SANTA

If December comes can Christmas and Christmas shopping be far behind?

Not if more windows along Front Street, now being decorated by the merchants-owners in preparation for a boom in holiday buying, is any criterion. Bright red and green paper, holly, sparkling snow flakes of synthetic composition, tinsel and all the trappings generally associated with the festive season are being used more freely this year to complete some decidedly beautiful effects.

But the most prominent sign of all was the placement today of the yeoman, Christmas tree on every lamp post, where they will remain until the shopping season is over, a constant reminder and urge to the citizens.

And, as if to clinch the argument that Santa is fast around the corner, one of the first loads of Christmas trees from the east passed through the city today on heavily loaded flat cars of the Canadian National Railway.

DOCK ATTENDANTS FAIL TO FEEL SHOCK

Fishing in lonely solitude at the end of the government dock late yesterday afternoon, a local resident angling for perch and other varieties of assorted small fish was distinctly surprised to feel a series of shocks apparently emanating from the heavy pier itself. Thoughts of an earthquake prompted the fisherman to stow his tackle and hurry from the pier apparently accidentally concerned over the warning. Other dock attendants, however, failed to feel the shake, it was stated.

BUOY CARRIER BUSY IN THIS DISTRICT

Laden with huge channel markers, the barge, which she is pushing up at the present time to forestall the possibility of a freezeup, the buoy carrier, Cockburn, Prescott, steamed the local port yesterday afternoon and spent the morning here today. She is expected to leave later today for the upper bay, where buoys will be picked up at Trenton, presqu'ile and other points. She is commanded by Captain Bain.

THREE OFFICERS TO ADVANCE IN RANK

Military district orders for District No. 3 contain the announcement of promotions of three officers of the local Argyll Light Infantry. Second Lieutenants J. M. Porritt; Kenneth Griffis and Ross Wyman have been notified of their advancement to the rank of Lieutenant.

Major Gribble was a member of the 15th Regiment of this city prior to the war. He received his appointment and commission to the 155th Battalion but reverted to the rank of gunner and went overseas with the Canadian Artillery in this capacity, serving in France and Belgium. This designation given Major Gribble is the first one that has been granted any member of the Argyll Light Infantry.

Major H. F. Alford, also of the local unit, has been awarded the Colonial Auxiliary Forces Officer's Long Service Medal in recognition of twenty years' continuous service with the local unit and Canadian forces overseas. Major Alford was also a member of the 15th Regiment prior to the war. He enlisted as the outbreak of hostilities with the Canadian Dental Corps and saw active services in the Dardanelles campaign. He is senior Company Commander of the Argyll Light Infantry at the present time.

Formal presentation of the decorations is expected to be made later by the Officers Commanding.

KING ALFONSO IS TO BE GRANDFATHER

Paris, Nov 27 (AP)—Former King Alfonso of Spain expects to be a grandfather twice by next Spring, his friends said today.

They said his eldest daughter, Beatrice, wife of Prince Allesandro Torlonia, of Italy, awaits the birth of a baby in February. The wife of his second son, Jaime, the former Beaumarda de Dampierre, will become a mother in April, the informants said.

London, Nov. 27 (CP)—The King and Queen are expected to leave Buckingham Palace for Sandringham on Dec. 2 after the opening of parliament. Their Majesties will spend several days at the Royal Estate.

MAJOR GRIBBLE, MAJOR ALFORD ARE DECORATED

Officers in Argyll Light Infantry Rewarded For Service

Two distinguished awards have been made by the Department of National Defence to officers of the local Argyll Light Infantry for continuous service in war and peace time units.

Major A. B. Gribble, second ranking officer of the Argyll Light Infantry, has been awarded the Canadian Efficiency Decoration. The medal, beautifully inscribed and complete with ribbon and container has been received by Col. E. R. Geen for presentation.

Major Gribble was a member of the 15th Regiment of this city prior to the war. He received his appointment and commission to the 155th Battalion but reverted to the rank of gunner and went overseas with the Canadian Artillery in this capacity, serving in France and Belgium. This designation given Major Gribble is the first one that has been granted any member of the Argyll Light Infantry.

Major H. F. Alford, also of the local unit, has been awarded the Colonial Auxiliary Forces Officer's Long Service Medal in recognition of twenty years' continuous service with the local unit and Canadian forces overseas. Major Alford was also a member of the 15th Regiment prior to the war. He enlisted as the outbreak of hostilities with the Canadian Dental Corps and saw active services in the Dardanelles campaign. He is senior Company Commander of the Argyll Light Infantry at the present time.

Formal presentation of the decorations is expected to be made later by the Officers Commanding.

PARTY CHIEFTAIN REAL LABOR MAN

Founded Australian Labor Party Before Coming to New Zealand

Wellington, N. Z., Nov. 22 (Thursday) (CP Cable)—New Zealand Labor today cheered Michael Joseph Savage, 60-year-old party chieftain, who led a crushing onslaught against the National Government at yesterday's battle of the polls.

It is expected as soon as Prime Minister Forbes and his colleagues are ready to relinquish their offices the Governor-General will call on Mr. Savage to form the first Labor Government in the history of New Zealand Dominion.

Savage has long experience of the Labor movement, having been one of the founders of the Australian Labor party before coming to New Zealand in 1907

He was born on a farm near Benalla in the State of Victory, Australia, and educated as a public school. As a boy he worked in the mines of the Gold State. At 21 he trekked to New South Wales and dug drains for Sir Samuel Mc-Caughey, pioneer of irrigation projects in that State.

Started in 1900

Savage's political career dates from his experience as a miner at Rutherglen, Victoria. In 1900, when he became prominent in union circles.

His hard work won him the position of Secretary to the Political Labor League from which grew the Australian Labor party. Some of his colleagues of those years later held office in Australia's Labor Government of 1929-31. Savage's eyes, however, were turned towards New Zealand and he moved to Auckland in 1907.

During the Great War he was National Secretary of the New Zealand Labor party, and in 1919 he entered the House of Representatives as member for Auckland West. In 1923 he was Deputy Leader of the party and in the following year he succeeded the late H. E. Holland as leader.

The Prime Minister-elect, who has never been married, makes his home at Auckland, where he was re-elected yesterday by a large majority.

Toy to Firehall, Ticket to Theatre

A matinee program of a Western picture and cartoons will be given at the Belle Theatre on Thursday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock at which each boy and girl will be admitted on the payment of a fire hall, or short distance from the theatre, a toy for distribution at Christmas. He will receive there a ticket of admission to the theatre. Firemen will repair or redicorate these toys for the Christmas distribution.

All boys and girls who wish in this way to help the firemen's efforts will receive the ticket at the fire hall on the presentation of the toys and will then have the ticket admitting to the matinee. Manager G. H. Forhan has taken this step to help the firemen's work.

POLICE BLOTTER

No arrests were reported in Belleville during the past 24 hours, police activities being rather ordinary and routine. Worship Master Judge E. J. Butler K.C., held police court in the police station this morning, while Inspector Sid Hunter, of the Motor-Car Branch of the Ontario Provincial Police, completed his quarterly inspection of the local detachment in his car yesterday. He reported that reported favourably upon the work of the two officers patrolling local highways.

When the spring of a Toronto-owned and driven motor car broke on highway No. 2 five miles west of Belleville last night, the car's vehicle went into the ditch. Motorcycle Patrolman Hamilton investigated and reported no injuries or damage to the motor car resulted. The car was later removed from the ditch with the assistance of a wrecking truck and later continued its journey under its own power.

Two tourists were also assisted in number of over a week to seek shelter at the police station, spoiled their night's lodging last night. All were informed of the facilities and proceeded their many ways.

THROWN BY HORSE

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 27 (CP)—Carl D. Albertson, a mounted guard at the Kingston penitentiary, suffered serious injuries today, when he was thrown against a tree at the end of the penitentiary lane.

He was riding his horse when it became frightened at a car and threw him.

Belleville and District Seek Early Completion Madoc - Bancroft Road

Open Forum of Chamber of Commerce Frames Resolution

ENGINEER HEARD

H. R. Poussette, Trade Commissioner, Says Business Better

Belleville, Madoc and municipalities throughout the northern section of Hastings County went on record last evening at a meeting of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce at which representatives of the county and the city were guests as favoring the early completion of the work of construction on the new highway between Madoc Village and the Village of Bancroft through an official resolution passed. A large attendance was present at the dinner tendered the visitors by the Chamber at the Queen Hotel.

The resolution which followed an interesting survey of the road and the work that has been completed so far, given by Mr. Peter MacLaren, superintendent of construction, and by Mr. C. Zammers, engineer in charge, was moved by Reeve Campbell Wallbridge of Madoc and seconded by Mr. W. B. Deacon of this city.

The resolution, which will be presented to the Ontario Department of Highways in full is: "Resolved that this general meeting of members of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and members of the Village Council, the Community Club, and a number of other representatives from the Village of Madoc, Monday, when the Ontario Department of Highways the necessity for the early completion of that work of construction on the new highway between Madoc Village and the Village of Bancroft."

Major Request

"The meeting also strongly recommends that the attention of the Belleville-Bancroft Highway between the Village of Foxboro and the Village of Madoc be completed during the King's Highways, No's. 7 and 14, be given to the provincial highway, and that the grading and permanent surfacing of the said section be completed as soon as practicable to do so."

Mr. Peter MacLaren, superintendent of the road in a brief descriptive account of what has been done and completed so far on this stretch of highway through the county, following his introduction to the meeting by chairman Robert Denear, pointed to the fact that he had been engaged in regarding it, since work was first started on the project. This discussion has been particularly concerned regarding the road work, he said, as he is employed there.

"The present route is the one, that was originally picked out by Mr. Zammers. As soon as the plans were put on the job by the Highways Department and both to go ahead and build the road. This present route is the one that was decided upon," declared Mr. MacLaren.

"I want to pay particular tribute to the efforts of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce at this point for the assistance that has been given us in this selection through a motion, that was passed some time ago urging this route and which has since been put on the books.

"Lines are not run as in the old days, when a road survey is chosen now," continued Mr. MacLaren. "First the proposed site is surveyed and mapped by aeroplane. The section is then photographed the same as the whole of North Hastings was long before the road was commenced. If the old survey had been the best, that is one, the road would have been taken. But this meant too much work; there was too much rock, too much hilly country; if we had taken the old line it is doubtful if you would have been able to travel one mile in eight or ten miles of its length."

Complete Village

"When the road was first started we got orders to open up twenty-five miles of it. We started right away on six camps, and it would be news to anyone's wish to go up there and see one of these camps because they are a complete little village in themselves. It took 70,000 feet of lumber to put up one camp and we had to bring that between January and February in its construction."

"Work on this road has been all in the nature of relief work up to early this summer and we have employed men from all over, from the northern part of the county, from Tweonto and Belleville and elsewhere. At one time we had approximately nine hundred men employed. It wasn't an easy way for us to build a road or anything else, but when we objected we were told, that the work, after all, was chiefly for relief purposes."

"Today the whole stretch has been stumped and one half the subgrade has been laid. All the ditches are in and the road remains in the easiest part of the construction. Camps Four, Five and Six are about one half done, but at Camp One not so much has been completed."

"As far as the road itself goes, there is no finer one in the whole of Ontario. It has an eight per cent grade and a three-to-one slope. For a pleasure road it will be one of the finest drives in the province, and for purpose of business it will be all that can be desired. When it is finally finished it will boom Belleville economically, as well as the northern part of the county."

"We know the extent of the tourist trade in this country, and we know that this year it is expected, that two hundred millions of dollars will have been taken in from the visitors. Last year thousands of visitors came up in this part of the province and with better roads available we can expect more at the time. It is the good roads and the good advantages, that attract the visitors."

Dr. Faulkner Praised

A note of appreciation for the effort of the Hon. Dr. Faulkner of Peterboro, who was chief of Ontario, who told us not long ago, that when finances permit, work will again be started," declared Mr. MacLaren. Tribute to the efficiency of Mr. Zammers, engineer in charge was also made by the speaker.

Mr. C. Zammers, in charge of the engineering project since its commencement explained the effort of the engineering staff in regarding to extend a network of roads throughout the county so as to open up the province and the country, which would thus open up likely sections of mining that are habitable and fully as populous as the south. During the past years, when more money being given work on these as a relief undertaking numerous articles in construction had been made. Briefly by the method of laying out a new road by airplane surveys and photographs was given. "Nowadays the engineering department, in order has to study the whole terrain through which the road is to pass. Pictures are taken of every bit of it. Then they are studied in the office, sometimes as three dimensional views, which show accurately every hill and valley and swamp. This department cannot afford to overlook any site."

Some Much To City.

"This new road will mean a lot to Belleville and district when it is finally completed and it will mean a lot to the north country, not only every influence through the north already has resulted in great improvements. The last mile of concession roads leading into it. Now they have been graded and the people are keeping pace with the larger highway. It can be safely stated that this will do much for the whole northern area served by this route," concluded Mr. MacLaren.

In seconding the resolution by Reeve Campbell Wallbridge, following Mr. Zammer's remarks, and which is printed at the beginning of the report Mr. W. B. Deacon took the occasion to point out that residents of the southern part of the county, and particularly the urban centres of Belleville fully the importance of such a road, nor what it meant to them in dollars and cents value.

"We have the finest section of country in Canada back in the Bancroft district, and we have a road now which will completed will be a natural outlet to the north from Belleville. There is not a better people in the land than dwellers of that north section, and nowhere are there such facilities with which to enjoy ourselves as there are up there. We should bend every effort to make this part of the country one of the playgrounds for our visiting friends. Tourists spend millions of dollars and cents to us, but we have to help them find the means of getting there and there over convenient roads and of reaching those lakes and streams that are filled with fish. After the good roads we must also have good fishing. This means that we have to take more interest in this, too. The fish will be just as important as the roads. I feel that the Chamber of Commerce could do much toward making the people conscious of their own country. One means would be to meet frequently and get together. We could even arrange a cavalcade of cars next summer to take fifty or sixty-five of the members on a trip back through there just to see for ourselves what is in it. We of the south here should work ever closer with the people of the north in getting this highway through so that we can begin to enjoy the benefits which will follow."

Little discussion featured the passing of the motion which was unanimously carried when put to vote by Chairman R. J. S. Deway.

United Kingdom Recuperating.

Mr. H. R. Poussette, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Liverpool, England, guest speaker of the evening, who has been touring Great Britain and Canada trip in the interests of Canadian trade, gave a very good illuminating account of the manner in which the United Kingdom was recuperating from the effects of the recent trade slackness between the countries, and Canadian-British trade expansion between this country and the British Isles, it Canada exported to would be much more fully.

"There is more optimism than for past years is evident both here and in the United Kingdom, and matters are improved. This is reflected by greater confidence noted everywhere," declared the speaker. "The pessimism of a few years ago is entirely absent. Mr. Poussette in declaring his liking for the central section of Canada and Ontario cited Belleville and district as possessing one of the most fertile areas in Canada, both as to grown and manufactured produce. "Your Belleville cheese, and your Belleville apples and district apples are no strangers to the shores and markets of stores of the British Isles and they possess an enviable solidarity in those world markets. This is the best assurance of steady prosperity; a prosperity which may not promote boom conditions, but which will aid and stabilize business."

England, frankly, was dealt a severe blow by the recent depression, but through the efforts of the she has recovered slowly but technically until today she has again taken her place among nations, declared the speaker. "British people were elated by him as being ashamed to admit defeat and discouragement; their belief in their country has always been sincere, and when they see that the task of carrying on, of rebuilding, they kept at it until the job was done.

Balanced Budget.

"First she balanced her budget. They all realized the sacrifices that would be needed to do this, but they went ahead cheerfully and they did it in magnificent manner. Then she did more; Britain helped to spread more confidence throughout the world and that meant a lot when she was badly needed at the time."

The housing program accomplished by Britain and the dole were two other saga which came in for considerable criticism from other countries, but even in these matters Ringland was declared to be years ahead of her time and was enjoying the benefits of that which would eventually have had to come in later years. An "backward condition" of affairs was being remedied by the construction of new homes and the slum clearing legislation enjoyed under the benefits of the dole was being emulated in other countries as well. Britain's trade with Canada has been noted. "Britain might appear to be buying with new things, but the Britisher is empirical; he likes to feel his way first before he finally commits himself. That is how he weathered the storm perhaps better than some of the rest of the countries in the world," added Mr. Poussette.

In stressing the need for Canadians to realize that they are now an exporting country, Mr. Poussette also impressed the need for them to recognize that they must study their buyers as well as the markets in which they place their goods. "We have a great opportunity in the United Kingdom at the present time for further and constant expansion of our trade. They say there is no substitute for hustle, and it can truthfully say that the British buyer will buy British goods whenever he can get them. There is here is not too great a spread in prices."

Staff Competition.

"If the cheese exporter for example, in Canada, can produce the quantity production and go after the better class market, and not be forced to the price basis, then he has a good chance of increasing his trade. In Canada, he can establish himself. Intense competition has been set up by New Zealand during the past few years in this market."

"Canadians, with their ability, can capture any market," declared Mr. Poussette. "And the manufacturer who goes out and studies the whole world to compete in open markets is undertaking an accomplishment and if you have the spirit of manufacturer you can be proud of him."

Mr. Poussette got to closely the psychology of the customer and of the business. If you want to sell goods you must first study wants and demands and the way they want it in the home. The consumers can help you, they can be of great assistance. Upon the scores to the various offices, officials and so on depends his efficiency as a commissioner. If you in the exporting business need any of this assistance in any time at any of our offices in any part of the world, we are glad to help you and share your success.

A vote of thanks for the splendid address given by Mr. Poussette was made by Mr. Ed. Bernstein, who expressed also the wish, that the speaker's second visit with Belleville would not be spaced over a six year period. This was stated by him to have elapsed since the last journey to this section.

During the evening community singing was led by J. Arnold Thomson and assisted by Mr. Leo Rigg on the piano.

INTERESTING ELECTION

Four candidates in the field for the mayoralty for 1936 will make the election of next Monday one of the most interesting in many years from the point of the unusual number of aspirants.

The council seats will also be contested with twenty candidates seeking election to the thirteen aldermanic seats.

The third feature of the coming balloting will be the voting on Daylight Saving, the bylaw if carried calling for "fast" time from June 15th to the Saturday before the opening of the Belleville Fair.

There are two ward contests for public school trustees.

There is no contest for the office of the Hydro Commissionership, Mr. M. F. Duff being acclaimed. He has held the post for years and the acclamation is taken as evidence of the satisfaction he has given as a member of the Hydro Board.

The retirement of Mayor Tice from the city council at the close of the year has precipitated a real fight for the office of chief magistrate. Two of this year's aldermen are in the mayoralty field, three of the aldermen, Guthridge, Foley and Marshall are retiring, two former council members are seeking re-election as aldermen, and ten others are seeking to secure council seats.

WHAT PULPITS SAY

"Tepid Christians" are the peril of the church, and the defeat of communism depends upon a vigorous faith, Rev. Dr. H. W. B. Donegan said at St. James P. E. Church, New York. "Whether we like it or not, a considerable part of public opinion is questioning the right of the church to endure. Many who are against the church have nothing against it, but use their obsession as a smoke screen to hide their lack of desire to accept its discipline. The greatest peril is not from outsiders but from indifferent members within the church. There are too many tepid, lukewarm, indifferent Christians."

Dr. Donegan gave three reasons for his faith in the church. First is its primary purpose to help men and women to be good. "If you cannot appreciate the greatness of goodness, it means that you have not the greatness of life you have. The church has ideal of justice for the community, the nation and the world; we need men and women of spiritual intelligence who know what goodness is to carry out these ideals," he said.

The second reason is that the church is an organization of individuals bound together in a fellowship of fellowship.

His third reason is that the church champions personality. He spoke of the work of the church in education, in the help of hospitals, attacks on child labor, public philanthropy and public repudiation of war.

"In the work of the ministry is, he claimed a challenge not to a Sunday job, but to high advenure and something that often is heart-breaking. The four requisites of a good church are a sympathetic and understanding congregation, an earnest ministry, a will to serve the community, and an interest in carrying the Gospel to other lands.

Moral recovery, salvation of the era is seen in the idealism of the people by the Rev. Dr. Minot Simons of All Souls Unitarian Church. "There is an amazing confidence in a possible change of system, political and economic, as if it could do by magic what the people can do by their own idealism. Can that idealism rise above the moral confusion and material-mindedness of the present hour? Can it control the machines and all the other marvellous devices of modern life for speed and comfort? Can it conquer greed and injustice by goodwill among men? It can if there is enough spiritual power back of it."

"We have health examinations at regular intervals, we take inventory of stocks in our stores and we examine our financial condition, but we do not test our religious health," said Canon A. P. S. Stokes of the National Cathedral in Washington, speaking at St. Bartholomew's, New York. He suggested the reading of biography to strengthen one's religion.

The Catholic Church's teachings on capital and labor, morality education and topics as birth control, divorce and interracial marriage offer a sound remedy for communism, said Rev. W. I. Lonergan, associate editor of America, at Fordham University. "Correct thinking is not enough, unless our principles are incarnated in our conduct."

"A steady emphasis must be put on the fact that there is no morality without the aid of the divine," affirmed Rev. Dr. Daniel Russell at Rutgers Presbyterian Church. "Some are under delusion that the church is outmoded and that the trend is toward some sort of humanism or a scientific philosophy. These need only refresh their minds with respect to social history and remember that the church has stricken the shackles from the slave, has given the arm of protection to the innocent child, has freed womanhood from bondage, has provided the asylum and the hospital."

"The noblest human being is but a broken light of God," said the Rev. Dr. J. Bonnell at Fifth Avenue Church. "The greatest scientist is merely thinking God's thoughts after Him. The mightiest mind of man multiplied to infinity would offer some idea of what God is like. A scientist has said that he and his fellows "are but kindergarten children playing with mysteries."

YOU WHO ARE YOUNG

You who are young, it is you, it is you,
Who must make the dreams of the world come true.
You who are young have a world to build;
The future shall be what you have willed.

Learn and practice, plan and do;
Hold to a vision and shape it true,
And you'll find at last that a dream or two
Because of you, because of you,
Has out of the mist and the dark come true.

You who are young
Need what you build with hand and tongue,
You who are young, you who are young!

SAM AND WILL

IT IS FITTING THAT THE MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR WILL ROGERS THIS WEEK should coincide with memorial services for another great humorist, Samuel Langhorne Clemens, known to the world of small boys who never grew up as "Mark Twain", creator of Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn, two lads who personify yesterday, today and forever, the real red-blooded small boy of all nations—the boy whose boyhood is not blasted with great riches, who knows what it is to go hungry occasionally and barefoot as often as his folks will let him, who knows the woods and the creeks and all the great outdoors, with its human, feathered and furred companions.

x x

Mark Twain and Will Rogers were both apostles of that clean and wholesome humor which left nary a sting or a bad taste, and folks loved them rather than feared them. Both left the world a better place than they found it and the names of both will preserve in the hearts of the people unmarred by a single stain.

x x

Will Rogers took his friend, Fred Stone's place in Ringling production on about twenty-four hour's notice rather than allow his friend, lying critically injured in a hospital from an aeroplane accident, to suffer financial loss. He also gave his time and talent freely to the Red Cross in a tour to raise funds for the starving farmers of the southwestern United States, raising thousands of dollars for the cause and not accepting a cent for himself.

x x

Samuel Clemens, faced with liabilities of $100,000, in a publishing company which he had lent his name to, refused to compromise at so much on the dollar as his creditors were wont to do in those days and started a lecture tour around the world which furnished him the money to pay off the debts of the firm one hundred cents on the dollar.

x x

This week is a memorable one in that the memories of two great men whose sense of humor and genius for expressing it helped the world into a happier state of mind.

x x

Long live the memory of Mark Twain and Will Rogers.

SOME TALK OF ABOLISHING RADIO LICENSES,

which sounds all to the good. A great many radio owners have never paid a radio license, which indicates that in their opinion it is all right to do the government in such small matters. Might as well abolish the expensive Radio Commission unless it gets busy and demands and obtains for Canada a rightful place on the air. Canadian stations are blanketed nightly by strong Yankee stations, too close to Canadian stations. The Yankees have grabbed all the best air waves and Canada must take the leavings, apparently.

PUBLICLY FLOG ETHIOP GENERALS

Ordered by Emperor Selassie to Prevent Mutiny

Harar, Nov. 27 (CP)—Four Ethiopian generals have been publicly flogged by order of Emperor Haile Selassie to discourage signs of mutiny among 50,000 warriors on the southern front, it was learned today.

They will be sent back to fight as common soldiers, it was announced. Previously each held the rank of Fitaurari, Vanguard Commander, the equivalent of a general.

Threats of mutiny by underfed and unpaid troops were the real cause of the Emperor's hasty airplans trip to Jijiga last week, it was reported in some quarters here.

An advance started Friday and had extended as far as Gorrahei today. Losses have been heavy, but morale is excellent, it was said.

The four flogged generals were leaders in the move to depict Haile Selassie's forces because of lack of action. After making an example of them, the Emperor gave orders for the army to attack and try to cut off the lines of communication of the Italian column under Gen. Rodolfo Graziani.

Ethiopians said only minor skirmishes had taken place recently, but nearly 100 wounded were in the hospital here today and many more in the hospital at Jijiga. Last week 800 wounded were at Jijiga and now it is believed there are nearly 1,000.

Ethiopia's defenders have been established in strong defensive positions in a double "S" curve along a 50-mile front to the east of Dagabur. Now, just to the Ras Dante Dante, they are carrying the fight to the enemy, it was reported here.

PLOT TO ENLIST CAVALRY FAILS

Communist Rebellion is Thwarted in Rio de Janeiro

(By Rafael Ordovica, Associated Press Staff Writer.)

Rio De Janeiro, Nov. 26 (AP)—An alleged plot to enlist the First Cavalry Regiment, quartered in the heart of Rio De Janeiro, in a communistic rebellion against the government was thwarted today as rebelling in Natal Brazil against the government.

Lieut. Lauro Fonioura, detailed with the training of reserve officers, was arrested before dawn charged with attempting to incite a revolt of the troops.

Officials said he had made an appeal to the Communist controlled corps into line with the soldiers fighting in northeast Brazil against the government.

Popular Bethel Young People Showered

On Friday evening, Nov. 22nd, the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Elliott was packed to the doors with a large number of folk from the community, also several friends from various parts of the county, to pay tribute to Miss Annie Elliott and her fiance Mr. Wilbur Warren, both popular in the Bethel community. The affair was a complete surprise to "Annie." When she arrived home that evening she found many friends already gathered.

Rev. Jas. E. Beckel was chairman and a few were asked to give brief addresses all of which showed a real community singing. Mrs. M. Hay-tun delighted with two humorous readings and Miss Ida McMullen rendered a guitar solo. Miss Marjorie Morrison sang "Love is the Sweetest Thing."

An address of appreciation was read to the young people and they both suitably replied thanking their friends for the many kindnesses. The recent couple then opened the large array of parcels which showed the community's assortment of beautiful and useful presents.

At the close a delicious lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. and all enjoyed a social time together.

Both Annie and Walter will be greatly missed as they have given generously of their talents to the community enterprises.

Bethel, Nov. 22nd., 1935.

Dear Annie and Walter:

Your many friends and neighbors have assembled this evening, to join in a small manner, the high regard in which you are held by your community, the sound love they serve others, so freely, before their work is appreciated and it is by real appreciation and esteem that we have come here tonight.

Both of you are well known and respected by all in the community, including both young and old folk, and to you who have always been willing to help others, we offer our sincere congratulations.

You, Annie, have always shown the best of co-operation in religious work, Church and Sunday school, Epworth League, and in the community, holding office in the Young People's Society, in Sunday School, and being a willing worker in the church and all of its activities. You have always been a worker in our hearts, that time cannot erase, and your willing use of your talents for the advantage of the community. You have many friends and friendships made, not because of your talents, but also because of your personality, which in our best wishes for your future happiness, we feel sure will continue in your choice of a husband. You, Walter, in the short time you have been with us, have been a very live wire in the community, helping in any church undertakings and also in the sports and general activities. Acting as president of the league, a position you filled a number of times, the unity class and choir, and an all-round good all round kind of everybody at Bethel. You have set an example in Sunday School attendance worthy of being copied. Knowing the extent of your good nature, we have purchased these articles for you and we have used it to our own advantage.

To you young people, who are regarded so highly by the community as they are often found in Bethel, because of your virtue, worth, and we love to gather together with you. Use our heartiest felicitations and good wishes for a long happy and prosperous wedded life.

Signed on behalf of your Bethel friends: Leslie Thompson, Laura Mae McMullen, Wesley Farrell and Laura Tucker.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sharp, Mount Pleasant, on Saturday, Nov. 23rd, 1935, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bailey attended the Fall Fair at Toronto and were guests at the home of their son.

Miss Leola Pollock entertained the Teachers' Association on Thursday evening.

Tweed and District

Tweed, Nov. 27—Anniversary services were conducted in the United Church on Sunday morning and evening commemorating the forty-third anniversary of the building of the present church. The Board was fortunate in having as guest speaker Rev. F. Boyd Thornton, D.D., of Toronto, noted world traveller and lecturer, who occupied the pulpit both services.

The choir of twenty-six voices augmented by Messrs. Cil Cotton, Jas. Cormett and S. Copley of Belleville and Mr. W. J. Bowerman under the direction of Miss Dorothy Sager A.T.C.M. with Miss Vera Richardson at the organ presented a splendid programme of music which added greatly to the effectiveness of the services.

Rev. Dr. Thornton delivered the theme "Valley of Dry Bones" from Ezekiel 37th. Ezekiel 3:18. These words were given by the prophet Ezekiel in the days when the Jews were carried captive. The prophet had heard reports of their lawless and sinful conduct, which grieved him greatly. He visited them prepared to rebuke them severely and in no uncertain terms for their actions. Before doing so however he decided to find out himself the facts of the case, to this end he went to their busy home fields and workshops where they were employed. Here he talked with them and found out their point of view and their needs. The denominational conditions under which they lived astounded him and he spoke with a message of consolation and inspiration instead of one of criticism. He had where they were and spoke to them to help them to solve their staggering problems.

"The spirit," observed Dr. Thornton, "that we need today, is the spirit of our fathers. Conditions are unfair because we do not live up to the faith."

"This spirit of viewing things from the standpoint of others is responsible for more many of our problems," stated the speaker. "If we could but have Simon Peter's confession for anything. Principal Rainy of Scotland was one of the most abused of public men of his day, but when every one else was intolerant he remained patient and cheerful because he was tolerant. In the relations between a father and his teen-age children such spirit is important unless the whole business is to result in utter failure. The father must understand his son's point of view, realizing that, stating his worth and point of view. The son on the other hand, must see his father's view point with respect to the spending of money, the hours of working in and going out of the home. The father has been through the mill seeking to live in his world.

Speaking of a discussion of problems in the four or five hundred years ago, Dr. Thornton said that solutions were found and read them. Another secured ministers of making public utterances on economic problems and read them. Another secured ministers of making public utterances on economic problems and read them. Another secured ministers of making public utterances on economic problems and being forced to withdraw; a third thought that ministers were afraid of their congregations and dared not speak on controversial topics for fear of offending some influential member. Another, the other hand the fourth of these laymen believed that the trouble was with the preacher both the laymen who were better lodgemen and club men than preachers.

In conclusion Dr. Thornton concluded that the only acceptable solution of the trouble between capital and labor was the practical application of the principle of his text.

AGRICULTURISTS MEET

Toronto, Nov. 27 (CP)—With a view to establishing a central organization of representatives of all primary producing branches of agriculture in Canada, prominent agriculturists from all parts of the Dominion gathered in Toronto for a three day conference.

Aim of the gathering is to establish the Canadian Chamber of Agriculture along lines similar to Boards already in existence, particularly in Western Canada.

Stirling and District

Stirling, Nov. 27.—On Friday evening the club rooms of the Boy Scout group in the village of Stirling were crowded with scouts and enthusiastic boys interested in the future activities of the troop. The first part of the evening was given to various kinds of games under the direction of Mr. Tom Ward, Scout Master. Later the boys were then called to order and addressed briefly by the Scout Master, Mr. Wella, in the interest of the Boy Scout movement. Assistant Scout Master Percy Hubbs was the first speaker and spoke of the value of the environment created in the Scout Troop and also of the possibilities of having a club pack in Stirling for the younger boys.

Mr. C. A. Wella, principal of the Stirling public school, was also present and made his interest in boys' work very clear in the short address to the boys. Mr. Wella, who became attached to the teaching staff of the Stirling public school this year, is sent at the Scout meeting for the first time since coming to the district, shows great interest in boys' work and will no doubt offer the very best assistance in the way of co-operation and leadership. Mr. William Ross, district commissioner of the Troop Committee was also present and in a short talk reviewed the achievements of the Scouts in the village since the beginning of the work and also outlined the value of such organization for the social interest and the best of the community. During the discussion period which followed the possibility of starting a Cub Pack for the benefit of the boys who have reached Scout age was discussed and yet are keenly interested in becoming a member as soon as they are eligible, was discussed. As a result of the lengthy discussion on the matter it is hoped that with the authority that the necessary steps will be taken to get this work under way in the near future. The idea met with hearty approval by those among the younger boys present. Scout Master Tom Ward also addressed the boys on the matter particularity with the boy's portrayed in the fine way by the troop under his leadership. Because of his fond interest in boy work he has given considerable of his time and effort since the beginning of the troop and the results are plainly visible. The work is not easy but the extra responsibility placed on Mr. Ward for stimulating such an interest in scouting on the part of the boys, commends him highly and perhaps idle for them and dull are transformed into days of enjoyment of constructive development both of mind and body. The meeting was a very successful one and the enthusiasm displayed by the boys indicates that a strong troop will soon be heartily entered into by a large number.

Large congregations attended both services held in St. Andrew's Church on Sunday when Rev. Mr. Lamb was interest. Rev. F. A. Robinson of Toronto who had been appointed to the province for her splendid work at the piano also assisted in the rendition of various selections. A special illustrated sermon given in the evening by Rev. Robinson was the aid of many beautiful and artistic slides which were of great interest. The manner in which the operator effected coloring and shadings made these scenes, which portrayed the journey of Christ from Olivet to Calvary, very beautiful to watch. The congregation joined heartily in the singing of the hymns and hymns which were delightful and very appropriately chosen.

Work is being rushed forward on the section of highway No. 14 to the south of the village where a new piece of road is being constructed to do away with the dangerous curve at that point. Although last year section has only been underway a few days and hundreds of loads of fill were required to fill in a portion of the great pit, the work is already so far advanced that traffic is passing over the newly formed road though it is not complete in construction. The rapidity with which this work has been carried forward is a topic of general discussion in the village. During the day Stirling is quite a busy place with the number of trucks on the highway and the Bell Telephone crew is also at work within the town limits gives the village a busy appearance.

Miss Emma Allan, nurse-in-training at the Belleville General Hospital, is spending a week visiting with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Wallbridge.

Mr. Arthur Duncan attended St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at Belleville on Sunday where he assisted in the musical part of the morning service in solo work.

Mrs. M. Reid has returned to her home in Trenton after spending a few days with friends and relatives in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bulin and Bobby, accompanied by Mrs. A. Pigeon of Madoc were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bulin on Sunday.

Mrs. John Bine and daughters, Olive, Gladys, and Bernice of Belleville were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Francis.

Carmel Young People's Society

The regular meeting of Carmel Young People's Society was held on Friday evening, with Mr. Wesley Dellimore, chairman for the evening. The meeting was opened with a song service of familiar hymns. The scripture lesson for the evening was read by Mrs. Ashley Brooks and Mr. Lloyd Bird led the gathering in prayer. The business portion of the meeting which included the minutes of the previous meeting which were read by the secretary Miss Ruby Fox. A Zinc plate solo given by Mrs. Arthur Pyear, Mr. L. Bird gave a reading and the remaining part of the evening was spent in games and contests.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mayhew, Florence and Mildred, and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Keenan and family on Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Mayhew.

Miss Laura Mason of Springbrook is spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Mason.

The many friends of Mrs. E. Dellimore will be glad to learn that her condition is greatly improved, Mrs. Dellimore was taken ill about a week ago and though she is still in bed she is feeling much better these last few days.

On Friday evening about one hundred friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bird to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rupert (nee Mabel Bird) who were married their recent marriage and to present them with a handsome gift. Mr. A. Hendershaw read the following address:

Belleville, R. R. No. 8, Thursday, Nov. 22, 1935.

Dear Harold and Gertie,

We, your friends and neighbors have met here tonight to show that we could not let the event of your marriage pass without sharing a portion of your happiness with you. We wish to congratulate Harold on choosing such a helpmate and true friend. Some of us have not known you long, Gertie, but we know Herold, but we welcome her as a friend and we hope many of us will we extend to her our best wishes for a happy married life.

Sometimes people take life as a matter of fact and feel no responsibility but when husband and wife (and it is both) that have to put forth their best efforts in the spirit of sacrifice, co-operation, unselfishness, cheerfulness, kindness, love and trust, then home is bound to be a heavenly place where there is unselfish love, peace and contentment.

May God help you now to realize your responsibilities in life as you have begun, and give you the power to overcome difficulties and remember chiefly the hopes and wishes that we have for you.

Signed on behalf of the members of this community: Grant Cole, Arthur Bradshaw, Gordon McPherson, Carman Clapp.

Mr. and Mrs. Rupert replied in a few well chosen words and all joined in singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows" after which Mr. A. Hendershaw gave a short talk. Refreshments were served and a social time was spent by all.

LIVESTOCK AND BARN BURNED

William Farrell of Huyck's Point Suffers Heavy Loss

Picton, Nov. 27 (Special)— A barn, owned by William Farrell of Huyck's Point, in Prince Edward County along with livestock, hay, grain, and implements was destroyed by fire Tuesday night. The origin of the blaze being as yet undetermined. Seven head of cattle a team of horses, two pigs, twelve chickens that were being fattened for market, and all outbuildings, including pig pen and hen house were destroyed. The fire was discovered by the hired man, who was awakened by the howling of a small pup in the kitchen, which in turn was awakened by the barking of the dog shut up in the barn. The family were soon on the scene but the fire had gained such headway it was impossible to enter the buildings to remove the livestock. So intense was the blaze, that it is yet impossible to venture close to the smouldering ruins. Only heroic effort on the part of friends and neighbors saved the farm house, which is in close proximity to the barn. The loss will be heavy and only a small insurance is carried.

RECEPTION NOTICE

Mrs. Colin A. Graves will receive for the first time since her marriage on Saturday afternoon, November 30, at her home, Wooler Rd., Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Bell, Isabel Street, are leaving today to spend the winter in Balboa, Calif.

Miss Betty Ann Hall is visiting in Toronto today and tomorrow visiting friends.

The ladies of the Moose held an enjoyable card party in the Moose Auditorium yesterday afternoon. The winning prizes were won by Mrs. Clapp, first; Miss F. Connors, second, and Mrs. Carroll, third. Mrs. Frawley won the prize for lone hands while Mrs. Gibson won the aggregate prize in the month. After cards, a dainty lunch was served by the hostesses.

Mrs. J. M. Chisholm, Realm, Mrs. J. Junius, Toronto, Mrs. A. E. Huffman, Moscow and Mrs. E. J. Van Luven, Hilton, left yesterday to spend the winter in Florida.

The Ranger Cadets' Bazaar, an annual Christmas event which is widely patronized, was held yesterday afternoon in the Auditorium of the Y.M.C.A. with marked success. The bazaar tables contained all manner of articles, the result of the industry of the Ranger Cadets, home cooking, and a new department of the bazaar, house plants, which the girls had grown. All items found ready sale. The tea table was artistically arranged with green tapers about a bouquet of yellow mums. Mrs. C. H. Scott and Mrs. Leo B. Higgs poured and an enjoyable pastime of the afternoon was the tea cup reading by Miss Beatrice Jones, Bloomfield, and Ranger Cadets under the leadership of their captain, Miss Mary Roberts, assisted in serving tea and were in charge of the booths.

PRESENTATION

Last evening a large number of friends and neighbors gathered to spend a social evening with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Benson, 97 Wes. Huchison. Lackey was chairman for the evening and the following musical programme was rendered:

Duet—Reg. Reid, harmonica; Miss Reid, guitar.

Violin Solo—Lorne Hagerman.

Duet—Jean Tweddle and Reg. Reid.

Recitation—Edna Reid.

Quartette—Edna Reid, Reg. Reid, Sam Tweddle, Lorne Hagerman.

The following address was read by Phyllis Tweddle and the presentation of a set of silver flatware was made.

Ivanhoe, Ont.,
Nov. 28, 1935.

To Mr. and Mrs. Earl Benson,
Dear Earl and Irene,—

It is with pleasure that we, as neighbours and friends, gather here tonight to welcome another bride to our community. It is our intention to you on this the beginning of your married life, that the years that you together may be long, and that the joys may far outweigh the sorrows.

To Irene, we extend a welcoming hand. While a number of us are not personally acquainted with you as yet, we trust that in time we shall be better acquainted and that our friendship will increase.

Earl, we are glad that you are making your home with us. As you start on another phase of life with its opportunities, it is well to remember that—

"Life is a mirror for ting or stare,
Tis just what you say or do;
Give to the world the best you have,
And the best will come back to you."

As a token of our good wishes, we ask you to accept this gift, and hope it may serve to remind you of your friends.

Signed:
Sidmer Reid
Reginald Reid
Frank Reid
Thomas Clement
Sam Tweddle.

Y. P. Legion Holds Banquet

Thirty-one young people enjoyed a banquet on the Monday evening in connection with the regular meeting of the Young People's Legion. The arrangements were in charge of Miss Nellie Collins and Miss Mary Roberts, assisted by the members of the Legion. The pretty table decorations were done by Miss Collins and Miss Ruby Wardle. The delicious supper was served by Mrs. Thomas and Y. P. Mason and Mrs. W. Hart. Short after-supper speeches were made by Major Jordan, Mrs. Jordan, Mr. Lorne Andrews, president of the B.Y.P.U., a guest from Belleville, Mrs. Willis Fox, Young and Mr. Eric Naylor.

The guest speaker of the evening was Rev. A. C. Sinclair who gave a very interesting and helpful address. "The Code of Life." During the evening Mr. John Mitchell favoured with two harmonica selections and one guitar selection. Miss Doris Horton gave a pianoforte solo. A vote of thanks was moved by the president, Mr. Eric Naylor and seconded by Major Jordan to Mr. Sinclair for his splendid address. After a social half-hour Miss Irene Young closed the evening with prayer.

JUST HOW LONG DO YOUR HUSBAND'S SHIRTS LAST ?
When do they reach the duster stage?
Here is a good way to prevent a $2.00 shirt from becoming a 6-cent duster long before its time. Always be sure you use a pure soap for your weekly wash.
Harsh, common soaps break down threads, causing holes, rips and unpleasant frayed edges. That's because you get thin, non-lasting suds and have to rub so hard to drive the dirt away.
But, Sunlight is all pure soap and nothing else. Its purity makes it dissolve quickly so there is no need for hard rubbing. The rich, safe, gentle suds go to work at once, and last to the end of the wash. And what a lovely sweet smelling wash Sunlight gives—white things stay white—coloured things look like new.
Because Sunlight is all pure soap it is more economical. It protects your garments—makes them wear longer.
Look for Sunlight—the only laundry soap with a guarantee of purity stamped on every bar. It is kind to your hands, too. Get a supply of Sunlight before next wash day.

RECOUNTS HUMOR OF MARK TWAIN

Kiwanis Club Members Appreciate Address of J. O. Herity

Although an address delivered by J. O. Herity on "Mark Twain" was repeated in this city three times within twenty four hours and many had heard it at each Rotarian luncheon, members of the Kiwanis Club were especially pleased with the address at their luncheon on Tuesday in the Queen's Hotel. There was a large attendance with Pres. Chief Barragar in the chair and Albert Boynton collecting the fines with Harold Seldon as song leader. Leo B. Higgs presided at the piano.

A great deal of merriment was provided by Fred Smythe, who was the booster of the day. After explaining the business he was in and hoping that the members would change their Christmas decorations in the home, that had long worn out their usefulness, the booster gave a number of prizes and a real hearty laugh was enjoyed by the members. Some of the boys received tobacco least expected and no doubt will be kept for some time to remind them of a funny experience. Fred Smythe also had the new members in the club and a real booster for Kiwanis and he was thanked by the President for his effort.

There was little business transacted at the meeting, most of the time being given over to the address of the day. Chief Barragar introduced Mr. Herity to the gathering and Kiwanian appreciation was expressed by Gordon Bray. As the address has been repeated it need not be given as Rotary on Monday, it will not be reported. Mr. Herity, who has the opportunity to hear the address, should do so. All the well known humor of Mark Twain and Twain was given, his early life and struggle for greatness, his marriage and also his remarks at some of the famous dinners he was called upon to attended. Mr. Herity is a most forceful speaker, calm and dignified and his rhetoric and choice of words was one of the finest addresses given to the club in many a day and Mr. Herity will be welcomed back as guest speaker at anytime.

TURKEY SUPPER MUCH ENJOYED

Under the auspices of Christ Church and St. George's Guild, and under the convenorship of Mrs. E. R. Hendley, a turkey dinner was served in the Parish Hall of Christ Church last evening at which 70 sat down to the tables provided. A public was admitted into the body of the church where they availed their turn to the heavily laden tables. During the period of waiting an organ recital was given by Mr. Cooke. Maybee, organist of Christ Church, while two short choir practices were in rendering a duet, "The Holy City" and "Lead Kindly Light" and solo attings were needed to accommodate the large number of patrons. A three sitting plan was followed, starting at 5.00 p.m., while those coming in late were directed to the church until long after 8.00 p.m. The usual cold turkey was supplemented by turkey sauce, cranberries, salads, hot potatoes and vegetables. Coffee and cocoa were served in due course. Too much credit to Mrs. Hendley and her small assistants can not be given for the speedy manner in which the large crowd was served. The table decoration was welcomed by Rev. G. G. Wright.

PLAINFIELD W. I.

The Plainfield Women's Institute held its last meeting of the year at the Hamilton in November, thirty one members answering roll call. It opened by the President Mrs. J. Cobbett and Mrs. Elsie Hamilton at the piano, Mrs. Ida Hamilton also assisting. Roll call was answered by a "good Thanksgiving" 30 ladies being present.

The ladies discussed for some time the making of two quilts to be sent north as a necessary and also one cloth. The two delegates Mrs. Ida Hamilton and Mrs. Elsie Hamilton gave reports of the convention which were much appreciated. Miss Elsie Hamilton and Mrs. Ida Hamilton sang "I'll String Along with You". Mrs. Charles Beaty accompanied them at the piano.

Mrs. Kenneth Hall gave an instrumental.

One visitor Mrs. Elijah Horton. Collection was taken and the meeting was closed with God Save the King after which lunch was served and a vote of thanks was tendered the hostess.

FIVE PLACES IN CITY ARE ENTERED

No Money Secured But Quantity of Smokes Taken

Five places in the eastern part of Belleville, were burglarized last night and apparently only five were announced today. The object of the robbers could not have been valuables as only cigarettes and one flashlight was reported missing. Jewellery and silver valuables being left in the wake of the robberies. The C.P.R. freight shed, the Paterson Construction offices on Turnbull street, Houston Company office, George Foster's residence, 134 Albert St., and a George St., private residence are the places entered.

Climbing on top of a box car on a siding the burglars gained entrance to the C.P.R. freight sheds through an upper window, dropping to the floor below. On the second floor, four packages of Sweet Caporal cigarettes and some matches and other minor items of eatables were among goods reported missing at this point, an attempt being made to break open the cash box, which was empty.

At the Houston Company offices the robbers deliberately broke a window in the door of the front panel of the door and reached inside on to the door from the outside. Here nothing was taken and apparently they were disturbed.

At Mr. George Foster's home on Albert street, however, a flashlight was taken, a window pane having been made through a rear window.

It proved an easy matter to enter the premises of the Patterson Construction Company on Turnbull street, where a number of cigarettes were taken. It was definitely established by the Patterson Construction Company on Turnbull St., where fifty packages of cigarettes were taken, that the robbers established at the Patterson Construction offices, where the job robbers had been in the C.P.R. freight shed prior to breaking into the canteen office as the bolt of one of the cigars stolen at the C.P.R. freight shed was found by police in Mr. Patterson's office today. Here again an attempt to steal money was unsuccessfully made.

Sergeant Farman investigated the robberies and is of the opinion that the robbers had worn rubber soled shoes as no fingerprints were found especially at the two private residences burglarized. As the robbers apparently believed they have been their object, although only tobacco made up the loot.

MICHAEL SAVAGE IS PREMIER-ELECT

Among the defeated were Sir Alexander Young, Minister of Health, and W. Downie Stewart, former Minister of Finance and a member of the Canadian delegation to the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa in 1932 which has been dubbed "Ottawa Week".

The late entry of the Democratic Party into the battle had confused all election forecasts but it was rejected by the returns all but a tiny minority choosing to support either the Labor Party or the National Government.

In the last House of Representatives the National Government, which has held office since the financial crisis of September, 1931, had 46 supporters to the Labor Party's 24 while 13 seats were divided among the Independents, Democrats and the Country Party.

The Labor members from urban constituencies were sent back to the House of Representatives by enormous majorities.

Prime Minister Forbes leading a coalition Government in September, 1931, to deal with a financial crisis, stood throughout the general election campaign on a platform of "recovery through financial stability", with continued encouragement of empire trade and the building up of new services with Australia and New Zealand.

The Labor party, though approving the Government's application of economic sanctions against Italy, demanded a system of guaranteed prices for the primary producer, state control of currency and credit and the nationalisation of key industries. Labor claimed entire already nationalised in New Zealand have paid their own way as it reduced cost to the consumer.

The Dominion's next Prime Minister is expected to be Michael Joseph Savage, Australian-born leader of the Labor Party who since 1923 has been a member of the Auckland City Council and was elected Mayor in 1933. He is 63 years of age and in his early life took a prominent part in founding the Australian Labor Party but emigrated to New Zealand in 1907.

BOY CANDIDATES ARE NOMINATED

Bruce M. Wilson And Bernard S. Sherry Contestants

Mr. D. W. Moore, 270 George St., returning officer for the Belleville district announced today that the following candidates had been duly nominated as candidates for the Use for Boys' Parliament, election for which are to take place on December 7th:

Bruce M. Wilson, Bridge St, United Church.

Bernard S. Sherry, Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

The candidates will address the Sunday schools next Sunday afternoon.

A few years ago it was decided to have ten Trail Ranger representatives attend Boys' Parliament each year. These boys are selected by Mentors, Teachers and Ministers. The boy must be a member of Church of good standing and show a keen interest in is group. The name of Isaac Hoagg of Bancroft was suggested for Belleville.

Miss Trail Ranger Representatives do not have the same standing as the boy members of parliament but they are allowed to vote in the election of the Premier.

China Clipper Ends Isolation of Island

Guam Island, Nov. 27.—(AP)—(Via Pan-American Airways)—Residents of Guam hailed arrival of the mail laden China clipper today as another milestone in their tropical Pacific isle. The craft left Alameda, Calif., five days ago.

The graceful sky liner, nearing the end of its first flight over a transpacific air Mail route, arrived here from Wake Island at 3.07 p.m. (1.07 a.m., E.S.T.) the 1,356-mile distance was covered in ten hours, three minutes.

Two hundred pounds of air mail was unloaded and speeded to the post office for delivery while Capt. Edwin Musick, skipper of the flying boat, and his eight-man crew were welcomed officials.

ASKED TO NOTE LICENCE

PORT ERIE, Ont., Nov 27—(CP)—Ontario police are being asked to be farmers in this area to note numbers of all automobiles parked beside side roads at night as a step toward checking fowl thefts. Police said a recent theft of 30 geese in Bouleard farmer had seen a suspicious vehicle on the highway but failed to note the licence number.

Livestock

Toronto, Nov. 27 (CP)—Early trade was very dull on the Toronto livestock market this morning, with no sales on milking cattle. Calves were steady, hogs unsettled, sheep and lambs steady. There were about 2700 cattle left over from yesterday.

Receipts as supplied by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle 450, calves, 96, hogs 630, sheep and lambs 620.

Medium quality stockers sold from $2.50 to $4.50.

Calves were steady from $6 to $9.50 for choice vealers with common downward to $6. A few heavy calves sold from $4.50 to $5.50.

No hog prices were established during the morning but indications are the Market will settle about steady.

Lambs were steady at $8 for good ewes and wethers with top choice at $8.25. Heavy and bucks sold from $6 to $7.

Sheep were steady bringing $1 to $4 cwt. according to quality.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Nov. 27.—(CP)— Base metal stocks staged a stirring rally last on Toronto Mining Board today, several of the most active issues selling at near the high prices for the year. Golds were firm but slow on the whole and the silvers were a bit heavy and quiet.

Base metals broke to break through their highs for the year were Falconbridge, selling up to 6.05, Sudbury Basin at 2.30, up a point, Hudson Bay, up a point to 30-5-8 and Sherritt Gordon at 4.05, up 10 cents. Other gains in the group were Consol Copper to 1.05, Noranda 57, Orella 7 and Mining Corporation 10 cents and Wells Armlet 4 cents. In the golds, Dome Mines held firmer, Central Patricia and Buffalo-Ankerite were firm.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—Stock market prices were inclined to point upward today although pressure from inertia limited the upward tape to a slow crawl. The rails were in fair demand, along with issues of the steels, coppers and merchandising issues.

Among Dominion stocks, Dome, International Nickel and McIntyre improved fractionally. Canadian Pacific held about even. On the curb, Lake Shore eased but Moson Walker and Distillers Corporation-Seagrams were slightly higher. Government bonds were steady. Canadian funds were unchanged at 99 cents.

Share gainers of fractions to around a point included Consolidated Oil, Allied Steel, Bethlehem, Case, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Loew's, Radio and Greenacott and American Can.

Air Reduction shot up around 5 following announcement of plans for a 3 for 1 split of the stock. Proceeds on Greene Cananea directors voted a special dividend of $1 and increased the annual performance from $2 to $3. Anaconda owns virtually all of Greene Cananea.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 27.—(CP)—Prices were stronger in Toronto Industrial market today, but trading was in comparatively small volume except in International Nickel which came out in large blocks and sold as high as 40 3-8, up 1 3-8 for at least a point. Base metals bounded in four years. Consolidated Smelting rose to 41 3-4, up 1 1-4 and under 2a high for some years.

Gains of 1-8 to a point appeared for the most part in the Base Group while the oils were slightly strengthened by reports of a new contract for Bradlian Fund A and Bell Telephone, latter at 141 was up to a new high.

Active demand for Canada Dredge carried the issue up 1 1-4, nearly two points up for the day, also to a new high mark.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)— The stock market was held on an upward course today by selective buying in issues favored by speculators.

During the late trading, gainers of small fractions to a point were far in the majority and included such issues as Bethlehem Steel, Inland Steel, Case and Hudson. New York Central, Chrysler, National Dairy, Montgomery Ward and Westinghouse. Wider movements were held to a few, including Air Reduction, Owens-Illinois Glass, and Chesapeake Corp., all up 3 to 5 in response to favorable news developments.

Small losses were chalked up by scattered issues, including General Motors, United Gas Improvement and International Harvester.

The late tone was fairly firm. Sales approximated 1,900,000 shares.

Produce Prices on Montreal Market

Montreal, Nov. 27.—Local branches of United Farmers Stores have been buyers of cheese on the local market since the new reciprocity treaty was signed between Canada and the United States. On January 1 the U.S. duty on cheese will become five cents per pound, compared with seven cents at present. Presumably, the cheese has been bought for shipment after the first of the new year. This buying has given an advance on the cheese market and prices yesterday were firm at 11c for Ontario white and 11¼c for Ontario coloured, current arrivals. Export sales were dearer. Receipts, 211 boxes.

The butter market was quiet and generally 28c per pound for No. 1 pasteurized or 1c.l. lots. Receipts, 14 boxes. Changes to the retail trade were quoted by jobbers at 27c for solids and 28c for prints.

The egg market was about steady, with graded shipments arriving in carlots or 1.c.l. lots quoted 29c to 30c for A-large, 32c-34c for A-medium, 30c-32c for A-pullet and 26c for B. Receipts, 1,561 cases.

Poultry market unchanged.

U.K. BUTTER

Ottawa, Nov. 27 (CP)—Butter was weaker on United Kingdom markets and New Zealand sold from 100 to 101 shillings per cwt. (22.20 to 22.42 cents per pound), according to cable advice received today by the Department of Agriculture. Australian sold from 99 to 100 shillings per cwt. (22.05 to 22.26 cents per pound).

Canadian cheese sold at 58 shillings per cwt. (12.52 cents per pound).

HOGS

Toronto, Nov. 27 (CP)—All reporting market points were steady at unchanged levels today. Prices: Kitchener $7.00, Hamilton $7.00, Peterboro $7.00. Hull $7.25, Chatham $6.85, Barrie $7.00, Brantford $7.15.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied by Biggar and Crawford by Financial Service.

VENTURES LIMITED

Less than a month ago the stock was selling under the $1.00 market. For a while year a substantial advances in Ventures had been predicted in several quarters, and the numerous reports of the past five months the stock advanced to the $1.50 level which ranks it the most considerable selling. However, with the recent important rise in Pickle Crow, Wayside and Sudbury Basin, two of the Company's most valuable assets, Ventures shares have forged ahead, advancing about 50% in the past month.

Ventures has, in addition to large holdings in shares of British and Dominion Corporation, a substantial interest in 13 claims in Pickle Crow and a public interest exists. The list is as follows:— 1,414,000 Dominion; 1,642,857 Consolidated; 845,000 Sudbury Basin; 714,248 Matachewan; 1,620,313 Opemiska; 1,265,752 Kirkland Lake; 3,190,221 Pacific; 606,681 Canadian; 600,000 Wayside; 1,000,000 Sudbury; 189,230 Kenora; 103,434 McWatters; 105,500 Prosp. Airways. The Company has also control of 300,000 shares of Pamour Porcupine with a market valuation of over $1,200,000 or $4 cents a share.

Notwithstanding the 40 cent rise in the price of the shares in the recent past, the ratio of price of stock to asset value of stock had not increased any in view of the increased value of the Company's holdings as a result of the rise in Falconbridge and Sherritt Gordon. These shares at below 50 per cent. in other words, the stock is selling at less than half the real asset value.

BAGAMAC BOUND

It is learned from a semi-official source that the Company intends to resume diamond drilling from the top of Calumet Lake, 4-5 miles Northeast, just as soon as seasonal conditions permit. It is also remembered that two years ago the stock enjoyed a spectacular rise when the results of certain holes were taken as indicating that the property also held potentialities comparable to Noranda. However, the final results were termed inconclusive and the stock broke sharply. The rise and fall in the stock was accompanied with feverish trading.

SMYTHEMEN TOO POWERFUL FOR BRUIN SQUAD

Three Game Losing Streak Of Toronto Leafs Broken by 2-1 Victory Over the Bruins

Jackson Brothers Did The Scoring For The Winners

HAWKS ARE BEATEN

Rangers Defeat Amerks 1-0 in Fast Contest

By HERBIE DULMAGE

With Chicago's Black Hawks down to earth at last, as the hockey world can view the scenery with more equanimity, the hockeyists around the National League today is to study the predicament of Boston's Bruins, reported in the pink until recently to be bigger and better than ever.

The Hawks were of that impression until last night when Montreal's Canadiens thoroughly outplayed the western sensations at Montreal and trounced 'em 4-1 defeat. It was the first loss of the season for Clem Loughlin's three, who had won three and tied four when they reached the home of the Redmen.

Now the spotlight will be turned on the Bruins, who appear to have no physical ailments whatever and yet have dropped three games out of four and have scored only twice. They got one of their two goals last night against Toronto Maple Leafs when it was tucked away by Leafs, themselves concerned over a three-game losing streak, pulled out a 2-1 victory.

Jackson Brothers Score.

Riddle Shore, Babe Siebert, Ebbie Goupper, Cooney Weiland, Red Beattie, not to mention Hooley Smith and Charlie Sands—they were all there last night when the Bruins had a great defence was present and the great defence divisions were intact. But it didn't do any good.

Early in the second period Red Horner, Toronto defenceman and Harvey Jackson got together for a drive that the Bruins couldn't stop. Red Dasher snapped up Horner's pass a few feet from the goal and blasted a shot behind Tiny Thompson, goalie sister of the Jackson boys, hockey's best left winger, to give a little added fuel to the league's leading marksmen with that shot.

The former Jackson, fair-haired Art, finished off the Bruins in the third period by grabbing a pass from Thompson and unloosing a drive that lodged the puck in the net more than he had a raid on the netminding which Pep Kelly discovered the puck, found it on the other side and fired it high into the net.

Frank Fahrings's defensive work when then went seriously after the second goal in the second period. It was when Red Beattie slammed in a fast ward pass from Siebert. But they couldn't get another goal. The question is arising of when the Bruins will decide to score their third goal.

Maroons Win Easily.

Having demonstrated to the satisfaction of all Chicago that they have championship prospects, Lester Patrick Hawks found Montreal observers quite unimpressed when the Hawks took an old-fashioned beating from Canadiens, Howie Morenz' mates, Earl Robinson and Joe Lamb in charge of operations.

Smith scored both goals, one on a daunting solo rush, and drew a misconduct penalty for banging Red Horner. Mike Rodden when the official bounced a minor penalty on the Hooley. Max Bentley held Northcott got into a fight and also were bounced. Misconduct penalties.

It was goalie Mike Karakas' luckiest night of the season, which, incidentally, the youngster's first National League debut. The Maroons gave him 39 shots to shoot at and Bill Beveridge was taking care of only 30.

Rangers Defeat Amerks.

Before 12,000 fans who cheered on the Americans at New York, the Rangers combined to keep up their supremacy by winning a 1-0 verdict from the spangled team. They accomplished this despite the fact they were outshoned most of the time by Red Dutton's battling team.

Early in the third period, just when it seemed the Americans would certainly break down their stubborn defence any minute, young Charlie Sands stepped in and held down a scoring pass for Butch Keeling. Mason had been fetching goals Worters out of position and all Butch had to do was put the puck into the net—which he did.

The result left Rangers in second place in the International section, one point behind the Hawks and three up on Detroit Red Wings, who were idle last night.

MONTREAL GIRL WINS

Fo.land, Me., Nov. 27.—(CP)—The victory Jeanette Mauri, Montreal girl with Olympic aspirations, over Gloria La Blanche of Boston Saturday in wrestling show staged here last night under the auspices of the American Legion.

The Montreal Miss was too strong and too fast for her sister athletes. After nine minutes, 33 seconds of action, Miss Henri smashed Miss La Blanche to the floor with a mush vigor the Boston girl was unable to continue.

Tanney Thinks Dempsey Could Beat Joe Louis

Los Angeles, Nov. 27.—(AP) — Gene Tunney who tossed away his heavyweight glove and started writing his names James Joseph, entered the arena of fistic speculation today with the opinion the Jack Dempsey of old would have made short work of Joe Louis.

"I believe Joe Louis may yet prove to be a great fighter," said the ex-marine who beat Dempsey twice, "but before I consider him as much I shall have to see him in a really tough assignment with courage to trade blows with him.

"The Dempsey of old would have made short work of the so-called brown Bomber, I believe. And I don't think Harry Wills would have had much trouble with the boy.

"I am not disparaging that he is good. But I do not consider him great—not when compared with the standards of great boxers I knew in my competitive lifetime."

Former world's heavyweight title holder passed over the subject of champion Max Baer's possibilities, adds shiftily, without comment but praised him as a "fine fellow".

YANK BOYD OF WINDSOR HURT

Collides With Another Player And Sustains Concussion

Close followers of International Hockey League doings today were hoping that when Windsor Bulldogs stop the rush of the speedy Detroit Olympics and how long the season can continue on the ice before the snow comes.

Windsor Bull Dogs got their chance last night but couldn't make the most of it. Their team opponents the Olympics marked up their fifth win to keep well out in front in the Western division race. Windsor and besides lost one of their star performers, Yank Boydell, perhaps for some time. Boyd collided with Bresto, Detroit defenceman, hitting the ice and suffered a concussion and possible skull fracture.

Windsor and Olympics meet Rochester Cardin. cellar occupants of the Western and Eastern Divisions of the circuit respectively clashed at Rochester, the Cardinals had the edge in the hockey department but suffered a 3-1 loss. They held the Flyers on even terms for the end of the second period but lost the nod when Lloyd Gross tallied for the Flyers.

Pittsburgh Shamrocks failed to click with the Barons last night following them since they won their first two starts of the season when they trounced the Barons by a 4-0 straight defeat. The Syracuse Stars mulcted Buffalo Bisons in overtime. Eddie Burke, Bob Davidson, Maurice Adam and Jack Markle were full value for their 3-1 victory.

BOSTON BRAVES OWNED BY LOOP

Taken Over by League When Owners Fail to Come Through

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—Boston baseball franchises were taken over by League orphan today, its franchise clinging before dawn long enough to open his coffers to the risky business of baseball.

Rose, with financial perplexities the lowly Braves, who finished far in the cellar last season, were taken over by the league yesterday after the baseball moguls had unanimously by the other presidents of the circuit.

It was the first time since 1903, when the league took over the franchises of the Baltimore Orioles, such drastic action had been taken.

Ford C. Frick, league president, said in a statement:

"This action was taken because of the failure of the Boston National League Baseball Company to fulfill its financial obligations over an extended period of time."

Did you know that—

Babe Didrickson, on her recent golf tour with Gene Sarazen, earned about $18,000.

Hooker, counter, three-changethree double - three-change-three-hoop-change-hoop and bracket-change-bracket are the compulsory figures skaters will have to do at the Olympic games.

Jack Dempsey started his kid career in baseball as a catcher.

Sr. O.H.A. Race Most Open in Years; Dukes Unbeaten

THE HAMMERL OCK GETS 'EM

The above picture clearly demonstrates how difficult rugged and spectacular hockey is applied. The particular hold is one practised by Bill Bacon, of Barrie, on Walter Parnell, who meets Al "Dunny" Dunlop in the main bout on Thursday night's all-star wrestling show at Belleville. Parnell has repeatedly proven to be the saviour of wrestling shows in Belleville and has given Belleville fans a treat on what is to be the climax bout of the current grappling season. Both Parnell and Dunlop are known to be strokes of rough, rugged and spectacular grapplers and can be depended upon to give a battle fury. Two old favorites of the local ring wars also signed for the semi-final when the behooded Red Devil meets Bill Handley of Toledo. Handley has not appeared in Belleville in over a year, but proved a sensation when here last. Jog Thomas of Michigan has signed to meet in setting an opponent in the preliminary on Thursday.

RUGBY KINGS OF WEST HIT TRAIL

Will be at Peak of Their Form When Meeting East

Winnipeg, Nov. 27 (CP)—Having demonstrated their capacity for massive heaviest drum-fire on Western gridirons, Winnipeg, Western Canada rugby champions, set the trail for Eastern Canada tonight. Their train schedule included a stop-over in Ontario, where they will prepare for a tussle with the Eastern finalist and champion of the Grey Cup.

Bob Fritz and Bert Oja, blue and gold coaches, entertained high hopes of putting a crimp in Eastern title hopes. The confidence was no whit lessened in the grasp of 24 players picked from the squad that finished the league schedule undefeated and untied. Victory for the Manitobans, the Winnipeg Rugby Football Club with a win over Sarnia Imperials, 1934 titlists, would end a 21-year paradox of Eastern triumphs.

Profiting from past experience, Winnipeggers will intersperse heavy-lining with spirited workouts. At Detroit, where they will be guests of the University of Detroit, they will work out daily, breaking their routine only for an exhibition game at Windsor with Assumption College on Saturday, December 3.

This departure from the usual custom of travelling direct to the scene of contest promised to supply tune-up tonic necessary to send the Western champions into the Dominion final in tip top condition. In seventeen days of intensive drill, awaiting the outcome of Eastern playdowns and a tedious train journey on the way, the Winnipeg line has contributed to team morale.

N. H. L. STARS

(By the Canadian Press)

Hooley Smith, Montreal Maroons who led a vicious drive for the Dominion against Chicago, resulting in the first defeat of the season for the Black Hawks, Hooley scored twice.

Butch Keeling, New York Rangers, who fired the only goal of a hard-fought game at New York, giving Rangers a 1-0 victory over New York Americans.

Red Horner, Toronto Maple Leafs, whose offensive and defence work was a feature of Toronto's 2-1 win over the Bruins at Boston.

"Y" BASKETBALL

Decisive scores were registered in the double-header of basketball staged in the Y.M.C.A. "house league" last evening when the "Y" Whites trimmed the Albert College "B" squad by the score of 44 to 25 while in the nightcap affair the "Y" Golds turned it on and beat the "Y" Blacks to the tune of 36 to 22.

Continuing their triumphant march towards the league pennant, ship the "Y" Golds notched 24 points in the last half to beat the Blacks 36 to 22. Cole and Ab Pearce were the big scorers of the night, the latter bagging 14 points, while Cole notched 30 points for the winners. Martin and Wickerson were the best for the losing quintette.

As the "Y" Whites mounted their score to 44 to 25 over the Albert "B" team the victors scored 26 points in the second half. Both squads battled at even terms throughout the initial frame as the count stood 16 to 15 at the half-way mark. Martin with 18 points, White with 12 and the veteran Parley Faulkner with ten points led the winners in victory. Hookey and Andrews notched the majority of the points scored by the Albert College. League continues with a single game next Monday when Albert College clashes with the "Y" Blacks.—(28)—Cox, Munnings, Faulkner, Muir and Sorpenen.—0. Referee—H. B. Worden.

LANGFORD GETS A JOB

New York, Nov. 27.—Sam Langford, the Nova Scotian who began who was a terror of the prize ring before punches dimmed his sight, visited Mayor Fiorello Laguardia today and got the promise of a job.

The old heavyweight recently was seriously injured when he was struck by a car in Harlem. Langford, recovering in hospital, Langford received a note from the mayor asking him to call at the city hall when he was discharged. He did and the mayor promised to put him to work.

"I don't know what the job will pay," Sam said, "but if it's worth $15, that'll be something. It looks like I'll have to eat plain food instead of turkey on Thanksgiving Day, though, for I haven't got a dime."

TORONTO DUKES UNBEATEN IN LAST 4 STARTS

Defeat "Ace" Bailey's Varsity Squad by 7-5

TIGERS ALSO WIN

Hamilton Comes From Behind to Down Sailors

By The Canadian Press

Fernand Dupre of Toronto Dukes which were good even when Ontario Hockey Association activity consisted of pre-season gossip, waxed even more loftily today as the high-scoring machine looked back on an unbeaten record in four starts. The best any club has been able to do in the senior race to date was hold the mighty Dukes on even terms.

Last night they kept well atop the heap in the eastern section of the league by whipping their intra-city rivals, "Ace" Bailey's ambitious but lowly University club, 7-5 in an exciting battle with the Varsity lads coming up for the second time in succession.

Hamilton Tigers, another preseason favorite, kept within gunning distance of the Dukes, when they trimmed Port Colborne Sailors 3-1 to take undisputed possession of second place in the eastern division, two points back of the Varsity Club.

The winners had to come from behind to do the trick, as Port scored the winning goal with but three minutes of playing remaining.

Jimmy MacPherson's goal after five minutes of play opened the scoring for Varsity, Duke Wycherley tied the count shortly after, leaving the teams all square as they skated off the ice at the end of the first period.

Three times again put the Blue men ahead with a goal early in the second period. Gord Risebrough, fleet right raller of the Dukes, ran wild scoring three quick goals. Ripley added the scoring for the period when he beat "Rawse" Marsh all by his lonesome.

The Dukes had things pretty much their own way in the third session. Ab Crank, O'Brien and Ken Gravel were scoring. The Varsity squad staged a late-period drive with McLoughan and Charles trying to pull the game out of the fire but they fell two goals short.

The Tigers were able to beat Cuthbert or Charlie Teno in the first period with all four counters coming in a three-minute mark in the final period Port Colborne looked well on their way to a victory when Upper banged one in—but Tiger plays Williamson tied it up. Art Chapman's goal from Williamson Art's pass to give the Bengals the lead and Williamson made sure of victory by scoring the goal of the night one minute before the contest ended.

Will Follow in Dad's Footsteps At Notre Dame

Miami, Fla., Nov. 27 (CP)— "A diet quarterback," Knute Rockne, Notre Dame football star this afternoon at his team smashed its way to victory.

So may the headlines read three of four years hence, is the belief of Knute Rockne, Jr., 16-year-old youthful Miami Military Academy lad on which father's feet fell long ago.

True son of his late, famed father, Knute, Junior is a "big" boy—a 6-foot 2-inch youngster, who bore the brunt of the ball carrying in his team's 26-6 victory over Hollywood high here last Saturday.

He's fast, and hard to tackle in an open field," Williams said, "He's an accurate passer. He's tough, always coming back for more. What's more important, he's a fighter."

Weighing now around 190 pounds. He's filling out, however, and will be bigger, she, he and Williams think, when he goes away to college after next year.

What school will he attend? Young Knute has his answer all right.

"Notre Dame of course."

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

Rugby football uniforms in Belleville are being packed away in the moth balls for another season, and a successful one at that. The 1935 football season in Belleville has doubtlessly the most prolific ever staged in this community. The game saw the innovation of many new faces and potential stars of former local record on the horizon. Judging from the interest shown by the public in general the rugby football has taken its rightful place among the major sports of the community. In 1934 a Belleville team was entered into O.R.F.U. competition for the first time and continued again in 1935 with better success. Incidentally the local football team fully equipped itself with complete sets of uniforms, shoes and all paraphernalia during these two seasons. They transport anywhere from 24 to 30 each game they play on the road and finished their second season only one point behind the west side of the ledger. Perhaps the local baseball moguls would do well to take a hint on the matter of successful financing from the football mentors. At any rate the autumn classic has firmly established itself in Belleville.

Owing to differences of opinion over proper conduct of part of the football season, an exhibition game between the Bell O. R. F. U. executive and the all-star squad picked from the senior intermediate ranks will be staged on Wednesday, The O. R. F. U. team's executive committee has been practising some of the players turned in their performance in reference to the game. Coach Sibbald of the R. C. I. was of the opinion that the difference in weight between the intermediate players and the O. R. F. U. squad was not much to worry about. Coach Beach, of Albert College, also frowned on the suggestion, "During the regular season," he said, "the five players injured, Hollingsworth and Bell, if any, would not be in the game. If any of the players were hurt in an exhibition game it might mean the abolition of intermediate rugby for another year. I realize the players would like to get extra money for the game but personally I do not favor these games because of the risk of injury to players. The chances can be taken," added Coach Beach. Now that the curtain has been rung down on the rugby for the 1935 football season, the players can participate in basketball until another season rolls around.

The Oshawa sport scribe has the following to say in relationship to the Oshawa basketball team:

"Oshawa will likely enter the O. H. A. intermediate basketball series this season and at present the local club is trying to get a berth in the league. Along with Campbellford, Belleville and Peterboro, and probably Lindsay. The latter town's club doesn't wish to force their way into the O. H. A. league but would like another team out but just the same, a nice strong evenly-balanced league as that would make it real drawing card. Oshawa would be a big attraction for all the teams in that loop."

Just how the Motor City scribe contends that this would make a well-balanced loop is a mystery to us. Oshawa is not nearly strong enough to play senior hockey while the Peterboro team is flooded with sports over last year, so the six, Georgie, you're like scratches may work, but we doubt it.

Birthday congratulations Ritchie McCoy, "Mighty Atom" of Montreal Amateur Athletic Association English rugby team. He was born in Halifax 33 years ago today and is known as one of the best rugger players in Canada. He led all-star Upper Canada fifteen to the Maritimes last year. The side suffered only one defeat.

After burning up telephone and telegraph wires for many hours last night the promoters of local wrestling-changed their original plans and signed Walter Parnell and Al "Dunny" Dunlop for the main bout of Thursday night's card at the Belleville Arena. Parnell and Dunlop are both drawing cards and according to a local wrestling audience, both having displayed their wares locally before. Parnell elevated his stocks considerably in the eyes of local fans last week as the aggressive aggressor in his bout with Jos Kiraly, the Hungarian. Dunlop and Parnell should prove a boon to the local grunt and groan racket as the bouts go. Bill Handley of Toledo is a local wrestling audience, both by

CARRYING PLACE

The guests at a card party given under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church hall on Wednesday evening to attend a reorganization meeting of the Community League which during the past two years has been inactive. The event was the occasion of some enthusiasm for the need of some such society to carry on community social life has been felt. Officers elected for the coming year are: Hon. pres., Mrs. Sanderson; pres., Mrs. Lee; vice-pres., Mrs. Wilson; sec.-treas., Miss Nellie Hamilton, re-elected. It was decided that further appointments would be made at the next gathering. A committee of three: Mrs. Will Tapp and Mrs. D. Stapleton and Miss Luella Weller, was named to arrange the next programme.

Rev. Mr. Sanders of Consecon opened the service with a devotional talk and a brief prayer. The speakers then spoke briefly of the work of the society and of the situation and help all might be given by everyone from Mr. Sanders. The programme itself consisted of various interesting numbers, a very entertaining contests were also two Bible names contests, one game for two. Miss Madeline Thorburn, pianist for the society, played for the singing of two hymns. Mr. Sanders gave the benediction.

Recent drawings during Thrift Week found this community not so much represented as in other years according to the number of prize-winners; but gave us this year the satisfaction of having the first prize winner as one of our own. First prize, a five dollar gold piece, was drawn by A. A. Farrar, was won by Miss Lydia Green of Trenton, daughter of Mrs. H. Green of this community. Miss Green in a note enclosed modestly gave her age—glad prize to her mother and it may be seen at the Green home when all are privileged to admire it personally. Another prize winner was George La Tour, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry La Tour, who won a large brass clock. The names of Mrs. J. Morgan of Cardenville, also appeared in the list of winners.

The annual party and hall-toast this week for three days in remembrance of Murray Davis.

Mrs. Will La Tour and son Bobby, returned to their home here this week for three days in remote a number of weeks in Trenton with Mrs. La Tour's sister, Mrs. Thomas Rose. Mr. and Mrs. Chase are to be congratulated on the birth of a fine daughter a few days ago.

Mr. Damon Hendricks made a second visit to the clergy of farm implement on Tuesday of last week when he held an auction sale with a good attendance and the settler sold somewhat this fall drew such a small crowd that the sale was cancelled off, but on this later occasion a good crowd attended and bargaining and settling was at a very good price. Mr. Hendricks who is well on to years is giving up farming entirely. He and his brother, John, have lived in the Hendricks' home for a number of years.

A newscast a few days ago told the story of a fire which was put out at the Ontario Hospital at Whitby when the patients were safely escaped over the roadwater into the lake while being pursued by attendants, nurses, nurse, and were heavily jumped in and held her up until help arrived.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood a visitor in this community this summer at the Hancock home at Adolphustown with Miss Kathleen Rainborn to her home here, for a two-weeks holiday.

The Weller's Bay road to the island this week has been in a bad condition this autumn that it was a pleasure to motorists and to the power line at work on it this week. It has been considerably improved, and will be in good shape for a long period of attention, especially in the spring.

Constructive activities at the Murray Canal where the new bridge is likely to be erected, are now in touch with the workmen working at a steady rate both on the new bridge and concrete abutment built on the south side, and all present large piles and timber put in for the work in the canal a few feet off the south shore.

A dance held in the Parish Hall and sponsored by Messrs. Jack Chase and Howard Hendricks, son of Mr. Hennessy of this community and widely known as the Fraser Trophy for public speaking in Murray Township, was held in the Parish Hall for the school and family on Friday last when he competed at Consecon Township Hall in the finals of the county of Northumberland and Prince Edward and now has three cups in his possession, the township championship cup, the third place county cup, and a miniature of his own with his name engraved on it. The cups mentioned remain in the school for a year and are then the property of the competitor. Unless won three times successively. Lloyd also won a fine watch for his effort.

Incidentally the number "thirteen" has played a prominent part in Lloyd's oratorical career this year. At Wooler in the township contest he spoke thirteenth and competed against thirteen others. At Cobourg he again competed against thirteen others and drew number thirteen. He spoke thirteenth in the line at the Trenton contest and carried off three up bravely, but by this time he must feel that while thirteen may not be unlucky, still the touch of thirteen may bring bad luck. A few years ago Mrs. Hennessey, sister and mother also won first place in the township.

Dr. E. A. McQuaig visits the local school on Monday of this week to administer further doses of boil, against diphtheria. These visits by the health officer are made at three week intervals.

Mr. Harry Hardy is spending several weeks in Toronto, as a guest of his brother, Geo. B. Harris and family.

A hit-and-run driver was sadly at large just after dark last Saturday evening without lights crashed into a buggy driven by Lloyd Hennessy just in front of the Craig property and upsetting it threw driver and little Betty Hennessy son out into the deep ditch, fortunately without injury to any other. The buggy however, was badly broken, the milk bottles all broken and the milk spilt, the harness torn, and the horse badly frighten but not injured. The name of the car was not secured but Lloyd declares it was a Ford coach or sedan, an old model, rather light in colour, going in the direction of Consecon. He attempted to pull out of his path but the driver of the car did not turn aside and the buggy was thrown violently into the ditch by the impact occurred. Skid marks on the pavement tell the story of the crash, an instinctive application of the brakes then a swerve to the damaging lack of lights, the forward dash to leave the scene of the accident. This is a place for such drivers and it is not on the road.

Friends of Lieut.-Col. Harry Sayers, former Canal superintendent here, have been very sorry to hear of his illness at his home near Brighton.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vanderwort and son visited in the community on Sunday last.

Hot lunches are now being served at the school here at the noon hour time to be served to those coming from a distance all during the cold months of the winter.

Farmers have enjoyed a "wonderful autumn season and in consequence of the continued warm weather a great deal of fall plowing was done. The colder weather which has since arrived has put a stop to the plowing but no one need complain after the splendid weather which we have had.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hennessey and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hennessey of Trenton and Mr. Fred Hennessey spent Sunday last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hennessy, Frederick Hall, the latter remaining for a few days.

Rev. Mr. Sanders of Consecon, spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Norrington.

"Dark Angel"

Great Love Story—Fredric March, Merle Oberon, Herbert Marshall Star In Outstanding Goldwyn Drama

One of the most powerful and beautiful love stories ever filmed reaches the screen of the Belle Theatre tomorrow and Friday, matinee daily, when Samuel Goldwyn's production, "The Dark Angel" starring Fredric March, Merle Oberon and Herbert Marshall begins.

Adapted from a play by Guy Bolton, the screen play of "The Dark Angel" was prepared by Lillian Hellman, author of the smash Broadway stage hit, "The Children's Hour," and Mordaunt Shairp, who will be remembered for stage success, "The Green Bay Tree."

Gripping Story

The story which is set in a quiet corner of lovely rural England follows the lives of a woman, Kitty Vane (Merle Oberon), and two men, Alan Trent (Fredric March) and Gerald Shannon (Herbert Marshall). Since childhood, Kitty has adored Alan, and Gerald has adored Kitty. The war takes both men and in the trenches there comes to Alan the realization of love for Kitty. Home on leave, he tells her of his love, but their plan to marry are shattered by a sudden call cancelling all leaves.

When Alan is reported killed, Kitty's life is broken. After the war Gerald returns, crippled for life, but in the eleventh hour fate steps in and the course of the life is filled in a glorious happy ending.

"The Dark Angel" , was directed by Sidney Franklin.

Prominent in the imposing supporting cast are Janet Beecher, John Halliday, Henrietta Crosman, Frieda Inescort, Claude Allister, George Breakston, Cecil Cunningham, Cora Sue Collins and others.

WILL ROGERS IS HIS BEST

Flying hoofs, young romance and adventure under southern skies fill several scenes of Will Rogers' last and greatest picture, "In Old Kentucky", to be shown at the Belle tonight for its fourth and final day.

Adapted from the Charles T. Dazey play which has retained its hold on America's affection for 30 years, "In Old Kentucky" presents Rogers in his most whimsical, loveable role . . . as an old timer who knew everything about horses, and tells a little homespun philosophy on love.

Dorothy Wilson and Russell Hardie share the romantic leads in the film.

One of the funniest comedies seen at the Bells in months, "Kiss the Bride", featuring Buster West and Tom Patricola and the Belle last night News Reshe completes the program to be presented at the Belle Tonight, for the last time. You will be sorry if you miss this screen treat.

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Whole Town's Talking" Starring Robinson in Greatest Screen Role to Date.

"The Whole Town's Talking", the exciting Columbia comedy-drama which, the cinema sages say, affords Edward G. Robinson his greatest screen character role to date, will open its local engagement at the Capitol Theatre today.

Based on a story by W. R. Burnett, who also wrote the famed Robinson film, "Little Caesar", "The Whole Town's Talking" was directed by John Ford, whose recent pictures include "The Lost Patrol", "Judge Priest" and "The World Moves On".

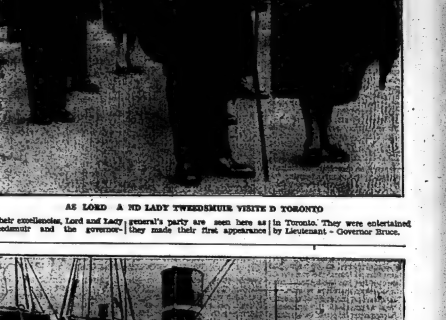
Robinson is cast in the thrill-inspiring role of an inoffensive little clerk who canvasses through a series of laugh-laden adventures when his mild-mannered ways as an arranged desperado is discovered. This new characterization marks Robinson's first attempt at screen comedy, having already firmly established himself as screendom's Public Enemy No. 1.

Jean Arthur is featured opposite Robinson as a flip young stenographer love the meek clerk had adored for years. But only when Clemens races across the nation's front page is he able to summon up enough courage to tell her of his love. Wallace Ford completes nearly a great advantage in "Most Precious Thing in Life", "Whirlpool".

Wallace Ford is the jovial, wisecracking young reporter; Arthur Byron shies away from being prime client who canvasses through a series to enact the role of District Attorney; and Edmund Breon, the dis-tinguished himself as the religious fanatic in the stage and screen version of "Berkeley Square", appears as the nervous and harassed head cleric main interest in life is getting Robinson to finish up his column each day.

Other members of the large and imposing cast include Arthur Hohl, Donald Meek, Paul Harvey, Ed Wray, J. Farrell MacDonald and Ferdinand Munier.

"The Whole Town's Talking" was adapted for the screen by Jo Swerling and Robert Riskin, Columbia's ace scenarists. Among Riskin's recent hits has been "Lady For a Day", "It Happened One Night" and "Broadway Bill".



Also with the feature the Capitol is showing Tom Howard supported by Ferdinand Munier, Georgia Shelton. Our patrons will certainly go for this in a colossal way. Also we have the Radio Rascals in a peppy musical and hit which will make up an evening's entertainment. Everyone will wish to see.

Don't miss it. Shows 2.30-7-9.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking and thinking with a satisfied expression, and ma said, I cant get that gypsy fortune teller out of my mind, he told me my fortune and she told Benny's down to the letter. I'm going back in the other day, and now I know my fortune is going to come true because she has come true already, she said.

The doctor it has, what was her predictions? Ma said, she told me she predicted he would receive unexpected money from across the water.

Well how the blinking blazes could a thing like that come true? pop said and ma said, It came true the very spirit of the letter that very afternoon, tell your father all about it, Benny.

Wich I did, saying, I was in Sid Smith's barber shop watching him make his mecanical battleship run in a big creek and he said owed me a cent about 3 months and I was waiting him for it but I asked him again just for luck because we was both there so that's 2 mile as well, and what did he do but take a cent out of his pocklt and hand it to me across the washbowl, and if that's the recerving unexpected money from across the water.

Help, give me air, pop said, and ma said, Now Willyum dont pretend that's any more coincidence, he takes after his mother's side pretended, he didn't specify how much money he was going to get, that's why I feel so positive that her prediction about my going to be presented with a new fur coat by Christmas, and that I was going to base itself just as surely on fact, ma said.

Then you must have another diamond hidden somewhere, pop said, and ma said, Willyum, it's a fortune teller's job to tell a body's Benny's story I knew it was inevitable, and there's no use fighting of the inevitable. On the contrary when a thing is inevitable the only sensible proceedure is to hurry it up, so I went downtown this morning and you'll be glad I did, because I was just in time to get a secret second coat for 2 hundred and 79 forty but when you see how beautiful it is you will see what economiglaces at any figure, she said.

The resulting beg pop went around to the bowling alley.

Something new and original in the way of radio programmes for children it now being broadcast over CFCN at 5.15 every afternoon except Saturday and Sunday.

This new series of programmes, entitled "Wonder Hour" is proving to be a real delight to kiddies, for it includes all the well-known fairy tales, brought to life through clever dramatization, and made doubly interesting by the addition of original music.

The Squirrel Ring, the Fairy Queen, Croakus the Frog and The Wise Old Owl are four of the Fairy Tale People who appear regularly throughout the series, interwoven into all oldtime stories for kiddies. The whole balance of the cast is made up of the familiar characters from fairy tales that children love to hear.

PRINCE DEFINES EMPIRE POLICY

Enlightened Public Opinion Must be Behind Government

London, Nov. 27 (CP)—The Institute of International Affairs had before it today an outline of British Foreign Policy and a picture of the functions of the League of Nations by Sir Samuel Hoare, Foreign Secretary.

Sir Samuel addressed the Institute's annual dinner last night. The Prince of Wales, who presided, described the part the organization played in national life and Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner to London, detailed its growth in Canada.

"I believe the foreign policy of this country is based, firstly, on a profound instinct for peace," said Sir Samuel.

"Secondly, I believe that it is natural for us to exercise in our consideration of international problems a certain moderation of outlook and tendency to smooth away possible causes of dispute."

A third quality in foreign policy, he said, was "a realistic outlook upon affairs" combined with "an idealistic belief in human progress".

He was firmly convinced "as long as we seek to express these qualities, as long as England is true to herself, she will find the co-operation of her partners in the Empire as warmly, as cheerfully and unitedly given in the future as during the difficulties of the last few months."

Mr. Massey said the Canadian Institute now had 718 members in fourteen branches throughout the country.

The Prince of Wales said a few members of the British delegation to the Versailles Peace Conference "saw the need for such an institute in the post-war world. They realized maintenance of peace in the future was no longer the business of a selected few but the intimate concern of every man and woman.

"It is beyond the range of ordinary citizens to grasp all the intricacies of government involved in conducting the policy of the vast and varied British Commonwealth, yet it is essential for the government to have an enlightened public opinion behind it.

"That is why there is such a demand on the resources of the institute to provide unbiased information on every aspect of current national affairs."

BALDWIN TO OPEN NAVAL PARLEY

All Limitation Treaties Expire at The End of 1936

London, Nov. 27. (CP)—In the great room at the foreign office where the Locarno Treaties were signed, Prime Minister Baldwin will formally open the Five-Power Naval Conference Dec. 2.

The participating powers are those which signed the Treaties of Washington and London—Great Britain, the United States, France, Italy and Japan. The British Dominions, which equally signed the two treaties, will all be represented at the conference by their High Commissioners.

The task of the conference will be to find ways and means of checking by international agreement the threatened race in naval construction. Both the Washington and London Treaties which now limit the principal navies of the world expire at the end of 1936.

Sea-going Goliaths such as Britain's Barham are becoming overage. Their replacement and the rule of their replacement will be one of the vital problems before the conference.

One of the "hottest" rumored deals emanating from the minor league meeting at Dayton O., was the one involving the exchange of a New York Yankee pitcher for one of the Cleveland Indians' slab men. It is believed that Johnny Allen will go to the Indians in exchange for Monte Pearson. According to the report, Manager Steve O'Neill of the Tribe has offered the Yankees their choice of Pearson, Oral Hildebrand or Willis Hudlin for Allen.

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 27 (CP)—Any man, properly clothed, will be excused from working during the winter months for relief, it has been decided by Windsor City Council. Relief work, under the direction of the Board of Works Department, will start today. Twelve hundred "able-bodied" men will be made sure of at least four days during the year for their welfare cheques.

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 27 (CP)—One of the applicants before the Windsor Court of Revision, in session here, asked to be "changed from a married woman to a spinster."

"How can they do that," queried Chairman J. D. Branch.

"They could quite easily do it the other way," remarked Mrs. Helen Weller, civic official.

The appeal was granted on the ground a typographical error was responsible.

St. Thomas, Ont., Nov. 27 (CP)—A St. Thomas school teacher was trying to explain the word "famous" to some eight-year-old pupils and suggested they name a famous man.

"Mitch Hepburn," said a boy, "why?" asked the teacher.

"Because," came the reply, "his name is always on the front page of the newspapers."

St. Louis, Nov. 27 (AP)—Hardy Norman, 32, has reached St. Louis in his canoe after being "shipwrecked" three times in the Great Lakes in the course of a 2,000-mile voyage from New York to New Orleans.

Norman, a painter and decorator, left New York July 4. He said he upset twice in Lake Erie and once in Lake Michigan, being forced each time to swim to shore.

Toronto, Nov. 27 (CP)—John Deer, 17, couldn't run as fast as a deer—in fact he couldn't run as fast as Roy Colwell, 30. As a result Jacky he stood charged with breaking and entering. When Colwell returned home last night, two men jumped through a window and ran in different directions. Colwell chased Deer and overpowering him took the accused in his automobile to the police station.

ENGLISH DOCTOR DOUBLY CHARGED

Evidence Will Relate to Dismembered Bodies of Two Women

Lancaster, England, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Dr. Buck Ruxton, prominent 36-year-old local physician, appeared in police court today charged with the murder of two women, whose dismembered bodies were found in a ravine near Moffat, Scotland, known as "the Devil's Beef-tub".

The Crown charges the victims were the accused's wife, mother of three children, and May Jane Rogerson, 20-year-old nursemaid.

G. R. Paling, representing the director of public prosecutions, referred to the bodies by number, so dismembered were they when found.

"In every way possible," he said, "body number one contains wife of May Jane Rogerson's body," he said, "and number two with Mrs. Ruxton's".

Six feet high and 191 pounds, black-thatched Lorne Chabot is one major league goalie who pooh-poohs the theory that net-tenders must be small. The Montreal-born backstop may be the biggest in the National Hockey league but he's also one of the faster, and one of the flopglads. He is on his feet as often as a praying mantis when attackers are swarming in, and if the going gets too tough, the rockribbed giant has a little curry all his own. Referees fume and opposing players froth at the mouth at his ability to find an unseen shoelace or a loose bit of harness at the appropriate moment, but while distracted fans stage their private riots Chabot grins tantalizing—and his defensemen get a rest.

High shots trouble him a bit since burly Nels Stewart "puzzled" him in the eye early in his career but that hasn't seriously halted his climb up the hockey ladder. The foot was planted at McGill University and since then Chabot has seen the backs of Brandon, Port Arthur, New York Rangers, Leaf, Canadien, and Chicago Blackhawk defencemen. 'Twas worn he went to Canadiens that his dream came true. He filled the Frenchmen's cage that Hainsworth had blocked for seven long seasons, and to "habot it was like coming home but the welcome sign got tarnished and Chabot moved on to Blackhawks. The Hawks lost their Stanley Cup but Chabot won the Geo. But that's just a repeat performance for Chabot—he did it in 1930.

CONDITION CRITICAL

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 27 (CP)—City Council will convene in special session Monday to discuss the situation regarding the House of the Friendless, which institution has advised the council it will not be responsible for city charges after Dec. 1. This action, it is believed, has been taken because of recent charges aimed at conditions in the home when it was claimed the building was "a fire-trap".

The provincial government, stopping all grants, termed the home "an antique and comfortless fire-trap" which no longer was entitled to a grant of 10 cents a day for each resident.

There are 26 residents at the home and most of them are charges of the city.

"CHAPERONED"

— by —

Virginia Sullivan

The music had stopped at the end of a dance and even as they forced a new interest in the crowd about the floor, Janie noted subconsciously something wrong with some quickening of tempo in the atmosphere of the room. On a sudden, it seemed smaller, more breathless, with an air of waiting and of stealth. The absence of any definite sentence of sound seemed filled with a strange sort of protest. Above the subdued murmur of which the discordant voices had risen a girl's high enjoyment of Ripple sounded shrilly. Then a shattering bark of mirth, from some man at the other end of the room.

They were almost at the door now, forging a slow way ahead, when the music started again, and they edged nearer the wall. Far distant, from the street somewhere outside, the sound of a whistle filtered into the room. Spirit, warning, faintly dying....

And then it happened. The swinging doors at the far end of the dance-floor were flung violently open—and there catapulted into the center of the crowded floor a blind phalanx of flying legs, churning arms and flashing white faces that bore everything but the "Sailors!"

"My God! We are in for it now!" Anthony Fane slipped an arm firmly about Janie's shoulders, bringing her hastily before him toward an alcoved table near the wall. "Don't be frightened, dear. I'll get out now—wait a moment, till there's a lull. Oh, Janie, my dear darling, are you hurt? Tell me you're not hurt!"

CHAPTER 12.

THE FIGHT

When the astonishing spectacle with which each things gain headway, the fight—for it was a fight—started was under way, realized the moment there was a tremendous, laughing shout of welcome from her. Swirling, talking, pushing amiably back and forth. For the moment, and the atmosphere was filled with the screams of women, the dreadful, distorted faces of battling men, and the crash of furniture and glass.

Afterwards, two pictures stood clearly etched on Janie's mind: the celerity with which Jake's interest in the rendering of a particular, by poignant ballad, had assumed a natural and easy position at bay behind the bar—with his hands, point held outward; and the nonchalance with which the leader of the invading group of British sailors had sauntered up to the nearest British officer and with well-directed blow on his chin. "We," he remarked mildly, "have been instructed not to associate with any British sailors. So, as we want to come in here, my lad, out you go! Yowsa!" This last a screech so piercing and bloodcurdling as to cause even the helper with the cauliflower ear to drop his glass. And then the fight was on.

Janie, penned into a comparatively safe corner behind the broad shoulder of Anthony Fane, had an eminent view of the preliminaries. The British tar, deprived of both speech and self-possession, catapulted into the center of the floor, from just behind him a blonde giant with a blistering curse descent, leaned down and lunged at the invader. The impact of his fist, landing directly on the sailor's jaw, sounded like a rifle shot above the din. There was a shattering of glass, wars, a loud, piercing scream, and then another flying body, and another uniformed sailor sprang from nowhere outside the widely swinging doors. In that instant Anthony Fane, swept relentlessly backward in the rush, was carried almost bodily, toward the rear of the room.

At the beginning, Janie had not no sensation of fear. Only a tingling excitement and a wide-eyed interest. Even when the first realization was of terror engulfed her. She pressed closer against the shoulder of her escort, squeezing into the small security offered by the alcove; all of her scrutinizing, agonizing to ward that milling human tornado out there. She blinked and saw Jeery Fane from her sight. A man ashy of face, blood streaming from a cut above his eye, staggered blindly against her. His face, twisted into a malignant grin, was horrible to see. Then he, too, was borne away on the surge of the crowd.

Scraping of chairs, thud of falling bodies and tables, jangling noises of fighting men, drunk with mob fury and liquor.... The shrill, high-pitched voice of a girl, raking above the uproar.... "Go to it, Jackie! Sock 'im, why don't you? Wanderin' aspect of a 14½-inch collar? Sock 'im!"....

Janie had a fleeting glimpse at this moment of Sergeant-Major Pepper, of the Royal Marines, fighting silently and with a deadly earnestness in the opposite corner of the bar and the tables that flanked its front. Someone she thought it was the assistant with the roached pompadour—tried to separate him from his antagonist with an upraised chair. A dull thud heralded this Samaritan's journey into the Nirvana of sleep—and the Sergeant-Major fought on. Janie, held in the grip of a terrible fascination, could not take her eyes from his struggling form. He had been set upon so cockily grossed such a short time before. He was Mona's friend, who, not knowing what she did, the girl climbed on top of a table before the Sergeant-Major, both arms held tightly now in the rigid vise of his mate, the the cauliflower ear was kicking savagely backward. His opponent, a very small, very blond chap, shrieked with bedlam, back managed to tear loose one arm and with a skilful backward movement, sent the man who sought to hold him careening to the floor. Like a cat the bluejacket, as on the Sergeant-Major's back, before the latter, with one last furious effort, tore free and received him into a bear-like embrace.

Janie, watching, felt a sudden hysterical desire to laugh or scream loudly at the top of her lungs, to sob and sob until there was nothing left. It was a nightmare.... a hideous, unreal dream, from which she would presently awake to find herself safely back on board the Santa Rina, and Brenda coming in at the door with the head boy and white breakfast tray in her capable hands. She looked wildly painfully about for Anthony Fane, a steadily growing fear for her heart. If he were hurt.... If it were not merely the mob and the fighting that were keeping him from her.... "Oh, I can't bear it, if he is," she sobbed into the frozen air. "I can't live.... oh, I can't...."

Then, as though drawn by a magnet, her gaze found him, having, a determined, indomitable pathway through the heaving, writhing figures on the floor. Even as she looked, a lumbering British marine, by his side and swung wildly at his head. Instantly the arm of Anthony Fane shot upward; his fist went home with horrible sureness, and the marine sprawled backward into the crowd. Janie had one glimpse of Anthony Fane's drawn face, his blazing grey eyes and grim set jaw. One glimpse of his big figure straining to her side. "Stand there, Janie—don't move—I'll get you.

Then he had hurled himself bodily before her, shutting her off from those menacing, flailing arms, those flying legs; literally carrying her with him across a cleared space that seemed opening toward the door.

"I'm all right now; I can walk. Put me down, please. You're hurt! Oh, I'm really all right——"

"Hang close to that wall—over by the left door, Janie—that's it! Just hang onto my shoulder." Then: "——you! ——you!" Anthony Fane hurled at a bluejacket sailor, thrusting out a foot just in time to block the onward rush that would have trampled the girl onto the floor. The sailor, blood running down his blackened face, leaped convulsively toward his escaping quarry, and the clenched spasm, for a fraction of a second, opened up again near the door. Janie had one glimpse of a twilit street, of lights pricking the gloom outside, of a sudden stillness, and a high whistle call. Then the surge of the crowd, the sound of fighting ceased, miraculously; the sounds of combat seemed, suddenly enough, to come from a great way off....

X X X

"Don't shake so, darling! Janie, it's all right, dear. It's all over. It's all right. There's nothing to be afraid of now."

Janie opened her eyes with a vivid realization that she had been unconscious, then her mind cleared. She was half-reclining, half-standing against a rock beneath the narrow alley back of Jake's Panama Tavern. Beside her, shielding her from the hideous nightmare still raging beyond the narrow door, was Anthony Fane, his face grey and smiling down into her frightened eyes with his steady grey gaze. There was a long, heavy arm on the shoulder of his tweed suit. A long scratch on one lean cheek, a tiny gash on his forehead, from which a small trickle of blood ran slowly down. The girl gave a sharp cry, pulling on his shaking hand. Then, with no warning at all, as simply as though it had been meant to be that way, she was in his arms, held tightly against his breast, hearing the pound of his heart on her own, clinging to him desperately, wildly. For a long moment there was only their quick, light breathing. Then slowly her arms were bound his neck and he bent his brown head deliberately and kissed her on the mouth.... Gently, reassuringly, tenderly..... "Oh, my sweet....." She was aware of the fragrance of tobacco, the clean smell of soap, the pungent odor of tweed; of the flame that swept her body from head to foot, at his lips, the clasp of that strong, dark hand. Then, shaking all over, her cheeks flaming, she lifted both hands and pushed him blindly away. He released her instantly, sharply alert on the instant at the sound of renewed violence behind the thrashing wooden door at his back.

"Janie, here, this won't do! We're getting out of this now, at once. Can you stand here a moment—long enough for me to reconnoiter for a taxi?" He ran at a swift lope toward the mouth of the alley, and Janie sank back on the wooden bench, clutching its rough wooden edge with fingers that shook. "This isn't—isn't real. I'm really happening to me," she said in a strangled whisper. "It's not. Oh, Tony! Tony! I can't help it! ——help me, I don't want to help it...."

She stood up unsteadily, her hand touching the narrow back door of the café, which swung open under at touch. Just inside the entry, beyond which the fury of combat still raged, Janie saw the girl in the soiled lace hat busily dabbing at the face of a fallen marine. Beyond then the figure of the cosmetic salesman from St. Joe, Missouri, and the gigantic Spanish Arman in seals of two chefs, a wine-soaked napkin clutched firmly in his hand. There was the sound of running footsteps and Anthony Fane was back. "Come!" he said simply and lifted her to her feet. And Janie, in blind and voiceless obedience, walked behind him down the dark, sinister stretch of alley toward the street. Conscious only of a warm thankfulness for the touch of his hand on her own—for the shield of his big shoulder blotting out the nightmare they left behind.

CHAPTER 13.

"Well, here we are! Heads bloody but unbowed!" Anthony Fane said, with grim flippancy. Then added, his deep voice shaking unaccountably: "I'm sorry I took you into that, Janie. I could kick myself——"

"But I loved it, really. I wouldn't have missed it," Janie began. Then the hot color flooded her face again, her gaze clinging hungrily to his own. He said presently: "I've got to find a taxi. Like most wild things, you can depend on taxi-drivers to disappear during any sort of storm."

"But, can't we walk? It isn't far to the dock at all, and the air is so clear..... Let's try walking," the girl said quickly. With every singing atom still conscious of that moment in the dim, clangorous alley at her back, with every shaking breath she drew coming about with the pounding of her riotous pulses, just the thought of sitting still beside him in a taxi seemed more than she could face.

"No that's over," she said after a moment, as they walked slowly down the quiet street, "It's like something I've read, something someone told me about, rather than any experience of my own."

CLOSING OF RELIEF CAMPS FORECAST BY ROGERS

Committee of Three to Investigate Transfer of Camps to Labor Dept.

Object to Get Camp Workers Back in Regular Employment

GAINFUL OCCUPATION Proved Conditions Will Gradually Open New Fields

Ottawa, Nov. 28.—(CP)—The Dominion government hopes to close all relief camps within the coming year, Hon. Norman McL. Rogers, Minister of Labor, announced today.

Mr. Rogers also announced supplementary, of a committee of three to "make such investigations and reports on certain problems raised by the proposed transfer of these relief camps from the Department of National Defence.

The committee will consist of H. A. Ring, chief of the Dominion Employment Service, Humphrey Mitchell, former Labor Member for Hamilton East in the Federal House, Professor R. W. Brad win, President of the Provincial College, Mr. Bradwin lived in Toronto and the Minister referred to his special qualifications for the work to be done because of his connection with an organization which conducts educational work in frontier labor camps.

Committee To Visit Camps

The committee will start work immediately and begin visiting the camps as possible of the 100-odd many of the camps in Canada. The majority of these are situated in British Columbia and Alberta. Approximately 15,000 men are in these at present.

In the past they have been run by the Department of National Defence but steps for transfer to the Labor Department were taken as soon after the present government assumed office. The transfer cost of the camps has been assumed by the Dominion.

In making his announcement Mr. Rogers emphasized the object was to get camp workers back into regular employment. He felt with improved conditions the field for them would open gradually. It would be the object of the present board to see that they were engaged in work which would be of genuine use, while they were in camps.

The Minister's Statement

"It is the hope of the government that it may be possible to close the relief camps within the coming year. That, at least, will be the aim in view. It will be our object to see that the men in these camps are engaged in useful work under healthy conditions and with improved opportunities for progressing in their normal industrial life of the country.

"In connection with the transfer of relief camps from the Department of National Defence to the Department of Labor and in order to give effect to the policy with other measures of unemployment relief, I have authorized Mr. H. A. Ring, chief of the Dominion Employment Service, Humphrey Mitchell, of Hamilton, and Dr. R. W. Bradwin, president of the Provincial College, to make certain investigations and reports on certain problems raised by the pending transfer of these camps to this department.

"The information thus obtained will be of material assistance in determining the policy of the Department of Labor toward relief camps while they are still in existence, and in effecting a proper relationship between this and other forms of unemployment relief."

Claim Prince Poisoned Slowly by Enemies

Rome, Nov. 28.—(CP-Havas)—The late Lidij Nasi, important 32-year-old grandson of Emperor Menelik II, described by Italians as the "last survivor in golden chains" and the "prisoner of Addis Ababa," died yesterday of poison administered to the Ethiopian emperor of a conquered Ethiopia died in Addis Ababa a victim of the same mysterious illness Rome sources claimed today.

Italian correspondents asserted the chained Prince, whom Emperor Haile Selassie regarded as his most dangerous rival, was given the same of the sophisticus plant in graduated doses with his food for the various prisons until it died. "Lingering paralysis" was the diagnosis of his case given out by Selassie's physicians.

Reports of his death have aroused much indignation, however, and Italian correspondents say the story was openly discussed. They insist the memorandum will prove what is the truth of Lidij Nasu's death is known.

BRAZILIAN REVOLT UNDER CONTROL STATE OFFICIALS

Twelve Rebels Dead And Five Loyalists Are Wounded

FASCIST TREND

Planes And Ships Search For Vessel Carrying Rebels

(By Rafael Corcoran)

(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Rio De Janeiro, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Some political sources said today the uprising in northeast Brazil and in the capital itself, which was prompt and crushed with loyal promptness, crushed with loyal troops, was but the first step in a conflict between Communist and Fascist trends.

While the dead rebellions by ed-ditted troops in the Federal district crushed and the last of the rebels entrenched in the north fled to flight, government authorities said the entire nation apparently was under control.

Twelve rebels were known dead and 20 of the loyal army forces wounded after the government's artillery and warships battered the abortive revolts yesterday at the Aviation school in the Federal district and the Third Infantry Barracks at Praia Vermelha, on the beach beneath Sugar Loaf mountain.

The Government announced it had 300 participants in the local uprisings prisoners and word came from the north that Colonel Dantas Motoe, scene of the earlier northeastern revolt, and Governor Marcel Pernandes resumed his post.

Only First Effort

Planes and ships pressed a search for the S.S. Santos on which the rebel commander-in-chief was reported to have fled Natal and authorities took precautions under the state of siege to maintain control.

One authority who asked his name be withheld, said the abortive uprisings Sunday in Pernambuco and Rio Grande do Norte and yesterday in Rio De Janeiro were only the first effort of the socialistic-communist liberating alliance to create subversive outbreaks bidding for national power.

"The Alliance, which opposes a Fascist Government within Fascism two main currents," this source said. "One of these is the government itself, hoping for establishment of a military dictatorship.

"The other Socialist current is the more theatrical indignation which Getulio Vargas and his Fascist thought within the government and the military and are therefore loyal and by the same administration which in July banned the Alliance throughout Brazil.

"The riding in Pernambuco, Rio Grande do Norte and Rio De Janeiro was the first subversive movement in a series which may be destined to embrace all Brazil from December 18 under the leadership of Communist Luis Carlos Prestes of organized socialism in Brazil."

Fruitful Leisure Needed Tweedsmuir Tells Club

"We Must Be Able to See Around Our Task"

DISCOVERING SOUL

Toronto, Nov. 28.—(CP)—Fruitful leisure is essential to the success of our task, Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, propounded to the Canadian Club here today. His Excellency declared too close attention to the job in hand often causes loss of proper perspective and missing the fresh and illuminating viewpoint leisured thinking would bring.

"Today we are witnessing the triumph of the machine process which the monotonous exacting manual toil of the past is being done away with," Lord Tweedsmuir said. "A mechanized world means, in the end, a very drastic reconstruction of industry, under which labor may be endowed with fewer working hours and the enforced leisure thus created will be filled up with new employments and new interests.

Cultured Side of Leisure

"There are some who dream of a world where a man will have comparatively few hours to do his daily work and the rest of the day will be craftsman or farmer, producing the necessaries and some of the luxuries of his life. The machine may set him free, but it will not destroy slave labor played in the Old Greek world and be the basis of a richer and more civilized life for all.

"Then there is the cultural side of leisure. If we are to live a full and worthy life we cannot live only for our professions. We must have a well as doctors, accountants, lawyers and engineers, and we have to get perception out of life as well as a living. If we are wise we will preserve intellectual interests wider than our actual vocations, things which keep the mind fresh and give it such wide outlook.

Eighth Used Leisure.

"... My argument is that leisure is only valuable when it is useful to the success of our professional work itself. This applies to every calling. I know, for example, that for learned profession and to every branch of commerce and industry.

"The secret of success is to do a job efficiently with the minimum of effort. This does not mean the ordinary labor-saving appliances which modern ingenuity has put at our disposal, but the mean preliminary thought and reflection. Time spent on that is often an absurd waste of labor.

"You can easily put too much into a job, but I think you cannot put too much of it intelligence. Unfortunately there is always pressure of work and not enough upon fruitful leisure means that the task does not receive preliminary preparation and therefore our efforts may be largely wasted.

Seeing Around Task.

"To avoid waste and unnecessary toil, to give our work the maximum of effect, we must be able to see around our task. This cannot be done while we are engaged in it. Only as we can stand properly be done when the mind is free, in its leisure hours. Then only can we get a proper viewpoint and the right perspective, and then we can see around our task."

Someone once said that every man should be "lonely at heart." That is not so easy in a modern world. Each of our time is spent on the treadmill, without diversion, and the monotony is our own and with a most intolerable clatter in our ears. But sometimes we can get away from the din and discover ourselves. We need seasons of solitude with ourselves, for we must all be solitary in the great cities of life, and we must all be adults at death. That is the greatest of the fruits of leisure, the chance to discover ourselves, to get perspective of that treat and rejuvenating which, according to the prophet, should be our strength."

PAYETTE FIRE PROBE CONTINUES

Question of Patterns is Brought Into Evidence

Penetanguishene, Ont., Nov. 28—(CP)—Fire Marshall W. J. Scott expected to finish proceedings at the Payette fire investigation opened His second day. Mr. Joseph Sedgwick, K.C., acting with Mr. Scott as prosecutor but for the Fire Marshal's departmental counsel.

J. T. Payette, President of the Payette Company, again took the witness stand to be examined by Thomas Car. K.C., representing the Board of Insurance Underwriters, affected.

Early until 1931 did you specifically inquire any patterns in your plant?" asked Mr. Car.

The witness replied in the negative.

Mr. Payette also said he did not know the average value of the patterns.

"And yet you swore to the loss of those patterns," he said, by July 16 fire," said the insurance counsel.

Thomas J. Phelan, K.C., objected to the questions was being used for the end of the insurance companies to avoid their responsibility and the questions were decidedly pertinent to the government inquiry. A heated argument between the "business" counsel and the Fire Marshal.

The whole purpose of the questions in these examinations is to aid the Fire Marshal's office to discover the origin of the fires whether they do or do not aid the insurance companies," said Mr. Car. Marshall commented.

Mr. Phelan's contention that cause and motive were not in any way synonymous in this case, was upheld by Marshal.

"If the court of appeals forbade me to attempt to establish motive in any case, we shall have to have the Fire Marshal's act amended so that motive can be established," Mr. Scott said.

Thomas Car also asked: "Before the fire, did you move patterns from a building to the Payette Woodenware building?"

The witness replied he did so because of the congestion of the patterns in the sprinkkered building.

"I did not think was a sprinkkered building in your possession which would have been covered by your settlement?" asked Mr. Agar.

It wouldn't have held an eighth of them," said the witness.

Fear of Oil Embargo Forces Il Duce to Act

London, Nov. 28.—(CP-Havas)—Fear of Italian opposition to an oil embargo has led Premier Mussolini to plan strengthening his Libyan forces once again, along the Egyptian frontier, it was believed today.

London political circles believe this explains special military measures announced last night from Rome.

Adoption of the oil embargo is now, in fact, regarded as imminent. The attitude adopted by President Roosevelt on the oil embargo question, it is believed in London, will make possible its application much sooner than was anticipated.

'GINGERED' HORSE HORSEMAN FINED

Humane Society Officer Says Practice of 'Gingering' Must Stop

Toronto, Nov. 28 (CP)—Kearney Nethers, stableman employed by T. Goodness, well-known horseman, was fined $5 and $4 costs in police court today after he pleaded guilty to a charge laid by the Toronto Humane Society in connection with the running of an animal at the Royal Winter Fair Horse Show.

Peter White, K.C., told the court he had been prepared to plead guilty to a charge of administering "an injurious drug or substance" to a horse, namely that a drug or "animals" was withdrawn.

Inspector Lloyd Malone associated when Russell Locke, K.C., solicitor for the Humane Society, told the court that he had no minimum fine on the first charge.

Charges Were Withdrawn

The charges were laid by William Weatherston of the Humane Society after he saw Nethers preparing Goodness' Gracious, a six-year-old saddle pony, for the show ring. Nethers, he alleged "cruelly and wantonly" gave the animal a drug substance that caused it to carry its tail in an arched position. Goodness Gracious won the first prize in class 41 after the treatment, known as "gingering", which, he said, is "a cruel practice."

"Mr. Locke has stated the object of this prosecution is to bring the matter to the attention of the public," said Mr. White. "It is to give notice that the practice known as "gingering" must stop. My client has pleaded guilty as he has to return to the United States immediately."

Safe Practice Universal.

Mr. White added that "gingering" was a "quite safe practice" and said his client "has the respect of horsemen throughout the Southern States."

Mr. Locke then declared that "it is the Society's duty to endeavor to high courts of Great Britain that gingering is not safe and allow the treatment to which this man has pleased guilty." He said the next time the Humane Society "finds" a prosecution of any such minimum fine".

Cyril Chapman, similar to those which Nethers faced were laid against his employer, T. Clarence Heisey, but Heisey had left Toronto before service of the summons, the court was told. The charges were marked withdrawn when Mr. White said that Heisey had not "run away" as had been suggested.

Premier Stakes Life Of Cabinet Upon Vote; Leftists are Disconcerted

No Unity of Plan Shown By Opposition To Laval

FINANCIAL POLICY

Chairman's Report on Safety of Republic Taken up Tuesday

(Copyright 1935, The Havas News Agency).

Paris, Nov. 28 (CP-Havas)—Premier Laval received an unexpectedly overwhelming vote of confidence this today from the Chamber of Deputies which endorsed his policies by a vote of 346 to 225.

The vote came exactly one hour after the Chamber reconvened following a five-months' recess. Premier Laval demanded priority for his debate on financial policy and stated the life of his cabinet on the outcome.

Opposed only by Leon Blum, speaking for the Socialist, Laval was accorded an overwhelming majority when the vote was counted. He had expected no more than a majority of 30 to 40 votes up to the opening of the debate.

No Hostility

Police cordons about the Bourbon Palace kept a growing crowd moving. There was no sign of hostile demonstration.

Premier Laval's political friends were nevertheless kept on the alert to deal with any emergency. Ministers of the Cabinet of Pierre Laval had been rumored in the event of a Laval defeat.

Premier Laval, presenting his motion to get confidence in his budget over all other matters, declared:

"The government will avoid no debate nor seek to evade any of its responsibilities. The Chamber must decide upon the order of the debate."

He also declared the Chamber report of the security of the republic regime would be taken up Tuesday and interpellations on the fiscal league dealt with before then.

Early Vote Taken

Twenty minutes after the opening of the Chamber session Premier Laval the life of his cabinet on a motion to give priority to a debate on the government's financial policies.

Crowds, galleries and a gathering crowd in the rain outside the Bourbon Palace knew the political moment had arrived.

Premier Laval asked in a few words confidence for his financial discussion of the government's financial policy.

He then put opposition to the government's proposal" asked the speaker.

"Yes, yes," came cries from the left-wing benches to the left. Premier Laval assured the Deputies interpellations would be put on the question of the Paul league even before discussion of the budget.

The Chairman again put the question.

"In the event of disagreement, I ask the Chamber to express the question of confidence on his vote declared Laval.

Socialist Objection

Leon Blum, head of the Socialist party, explained why his group could not agree to giving financial powers over the budget over the heads of the Anti-Republican leagues which threaten the governments with reading the main issue. To the opposition of his Socialist and Radical fellow-deputies, Mr. Blum charged plots were afoot against the Republic and against the government's first concern should be safety.

"Can any one even consider any other matter at this very moment of the session?" he asked amid applause from the Socialist and Radical benches.

The vote began after he sat down. It was ended almost at once M. Laval hd secured his vote of confidence.

LAYS 320 EGGS IN 365 DAYS; A RECORD

Poultry owners of this section have been given a mark to aspire to by a white leghorn hen owned by Walter Baldry of Stirling, when it was laid by him on the 365 days of the past year. The record breaking hen was hatched May 17, 1934, and commenced to lay the latter part of October. The owner has established the record by keep careful track of her records.

NEW FOUNDATION FOR RINK MADE

Considerable progress in the construction of the new foundation at the city ice on South Church Street, for the curling rink, is being made and used for the storage of city owned property will enable workers now dismantling the building, to commence actual reconstruction next week. It was stated last night by city engineer Chas. Mott. Only the steel skeleton of the rink on George Street remains to be taken down.

NAVIGATION DRAWS TO UNOFFICIAL CLOSE

With thin ice rapidly forming on the fringes of the bay and harbor during the past couple days, and ice gates in and out of this district has drawn to an unofficial close, although the port is still open for the last few days of the season. Picton harbor has been officially closed for the season following the arrival of the C. S. L. freighter Scott Misener, carrying a cargo of cased canned goods. The steamer Glen Alpin has been laid up for the winter in that port.

NO RELIEF IF WORK AVAILABLE

New instructions regarding work and relief were received at the local Employment Service of Canada office today, issued by the Hon. David Croll, Minister of Labour. The instructions, which have been received simultaneously by the other offices throughout the Province declare:

"When work at fair wages is refused by a relief recipient, this fact should be reported immediately (in writing) to the municipal relief administrator. It is contrary to the policy of the government to grant relief when work is available."

"Superintendents will be able to judge whether the wage offered is fair by comparing it with that in the same occupation and district. It is not the desire to force men to work for less than the standard rate of wages."

WET FALL SURE SIGN OF BOUNTIFUL HARVEST

Drizzling rain today, which continued to fall throughout the night, or portion of the night halted outside activities in the city and on the farms throughout the entire district. The downfall is being particularly appreciated by farmers in this part of the section who point to wet fall as a sure sign or a bountiful season to follow.

2 PEN CONVICTS ARE WOUNDED

Minor Outbreak in St. Vincent de Paul Institution is Quelled

St. Vincent de Paul, Que., Nov. 28 (CP)—Three men at least were injured in what authorities described as a minor uprising of convicts in the shoemakers' shop of St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary.

Discovery of the disturbance was made today by Lt.-Col. P. A. Piuze, warden of the huge institution, who declined to reveal details of the trouble which occurred last week, other than to announce two convicts had been wounded and a guard injured while, hurt. The guard was attacked by a prisoner but it was not revealed if there had been any shooting or how the convicts had been wounded.

Villagers, comprised mainly of guards' and keepers' families, professed ignorance of the whole affair and said they had heard no shooting or other disturbances at the prison.

1932 Blaze

On Nov. 4, 1932, St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary was thrown into turmoil by riots and fire which caused an estimated damage of $600,000 to the institution.

Seven hundred convicts were in the penitentiary at that time. Several hundred revolted, seized some of the guards and set fire to the industrial buildings. The guards finally overcame the rioters, some of whom were armed with cobblers' tools and hammers. Three guards were injured, one seriously; one of the ringleaders, it began, was gruesomely burned before he and other convicts were rescued from upper floors through windows, from which the bars were removed.

Reporting the occasion to the Commons or Ottawa, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, said the disorder of the institution was of in a most exemplary manner in quelling the outbreak and extinguishing the fire.

CHEESEMAKERS GIVEN AWARDS MAKE MERRY

Stirling District Makers And Friends Enjoy Festive Occasion

PRESENTATIONS

Stirling, Nov. 28.—The Stirling Community Hall was filled on Wednesday evening with guests who gathered to enjoy the annual gathering and dance given by the members of the Stirling District Cheesemakers' Association. The event which has come to be a great deal of interest in the past years has become one of the leading social functions of the year within the district, and is looked forward to with a great deal of interest by all those connected with the industry. A carefully prepared program of musical numbers and speakers was arranged by the committee in charge and a thoroughly delightful evening spent by all those privileged to be present.

At about 8.15 p.m., the gathering was called to order by Mr. H. Carleton of Ballaway, president of the organization, who acted as master of ceremonies throughout the evening. Mr. Carleton in a few brief remarks expressed his delight in seeing such a large gathering present and then called on Mr. James Irwin, Federal Cheese Grading Inspector of Belleville. Mr. Irwin spoke on the fine grade of cheese produced in this part of the province and offered suggestions which would still further improve the product.

Question of Quality

Mr. James Cook, cheese exporter, of Belleville, emphasized the need of greater care in the preparation of cheese for shipment. The quality is hard to improve upon but to produce cheese for export purposes great care must be taken in the final preparation and it is well to remember that appearance is 1 per cent on the scoring chart. The chairman also called on Mr. Irwin as Cranston, Acting Reeve of the village, who extended the visitors and friend on behalf of the Village Council and the citizens, stressing all the same time the magnitude of the cheese industry and its importance to this particular district.

Mr. Geo. Pollard, cheese inspector of the Madoc district, voiced his congratulations to the Stirling district for the excellent showing in the year's work. Though they had not quite lived up to their excellent performance of recent years, it is well to remember that they had worked under adverse circumstances and had only fallen two points short of their excellent record. The prizes offered by the Stirling merchants had be brought, a three-fold purpose. The first being a personal interest in the welfare of the organization. The second to promote an incentive for better work on the part of the makers, and last but not least, to keep the public eye trained upon the activities in the district's basic industry. Greetings from the Rawdon district were expressed by Mr. Geo. Thomson, Reeve of Rawdon and President of the Springbrook Cheese Factory.

POLICE BLOTTER

One bicycle is reposing at the police station today awaiting its rightful owner. The bike was found by police officers while going over their beat early this week. No arrests were necessary in Belleville during the past 24 hours, making a total of 20 days in Belleville during which the cell block at the police station has been void of inmates under charges.

Sixteen transients were afforded day sleeping quarters at the police station last night, all being liberated early today. Thus far this month 300 persons have been taken care of. The largest number to appear before the night sergeant's desk was on the night of Nov. 15 when nineteen transients were given sleeping quarters while the fewest was on the 1st of the month when not a single transient put in an appearance. The next lowest number was on the 23rd, individuals only being taken in quarters on the 8th and 24th respectively.

Mr. J. Ramsay, special investigating officer of the C.P.R. railway police, was in town today assisting the local authorities in investigating the series of robberies that have committed in the city on Tuesday night, at which time the C.P.R. freight shed was robbed.

Men of Same Name Given Sentences

Brantford, Ont., Nov. 28 (CP)—When the names of George Wilson were called in police court today two men stood up. One was from Regina, the other from whose points in Ontario. The Regina man was fined $5 or 30 months for vagrancy. The other was fined $10 and costs or 15 days for drunkenness.

DEBATING CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Hosts to Aspirants For Municipal Offices at Bun Feed

Members of the Wharf Street Debating Club held their twenty-second annual time were hosts last evening to aspirants for municipal offices in a regular one election meeting held in their recently enlarged club rooms on South Front Street.

The meeting which was presided over by chairman Eddie George enabled the various candidates to deliver brief addresses to a large number of citizens, who were on hand to take part in the evening's proceedings.

As chief agitator, Mr. Harry Thompson, who annually fills the role of questioner, distinguished himself by his witty and comprehensive coverage of municipal affairs and barrage of questions, which at times baffled the various candidates in their addresses, forcing them to backtrack time and again in their answers.

Order and decorum prevailed for the better part, however, and a minimum of heckling, which is always expected was experienced. As in years past, hot dogs and pop were plentiful and following the addresses and the social hour which was sent, were distributed in liberal quantities. Efforts of individual entertainers filled in the gaps between the addresses and the latter part of the evening.

100 LB PRESSURE DURING TESTS

One of The Best Ever Held in This City

Department of waterworks employees yesterday resident were engaged on the work of tracking down and repairing numerous leaks in the city's system following the rupture of several minor joints as well as the bursting of a 6-inch pressure in the mains maintained by the pumping station. Acting with Fire Underwriters' tests earlier in the week.

During the exhaustive general tests, one of the most complete that has been given the city in some time, average pressure of 100 pounds was kept up by the pumping station. This is the highest pressure in records of the department, it was announced today by Mr. E. T. Austin, Manager of the department. With nine leads of hose on at full pressure by firemen, pressure in the mains was reduced only five pounds.

Equipment and the new motorized pumper of the local fire department also underwent complete tests by Mr. I. D. Walker of the Fire Underwriters' department, and the government duck the pumper was tested with an 11 foot lift, drawing its water from the bay and developing a nozzle pressure of 600 gallons a minute.

Although several leaks in the system were found during the tests, it was stated today by Manager E. T. Austin that none of them were serious.

Who's Who in the Municipal Contests

MAYORALTY

Ald. William Harvey—On his first term as Alderman held the chairmanship of Labor and the chairmanship of Printing and Stationery during the past year. Previous to his election as Alderman two years ago he had a long record as school trustee and chairman of the Board of Education. A resident of the city for the past many years, he is an employee of the Canadian National Railways. He has twice contested the mayoralty.

Ald. Harry Ellis—for the past five years has guided the destinies of the local fire department over which he presided as chairman. Previous to this he held the chairmanship of Printing. Born in this section Alderman Ellis has been a continuous resident of Belleville for many years, where he has successfully carried on the business of car salesman and dealer. During his past two years of office he has brought the local fire department up to a high state of efficiency.

Ex-Alderman R. P. White—Well known building contractor of the city is leading his opponent in the mayoralty honors. In offering himself to electors he brings a record of faithful service as Alderman for several terms. He has for many years been closely identified with the lumbering industry, and holds at present the office of President of the Belleville Ontario Lumbermen's Association.

Ex-Alderman W. A. Weseley—Has a lengthy record of city service years as Alderman of the city and during that time has held the most important chairmanships. Among these he has guided the finances of the city as chairman of Finance and has presented success in steering the city through some of the worst of the depression periods. He has been a life-long resident of the city and has become familiarly known as "Mayor Weseley" for newer, incoming councils.

ALDERMANIC CANDIDATES

C. E. Argue, financial agent of the city, has successfully completed financial experience during his many years in business. He has been manager of the Belleville branch bank for several years before taking up his duties in the city, seven years ago. He brings with him a record of considerable civic experience, having at one time been Reeve and Mayor of the Town of Deseronto, served in Hastings County Council and was for ten years chairman of the school board in Deseronto.

Alderman H. D. Arnott—An Alderman had year held the chairmanships of Industries, Parks, Cemetery and attorney-at-law, his legal experience was an invaluable aid to his fellow councillors during the past term. He is a member of the well known firm of Arnott, Payne and Arnott, and since his graduation from Queen's Hall in 1897, has been a continuous resident of Belleville, where he was born. He is a member of several well known local clubs and has been active in the promotion of amateur athletics.

Ex-Alderman Harold Arrowsmith—Is one of the younger citizens, whose interests in municipal affairs he has always been keen and unflagging. He has a record of four years on past city councils and was for one year a valued member of the Board of Education. During his terms of office as Alderman, he has been a consistent advocate of better street lighting and is responsible for considerable improvement in this respect upon the city's main avenues. A continuous resident for the past twenty-four years, he is a valued employee of the Canadian National Railways. He has twice contested the mayoralty.

Ernest J. Baldero, who is making his third bid for Aldermanic honors, is well known in local laboring groups. He is president of the United Workers' Association of the city and a member of the executive of the Ontario Workers' Body. Mr. Baldero is one of the younger aspirants to council, and if elected has pledged himself to the support of the laboring class he has consistently represented. He is a commercial traveller and salesman by profession.

Alderman J. W. Barlow—Is seeking election as Alderman for the second term. Previous to his service in city council, he has a record of four years' service as member of the Board of Education, during which time he held some of the most important chairmanships. Alderman Barlow is a native resident of the city having been born within the limits. A locomotive railway engineer, he was retired from the Canadian National Railways six years ago and since then has devoted himself to the service of the city.

G. Clifford Barrager—Though he has been prominently identified with many of the local service clubs and organizations, and is at present president of the Belleville Kiwanis Club, Mr. Barrager is offering himself to the electors for the first time as Aldermanic candidate. Besides his keen interest in municipal affairs he has been a staunch worker in the promotion of amateur sports. A native of Hastings County, among the first to enlist in the Imperial Regiments of Canada in Belleville for the past several years, he is at present secretary of the local branch of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association.

Clarence R. Clapp—Enters the list of Aldermanic candidates as one of the new aspirants to civic honors. Noted for his interest in affairs of the city, Mr. Clapp has maintained also an interest in all branches of local activity, distinguishing himself chiefly in the field of amateur sport. He is at present a member of the executive of the Belleville Baseball Association. Mr. Clapp is a popular manager of a local auto service station and is official examiner for operator's permits.

Alderman Thomas Conlin—In seeking a third term as Alderman, and last year held the chairmanship of Tourist and Publicity, for the past two terms. He has been active in the promotion of better facilities for the attraction of tourists and has displayed considerable effort in his attempts at having a bathing beach constructed in the city toward this end. A resident of Belleville for the past thirty-six years, Alderman Conlin has a long record of faithful service with the Canadian National Railways as a dispatcher.

Ald. Frank Anthony Domenico—Seeking re-election for the third term is one of the younger members of council and has always been identified with any forward movement undertaken by fellow councillors. Born in Brantford, Ontario, Ald. Domenico is the proprietor of a successful fruit and produce business. He is a member of several service clubs of the city, and is recognized as one of the foremost leaders in the promulgation of amateur athletics.

Ex-Alderman Wm. Donaldson—One of the best in point of service to the city in past councils, is offering himself to the electors again after a lapse of some two years. During his tenure in office he has invariably held the chairmanship of Public Works, which he has capably conducted owing to his lifelong experience gained at private contracting carried on in Belleville and other cities. He is an owner of considerable real estate in Belleville and well known for his attitude of economy.

Burton F. Fennehoy—Well known former merchant of the city, who has been retired from active business for some time is offering himself to local electors for the first time. He has always been numbered among the more progressive citizens and is well known for his keen analytical mind. Mr. Fennehoy has been identified with many of the leading service clubs of the city and particularly active in the city's welfare.

Laurie Lewis—One of the city's prominent merchants is making his first bid for the office of Alderman. A resident of the city for the past seven years, he has made good success to the firm of Jennings and Sherry. His business he has conducted successfully since. A close student of economics, Mr. Lewis since his arrival in Belleville has displayed a keen and continued interest in municipal affairs.

Edson D. Ponder—"Eddie" as he is familiarly known is entering the municipal field for the first time. Since coming to Belleville several years ago as manager of McPee's Jewellery store, he has made many friends among his business associates. He is president of the Quinte Retail Jewellers' Association, a member of the Kiwanis Club and other societies. He is an active sportsman and interested in all amateur athletics. He was born in Hastings, Ontario.

Alderman W. R. McCreary—A member of council for several terms has been noted chiefly for his diligence of action and aggressiveness of speech. During the past two years he has held the chairmanship of Water Works and has been instrumental in bringing this department up to a high state of efficiency. Besides his service in council, Alderman McCreary has a record of service as Trustee on the Board of Education. Alderman McCreary carries on a successful produce business in the city and is also head of the Canada Transport Company.

Ald. Sexsmith Sale—Is offering himself for re-election for the fourth term. During his recent tenure of office he has held the chairmanship of Public Works and previous to that was chairman of Industries. He has successfully led the fight to secure new industries for the city. Alderman Sale is a native of Belleville and has for many years carried on a heavy trade in the metal business.

Isaac Stephenson—Also one of the newer aspirants to civic honors, is a well known auto and carriage painter and decorator. He has demonstrated his keen interest in municipal affairs and has advanced many constructive suggestions for the betterment of the city. He is a well known member of many of the city's service clubs and has been a continuous resident of the city for many years.

Alderman Glenroe Thompson—Is offering himself to electors for the second term. During the past year he held the chairmanship of Labor and distinguished himself for his championship of the working class. A resident of the city for the past many years, Alderman Thompson is proprietor of one of the largest bakeries.

Alderman T. Y. Wills—Chairman of Finance and Executive during the past year in office he is offering himself to electors for the third term. A native of Belleville, he is the son of the late Judge J. Frankin Wills. He is one of the leading barristers of the city and has always maintained a keen interest in civic affairs. He is at present secretary of the Belleville Harbor Commission, to which he was appointed in 1930, and a member of many of the city's leading service organizations.

HIS ADVERTISING PAID

A Chicago ad-convict with two years' experience "in a penal institution of high national standing" as he put it, knows that advertising pays. Out of prison he put an advertisement in a paper and was perfectly frank. He mentioned his prison experience and added "I am minus the underslung jaw, talking ways and baby-killing ambitions."

Fourteen legitimate jobs were offered him through that "ad", he told the newspaper.

Was it his perfect sincerity and frankness which won him the job offers?

Other men have claimed that they are dominated by the spirit of a prison, that the police hound them and that they do not have a chance. How did this successful job-hunter escape such a complex?

This man was a good kind for he set out to find a job once he was out of prison. He also had common sense. He used newspaper advertising. He was right when he guessed that his record counted less than his sincerity.

One thing is clear. This man has the makings of a good man and is no doubt a good man. Whatever his offence which brought him to prison, it must have been less of the heart than of waywardness of imagination.

He is but a type of those who are brought to a realization of their predicament when they land in trouble. In many institutions of punishment and rehabilitation young men start to study and lay the foundation of a successful life once outside the prison walls. Only misdirection brought them where they were.

CHILDREN LEAD

Toronto Saturday Night's photographic contest brought out the fact that child studies continue to be the most numerous of the competitive entries.

Why do so many persons photograph children unless it be that children are such fine subjects, unless they possess such innocence and artlessness that please the mind of the photographer as well as the observer of the pictures and unless mankind loves children best of all things in the world.

It is a fine tribute to adults that children take so large a part in their interests. It is nature's way too. And mankind in giving so large a place to the child proves its sanity, and understanding of young life.

These photographic studies are not mere art for art's sake. They are real works of art but they have the added appeal that in them the worthwhile in life is given its due place.

MAUNA LOA ERUPTS

Volcanoes like earthquakes will remain interesting to man for in whatever age he lives or in whatever part of the world that there are volcanoes and earthquakes.

The eruption of far-famed Mauna Loa recently in the South Seas is described in the New York Times:

"Colossal cauliflowers of blue-brown smoke merging into a milky cirrus far above the normal clouds hang over Mauna Loa. Rivers of flame flow out, down the slope in a fuming river with the consistency of molasses. Forty miles distant lies Hilo, a town of 20,000. It is the thirtieth eruption in a century. In one it almost died. Tourists travel by plane and come even from Honolulu to see the sight. For Mauna Loa, perhaps as active as Vesuvius, has never caused loss of life, though its fiery streams have wiped out settlements in the past.

"At the volcanological observatory Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar contemplates the scene with a certain scientific satisfaction. It is not that he takes a diabolical delight in catastrophes, but that he is in the fortunate position of a man able to say: "I told you so." Did he not predict this eruption, as well as the one of 1933 and other outbursts before that? For years he has been literally keeping his ear to the ground of Hawaii, listening to deep rumblings. He has correlated his records with those made by his predecessors, notably the missionary Coan. He observes that agree with the sunspot cycle. To him the earth's crust is "but a prison wall." What he now beholds "is the feeble remnant of a visible surface process." Whether there is any actual relation between the solar cyclones that we call spots and the upheavals of Mauna Loa and Kilauea only an expert in the doctrines of probabilities can say. It is enough that the formula works—that Dr. Jaggar is able to warn Hawaii of possible disaster.

"Dr. Jaggar has driven steel pipes into the side of a volcano only to note that the lava is not found in deep-lying terrifying lakes as we generally suppose. As a result he has been able to formulate views which are now generally accepted. Beneath us in great hearths lies magma, a hot paste, incessantly moving and seething. When the pressure of the gas by which it is charged becomes too great it bursts its bounds and oozes out much like beer from a barrel. Yet the hot streams that pour out of Mauna Loa are not magma. Indeed, no one has ever seen it. The lava that wells out is but its froth. The, porosity and lightness of pumice stone, which is a frozen lava, testify to the correctness of this view of Jaggar's. If New York is not spouting hot lava it is because it lies over a crust which is much thicker than in Hawaii. We, too, live on a pushing, heaving mass. The old forces that made mountains are still at work. Only thin-skinned Hawaii is more aware of the process."

IN THE OLD HOUSE

In the old house where we dwelt
No care had come, no grief we knew,
No memory of the past we felt,
No doubt assailed us when we knelt;
It's not so in the new.

In the old house where we grew
From childhood up, the days were dreams,
The summers had unwonted gleams,
The sun a warmer radiance threw
Upon the stair, Alas! it seems
All different in the new!

Our Mother still could sing the strain
In earlier days we listened to;
The white threads in her hair were few,
She seldom sighed or muttered pain,
Oh, for the old house back again!
It is not so in the new.

—Arthur William O'Shaughnessy.

TRIAL BY NEWSPAPER IS ALL TOO PREVALENT IN THE UNITED STATES, as was abundantly evident in the trial of Bruno Hauptmann for the murder of the Lindbergh baby. Now New York has another sensational murder in which a beautiful actress, Vera Strez, is accused of murdering a rich German-American playboy, who was married and apparently had too many mistresses. The sensational press of New York city has been devoting most of its space for days playing up pictures of Vera Strelz, extolling her beauty and, intended or not, working up public sympathy in her favor. The dead man is inferentially accused of two-timing his handsome wife and in other ways is pictured in a manner unbecoming to a Romeo of Broadway, while a mysterious blonde beauty red-herring is being industriously dragged across the trail. Vera Strelz lawyer is featured in large type as saying "SHE WAS JUSTIFIED IN KILLING HIM AND I AM PREPARED TO PROVE IT TO THE JURY. If that isn't trying a case by newspaper what is it?

Another Vanderbilt marriage has gone to smash and Reno divorce court will be asked to renovate another affair of romance. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., and his third wife have cooled (see Winchel) and she is off to Reno to see about cutting the nuptial knot so that she can tie up with an old sweetheart, the husband of Cornelius' sister Grace who will seek a divorce from her husband so that he will be free to marry her brother Cornelius' unshackled wife. That's some ways complicated but you may be able to figure it out.

SIDELIGHT READER SAYS Belleville police deserve a lot of credit for rounding up that brick-throwing guy, who was shown by his record to be a very bad hombre. He carefully planned the job and the getaway, only the police happened to be right in his way and took him in on general principles although the jewelry store robbery had not been reported then. The chap had a gun, too, which could have made it all the more interesting if the cops had done any hesitating. He will always remember Belleville as a very suddenburg. He committed a crime and was pinched within very few minutes.

A countryman who had just arrived home from his first visit to London was describing some of the things he had seen.

"It's a town of 2,000,000 people, and full of big buildings. One day I walked down the Strand and Fleet street Then I came to a narrow road uphill, and at top of the hill was a great building with a dome and a gold cross on top. It looked champion with the sun slantin' down on it. I don't know who the place belongs to—but he keeps pigeons."

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 28th, 1913

The executive committee of the City Council has recommended that a grant of $400.00 be made to the Children's Aid Society.

Mr. Earl W. VanDusen, M.A., formerly of Sidney Township, and Messrs. Douglas and Howard McConnell formerly of Springbrook and Madoc, have passed the final examinations in law in the Province of Saskatchewan and will be called to the bar next month.

Mr. R. T. White, who has been engaged in the office of the Canadian Northern Express Company, were for about a year and a half, was presented with a beautiful wrist watch by the staff upon his departure to join the 83rd Battery at Kingston.

The fine old brick homestead belonging to Mr. Thos. English on his farm near Tyre has been completely destroyed by fire recently. All the contents of the house were also lost.

30 Years Ago

Many fast hockey players are in the employ of the Belleville Hardware Company and the puck chasers and their friends met last night in the office of the company and decided to enter a team in the City Hockey League. The team is certain to be a swift one as there are eight or nine excellent players in the employ of the company. The following officers were elected: Manager-president, Bir Mackenzie Bowell; President, Mr. E. J. Hunter; Vice President, Mr. W. G. Springer; Secretary-treasurer, Mr. G. A. Brickman; Manager, Mr. Geo. Appleton; Captain, Mr. W. Sanders; Time Keeper, Mr. Geo. Umpires, Messrs. J. Murphy and H. Holland. The club colors will be green and white.

The good old game of curling seems to be about to come to life in this city where for several years past it has been as dead as the proverbial red herring. In days gone by Belleville had curlers who took a back seat to none very few of the devotees of the "roaring game", but of late the lads of the beaten and stone became afflicted with cold feet. A determined effort is to be made this season to revive the grand sport and a meeting for that purpose will be held at Hotel Quinte this evening.

40 Years Ago

NOV. 26TH, 1893.

The new pastor of John Street church, Belleville, the Rev. T. J. Thompson, was inducted in an impressive service by the Rev. M. W. MacLean, the district chairman. The Rev. M. McGillivray of Kingston addressed the pastor and the Rev. Mr. McTavish of Deseronto addressed the congregation. Mr. A. G. Northrup on behalf of the congregation, thanked the Rev. M. W. MacLean as Moderator of the Kirk Session, and the members of the Presbytery for their kindness in holding two extra sessions to accept for them a pastor.

Today is Thanksgiving Day in the United States.

This afternoon Messrs. Stroud Bros. formally opened their handsome new store. Flowers were a prominent feature in the decorations of the store; a bank of palms and chrysanthemums forming a background for the windows, and cut flowers in vases were everywhere intermingled with the delicate china on the counters. Refreshments were served to the visitors by Mr. Ed. F. Dickson, who had for the first time his beautiful new soda fountain in operation. Many persons called to inspect the new store.

HEALTH and PSYCHOLOGY

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D.

Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Men prefer timid women to stiffle, strong, clear-headed and clear-sighted women.

Men, you see, find it relatively easy to please the timid woman and to make her happy. Most timid men are not self-assertive and dominating, therefore they do not need to come into conflict with these same traits that are so characteristic of men in general.

Women, by far and large, have known this for a long time, and if they have often allowed men to think they are timid when in reality they were anything but subdued. And men, almost invariably, have been stupid in not taking pains to discover that the ladies they were interested in were not exact, ly what they seemed.

The timid woman flatters a man's vanity. If she looks up to him and seems to admire him he is already half in love. To be confronted by powerful, intellectual, capable, superior, fearless, wise—that is what man almost lives by.

The timid woman subscribes to these standards, admires and listens and acknowledges them by her attitude of timidity. She leans on her man for support and guidance, and he responds with all the enthusiasm of which he is capable.

A man delights to command. He did it as a boy when he ordered about his regiment of toy soldiers. He gets a real thrill out of being an executive and bossing Tiber men around. But to lord it over a woman! That constitutes the quintessence of masculine joy.

HOMEMADE CANDY CHEAP BUT HEALTHY MOORES CANDY STORE

Next to Royal East Front St. Belleville

Seeing that women often lord it over men one might be led to believe that the feminine sex enjoys dominance as well.

Nothing, however, could be farther from the truth. The timid woman is able to subjugate a man, able to make him afraid of her, and invariably loses respect for him.

She often tries to intimidate him and to shout down his every thought forceful and deliberate indeed of lasting impression. But the opposite she is disappointed. Perhaps she is even disillusioned. She doesn't want her way with him through cajolery. She likes to win through the weapons of her own feminine appeal. She is disgusted when the man gives in to her tears and tantrums.

Man's liking for timidity in women and his belief that most women are timid, tends to help them to develop chivalry. But chivalry is not necessarily a sign of love or of sex. This is because women are not behaving as timidly as they formerly did. Men are beginning to think more of the woman who is free from timidity. They like her better. He would like to prove to her that trust and faith in his superiority is not misplaced.

One finds exceptions, of course. There are men who are timid themselves, and they don't prefer timid women. They are most comfortable with women who possess the masculine qualities they lack. Such an abnormal relationship rarely does turn out very happily. But the average man prefers timid women, even if he does not always find them.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Diet Hint

Persons suffering from diabetes cannot "burn up" carbohydrates for energy as normal persons do, therefore, these foods must be eliminated from the diabetic diet. Such sufferers must restrict their diet more carefully regardless of whether or not "insulin" treatments are taken. Furthermore, in every case diferent, each patient should be under the care of a physician who will carefully outline the diet.

CHINESE REBEL OVER SECESSION

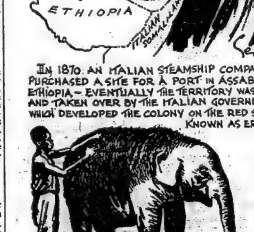
Japanese Afraid Open Hostilities Will Break Out

(Copyright, 1933, By The Associated Press).

Tientsin, Nov. 28 —Reports the Chinese garrison at Changchow has rebelled and is marching northward aroused Japanese military apprehension that the historic, bloodless autonomy movement might sweep into open hostilities. Japanese advices said 700 Ch'in-tao troops revolted at Changchow, 80 miles south of here, and were trying to join the campaign farther north for secession from the central government.

Chang Yuen-Tien, named in Japanese reports as the leader of the rebel forces, previously was appointed to a high post in the autonomous state established by Yin Ju-Keng, Chinese administrator of the demilitarized zone in Eastern Hopeh.

Three thousand Japanese troops manoeuvred maneuvers in Hopeh and yesterday's Japanese military coupe in seizing railway centres gave the army control of all railroad arteries in Hopeh Province.



Authoritative sources at Peiping, northwest and inland from Tientsin reported the sudden marching of Japanese military power in North China was a prelude to imminent political changes in Hopeh and Chahar Provinces.

DOCTOR, NURSES PLAY TRICK ON THE QUINTUPLETS

Given Dishes Which Are Unbreakable to Save Expense

18 MONTHS OLD

Nearly Perfect Says Dr. Dafoe Speaking of Charges

Callander, Ont., Nov. 2. (CP)—Yvonne Dionne—one of the sisters you've heard so much about—sat down to her breakfast table this morning and found the cereal, fruit and milk she relishes off to start each day repeating in new dishes.

Yvonne with her sisters a year and a half old today—noticed the change and started the procedure the quintuplets have agreed upon among themselves to keep their dishes. She grasped a silver spoon in her right hand and brought it down smartly on the edge of her cereal bowl.

Nothing happened so Yvonne lost the patience one can expect in an 18-months-old quint and dropped the whole dish on the nursery floor. Strangely, the dish didn't break. Wide-eyed, Yvonne looked up at Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe and her nurses who laughed somewhat sheepishly at the first trick they have played on Yvonne and her sisters.

The dish—like all others in the quintuplet home now—is unbreakable, an innovation Dr. Dafoe thought necessary to keep the home the youngsters get from the movies, newspaper photographs and endorsements from being dissipated in the crash of crockery on the nursery floor.

Tissue Block Through Window.

It all started a couple of months ago when one of Yvonne's sisters tossed a building block through a plate glass window. This gave Dr. Dionne sisters their first taste of extravagance. After the building blocks were gently stored out of sight, Yvonne and her sister tried another tactic of tantalize her nurse really got the same success as they did with dishes.

First the glass tumblers went. It really was an accident to start with. Annette dropped a glass and there was a crash. Yvonne, Cecile, Emilie and Marie liked the noise and looked theirs to the floor. Their they began on the cereal bowls.

Modest about himself, the Callander physician is more modest for babies. But today he said: "They are the nearest thing to perfect youngsters anyone could hope to see.

That's probably the broadest statement he has ever made about them. For months after they were born May 28, 1934, he was cautioned with his statements about their health. They were either "doing nicely" or "keeping away from illness". Now that he thinks they are nearly perfect the world can be satisfied they are something more than that.

OVERCOME BY SMOKE

Toronto, Nov. 28 (CP)—Scores of guests at the King Edward Hotel were roused from sleep early today when a bed caught fire in a bedroom suite on the third floor. John Henderson, guest from Orangeville, overcome by smoke, was rescued by two house officers. The flames were confined to the suite.

Smoking smoke, Robert Allen and George McAllister, the house officers, traced the fire to its source and broke down the door. Henderson, victim of the smoke, was lying unconscious on the burning mattress.

Have you found the SUNNY PACKAGE on your grocer's shelf?

It's a delicious cereal—Malted Wheat and Barley, Milling of Canada Wheat—Government Inspected—Kellogg's Advertising—Secret ingredients of correcting common constipation—the kind caused by lack of "bulk" in the diet.

Laboratory experiments show that ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" for mild constipation. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in this tempting cereal is more effective than that found in fruits and vegetables because it resists digestion better. Within the body, it absorbs water, and forms a soft mass. Gently, this clears out the intestinal waste.

Isn't this natural food better than taking constant medicines? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases with each meal. If this fails to give relief, see your doctor.

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or cook into delicious muffins. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains much more needed "bulk" than part-bran products in the red-striped package. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Medical Journal Says Treatment Not a Cure-All

London, Nov. 28 (CP Cable)—The Lancet, British Medical Journal, says the new treatment announced by Dr. N. C. Connell of Kingston, Ont., on the basis of a preliminary report published in the Canadian Medical Association Journal, does not justify the optimistic reports telegraphed to Great Britain.

The doctor's remedy for this malignant growth is a solution containing sarpasse, (a chemical formed by fusing cells) which is believed to be specific for malignant parts.

After describing the preparation and injection, intravenously or into muscles, of the sterile fluid, the Lancet said in a recent issue: "Unfortunately, Dr. Connell presents no evidence that the solution contains substance specifically destructive to cancer cells in vivo.

"Though experiments in vivo, on rats and mice, of human tumors are said to bear out his expectations, the director of the Imperial Cancer Research Fund reports that similar tests in this country have proved entirely negative.

The clinical evidence, it is added, is not convincing, all of them inoperable, and only the first two patients showed striking improvement.

In the other 24 cases there was little evidence of more than an arresting or controlling of pain with a gain in weight after the treatment.

CABINET MATERIAL IS LOOKED OVER

Labor Party in New Zealand Capture 52 Out of 80 Seats

Wellington, New Zealand, Nov. 28 (CP Cable)—Michael J. Savage, leader of the New Zealand's victorious Labor party, today looked over the available talent for a Cabinet.

He led his party to a smashing triumph over Premier Forbes' government of Prime Minister Forbes in yesterday's general election, capturing 52 and not 51 seats.

Several names were mentioned as likely Cabinet material. Among them were Peter Fraser, deputy-leader of the party; E. J. Howard, one of the most able debaters in the house, H. G. R. Mason, one of Labor's "young Canadians"; D. G. Sullivan, mayor of Christchurch, and W. Langstone, author of a plan for guaranteed prices of farm products. The final standing showed 52 Labor, 26 National Government and eight Independents elected.

LARGE NUMBER OF PERSONAL GIFTS

Italians Give Prized Possessions to Help Finance War

Rome, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Italian government's mounting pile of gold contributed by Italians to help finance war in Ethiopia, attracted today an increasingly large percentage of personal gifts.

One group of Fascists concluded a meeting at Grosseto by giving all their wedding rings to the government of the country they love.

At Milan a mother of a "martyred" Fascist contributed her wedding medal.

At Florence Marshal Pecori Giraldi distributed hundreds of medals and sent them to Premier Mussolini.

A Bishop at Pistoia, Tuscany, gave his engraving ring "for the country's defense" and another priests at Venice contributed his pectoral cross while the head of one religious order invited the brothers to give up their gold possessions.

OUT OF TRENCHES BY CHRISTMAS

Ethiopians Expect to Oust Italians Off Two Fronts

Addis Ababa, Nov. 28 (CP Wireless)—Ethiopian hopes for both fronts have inspired Ethiopian military leaders to plan a campaign to oust the Italians from Northern and Southern Ethiopian territory by Christmas if possible, it was learned today on good authority.

At least 150,000 warriors, half on each front, would be hurled forward in the first attacks with other thousands ready to take their places if they are victorious.

Eloquent gestures today expressed the determination of repulse the Italians intend to send a drive to the Lake Tana region, in the North-west, and Marshall Pietro Badoglio, has orders to intensify the Italian drive on both fronts.

Word and deed of increasing bumbers. Emperor Haile Selassie was cheered by the action of a delegation of Ethiopian business men who called to inform him they had collected 100,000 dollars by sending out circulars asking for a fund to be presented to the Ethiopian Red Cross.

SUFFERS RELAPSE FROM OPERATION

Had Bolt And Washers Removed From His Brain

Royal Oak, Mich., Nov. 28.—(CP)—Burton Whitley Hallard of (171 Rhodes Avenue), Toronto, who remained doctors by recovering from an operation in which a nut, bolt and two washers were removed from his brain, suffered a relapse in Fort Worth, Tex., and died, according to word received here.

Hallard, 34 years of age, was thrown against a windshield of a motor-car in a traffic collision near here last Sept. 16.

A hexe buckling the windshield in place broke in the crash and an 1 1-2 inch bolt with a nut and two metal washers pierced his brain. The metal pieces made a V-shaped wound just above the ear.

A delicate operation was performed by Henry Vande Kieft of the Royal Oak hospital immediately upon Hallard's admission and the metal pieces removed. Hallard remained in hospital only two weeks after the operation, was in good condition of temporary paralysis when last word of hospital authorities he left Oct. first.

SUPERVISION OF POLICE FAVORED

Police Association Approves Suggestion of Attorney General

Toronto, Nov. 28.—(CP)—A suggestion for centralized supervision of all Ontario police forces, originally arising out of the Labor kidnapping last year, was before the Ontario Government for the second time today. This time the proposal had the approval of the police association of Ontario.

The association, according to an announcement yesterday by Attorney-General Nickle, favored the appointment of an inspector-general of police to head a central police method. Under this plan police forces of the province would have regular inspection and supervision.

Mr. Roebuck, whose first big job after becoming Attorney-General in 1934 was directing the search for the kidnappers of John S. Labatt, London brewer, proposed establishment of a provincial police executive at the last session of the legislature. It was opposed and finally withdrawn at that time however.

The police association, condemned control of their forces by a committee of council.

SIR E. BEATTY PRAISES TREATY

Must Endorse Policy of Greater Trade Says Railway Head

Thorold, Ont., Nov. 28.—(CP)—Canada's trade treaty with the United States has the unqualified approval of Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Sir Edward commended the agreement in addressing the annual dinner of the Board of Trade here last night.

"Some of the public was disappointed concerning the pact without really knowing how it affected the whole of Canada," he told the business leaders of his native town. "It would be to see a better balance sheet to show how a country benefits and suffers, particularly in regard to employment as a result of the agreement.

"We must endorse the policy of greater trade . . . we cannot live without it."

The three major problems facing Canada are economic and domestic, Sir Edward asserted. They were the unbalanced budget, the enormous increase of the National Debt and government obligations that were unescapable.

JUDGE REBUKES ADVANCE AGENT

Can't Reflect on Work of Commission Without Cause

Regina, Nov. 28—(CP)—Responsibility for a critical circular issued and a rebuke from the Saskatchewan Commission investigating the Bronson, Rae, Reed, Dunn report stood in his work today.

William J. Hammell, advance agent for the commission, drafting the camp workers, accepted responsibility for the circular which, he observed in fact and fairness. He was rebuked by Chief Justice Brown, Commissioner Chairman.

"We think" said Chief Justice Brown, "it is quite improper for you or anyone else to reflect on the work of the commission without good cause. You are trying to undermine us right from the start and you don't facts right. You would be better advised if you did not talk at all."

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The British two-masted schooner R. L. Borden was found by flames in the Sesame Kolkona today several hours after the Borden's Mayday and five of the crew were rescued by the Italian freighter San Pedro about 610 miles east-southeast of New York.

Wireless reports gave no indication the six rescued men formed the entire crew.

MUSICAL AND SOCIAL EVENING FEATURED

The bi-weekly meeting of the Union was held last evening in the form of a musical and social.

A few items of business were attended to, after which the group was entertained by Messrs. Brandon and Wardle, instrumental duets; Audrey Burgess, solos; Marjorie Naylor, exposition of the methods of reading and using the "Shepherd's Pipe"; Wilbur Wright, combination guitar and harmonica, and harmonica solo.

A vote of appreciation was tendered the entertainers by Ray Dafoe.

Group singing followed; the songs were all well known and the audience took very kindly. "The Frog and the Mouse," "Old Black Joe" and "Home, Sweet Home" were among the songs, as well as the words and tune of several singing games.

A half hour was devoted to singing games, interspersed with community singing, which group united with great enthusiasm.

Refreshments, in the form of rolls, buns and coffee were served, refreshment booth style. Thirty-nine persons were present, among whom were several visitors.

Conveners of the "program and social committees were Laura Dougherty and Dorothy Tumkin. Assisted with them were Marjorie Harpe, Edna Cherrie, Marjorie Taylor, Jack Hall, Gordon Cherrie, Harry McGuire, Rev. Naylor, Wilbur Wright, Mr. Stanlis, and George Wright, group leader.

The meeting closed promptly at 9 o'clock with "God Save the King."

Welsh Boys Sing Way to Heart In Exquisite Performance

Champion Chorus And Soloists Delight Belleville Audience

PERFECTION OF ART

Champions of Wales, the land of song, as soloists and as choirs, the Ronnilly Boy Singers, who have thrice won the Royal National Eisteddfod and carried off the Paris International and other world-leading music competitions, conquered a Belleville musical audience with their flawless perfection of the Welsh lads directed by their leader Mr. Williams, who was also accompanist at the piano, feasted upon pure music. Many great artists have come out of Wales, but in the musical world nothing greater than the twelve who are now in touring Canada. The choir which sang in Belleville sings tonight in Massey Hall, Toronto.

Their program included:

Part I

Chorus—March of the Men of Harlech".

Chorus—Four part—"The Lord is My Shepherd", (Schubert).

Violin quartette—"Andantino" Song—"O Dry Thee Tears" (Del Riego) by George Hale, with Brigo Cowley playing the violin obligato.

Song—"Cradle Song", (Schubert)

Chorus—"Where'er You Walk" from Semele, (Handel), with violin obligato.

Song—Tell Me, Fair Lady", by Jackie Rees.

Song—"Songs My Mother Sung", Jackie Rees.

Choir —(a) Palestrina Madrigal, 3-part song; (b) Irish Lullaby, 2-part song; (c) Welsh song, "The Nightingale", 3-part song.

Part II

Chorus — Four-part unaccompanied—"Slumber Song of the Madonna", Billy Maldin singing the solo part.

Song—"Song of the Plough", in Welsh by Islwyn Roberts.

Song—"Par 'ell to Wales" by Islwyn Roberts.

Chorus—Two Welsh airs.

Solo—"Killarney" by Billy Maldin.

Solo—"Irishman's Visit to London", by Billy Maldin.

Chorus—"My Boy Billy", (English Folk Song), acted and sung.

God—Welsh National Anthem.

—British National Anthem.

Perfect union of director and choir and soloists was marked in every number, which was a work of art. The opening number was an excellent introduction to a program by the choir, for it bore the audience into the atmosphere of Wales and in the background against which the soloists and choir have been trained. From this first number to the last the supremacy of the chorus was demonstrated. In the four-part number Schubert's "The Lord is My Shepherd", the audience received a first impression of the beauty of the part song as the Welsh boys are trained to sing it. Symmetry and balance, resonance of the most pure type, clarity of voices, unfolded in this number. The third gave the audience an opportunity to realize the rahge of the boys' training. In the violin quartette, which was well rendered.

George Hale, who sang two solos was the first of the soloists to reveal the championship class of the young singers as solo performers. "O Dry Those Tears" and "Cradle Song" were completely satisfying in their performance, young Hale's voice being of the clearest type, of great range, and under excellent control.

The "Semele" number carried the audience to a further height of satisfaction in the beauty of its performance by the twelve boys.

Jackie Rees singing "Tell Me, Fair Lady", and "Songs My Mother Sung" caught the audience in the full sweep of the morning enjoyment of these numbers. Soft, gentle cadence in its tenure, guided by a mind and imagination which understand the themes, his voice made an indelible impression for his sheer beauty of his work. He is not yet twelve years old and yet has won 220 prizes for solo singing.

The three madrigal, which were sung unaccompanied by the boys touched for many the high peak of achievement as far as last night's program was concerned. The Palestrina "Spring Number", "Irish Lullaby" and "The Nightingale", revealed the inborn quality of the voices in all their beauty of tone, their art and training at its best, and established the work that of supreme artists. The notes were clear, the rhythm was perfect, and each madrigal swelled into a majestic ease of indescribable beauty. Boys' voices in madrigal singing are in a class by themselves —nothing can equal them for their wistfulness, and seraphic quality. "The Nightingale" was of a lighter tone, but it was marked highest also by the unfaltering rhythm and flow of the music. "Irish Lullaby" was an instance of perfection of phrase and tone.

Billy Maldin, an Irish boy, sang in clearest soprano with a fullness of volume and confidence and yet reserve which made him a popular as well as artistic singer. He took the solo part in "Slumber Song of the Madonna", sang "Killarney" and "Irishman's Visit to London". Melody, mellowness of voice, clarity of tone, are some of the threads in the texture of his rich full voice.

Islwyn Roberts, the tallest boy of the chorus, is a choirmaster with medallist over and over, again, and a winner of more than hundred and fifty prizes in musical festivals. He sang "Song of the Plough" and "Farwell to Wales". His work was mature, a perfect lyric soprano of great range. His praise is too high on his performance.

The song, "My Boy Billy", varied the program but it was still high art. It was part acting and part exquisite solo work and chorus. The boy singer in this number has one of the finest voices ever heard.

During intermission, Rev. Dr. J. Semple, minister of the church, spoke in appreciation of the choir and its high place in the art world. Mr. Victor Desmoles of Montreal, who has brought many Welsh choirs and other British artists and organizations to Canada spoke briefly.

Mr. Williams, the director, told of the development of the Ronnilly Singers, Ronnilly being the name of a school and a street in Barry, a town, nine miles from Cardiff. The choir is a free school, and is attended by about three hundred boys. Music has been for many years a free part of the school curriculum, captured the chief award in Llangollen with full marks. Thus began the Ronnilly singers in 1930. The singers went to Paris International and won there the first compondition. Then they toured Wales with thirty-four boys. That was before the war.

Their education goes on every day and the boys keep a diary of things and maidens of interest. It is expected they will return to Wales in the Spring.

One of the interesting features of the madrigal singing was when the director stood inside the circle of the boys, and directed their performance. Here was demonstrated that remarkable unity of master and student.

Natives of Wales, living at Campbellford drove to Belleville to hear the boys.

While in the city the Ronnilly Boy Singers were overnight guests at Albert College. After enjoying a morning swim in the college pool, the visitors entertained the students and staff at the morning chapel, the boys singing four numbers. Dean Principal Howard expressed the appreciation of the College in having the privilege of a visit from the group. Shortly after, the boys left by bus to fulfill two engagements today at Massey Hall, Toronto.

THANKOFFERING MEETING

Plaintfield, Nov. 28—The Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church held their autumn thankoffering service in the form of an open meeting in the church on Tuesday evening with some seventy members and friends present. The worship service was conducted by the pastor the Rev. J. F. Everson who chose for his theme, "Seeking Others." Miss Hale Hamilton presided at the piano. Miss Ida Bonter was read for a lesson. Mrs. Harry Harrison sang "There is Power Still Far Away." Mr. Everson told the story of Paul's call to become the first great missionary of the Christian church and offered prayer.

Following the worship service the following program was given:—Reading, "The Little Black Shoes was Me" by Mrs. Arthur Hall; duet solo, Mrs. Kenneth Hall; an exercise on giving by five small girls; Miss by Miss Helen and Clayton Hall and James Arties; Reading, Mrs. Frank Hodgson; Reading, "True Loyalty" by Mrs. J. F. Everson; A one act play, "Thanksgiving service this year or Not," by Mrs. Harry Harrison; Mrs. Arthur Hall; Mrs. Wilbur Elliott; Mrs. Almond Hall; Mrs. Horace Palmer, Olive Hall; Goldie Golden, Miss Hamilton; Mrs. Harry McCreary and Garth. The offering amounted to $17.36.

Sunday Schools of Sidney Hold Annual Convention

The annual convention of the Sunday Schools of Sidney was held in Scott's Church on Tuesday afternoon and evening. Nov. 19th.
There was a good attendance from eleven schools of the township.
Rev. Geo. Campbell of Trenton led in the discussion of reports of the different departments and many questions and problems were discussed by the delegates.
Rev. R. Rickard of Coboconk was this O.R.E.C. representative and his address on the evening was listened to with deep interest and they brought a resolution and a question from each group to the convention. These were then taken up in open discussion.
After this the nominating committee met and appointed the officers for the coming year after which the ladies of Scott's served the delightful supper to all in the dining hall.
The L.U.D.O. class of young people of Scott's Sunday School led in the evening devotion after which Rev. F. Horton of Foxboro took charge of the installation of officers.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Nov. 28 (CP)—Toronto Industrial Market held strong today on quite a reduced volume in the aggregate. International Nickel was the feature, rising to 41 1-8 on heavy turnover, up 3-4 for the day. Consolidated Smelters also advanced to a new high for the year at 30¾.
Because of the holiday in the United States, the usual interested leaders moved slowly but all held their ground with exception of the Nickel which lost 1-8 to 1 1-4 inch. Among the liquors Walker's Common was the firmest at 31 3-4.
Canadian Dredge, Penny Farmer, The Canada Bread issues and Bread-ners were active and firm to strong. Brazilian sold at 10 1-8 up 3-8.

Toronto, Nov. 28 (CP)—Base metal stocks again held the spotlight on the Toronto mining market today and some new highs for the year were registered. Golds were firm and the silvers a little stronger.
Sherritt Gordon sold up to 12p, highest for the year for the year by 17 cents. It was up 19 cents on the day. Sudbury Basin, Falconbridge, Fend Orelle, Ventures and Coast Copper were all higher and Horsada and Hudson Bay were holding gains this afternoon.
Higher prices ruled in the golds for Flin Crow, Buffalo Ankerite, God's Lake and Central Patricia and in the Kirkland Lake Kirkland and Castle firmed up on good volume.

ITALIANS RETREAT BEFORE ETHIOPIANS

Though reports are conflicting from Rome and Addis Abeba, it is certainly ascertained that Italians are retreating on two fronts at least as Ethiopian troops launch counter-offensive. The ABOVE map shows areas of fighting. The invaders are operating against bands in the Lake district to the south, and are trenching against others on the Takkaze River (3) and columns are operating against one in the mountain fastness of Lalibela (2). No word has been received for several days on the eastern Italian column (4). The Ethiopians have completely recaptured the Saza Beneh-Anais region (5), and report they have retaken Gabredarre and Gorshai (6) from the main Italian southern front. Another Ethiopian army has been reported advancing down the Webbe Shibeli(7)

Board Room Gossip

As supplied by Biggar and Crawford by Financial Service.

INTERNATIONAL NICKEL

International Nickel Company of Canada, Ltd., is organized as a wholly owned subsidiary of the Whitehead Products Co. of Canada, Ltd., to manufacture monel metal hot water tanks at Port Colborne, Ontario, it is announced by J. C. Nicholls, assistant to the president.
Speaking about platinum, Mr. Nicholls stated that although there is only one troy ounce of platinum contained in every 20 tons of nickel-copper ore, still the efficiency of modern mining and refining methods made it possible to recover almost all this platinum as a by-product of nickel. The fact that Canada leads the world in the production of the platinum metals is due in large part to the recovery of such small percentages.

CONIAURUM MINES

The Company notifies shareholders that it is offering Diamond shares to its own shareholders, at 20 cents a share, shareholders of record December 14th, 1935, and the purchase price must be paid in full, on or before February 15th, 1936.

One security that has given short the best run for money of late is some months is International Nickel. The issue has held comparatively steady in spite of efforts of the public has become convinced that the earning prospects for 1936 are most promising. As earnings expand, dividends are bound to be increased.

Although the monopoly position with respect to nickel resulted in practical stability of earnings during the depression, earnings were adversely affected by the decline in volume and by the low prices secured for the by-product copper. With copper output at present 13 cents per share, the recovery in copper prices from a year ago will provide a pound to around 9 cents means a difference in earnings for Nickel of better than 50 cents a share per annum.

Research and technical development has resulted in greatly widening the uses of nickel as an alloying metal. One of the most important uses are made with iron, copper, chromium and other metals. Perhaps the most outstanding product developed in recent years is monel metal, a patented copper-nickel alloy possessing the tensile strength of steel and the ductility of copper.

Although nickel finds outlets in practically all industries that utilize metals to any extent, the most important single channel for consumption is the automotive trade, which is estimated to account for about one-third of total nickel demand. This industry has shown a very rapid rise in recovery, and has been greatly encouraged as to the outlook for the coming year by the excellent public reception of the November automobile shows held in Canada and New York and currently in progress in Montreal.

Standard Statistics, comment on the reciprocal trade treaty between Canada and the United States, has the following comments to make:
"In sum, therefore, no one industry should be greatly harmed by the trade agreement, and except for the liquor compromise, no industry will receive more than moderate benefits. Trade between the two countries will be stimulated, the position of American manufacturers in competition with British exporters to Canada will be improved and the net effect on the price level at should be helpful. No change in investment policy toward Canadian companies or American companies affected by the tariff agreement, is considered necessary."

FORD OF CANADA

The directors of Ford of Canada are scheduled to meet ere long when the question of dividend on the Class "A" shares for the half six months ending with December 31st will be considered.
The President, W. R. Campbell has stated that sales this year would set a record. Whether this means that a higher disbursement will be made to shareholders, only time will tell, the market action of Ford of Canada has not been impressive, especially since a new government at Ottawa was elected.

Livestock

Toronto, Nov. 28 (CP)—There was a typical Thursday opening on the Toronto livestock market today with no buyers on the cattle market and no early sales. Calves are very dull with 150 heavies and vealers offered from Wednesday. Hogs were steady, sheep and lambs dull. About 1500 cattle, 200 calves, 200 hogs and 300 sheep were received yesterday.
Receipts as reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were:
Cattle 940, calves 20, hogs 36, lambs 40.
Calves were very dull with no vealers sold.
Hogs were steady at the opening at $11.25 for bacon, $11.00 for $7.25 off truck and $7.75 off car.
No good lambs were offered, with common lambs selling at $5.00.

INTERPROVINCIAL PLACES TEN ON SQUAD

Big Four Remains Stronghold All-Eastern Gridiron Material As All-Star Team is Named

Coulter, Zvonkin And Beach Only Ones Not in Big Four

SQUAD HAS POWER

By ELMER DULMAGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Interprovincial Union remains today the stronghold of all-eastern gridiron material. They'll soon be shouting: "Join the Big Four and get on the All-Star."

The fourth annual Canadian Press all-star eastern team, announced last night, shows a predominance of interprovincial talent. Only Bobby Coulter, University of Toronto Centre and quarterback and Sarnia-Detroit Cormorant fullback, honourable half-back, were able to break through for first-team recognition.

Sports writers and coaches, who voted in the Canadian Press poll, seemed to be determined that college football didn't measure up, perhaps judging by Hamilton's 44-0 conquest of Queen's University in the season's semi-final game here. Apparently they believed Sarnia Imperials to be a mighty, but untried force.

So they took only the dazzling Coulter, field general of a brilliant Toronto Varsity squad and the impressive Zvonkin, 220 pounder of Queen's, from the college and football fray, from the ranks of the O.R.F.U. ranks for highest possible honors of placing on the mythical team. Each of these players received solid backing from all sectors.

Expect Few Arguments

The Big Four, supplying a ruggedness of rocklike proportions and seven stars, where experience and judgment are the essentials in addition to brawn, landed the other 10 places. There will likely be few arguments about the selections.

Besides Coulter and Beach on the backfield named placed Tod Morris of Argonauts, Rock Welch of Hamilton Tigers and Abe Smith of Ottawa Rough Riders. Morris and Elworth Roughton, Morris and Elworth haven't played a bad football game between them in three seasons and the spectacular Welch came along with such a performance in the game after mid-season that he could be placed nowhere but at the top.

A dozen outstanding players trail at this quintet, at the polls, and the five who won second-team honors constituted such performers as Rocky Bruce, Bob Fleming, Art Marks of U. of T., Herbie Westmore of McGill, Johnny Munro and Hugh Oscadnie of Queen's, Art Upper of Balmy Beach and Stan O'Neil of Ottawa.

Johnny Ferraro, forward-passing ace of the Tigers who accounted for a part that started Welch and the Tigers on their title drive, took flying start on second team. The offensive halves were Hugh Gleason (Bert) Stirling, Hamilton veteran and the elusive Joe Connelly of University of Toronto.

The selectors voted specifically on secondary defense halves, placing Beach on the first team and Ted Ryan of Montreal, formerly of Hamilton Tigers, on the second team up. This was Ryan's first season in Canadian football.

Most Chosen

Ab Nor, who made Balmy Beach one of the most dangerous outfits in the east with his punting and forward passing went in for consideration post on the second team. Until Nor was injured, the Beachers were regarded as a formidable set that had a chance to lift Queen's O.R.F.U. title. With Abbie in hospital, the Toronto east-end club had no chance whatever.

The real power of the Big Four showed in the solid Hamilton representation with Buddy Mickey of Ottawa at centre, George Pierce, a Montreal and Jim Parlavecchio of Argonaut at insides, Pete Jokiza and Tommy Burns at middles and Wes Cutler and Len Button at outsides. No player outside the Big Four could be made the first all-eastern line in four years.

Jerry Brock of Hamilton Tigers nosed out Reg Barker of Queen's for snap on the second team by the narrowest of margins. Brock won two first-team votes and six for second team, giving him a total of 21 on the basis of three points for each first ballot and one for a second-team ballot. Barker's count was 17-10-1.

Second team insides were Bob Reid of Balmy Beach and Pat Butler of Sarnia, with three or four players making it close. Ernie Hendry of Hamilton and Abe Zvonkin of Queen's lined up at middles and Stan Bruce of Sarnia and Sammy Simpson of Hamilton at outsides.

THREE IN TIE

Seattle, Nov. 28 (AP)— Seattle Seahawks defeated Calgary Tigers 4-1 here last night, creating a three-way tie for the dollar prize in the Northwestern Hockey League.

The result left the Seahawks, Tigers and Edmonton Eskimos bunched with four points each. Portland and Vancouver Lions head the standings with eight points each.

Cam Frondick, with two, Johnny Nasberg and Johnny Sheppard scored Seattle's goals with Stew Adams getting Calgary's counter.

$75,000 IS ASKED FOR A. SIMMONS

But Mickey Cochrane of Tigers Thinks Price Too High

New York, Nov. 28 (AP)—One more outfielder-maybe Al Simmons, all the world champion, Detroit Tigers need to feel pretty sure of winning the flag they've got beneath their belts.

That is the word of Mickey Cochrane, now vice-president and field as well as manager, and sole purchasing agent in the ivory market. Returning from a conference in Florida with Walter O. Briggs, new owner of the Tigers, Cochrane admitted that he was after a hard hitting outfielder but that so far he and his old pal Jimmy Dykes could not agree on a price for Simmons. Dykes had asked $75,000 and Genial Walter.

Otherwise Mickey is pretty well satisfied to stand pat on his club, which has some promising reserves coming along. Ruby York from Beaumont was described as a one-man ball team, "who can run, field the outfield, first base and hit like a son-of-a-gun. He may be the answer to the outfield problem," said Mickey.

ONLY 2 GAMES ON SCHEDULE

(By The Canadian Press)

An abbreviated National Hockey League schedule provides Canadian and International Black Hawks from Chicago with a chance to get back into the running for the road trip is totally downhearted. The Hawks started as the only unbeaten team in the circuit and promptly bumped into Montreal Maroons, who upset them 4-1.

Tonight they engage the Rangers in New York. The veteran, Lester Patrick, machine may be outgeared by the kids, shifty Cowley, Boucher and Hill is getting fine goal protection from Davie Kerr and big Alex Shibicky is one of the best defence himself this season.

Rangers still have a shot to score rapidly with less chances than most teams and all home expect to beat Chicago.

Montreal Canadiens move into Detroit for the first of other scheduled game of the night. No team is a favorite playing against the Wings on their own ice but the Frenchmen has got some high obstacles already this season.

Ernie Dusek Gives O'Mahony Going Over

Cleveland, Nov. 28 (CP)— Ernie Dusek wrestling clan and his supporters today are planning clamoring for a quick return match between Ernie Dusek and Jim Londos. Ernie Dusek and Danno O'Mahony, the Irish-man, generally admitted to be the champion of the grapplers.

In a bout here last night that resembled more a battle royal than a wrestling match Ernie Dusek lost to Danno when he was disqualified for fouling.

Ernie Dusek floored O'Mahony with a kick and then knocked Referee Bill Weideman, the first time he had ever been floored in the ring.

Later, after the confusion Weideman ruled Dusek had fouled out.

Ernie Dusek's brother, Steve, the referee to his dressing room where one of them took a sock at Weideman. Detective Philip Nova also was present. Police chased the fans from the room. Dusek scaled 230 and Danno 300.

BOOT TO BE DISCHARGED

Detroit, Nov. 28 (CP)—"Tank" Boyd, Windsor Bulldog hockey player, was reported to be discharged from hospital today after treatment for concussion of the brain, suffered in a game here Tuesday. Boyd, a resident of Toronto during the off-season, has no fracture, according to Dr. C. L. Tonnat. Detroit Red Wing Club physician. The accident occurred when the Windsor player collided with Joe Bretto, husky defence-player. Bretto has been acquired on option by the Bulldogs.

HOT CARD FOR A COLD NIGHT

"A hot card for a cold night" is the slogan the promoters are advocating for this evening's wrestling card at the Jubilee Rink, featuring Walter Farnell, the pugnacious St. Catharines backer of the squared circle, and Al "Sunny" Dunlop, the husky bone-crusher from Cleveland, while as equally as good supporting card or two other bouts is also included. Owing to the lateness in the season and the fact that the rink will be manufactured in the Arena, this show will terminate wrestling at the Arena for the current season. It was announced by the Arena officials this morning.

Frank from a healthy training trip in Northern Ontario, where he has been ranging through the bush for over two weeks, Al Dunlop returns to the ring for the first time since of winning the bout from Jack of John Kelaan here some time ago. "I changed my style against Kaiser, much to my sorrow, but at that bout he met with a style that he had never before been a different story told, but let's forget that as I'm going to give him a different look the face in Belleville and promise to give this husky Cleveland a real beating" stated Dunlop over the long distance telephone last night at which time he stated he was never in better shape. After handing Kaiser his first defeat, he has asked the promoters to get either Chief Lone or Al Dunlop for this week. "Those birds think they're tough, well I'm going to show them how tough they are" stated Dunlop, who is a Belleville ring and it's going to be a different story in the Jubilee Rink when he steps in the all well and good, I'll accommodate them. The game was that of a clean member, the tougher they are the harder they should go fair" stated the cheery Farnell as he strutted around the dressing room a la Howard Cosell. Both men are promoters sensing the atmosphere angled and with Farnell's record from Ottawa and then procured Dunlop's signature for what they believe will be the best card of wrestling card in Belleville.

The preliminary bouts include a 45 minute affair between the "Red Terror" and Eddie Quinlan, referee and a 30 minute curtain-raiser, that brings together Joe Thomas, that Belleville amateur sensation, that will be named at ringside, in the final wrestling card of the year.

Belleville in Third Place in Hockey Loop

First Win by Belleville Team In Kingston Hockey Loop Scored at Masoud's Expense

Count is 4-2 And Goals Scored on Combination Plays

PENALTIES LIGHT

Meet Garrison Team in Next Contest on Monday

Displaying mid-season form and presenting perfect combination play the Belleville hockey team broke into the win column in the Kingston City Hockey League here with a 4-2 victory over the Kingston Masoudo squad at the Jock Harty Arena last night. A goodly crowd of interested spectators were on hand to see the Thomas-led aggregation turn in their best performances of the season. The Belleville team played a smooth in the initial frame the locals monitored the count on a pair of Harry Ingram solo effort forged to the fore in the middle canto, never to be headed. Shrewsbury by his sensational "Buster" Whitbeck and Carl Morgan, the Belleville team played a smooth brand of hockey, their combination plays completely baffling their Kingston opponents. The game was played cleanly throughout, only two penalties being imposed, Kingston cut the entire game, one going to each team. A concord fining for each ad attack on the part of the Belleville team assured victory however they clearly showed they played outplied in two goals being scored in their favor as the result of fine combination work.

St. Louis Tea Count.

Play opened fast with both teams displaying fine form in their first encounter. On numerous occasions, the Belleville boys threatened to be thwarted by the Masoud defence and the miraculous stops of Scrutton in the nets. Not until after seventeen minutes of the first period had elapsed did the red lights shine, then in favor of Kingston, however. Bishop slipped past the Belleville defence when Ingram relayed the puck to the left side, later passing out to the unprotected Bishop who

Nov. 28 ,1885. Under his guidance the Frenchman won the Stanley Cup in 1930 and again in 1931. He resigned as coach in the fall of 1933 and now coaches Verdun Maple Leafs, of Montreal, an amateur club.

Playing mid-season form hockey the Belleville panthers registered their initial win in the Kingston City League last evening with a 6 to 2 win over the Masoud's squad at the Arena. The locals were missing the puck well as can be proven by the fact that three of their four goals were the result of combination plays. "Buster" Whitbeck and Carl Morgan joined the local squad last night, giving Manager Thomas-led aggregation the punch of the newcomers jarred in splendid style along with the veterans. Now that the locals have broken the ice of victory there should be no stopping them in the near future. Their toughest game of the schedule comes next Monday with the crack Fashion-Craft squad. On Monday the Belleville team meet the Garrison team of Kingston.

Today being Thanksgiving Day across the American border many hockey and football games will be played this afternoon while Saturday's schedule will present the last classic all across the continent. The Canadian finals, Rose Bowl, Sugar Bowl, Orange Bowl and Pasadena main as outstanding features, however.

Free State Team Stands Supreme At Winter Fair

Toronto, Nov. 28—(CP)—The Irish Free State team stands supreme among military officers' of the nations of the world as an international competition at the Royal Winter Fair Horse Show. A thrilling jumping course gave the Irishmen top honors and added to their unique trophy and their third victory in the classic event in the show ring.

The United States army team was victorious on two nights and the French team on one, with the honors in the jumps for one night. Chile, Holland and Great Britain failed to come out on top in any of the main jumps.

The winning trio of the Irish team, who won last night by showing Augusto Silva and ran up a faultless score of 17. It was the only time a clean ride was turned in by the show this year.

The $1,500 President's Junior stake, donated by Col. Harry McCrea, President of the Royal Winter Fair, was won by Miss Margaret Eaton of Toronto, riding Captain Cook. The event was open to jumpers.

PEGGERS ON WEST COAST

Winnipeg, Nov. 28 (CP)—Winnipeg, 1935 Western Canada rugby champions, were reported today waiting for an exhibition game at Windsor-Detroit, and then the Dominion championship battle December 7, against either Hamilton Tigers or Sarnia Imperials.

A rousing send-off was given the squad of 24 players under Coaches Bob Fritz and Bert Oja last night, and among the crowd shouting goodbys and good luck were Premier Bracken of Manitoba and Mayor John Queen of Winnipeg.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

"No double, tonight's wrestling card may be the best of the current season," stated arena officials this morning. The main event and that is was in the Belleville Arena on Dec. 10 of last year. The local promoters have been trying to arrange original plans for "villains' night", but the paper the champ seems to be for the better as three good bouts have been arranged.

Tuesday Walter Farnell nee Al Dunlop and a real introduction to a local wrestling audience, both have a great following in this city and both are able to stage the calibre of bout that attracts the grunt-and-groaners in Belleville. The signing of Dunlop and Farnell to terms was somewhat sensational, even was a ten-strike as Dunlop must make his last appearance in Belleville while Farnell is fast ascending the limelight ladder and only last week stole the show with his aggressiveness. The semi-final bout of tonight brings together two old favorites of the local ring in Bill Handley and Eddie "Red Devil". Then there's the opening preliminary as well.

R. W. "Luke" Lucas, who has escorted about for the Napanee Oilberds for these past two or three seasons, announced today he would sponsor an O.B.A.A. ball club in Deseronto during the season of 1936. "Luke's", as he is known to Napanee and oil magnate way down east, will call his team the Oilers. It is understood that the Deseronto entry will apply for a class "B" rating and a berth in the Bay Quinte League and may play their games at the Gilbert Memorial Park, owing to the fact that Deseronto is slightly short on grounds for adequate baseball diamonds.

Walter Gerow, Napanee's sport mansize, took us to task recently regarding our remarks anent him dropping his crack junior team of 1933 to Class "B" ball competition this season. He states, "Listen, you dumb chick, don't you realize that the best team we ever had was that last year was playing in final year in the junior ranks and I want you to understand we're not like others I know, we're not going to get junior players on the ice over age. That's why we're playing intermediate hockey and next junior, get me?" snapped Walter. "Sure we get you. Wait, but why get so hot under the collar?"

The hockey moguls up around Peterboro and Oshawa are being mighty cautious in relationship to actual blunt statements relative to the Intermediate O.H.A. race for this season. At any rate here's a suggestion from the Peterboro scribe:

"Coach Bill Hancock of Oshawa and Manager Eddie Wright of Port Petes have had several phone conversations lately. Hancock is anxious to enter his Cherries—Toronto Mercantile entry now—in the O.H.A. intermediate ranks. Wright is also

High School Editors Convene at Toronto

On Nov. 22nd and 23rd six members of the Kiwanior staff attended the tenth annual convention of High School Editors held in West Hall of the University of Toronto. This convention is sponsored by Sigma Phi, women's professional Journalistic Fraternity of the University. Those representing the Kiwanior were Miss Margaret Bunting, Beth Parker, Marjory Chambers, Shillah Burrows, Bill Harvey and Wesley Semple.

On Friday morning Miss Mary White, the president of Sigma Phi sorority welcomed the representatives from the secondary schools all over Ontario. The honorable H. J. Cody, the president of the University of Toronto gave the greetings and explained the historical interests of West Hall where the meeting was being held. He added this enlightening talk with the following terse definitions "Knowledge is knowing thing- which hath been done." "Wisdom is knowing what to do". "Skill is knowing how to do it."

The purpose of the Convention was then outlined by Mr. J. G. Dunlop the director of University Extension. He explained that the object of these conventions was to raise the standard of the Secondary Schools Magazines. Art and cover design was then discussed by Mr. A. A. C. Pearson, President of O.S.A. He criticized the use of the crest on the cover of a school magazine and also complained of the illegibility of some.

Mrs. John Creighton of Victoria College spoke on the literary side of the magazine. She divided the discussion of the short stories in two groups, those in a foreign and those in a local setting. Those dividing the last year group thought lacked detail and sounded as if the information had been copied from a book. Her preferred subject matter chosen from immediate surroundings.

At 11.30 the meeting divided up into four groups which gave everyone an opportunity of obtaining details on whatever part of the work they were particularly interested. Mr. Martin B. Loeb who is news editor of "The Varsity" led a lively discussion on the Editorial work in the magazine and stated that there was a possibility of a course in training of writers in secondary schools. "All of us feel," he said "That expressing ourselves in writing is somewhat of a problem if it be perfectly natural."

Mr. D. H. Harper, sports writer of the Toronto Globe offered new ideas of presenting the sporting page. His discussion on photography led by Mr. Colin Farmer of the Canadian Club of North Toronto Collegiate, a School Camera Club was suggested as being a valuable means of taking care of the photography in the magazine. Typing and cover design, under Mr. Lorry Brigden a member of the staff on the Gallery of Toronto, were given further details on art in another discussion group. At 12.30 a photograph of the convention was taken.

The afternoon session opened with an address by that well known wit of the Toronto Star Weekly, Gregory Clark, who advocated more boldness and advised the students to write about the things of the students in their magazines which they alone can know. Some new ideas on writing were set forth by Mr. Alton Johnson.

All three wheels the convention set out in four buses to visit The Star Building, Maclean's Publishing House or Brigden's Engraving Plant. A banquet was held Friday evening in Hart-vera Hall, Victoria College at which the prizes for the magazines were presented—Collegiate Institute winning the prize for the best magazine. Mr. D. W. Sinclair, the first woman professor on the staff of the Finance and Commerce Department of the University, was the guest speaker. This was followed by a delightful dance in Newman Hall.

Saturday morning Mr. Dickinson spoke on the organization and method of forming the school magazine. He believed the teachers had too much influence in the magazine and that the school journal is by most schools a means of expressing the attitude of the youth of today. He stated that although the number of pupils had changed considerably in the last ten years, the magazine which should always be the chief means of expressing this attitude, had changed little.

Herbert Hodgins, editor of Mayfair, after a brief account of his interesting career, stated that experience much valuable information on the building together of the magazine.

Then, as on the previous morning the delegates were split up into groups after which reports were made on the discussions.

Principal M. W. Wallace of University College gave the closing address and expressed the hope that these members of the convention would return next year as students in the University. A choice was offered for either visiting the Museum or the Royal Ontario Museum. Much credit is due to these conventions which are a valuable asset in raising the standard of the High School magazines of Ontario by giving the students an opportunity of obtaining the advice of eminent people in the journalistic world.

Rannie and Mrs. Ross represented Hoard's United W.M.S. at a meeting held in St. John's United Church, Campbellford, on Tuesday afternoon, when it was a great privilege to hear two young returned missionaries, Rev. L. W. Schnell of Northern Saskatchewan and Rev. A. H. Graham of Busselpura, India. Rev. Schnell was sent down to Ontario for a couple of months to help before the people the necessity of supporting missions in the West. Rev. Graham spoke very impressively of the revival going on in India at the present time. He believeth hath eternal life" had not lost its power to save souls and earnestly seek after truth and told of wonderful and instant perseverations converts had to undergo after confessing Christ. Rev. Graham also spoke at a number both in the church that same evening under the auspices of Y. P. and Rev. Schnell addressed the Men's Club of St. John's United Church Wednesday, both giving profound impressions on their hearers.

Great sympathy is expressed to Mr. Harry Rannie and family in the his young wife, who leaves a young child scarcely two weeks old. Mrs. Barnum was thirty-one years of age.

Mrs. W. A. Runse and Isabel spent several days in Stirling last week, and while here her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Anderson. Mr. Hume, who is a former resident, also called on them and Mrs. Hume accompanied them home.

Stirling and District

STIRLING—A great deal of interest was taken in the illustrated travelogue through Palestine by Rev. F. J. Anderson in St. Andrew's church on Monday evening. Mr. Robinson who recently took the helm of this section of the work, which is now gaining prominence in the news of the day, was able to give a detailed description of prevailing conditions there. The many beautiful slides which were imported from Palestine only a short time ago contained a number which had never before been shown in Canada. The artistic manner in which the operator passed from one picture to the other, and introduced a new method of shading and fading out, caused a great deal of comment among those who were privileged to be present. During the program special solos and instrumental music was introduced by Mrs. Knight, Miss Grace Robinson and Miss C. B. Grunert, well known pianist of Chicago. The lecture possessing a wealth of educational materials delivered in a manner which gave it a touch of humor was a fitting climax to Mr. Robinson's week stay in the district.

St. John's A.Y.P.A.

The A.Y.P.A. meeting of St. John's A.Y.P.A. was held in the vestry on Monday evening and was opened with the singing of the hymn, Mr. Kenneth Morrow, vice, president of the organization, was in charge of the meeting and Rev. A. S. McCormell led in prayer. During the business period the meeting which followed many items pertaining to future activities were freely discussed, and the secretary's report of the previous meeting read and adopted. The program planned for the meeting was one of unusual character embracing numbers contributed by nearly every member of the A.Y.P.A. The instrumental numbers offered by the Stapley sisters were very well given and heartily entered by everyone. The final number given on the program was a "Musical Efficiency Contest" directed by Miss L. Fatres. This contest was quite original and proved very entertaining. The meeting was closed with prayer by Rev. A. S. McCormell.

Boy Scouts to Sponsor Amateur Show

Extensive preparations are now under way for a big amateur night to be held in the village in the near future under the auspices of the Stirling Boy Scouts. Everyone possessing talent of any sort will be given a chance to show their wares before a large audience and a special staff of judges will award the final decisions in the various classes. The Boy Scouts of the village have not sponsored any such enterprise for some time and it appears that since their re-organization meeting which took place last week they are starting the season with a bang. There is an abundance of unusual talent within this Stirling district and this evening which promises to be something new in the way of entertainment should prove very interesting. Arrangements are being made by those in authority with a Canadian Broadcasting station to give an audition as a prize and no doubt the transportation to and from the place wherein the audition is to take place will be provided or at least shared by the local troop. This idea is something different in Stirling and already everyone is picking the possible winners.

St. Paul's Young People's Society

St. Paul's Young People's Society held their regular meeting in the church parlours on Monday evening. Rev. R. W. Rowland presided over the devotional part of the meeting which included the singing of several hymns, Mr. R. Hulin led in prayer, and Miss Neta Cranston read the scripture lesson for the evening. Miss Dorothy Eggleton took charge of the remaining portion of the program. The committee in charge of arranging the evening's program did exceptionally well and the results of their efforts was a fine entertainment for all present. Mrs. R. W. Rowland and Mrs. Arthur Fryar offered an instrumental duet. "The Wind's Flight" and Miss Nina Carlisle sang as a soprano solo "Little Mother of Mine". Several selections by the orchestra offered at various intervals throughout the evening were well given and added interest to the splendid program.

Mr. Fred Egle the speaker of the evening gave a splendid address setting forth his theme in the form of a challenge "Dare We Be Christian". He spoke of the manner in which we as Christians receive natives of other lands to our shores. We as Canadian citizens and as Christians accept the responsibility of setting an example to these people," stated the speaker, who also spoke of the evil effect some of the films produced in so called Christian America and sent forth into other lands because they are barred by the censors on this continent. The life portrayed in those films are accepted by many people in other lands as Christian, and the efforts of missionaries are seriously hampered by them. The topic was well given and Mr. Egle held the interest of the gathering with his many helpful suggestions for the solutions of the many problems facing Christianity today.

The final number on the program was an interesting contest under the direction of Miss Marjorie Hagerman. This contest was one which tested the car knowledge of the members present and the first honors for the results were awarded to the Red division. The meeting was brought to a close with the repeating of the Mizpah Benediction.

SENATOR MURPHY BORNE TO GRAVE

Church And State Officials Pay Last Tribute In Ottawa

Ottawa, Nov. 27 (CP)— Senator Charles Murphy was buried today after an impressive funeral service attended by high officials of the Catholic Church and the Dominion government.

The former Postmaster General was laid to rest in Notre Dame cemetery, the same plot of ground in which lie the remains of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the leader whose cause he championed and who summoned him to the cabinet as a young man.

Archbishop O'Brien of Kingston was celebrant at the solemn mass of requiem in St.-Therese's Church where the funeral service was held. Mgr. Joseph Charbonneau was Arch-Priest and among the deacons was Father Nicholas Fillas, son of Senator Murphy's teachers at Ottawa University 50 years ago.

The Dominion cabinet was represented by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Acting Prime Minister; Hon. Chas. Dunning, Minister of Finance; Hon. C. G. Power, Minister of Pensions and National Health, and Hon. J. G. Elliott, Postmaster General.

Members of the Senate who attended included Rt. Hon. George P. Graham of Brockville, Senator McGuire of Toronto, Lacoste of Tecumseh, Que., Sharpe of Winnipeg and Lemieux Ouie of Ottawa. Others present were Harry Cassidy, Secretary of the Ontario Liberal Association, and P. M. Dewan, M.P., of Woodstock.

The government of the Irish Free State was represented by J. Leydon and J. P. Walshe who came to Ottawa from Dublin to attend an inter-governmental conference on aviation and attended the funeral in recognition of Senator Murphy's lifelong interest in Irish affairs.

DR. CODY IS HOST TO TWEEDSMUIR

Governor-General Entertained at Luncheon In The York Club

Toronto, Nov. 27.—(CP)— Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General was entertained at luncheon in the York Club today by Dr. H. J. Cody, president of the University of Toronto.

The guests, numbering 65, included members of the Board of Governors of the University; the councillors on Honorary Degree; administrative officers of the University, the president of the Alumni Federation and the presidents of the Students' Administrative Council.

The honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon His Excellency at a special Convocation this afternoon in Convocation Hall.

Lectures and laboratory classes were withdrawn in mid-afternoon in honor of the visit.

HYDRO ENERGY USED FOR HEAT

More Consumption For This Purpose Than Any Other Says T. S. Lyon

Toronto, Nov. 28. —(CP)— Outlining how the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission use more power for production of heat than for any other purpose, T. Stewart Lyon, Commission chairman, told the Electrical Club today.

Electric power for heating purposes is making great inroads in industrial life, Mr. Lyon said.

The International Nickel Company of Canada will shortly use between 8,000 to 10,000 horsepower of electric energy for melting copper mined at Sudbury, Ont.

There are more than 500,000 Ontario homes using appliances daily for production of heat, and up to this present time Domestic heat loads of the commission have been greatly in excess of the Industrial heating.

"The Commission has fewer than a dozen customers taking electric energy for the production of heat under so-called electric boilers," said Mr. Lyon. The heat load utilized in 1934 for the production of steam was 81,394,611,000 kilowatt-hours. For this the Commission received the sum of $800,386.

BOY SCOUTS BACK FAMILY OF HERO

Executive Will Take up Case of Sister of Boy Scout Hero

OTTAWA, Nov. 28.—(CP)—The Dominion executive of the Boy Scouts Association of Canada will take up at the next meeting, December 11, the case of Mrs. James Johnson, Riverside, Ontario, sister of Jackie Cornwell, V.C., whose plight yesterday was brought to the attention of Prime Minister Mackenzie King in a telegram from the 51st Toronto Boy Scouts.

Mrs. Johnson, anxious to obtain the pecuniary money to bring the ashes of her family to England, made public an offer to sell the famous painting of her brother, Boy Scout hero of the Battle of Jutland. The Toronto troop of Sea Scouts urged the Prime Minister to assist the destitute family to reach their homeland.

John A. Stiles, chief executive officer of the Boy Scouts Association today advised H. R. L. Henry, secretary to the Prime Minister, the request of the Toronto Sea Scouts would be taken up by the Dominion Executive at its next meeting and he had so advised the Toronto Troop. Any action that might be taken by the Prime Minister will await further communications from the Dominion Executive.

NO JURISDICTION OVER DIPLOMAT SAYS MAGISTRATE

ELCTON, Md., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Choffer Djalal, chauffeur for the United States from Iran (Persia), was arrested today for speeding and held handcuffed for a few minutes.

The charge against him was dismissed when his identity was learned and a magistrate decided he had no jurisdiction over a foreign diplomat.

Britain Offers to Play Part Of Intermediary in Peace Parley

Paris, Nov. 27 (AP)—The newspaper L'Oeuvre said today it had learned in reliable quarters Great Britain has offered to serve as intermediary in peace talks between Italy and Ethiopia.

The paper stated it understood Sir Samuel Hoare, British Foreign Secretary, had sent a memorandum to Premier Mussolini, informing him Britain was ready to take that step in direct discussions to settle the conflict.

Italy, said L'Oeuvre, has declared its readiness to be tested in peace talks although no proposal has yet been offered which satisfied Mussolini.

Premier Laval talked with the British Ambassador, Sir George Russell Clerk, and it was reported he might receive the Italian Ambassador, Vittorio Cerruti, during the day.

Authoritative circles scaled the odds seemed to be about three to one against settlement of the conflict before January 1.

Wrecking Plots Against Soviets Charged to Capitalist Lands

Moscow, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The intelligence services and big trusts of capitalistic countries today were accused in the main organs of the official press of espionage and wrecking plots against the Soviet government.

As a reward for the "glorious work" in frustrating plots and other plots, the newspapers announced, leaders in the commissariat of domestic affairs have been elevated in rank.

"Let us hope," said the party newspaper Pravda, "that some day proletarian revolutions will reveal the archives of the intelligence services and big trusts in the countries where capitalists hold power."

International counter-revolutionists, the paper declared have used poison, bullets, bribes, dynamite and propaganda in their efforts to undermine the Soviet government.

Virginia Sullivan

"I've done crazy things in my life," the man muttered crankily, "but it like went to the cranium taking you into a place like that when I might have known anything could happen—" He was deliberately veering the subject away from themselves, Janie knew; giving her a chance to recover. Talking of Jake, of the probable results of the havoc they had seen of absurd bits that stood out as highlights in the darkness of the fray. Of the respectable matron in a Battenberg collar he had seen grappling with a huge British marine, "She hit him over the head with what looked like a book of etiquette," he said with a delighted grin; "which just shows you that there's a use for everything." Janie thought: "We're neither of us saying what's really in our minds...." and walked sedately along by his side. Their footsteps ringing clear and loud on the narrow, cobblestone street, sounded sharply in the quiet night. Behind them came the rumble of a truck, bound for the docks. All about them the moon splashed down in a silver flood—on the slate roofs of houses on the peaceful spires of the Oathedral, on the row of dismal, colorless tenements that lined the narrower alleys to the right. Now and then, passing these, there came a wave of sound and of smells—the reek of gravy, the fumes of cooking and steaming clothes, hanging from rickety balconies within.

"I suppose there is a shorter cut to the dock," the man said, as though speaking to himself, "but well just have to chance this—" He hesitated with a wave of his hand the brightly lighted electric isle which they had now reached. "Warm-blooded creatures, that with its burst of seductive music, its fin-de-siècle cocoons, which in the dawn of tomorrow would be pallidly sordid and uninviting, but which now resounded with a riotous din. Filipinos, Chinese, Greeks, and Armenians, and in and out every sort of girl the world had ever known: White girls...dark girls who might have been any race ....girls who were frankly black. All of them dressed in the brightest colors he was garbs, Sailors and soldiers and native police—and from all the little streets converging onto this main thoroughfare — small, scattered groups of tourists from all the ships that were lying waiting in the bay, meeting steadily toward the docks. The men tourists in white mess jackets and dinner trousers, the women in light frocks and trailing scarves, moving leisurely and with as little energy as they could through the heat.

Then they were off the brightly lighted zone, walking along down the long, dimly-lit stretch that led directly to the Santa Nina's dock. Through a sort of violet dust, accented with rose potpourri, with musk and verbena and a strange, heady blend that came, Janie saw, from a tiny garden patch outside a moon-dreamched cottage by the road. From the windows of the low building came a sudden, passionate, pulsating crescendo of music that died for a drowning instant against the bloc of the night, Listening, the two in the street hesitated, stopped. "Janie—Janie, darling, listen to me!"

The man's voice, warmly reasoned, deep with a feeling he made no effort to suppress, flowed over her. "Janie," he said, "before we go on—before you get back to the ship this may be our only chance to talk. I don't want you to feel—" his hand holding her arm shook slightly. "that because of what happened back there—you were frightened you see, and—Oh, hang it all, I'm putting this all wrong! What I'm trying to say is, I meant everything I—meant it, do you understand—and if you'll let me—"

"Is that you, Miss Madden? You fool! Is this the right street to the dock?"

"Angels and Ministers of grace defend us." Anthony Fane mutter-ed; and took his hand away. Whirling confusedly about Janie looked in the direction of the voice and saw a fantastical figure of Miss Anne Hatch looming majestically out of the surrounding gloom. "Why, you do—you, we were just going back ourselves," Janie said, and had a fleeting moment of wonder as to how much had been interest in the matter of direction and how much a prying curiosity as to the identity of the tall, silent figure by her side. With a tremulous feeling that with but slight provocation she would burst into nervous tears, she fell into step again by the side of Anthony Fane; and walked steadily onto the crowded dock.

Old Mrs. Mitchell, limping painfully but maintaining a determined chrich on a small monkey she had bought in town. Mrs. Kent, who lashed packages and boxes from every pore. The Colonel, conveyed grimly by Mrs. Cramer, who—the ordinary comment on the fact that he was barely able to navigate at all—still waved him majestically on. They were all there, Janie saw at a glance....all the familiar, chatter-ing figures that had made up her life for these past weeks. Eyeing her new set of narrow-smiling eyes, eyeing the stranger who was Anthony Fane; wondering, she knew, speculating, whispering among themselves. Well—let them wonder! That bright tide of scepticism that had flowed over her for so long seemed less a tide than a ripple washed from a far-off shore.

"My dear! the most exciting day! Panama is just too, too divine! Linda Sutro's usually languid drawl seized now with some alchemy acquired sphere. "Oh, Greg, you're the naughtiest boy when you're like this! Do look at him.... oh, how are you, Miss Madden? Have a nice day?...."

Little Miss Tait, her small nose pink and glazed from the sun, throwing Janie her sly, knowing smile. Gregory Stewart, standing carelessly on his bamboo stick, a sea to his usually trim shoulders, eyeing her with his arrogant, shifting stare.

"I suppose there's no smuggling about Anthony Fane suggested in his usually bantering tone. "There are only two landings out to the ship, Mrs. Cuthry tells—" He helped her to a chair in the shade of the mouth, rushing boat, and seated himself solemnly by her side. Janie, her heart-beat lighter by the fact that he still still coming a trifle unevenly, sat decorously still, eyes on him, as the first greeting, spoke at all to Anthony Fane. She saw that the half-tolerant, half-amused expression had faded from his face; his expression when he turned to her was all courteous and unalroiled attention. But in that moment when they stood side by side, waiting for the gang-way to be cleared, she was thrillingly aware of a change in his voice, speaking almost inaudibly in her ear.

"You'll come down to the steerage early tomorrow night?" he said. "I'm afraid it's almost too late now .... But I do want to talk to you. You know that, don't you, dear? There's something—"

"Yes," Janie said hastily, breathlessly. "Oh, of course, I'll come down—" And went up the gang-plank in the wake of the fluffing crowd with a singing heart. When she arrived at the familiar door of her room, however, she found to her surprise that she was crying. Angrily, pantingly, childishly, with the big tears running unheeded down her white cheeks, and from the tip of her nose. She switched on the dressing-table light, and turned herself to press her hot face to the cool glass, to stare at her own wide, startled eyes. Then, suddenly, she threw off the little white hat, crumpled some one would evade glove and the light coat. It had occurred to her, suddenly, blightingly, that Mildred might be coming in any moment. And meeting Mildred's steady appraising look just then was the one thing she felt that she could not do.

Later on the deserted boat-deck, Janie went directly to the rail. A grayish light, tinged with a faint rosy glow, lay over the harbor. Looking down, she stood watching the spars of the little craft in the bay, feeling a sort of detached, impersonal interest in the scene of anti-climax, after the excitement of the day. Below her, a steerage passenger still struggled in a desultory fashion up and down the short, limited gangway. Carrying parrots, carrying incredible strings of bright-colored straw hats, carrying live-birds in their cages, blankets and shawls and bewildering bundles. An astonishing heaven alone knew what bit of bartered beauty.

And among them, strolling leisurely up the steep, narrow steps, came Mildred. The blond girl, the sweet, pellucid smile, the languid, graceful walk were familiar enough. But there was something else in her manner which Janie caught, as she stood above looking down from the deck. A hidden sort of excitement, a suppressed, half-guilty air, behind Mildred, squiring her assiduously as she mounted to the top, was Don Felipe Perveras. In the half-light his impeccable brown suit seemed to cast a faint glow over the surface of his brown skin. He seemed, to Janie's distorted fancy, more sinister, if possible, more alien than before. Then the impression vanished as the two of them drew abreast of where she stood watching. She caught the familiar flicker of the man's white smile; saw his hand half-lifted in a parting salute as he turned and walked swiftly toward his cabin. Mildred, looking after him with that composed, satisfied little smile, walked slowly on toward the door of Suite D.

"Now, what's she been up to?" Janie thought with the familiar sickening lunge at her heart. And turned wearily away toward the stairroom to find out.

CHAPTER 10.

JANIE WAITS FOR THE NIGHT

"If someone will please tell me why I bought all those things!" Mildred wailed softly, "and where I'm going to put them in that tiny little shoe-box—I didn't miss a thing. Look at them, Janie!"

Bright sunlight streamed in at the port-hole of Suite D, stippling the ceiling with dancing notes of gold; touching the paler gold of Mildred's bright head as she sat before her dressing-table, looking at untouched and cool in her peach-colored peignoir as though she had not sat up half the night. Nervous in the ship's lounge, and drunk above little mountains of blue and red chips, and drinking too many sweet drinks from tall amber glasses.

It was the morning after the night to Panama, and both girls were dressing for the day. Janie, hair-brush in hand, was putting last flying touches to her dark hair—her thoughts far-afield, her lips resolutely closed. It was no use, she had found that out last night; no use at all in trying to fathom what was really going on in her sister-in-law's golden head, or what lay back of her friendship for the man, Don Felipe Perveras. She was aware that Mildred was speaking, and, as the per-tent of the words reached her Janie paused, her hand upraised and motionless with an ornament, staring with frankly astonished blue eyes.

"Mildred," she said incredulously, "Mark never knew many girls before I met him did he?"

"Mark.... no," Janie said slowly. "He never had time for girls, Mildred, Mark worked since he was 14—"

"Yes, I know all that, darling. I've heard it all before." Mildred smiled, her sudden, dazzling smile that was so deliberately calculated to take the sting out of anything she might choose to say. "What I meant was—oh, well—" She rose stretching with calculated insolence. "One wonders, that's all, if one had it to do all over again whether—"

"Mildred!" Janie's still face was a mask of shocked incredulity. "What are you driving at? Surely you don't mean that you—that Mark—"

"Did I say anything about Mark?" Mildred's voice was beautifully even. "But do dramatize things so, child. A person can't make the slightest remark any more, My dear, your nerves. I've noticed it for days."

TARZAN THE INVINCIBLE (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service).

The priests of Opar swarming over Colt, stripped him of his weapons and shouted in glee over their victory. He was still unconscious, and so they lifted him to the shoulders of one of their fellows and bore him away into the interior of the temple.

When Colt regained consciousness, he found himself lying on the floor. He had been fenced in the throne room of the temple by order of Oah — high priestess of Opar. Jerked to his feet, he was pushed roughly toward the throne.

On it was a woman of exceptional beauty, clothed by the semi-barbaric grandeur of an ancient civilization. Grotesque and hairy men and beautiful maidens formed her entourage. Her eyes, resting upon him, were cold and cruel; her mien as she addressed him, haughty and scornful.

An ape-like warrior was speaking in a language unfamiliar to the American. When he had finished the girl rose from the throne and, drawing a long knife from her girdle, raised it high above her head as she began rapidly and almost fiercely, her cruel eyes fixed upon him.

DECLARE INJURIES WERE ACCIDENTAL

Jury Renders Verdict in The Death of Kenneth Bellamy

Trenton, Nov. 28—(Special)—Accidental death was the verdict returned last night at an inquest called to enquire into the death of Kenneth Bellamy, who died in the Belleville General Hospital on Friday, Nov. 22, from injuries he received when he fell from a ladder at No. 2 Power House, Conway. Dr. W. B. Cross conducted the inquest with the witnesses being examined by Crown Attorney R. G. Denison, K.C., of Belleville.

Dr. Johnston of Trenton was called first. He told of receiving the call to the power house on Thursday, Nov. 21. On the way there he received word that aid and ordered the injured victim to the hospital, where he died the following morning. Later he was called to perform a post mortem to determine the cause of death. This, he reported revealed a severe fracture of the skull and concussion of the brain.

Joseph Carter, foreman at the power house identified Bellamy as the deceased and told of his connection with the Hydro. He was employed at Trenton on the power canal but was a relieving operator and had served at Port Hope, Peterboro and Fenelon Falls. He was attending to work that was authorized, when he was injured, which caused his death later. The rope that was severed was produced and the manner in which the cover for the top end was being placed was described by Mr. Carter. Fortunately a man pulled the vent cover to place it on the floor but the rope did not, he thinks it was necessary to do it this way. He was standing with one foot on the ladder and the other on a platform when in some way the rope was severed and Ballantyne lost his balance and crashed to the floor. W. J. Haggerty, who was assisting in placing the cover for winter and R. C. Robson, who was working nearby at the time also testified. After hearing the evidence the jury retired and returned in about five minutes with the accidental verdict. The jury comprised James R. Critchyer, foreman; Grant Goodsell; Arthur Bellamy; Terence Barry; Thomas Taylor; Edwin Baglin; Harold Blackburn and Harry Clegg.

STATE TO DECIDE MEANS OF DEATH

Uncertainty Arises Over Interpretation of New Law

Raleigh, N.C., Nov. 28 (AP)—Death — quick and brief, to the whirr of high-voltage electricity—or slow and unseen, soothing one first into the hazy twilight between the known and the unknown.

Two doomed prisoners, a white man and a negro, pacing their stone and iron cells on "death row" today did not know which it would be.

Maybe the electric chair. Maybe the gas chamber. Possibly—at the last moment—executive clemency.

The Supreme Council is to decide probably within a few days, for the time is drawing near—whether it must be the electric chair or the State's new gas chamber.

The uncertainty of the prisoners' fate arises over a difference of interpretation of the State's new law which substitutes the gas chamber for the electric chair as a lethal weapon.

Some legal authorities say it is applies to all capital offenders convicted after last July 1. Others interpret it as applying only to prisoners whose crimes were committed after July 1.

The Supreme Court's ruling will affect only two prisoners, Jake Johnson, negro, convicted of assaulting an aged white woman, and Ed Hester, white, convicted of killing another prisoner.

REFUSE TO ADMIT HUGH S. JOHNSON

Newspaper Guild Does Not Want NRA Chief

Washington, Nov. 28 (CP)—After two hours of debate the Washington Newspaper Guild last night refused, 21 to 18, to admit Hugh S. Johnson to membership.

The meeting, not attended by the former NRA chief, brought heated arguments from both friends and foes.

Kenneth Crawford, correspondent of the New York Post and sponsor for the general, offered as a special committee's majority report a supplementary action to be referred until Johnson's arrival in the United States capital. It was rejected.

Marguerite Young, correspondent for the New York World-Telegram, then offered a minority report which aimed three questions at Johnson. The report proposed to ask him if he could deny that:

"As NRA administrator he had denied the right of collective bargaining in the NRA; as first owner of a New Jersey carpet factory he had helped smash a Union by intimidation; as works progress administrator for New York City he has objected to dealing with representatives of organized workers on W. P. A. projects and had opposed payment of prevailing wages.

The minority report was adopted.

Johnson applied for membership as "a syndicated columnist".

Piles Go Quick

With Dr. Leonhardt's Prescription

Many sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have found out that quick relief can be had with an internal medicine.

Real circulation of blood in the lower bowel is the cause of piles. The veins are congested and flabby, the bowel walls weak. That is why an internal medicine like HEM-ROID should be used. HEM-ROID stimulates the circulation, relieves the pressure of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and helps to heal the parts. Get HEM-ROID today.

HEM-ROID is the prescription of Dr. Leonhardt, who spent several years of his professional life in finding the cause of piles and the medicine that would remove them. His medicine succeeds because it tends to correct the cause.

No matter what kind of piles you have or how long you have had them, if you want to try HEM-ROID, you have our promise to give you back your money if you do not find quick and satisfying relief, after using just one bottle.

He also suggested the elimination of Domestic making as it is a fact that Canada is the largest producer of cheese in the world and the smallest consumer. One thing that restrains the demand for Canadian cheese on the home market is the sale of new cheese which is not sufficiently aged to be a palatable and easily digested food. ## What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Whole Town's Talking"

Starring Robinson in Greatest Screen Role to Date

"The Whole Town's Talking" the sparkling comedy-romance which, cinema sages say, affords Edward G. Robinson his greatest screen character role to date, at the Capitol Theatre today.

Based on a story by W. R. Burnett, who also wrote the famed Robinson film "Little Caesar", "The Whole Town's Talking" was directed by John Ford, whose recent pictures include the "The Lost Patrol", "Judge Priest" and "The World Moves On."

Robinson is cast in the Thrill-inspiring role of an inoffensive little clerk who savages through a series of laugh-laden adventures when his startling resemblance to an escaped killer is discovered. This new characterization marks Robinson's first attempt at screen comedy, having already firmly established himself as screendom's Public Enemy No. 1.

Jean Arthur is featured opposite Robinson as a flip young stenographer whom the meek clerk has adored for years. Not only when his name races across the nation's front page is he able to summon up enough courage to tell her of his love, Miss Arthur appeared receptive to great advances in Frank Procter's "Thing In Life' and Whirlpool."

Wallace Ford is the jovial wisecracking young reporter; Arthur Byron stars as the dean of prison wardens and presidents for a change to assail the role of District Attorney; and Etienne Girardot, who distinguished himself as the religious Parasite in the stage and screen versions of "Twentieth Century" appears as the nervous and harassed head clerk whose main interest in life is getting Robinson to flinch up a certain amount.

Other members of the large and imposing cast include Arthur Hohl, Donald Meek, El Brophy, John Wray, J. Farrell MacDonald and Ferdinand Munier.

"The Whole Town's Talking" was adapted to the screen by Jo Swerling and Robert Riskin Columbia's ace scenarists. Among Riskin's recent hits have been "Lady For A Day", "It Happened One Night" and "Broadway Bill".

Also with the feature the Capitol is showing "Fun Record supported by his inseparable pal George Shelton. Our ageless vet certainly gave the fun in a colossal way. Also we have the Radio Rascals in a peppy musical comedy hit which will make up an evening's entertainment every one will wish to see.

"The Dark Angel"

Fredric March, Merle Oberon and Herbert Marshall Featured in Magnificent Love Story

Prominent among the many things that recommend Samuel Goldwyn's latest offering, "The Dark Angel," at the Belle until Friday, matinee daily for top place on your "Must Be Seen" menu list, is an opportunity to see the ever-lovely Merle Oberon, co-starred with Fredric March and Herbert Marshall, in her delightful new screen personality role, shorn of her exotic make-up, bizarre garb and mysterious air.

Beyond this, "The Dark Angel" is, we think, the most powerful and gripping romantic drama to reach the screen in many seasons. Skilfully adapted by Lillian Hellman, author of "The Children's Hour," from a play by Guy Bolton, this stirring love story, set in a quiet corner of lovely rural England, follows the life of Kitty Vane and her neighbors, Alan Trent (March) and his cousin, Gerald Shannon (Marshall).

Since childhood, Kitty has adored the indifferent Alan and Gerald has adored her. The war takes both men and in the ironical way comes to Alan a realization of his love for Kitty. Home on leave, he tells her; and they plan to marry at once. Then comes a sudden order commanding all leaves. They spend their last hours together trying to forget that they may never see each other again. Alan is reported killed and Kitty's life is broken. After the war she resigns herself to an engagement to Gerald, but fate steps in and provides a happy ending.

"The Dark Angel" has been brilliantly directed by Sidney Franklin. March, Merle and Marshall have never appeared to better advantage and the supporting cast, including Janet Beecher, John Halliday, Henrietta Crosman, Frieda Inescort, Claude Allister, David Torrence, Georgia Brenkton, Fay Chaldecott, Cora Sue Collins and others is uniformly excellent.

"Time For Love," a clever and funny cartoon comic classic will be exhibited on the same program.

Performances start daily at 2.30, 7.10 and 9.15, the feature attraction starts daily at 2.45, 7.20 and 9.25 p.m. and we suggest that you see this outstanding new season attraction from the start.

STAINS ON O'DONNELL'S CLOTHES, POLICE SAY

Burrs and Stains Found, Detective Testifies in Ravine Murder Hearing

Street Car Motorman Swears He Saw Ruth Taylor Leave Car

MAN ALSO LEFT

Motorman Declares He Is Certain It Was Not O'Donnell

Toronto, Nov. 29 (CP) — Mud stains, dark reddish stains and blue woollen fibres were found on the clothing Harry O'Donnell said he wore the night Ruth Taylor was killed, according to evidence at the preliminary hearing today. O'Donnell is charged with murdering the 20-year-old stenographer in a criminal assault in an east end ravine the night of Nov. 4.

Detective Sergeant James McIlwraith told how Miss Taylor's body was found the following day, clothing disarranged, her arms bound. Her blood-stained garments were pieced in court and identified. He identified a blue woollen sweater.

Police went to O'Donnell's home after picking him up at the gas station where he worked. McIlwraith related O'Donnell pointed out clothes he had worn on the night of Nov. 4.

O'Donnell's Clothes Described.

The overcoat and vest of O'Donnell's that he wore were dark navy blue wool fibres or threads; the clothing was examined and mud and burrs adhered; the detective sergeant continued. There was a dark reddish stain on the trousers and on the brim of the brown hat.

Re-examination of O'Donnell who was asked to account for his movements Saturday.

Statement to Police.

O'Donnell's statement to Detective Sergeant Ferguson had stated he and his wife in hospital and then went to a hotel beverage room. He left there between 11.30 and 11.35 p.m., and walked home along paralleling the line where the body was found next day. He saw a man and two women walking separately by the railway at the time he passed it. He said he passed the ravine on the north-east corner of the road, turned up his own street and went home to bed. He said he took his wife to the maternity hospital early Saturday and slept Saturday and Sunday nights at his mother's home.

O'Donnell's Movements.

He got off work at one p.m. Monday and then went to his mother's home. He went to the hospital to see his wife and left there at 4 p.m. He went to a movie and then returned to the hospital, leaving there at 9.30 p.m. He went to a beverage room, saw a streetcar and went back to the service station for a few minutes.

Later he went to a hotel beverage room where he talked with several waiters he knew and spoke a few words with a girl he was acquainted with. He said he started home some time between 11.30 and 11.35 p.m. and arrived home at midnight.

Two Get Off Car.

Charles Cox, another motorman, said he knew Miss Taylor by sight as she lived on his street car line with him. When his car reached the corner of Ontwell and Gerrard streets he saw her get off at 11.37 p.m. he noticed by his mirror Miss Taylor and a man got off. There were no passengers remaining.

They both got off the car there, the man by the rear door and Ruth Taylor by the front door. He said Miss Taylor got off and a transfer and she answered she had. He did not know the name of the girl or the man boarded the car, nor did he know if they talked together. He saw them on the street but the girl when he looked in the mirror.

It was raining heavily when they got off the car. He noted Miss Taylor by the light under the car and saw the man as young, round-faced and fair, wearing a peak cap.

Cross-examined by O'Donnell.

Under cross-examination by Frank Regan, defence counsel, Cox said he had received $8 from the police to ride streetcars so he could be available in an effort to trace the man who rode the same car as Miss Taylor the night of the murder but he had not seen the man.

Cox was sure the man was not O'Donnell.

Sergeant McIlwraith said he was sent to the scene of the killing Nov. 5 at 1:40 p.m. and found other officers there. The body of the girl was lying on the bank of the ravine, some fifteen feet from the house. A blood-stained slip was pulled up over the head and knotted under the ears. Her sweater about her shoulders dangled up in her tweed coat.

A corset, torn down the seam, was lying partly over the lower part of the body. Her left arm had been put under clothing were strewn along the slope of the bank. Her umbrella was in a small bank. In reply to a question from Mr. Regan he said there was blood on the head and on the lower part of the body.

That afternoon McIlwraith went to the service station where O'Donnell was employed with two other officers. He told O'Donnell they wished to take him a few questions and to come with them. He said O'Donnell remarked in reply: "I'll be glad to. It's about this affair up the street".

They went to his home he asked the latter to show him the clothing he wore Monday night. O'Donnell took him it was in a cupboard.

Stains On Clothes.

McIlwraith then described the condition of the clothing, the outer garments, the overcoat and vest were wet, burrs on the overcoat, socks, trousers and one small burr on the hat. There were mudstains on the overcoat and trousers. On the inside of the trousers were stains that was the dark reddish stain and on the under garments he had a similar stain. There was mud and a leaf impression on the back of the shoes.

McIlwraith said O'Donnell told him he got the burrs and mud in the ravine.

He examined O'Donnell at headquarters and found the hand sweller than the other. There were no blue hairs on my coat," O'Donnell said he was sick. "There were no blue hairs on my coat." O'Donnell thought it was the heat that caused the swelling.

"Were you upset by the blue hairs on your coat, the blue hairs from Ruth Taylor's sweater?" the detective said he asked. "There were no blue hairs on my coat," O'Donnell thought possibly the beer upset him. He said he got sick after dinner. He shown him by McIlwraith was not his.

Ruth's Friend is Witness

Toronto Nov. 29 (CP) — Louise Pratt, friend of Ruth Taylor, 20-year-old Toronto girl whose body was found in a ravine, was the first witness called today in the trial of Harry O'Donnell, charged with the murder.

Miss Pratt told of visiting station attendant was smartly dressed, "somewhat flashily unperfect" dressed as he appeared before Magistrate Ardagh.

The Crown charges O'Donnell criminally assaulted Ruth Taylor, then killed her dead in the ravine where her body was found the day after the girl disappeared.

O'Donnell's wife, recovering from the birth of a son, was visited several a few days before her husband's arrest, but in a different room outside the city.

Murder Exhibited

Miss Melville, an employee of the Toronto General Trust Company, where Miss Taylor had a branch office, told of the worked with Miss Taylor since May 1. They left the office together and walked to Bay and King streets where Miss Taylor boarded a street car going east on King Street.

Miss Melville said she saw Miss Taylor standing at the street corner and saw a man approach her, appearing to take a Bay car. A large overcoat he wore and he carried a Crown Attorney McFadden held up a revolver in exhibition.

"She was wearing one like that," he said.

Mayor James Simpson To Seek Second Term

Toronto, Nov. 29—(CP)—Mayor James Simpson announced today he would seek a second term "according to precedent." The Mayor indicated the campaign, ending with voting on New Year's Day, will be fought largely on the issue of providing textbooks to indigent children of public schools.

"There are a number of phases this year," the Mayor explained, "but the most important question," said the mayor. "The founders of Protestantism will not have fought in vain so far as I am concerned."

question from Mr. Regan he said there was blood on the head and on the lower part of the body.

McIlwraith said O'Donnell told him he got the burrs and mud in the ravine.

He examined O'Donnell at headquarters and found the hand sweller than the other. There were scratches on two fingers and the back of the hand was swollen and the hand dark. O'Donnell said he had hurt it in a gasoline pump. O'Donnell told McIlwraith he was upset.

"Were you upset by the blue hairs on your coat, the blue hairs from Ruth Taylor's sweater?" the detective said he asked. "There were no blue hairs on my coat," O'Donnell thought possibly the beer upset him. He said he got sick after dinner. He shown him by McIlwraith was not his.

8,000 MILE TRIP ENDS AT MANILA FOR CHINA CLIPPER

Lands With First Load of Mail Ever Carried Over Pacific

NO ACCIDENTS

Follows Schedule Laid Out At Beginning With Precision

Manila, P.I., Nov. 29—(AP)—The China Clipper swept in today to a smooth landing at Cavite, completing an 8,000-mile flight with the first load of air mail ever carried across the Pacific Ocean.

It was landed at 3.31 p.m. (2.31 a.m. Friday, E.S.T.) ending an epoch-making flight from Alameda, California.

The crew had left Alameda a week ago.

The crew was led by Capt. Edward C. Musick, veteran Pan Americans Airways pilot, was taken from the plane on the shoulders of admirers about. They were welcomed by Rear Admiral Orin G. Murfin and Maj. Gen. Frank Parker.

On a rooftop nearby were stationed officials of the inaugurated President of the Philippine Commonwealth, Manuel L. Quezon, United States High Commissioner.

Amid the confusi n a Government mail bag was cast in clipper removing 1,600 pounds of air mail which it hauled in the Manila post office for delivery.

Ten Hours Flying Time

Total flying time for the trip was 90 hours, four minutes, a Pan American Airways spokesman for the Pan American Airways airmail charter.

Captain Musick had the Clipper over Manila in plenty of time to put her down within the scheduled period—he had planned to land exactly on the minute—but a sudden appearance of numerous small craft on the Bay caused him to act cautiously.

The last leg of the flight was the 1,760 mile hop from Guam Island, a stretch never before spanned by man. The flying time for the distance was 11 hours, 25 minutes.

The flight craft roared away from its eastern base at Alameda last Friday afternoon. Following schedules with precision, she dropped in on Honolulu, 2,405 miles away, then roared on 1,223 miles to Midway, 1,181 miles to Wake Island, 1,536 miles to Guam and the last 1,760 miles here.

Text Book Issue Will Not Be Discussed

Toronto, Nov. 29—(CP)—C. M. Carter, Chairman of the Toronto Board of Education, has informed Mayor Simpson the board will not again discuss the text book issue, in the limelight since the city decided to distribute free books to the 23,000 indigent students of Separate School Boards to provide these books from their own funds. The Mayor said a few days before her husband's arrest, in a different room outside the city.

Murder Exhibited

Shakespeare and Bernard Shaw Exempted in Italian Reprisals

Rome, Nov. 29 (AP)—Shakespeare and Bernard Shaw are above Italy's sanctions reprisals, it was disclosed today.

Orders given by the propaganda ministry to bar theatrical productions from the interference with sanctions made an exception of these two noted English dramatists.

Fascists said they felt Shakespeare and Shaw belonged "not to England but to the world".

Besides, they said, Shaw ranked with the Italian Fascists opposed to enforcement of League of Nations war penalties on Italy for its invasion of Ethiopia.

Is It King Tut's Curse? Egyptologist is Ill

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Dr. James H. Breasted, elderly Egyptologist among those trying to enter Tutankhamen's tomb, and who had since scoffed at the "curse" theory, was on his sickbed, was seriously ill today of an "unidentified" malady.

At first diagnosed as tropical malaria his illness today was said by hospital authorities to be "satisfactorily diagnosed as yet."

"Dr. Breasted spent a fairly good night but his condition is serious," the hospital announced. "Further medical reports from the incoming liner Conte di Savoia Livorno."

Dr. Breasted, director of the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago and for 30 years an explorer of Egypt's temples and tombs, was returning from the Valley of the Nile when stricken.

Before sailing for Egypt he described the Tutankhamen crypt as "treasure".

"Death shall come on swift wings to him that toucheth the tomb of a Pharaoh", is the inscription in hieroglyphics at the famous Sarcophagus in the Valley of the Kings near Luxor.

"O deity that tarries".' Breasted declared, "and if anyone was exposed to it, I was. For two weeks I slept in the Tomb of Tutankhamen and took my meals there. I never felt better."

Says Intoxicated Mother Fired Shot Wounding Son

15 Year Son of Wall Street Operator Jesse Livermore Critically Hurt

SON BROUGHT GUN

Santa Barbara, Calif., Nov. 29 (AP)—Jesse Livermore, Jr., 15, son of the famous Wall Street operator, was probably fatally wounded today in Undersheriff Jack Ross said Livermore's mother fired the shot.

Ross said both Livermore and his mother had been drinking.

"I was present at the shooting by Dr. Neville Tisdale,—she was summoned to the Livermore home by a guest who witnessed the shooting," Ross said. "I went to the hospital and questioned Livermore and Livermore and his mother were interrogated.

"Mrs. Livermore was placed under arrest at the hospital, with a guard at her bedside. She is still in bed isolated to talk. From what I learned in talking to a guest at the home, D. Neville, the mother and son became involved in an argument over his drinking.

"Mrs. Livermore told the boy she would shoot him if he didn't stop drink to excess. The boy then went to his room, got a rifle, and handed it to her, saying: 'Well, here you are,' Mrs. Livermore took the rifle and fired. The bullet entered the boy's chest. His condition is critical and it is doubtful if he will recover."

The mother was the divorced wife of Livermore, having married him in 1917. They were divorced in 1932. She later married Walter Scott Gallagher and was divorced from him in 1933, then married the former Miss Dorothy Wendt of Brooklyn.

Boy's Father Famous

The boy's father is one of the most famous figures in United States' finance, credited with having made and lost several fortunes running into the millions of dollars.

At the age of 25 he entered Wall Street to play the stock market. In the century and played a prominent role in the panic of 1907 when he was reported to have emerged from the crash with $10,000,000.

Steel and wheat drew his interest in the ensuing years and shortly before 1930 he was reported to be having taken $10,000,000 from the Chicago wheat pit as the result of his brilliant manoeuvres.

Although noted for his ability to "bear" the market, "bull" to the "bears" side of the market in the 1929 collapse of stock prices.

Guest at Ball As Police Hunt

Chatham, Ont., Nov. 29—(CP)—While police searched throughout the Province for him, Jerry Barrabas, 35, Toronto Cinclo-Slovakian, was a guest at a dance here Thursday night.

He signed the guests' register and was photographed on enjoyable time here.

Barrabas was wanted on a charge of stealing more than $3,000 in connection with a "gold-brick" scheme and was arrested later taken back to Toronto.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME

Brantford, Ont., Nov. 29 (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hunter, Jerseyville Road, awakened just in time early today to escape from their blazing home in their night clothes. The building and practically all its contents were destroyed. The young couple made their escape through a window.

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Los Angeles, Nov. 29 (CP)—Ruben Calloway, escaped to his feet in the court of Federal Judge Yankwich.

"Sit down!" the court ordered" but he remained.

Then BAILIFF hushed menacingly. The court zapped for order.

"The man can't sit down," the shrieked Calloway, a produce dealer.

"Put him out," the court commanded.

And the BAILIFF shoved Calloway from the room.

"Now you're out and you stay out!" the court said.

"I'm not out—extinguish me—I'm not out," shrieked Calloway.

Investigation disclosed Calloway had put a lighted pipe in his coat pocket. He was burned slightly.

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 28 (CP)—Nick and John Lapovick are making by an inch-and-a-half wide walnut into their butcher shop a few weeks ago but the Lapovicks' plans for new receivers and jumped on the table knives. Both brothers were treated for cuts received. The knives are in jail. Business is better than ever before because of the publicity, the police court judge declared.

More Humane Execution in Central Place

Toronto, Nov. 29—(CP)—Sheriffs of Ontario assembled in annual convention here today heard a proposal for the substitution of a more humane method than hanging for executing hanging. The sheriffs also passed resolutions urging uniformity or a central place of execution for all of Ontario.

The suggestions were advanced by Sheriff J.W.Lawrason of Wentworth, who introduced a resolution proposed lethal gas or electrocution should be substituted for hanging.

Hanging, he described as "Crucifixion" and "barbarous" in this age. The conference accepted his resolution unanimously.

Sheriff Lawrason said: "I am not a humane method" "law than sitting inviting trial gas or electrocution.

The proposal for establishment of a central place of execution was also put forward by Sheriff Lawrason.

First Shave in Shop At Age of 80 Years

Havelock, Ont., Nov. 29.—(CP)—Albert Smith, 81-year-old Belleville resident, walked spryly into a barber shop here today and ordered a haircut.

Without noticing any difference in Smith's attitude than the ordinary run of customers, a residual barber clipped the grey hair.

Stepping from the chair, Smith looked into the glass and then let the cat out of the bag—it was his first hair-cut in a barber shop.

PATTERNS MOVED INTO SHED JUST BEFORE JULY FIRE

Witness Says More Made to Make Room For Other Patterns

STAIRWAY BUILT

Also Testifies, Fayette Had Reminded Him Stairs Were Necessary

Penetang, Ont., Nov. 29 (CP) Edward Cherrier, foreman in the Fayette machine shop, told of the fire in the pattern shed in July 1934 as the Fire Marshal's enquiry continued today into fires on J. T. Fayette's property.

He knew the shed contained patterns but the building and their value as the foreman, Mr. Robillard, knew not the patterns when any were moved.

He knew of no patterns being moved into the shed just prior to the fire he said, when questioned by Crown Attorney Beck, and stated he did not remember Fayette and Robillard discussing transfer of patterns to the shed.

Witness said he heard plant employees say patterns were to be moved to the unprinklered shed "to make room for other patterns" before the fire.

Cross-Examined by Counsel

Thomas Agar representing insurance companies was interrupted at this stage by Thomas Kelly, K.C., counsel for Mr. Fayette, who claimed the questioning was not relevant.

"If a man has worthless patterns moved to a shed he intends to cause to be set on fire it is of interest to this enquiry," persisted Mr. Agar.

"That," interjected Mr. Phelan, "is a suggestion Mr. Agar would not dare make openly under the jurisdiction of this court."

George Robillard, moulding shop foreman for Fayette for the last 15 years said a little over a year ago some Midland shipyards and Dominion ship patterns were moved into the shed and were destroyed in the fire of last July.

"Were they domestic patterns?"

"Absolutely not." was the reply. Robillard said the ship and engine patterns he claimed these were old but still valuable.

"Are Adams engines being made now?" "Not very many."

Stairway Built Illegally

Robillard told of the stairway cut to the second floor in the patterns warehouse. Under questioning by Mr. Sedgewick he stated there was no immediate need for a stairway for moving patterns but it was built illegally by the men who started operation.

"Did you talk of this stairway to Fire Chief Kaus?"

Don't remember. If I did it was only in a joke."

"Why would you joke?"

"Because I had to talk round town about there going to be a

Fred Astaire Only Actor Picked In List of Ten Best-Dressed Men

By TOM HAGENBUCH
Associated Press Staff Writer

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Sartorial pace-setters of United States are its business leaders, Fred Astaire, New York's dancing idol, has agreed today in picking a list of ten best-dressed men.

Hollywood was represented only one actor—nimble footed Fred Astaire.

Edsel Ford, Detroit auto manufacturer, William Rhinelander Stewart, New York real estate operator, Alfred Vanderbilt, New York and Philadelphia society figure; William Randolph Hearst, Jr., publisher; Adolphus Busch, of the St. Louis brewing family; Marshall Field, Chicago merchant; Isaac Newton Phelps Stokes, clergyman; Richard E. Melton of Pittsburgh, helper of Andrew Mellon; Walter D. Teague, New York industrial designer, and Fred Astaire, the dancer-actor.

Astaire, the only actor to be thus attributable to his recent pictures, especially "Top hat," One fallen said.

"He has been chosen from year to encourage the wearing of tailcoats than anybody else," this tailor said.

Turkey and Chicken Kidnapping Is Blamed to Smuggling Ring

Belief that recent fowl thefts in this district may have been the work of a widely operated turkey and chicken smuggling ring active in Toronto, cut the province, and that the still-missing Cobourg fowl are being smuggled by fast trucks to the north to United States border points where they are being sold as low as 35 cents per pound for Christmas trade was voiced by James Berryman, Municipal produce buyer who was a visitor to the city on business yesterday.

It was suggested by the Municipal buyer that in many cases where fowl have been stolen the fowl have been quietly and efficiently clubbed to death in the owner's coop. The thieves work quickly and cleanly over-

Sheriffs, Not Ice Blocks, Urged to Temper Justice With Mercy in Evictions

Are Assured of Support if They 'Refuse to Thow Family Out in Snow'

ROEBUCK'S WORDS

There is Time When Humanity Paramount To Creditor's Rights

Toronto, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Sheriffs of Ontario were frankly advised by Attorney General Roebuck in an address today to temper justice with humanity in the execution of eviction orders and other judgments against indigent debtors when the sheriffs are in connection here.

"You are assured of the support of myself and my department," Mr. Roebuck declared, "if you refuse to throw out the bed and the stove for all the creditors in the province of Ontario." Particularly during the coming hard winter let us see to it that we don't bring the law enforcement into disrepute by unethical regard for the letter of the law. You are not obligated to be blocks of ice."

Unconscionable Creditor

As he assured the sheriffs they were not "bound" by the law enforced by "some unconscionable creditor" urged in issuing these eviction orders sheriffs officers should employ every humane means to provide quarters for the family being evicted.

"Use your brains," the Attorney-General urged, "where a posse of sheriff officers are throwing a family into the street to the indignation of the whole neighborhood."

Declaring "there is a time when humanity is superior to the rights of a creditor," Mr. Roebuck told the sheriffs they were not bound rigidly by the enforcement of the judgments of debtors courts.

The Attorney-General delivered to the sheriffs their annual charge in a declaration of government policy on the question of the issuance of execution orders and execution of debtors court judgments.

Creditor's Equity

Referring to the growth of "courts of equity" he declared Mr. Roebuck told the sheriffs they were in much the same position. They had the rigorous common law of England to administer, and there was no appeal from the decisions of the courts.

"Did you talk of this stairway to Fire Chief Kaus?"

Don't remember. If I did it was only in a joke."

"Why would you joke?"

"Because I had to talk round town about there going to be a

35TH ANNIVERSARY IS CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. William Clare's Friends Join in Festivities

Thirty couples, friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. William Clare 32 Baldwin Street, celebrated with them last evening the 35th anniversary of their wedding. The evening was spent in euchre and other games and at midnight a fine repast was partaken of. Winners of the euchre were: Lee Donovan, first; Philip Clare, second; and William Clare, consolation, for men; and Mrs. Moore, first; Mrs. Harvey Boyle, second; and Mrs. Kelleher, consolation, for the ladies.

The occasion was an enjoyable one and during the evening Mrs. T. G. Hammett read an address which was graciously responded to by Mr. and Mrs. Clare in the address read:

"Belleville, Nov. 28, 1935.

"To Mr. and Mrs. Bill Clare:—

"We, your friends and neighbors are gathered here tonight to commemorate the 35th anniversary of your wedding day. We felt that we could not allow this occasion to pass without paying tribute to both of you, and expressing our appreciation of your friendship and the good times we have enjoyed together, and trust that this is but one of many more to come.

"To mark the occasion more materially, we take this opportunity to present to you, and would ask that you accept, with the very best wishes of all your friends, this small token of our esteem and good-will toward you."

CHAMBER ASKS WORK BE RUSHED

Madoc-Bancroft Road Discussed at Luncheon of Members

The early completion of the Madoc-Bancroft highway is considered to be of great importance by the directors of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and at their meeting on Thursday it was decided to follow up immediately the letter sent by the Department of Highways in accordance with the resolution which was passed at the open forum meeting of the Chamber last Tuesday evening.

The question of obtaining a prominent speaker for the annual get-together banquet was considered and it is expected that an outstanding speaker will be present at the gathering which will be held late in January.

The directors are desirous of making the Chamber Luncheon Lecture series most interesting the season and they have in hand the engaging of first class speakers to deal with subjects of general interest.

Vice-president, Mr. Lee E. Riggs, presided at the meeting in addition to whom the following were present: Messrs. W. H. Morton, H. W. Ackerman, H. E. Fairfield, W. C. Springer, W. T. Ellery, J. Ross Gibson and secretary-manager J. O. Herity.

Mr. John Hibbard, a member of the Chamber, was a guest at the meeting.

JAMES ZUFELT JOINS R.C.A.F.

James D. Zufelt, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Zufelt, 34 Octavia Street West, leaves Monday morning for Camp Borden to enter the mechanical branch of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Last March he tried and passed examinations to enter the R.C.A.F., but news of his appointment to the force has just arrived.

"Jim" is one of the most popular young men. He is 21 years of age and has ever since he was a child been interested in mechanics, particularly the making of model airplanes. He has been trained in the public school and in the Collegiate and Vocational School here.

His is interested in painting and has built a number of sailboats, including the "Marina", which he now owns.

1,200 Children Bring Gift Toys

Hundreds more toys were added to the present collection now owned by firemen as the result of a free show given yesterday afternoon to school children at the city by the staff of the Bella Theatre. Approximately 1200 children were entertained by the management. A toy, new or broken, was the only price of admission. The toys will be repaired by firemen and distributed to children of needy families as Christmas. Barrett Pralick and Arthur Street, proprietors of the theatre, generously donated their time during the complete show. Pictures for the show were loaned free by the Canadian Universal Corp.; Regal Film Ltd., and Columbia Canadian Company.

One-Armed Veteran Is Awarded Medal For Saving Woman

Hamilton, Nov. 29 (CP)—To his collection of decorations Sergeant Thomas Addicott of Grace Bay, N.S., one-armed war veteran, can now add another. He has been awarded the bronze medal of the Royal Canadian Humane Association for saving life.

The citation refers to Aug. 26 last. While standing on a cliff at the New Aberdeen shore he saw Annie Mae Hamilton about to go out with the undertow. Swimming out from shore 30 feet he brought her in and applied artificial respiration.

Three Months in Bed Without Relief

Until Victoria Harbour Lady Tried Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mrs. Handy Now Feels Well Again

Victoria Harbour, Nov. 29.—(Special)—"I was troubled with a sore back, pains in my arms and legs, and headaches," says Mrs. Wm. J. Handy of this place. "I lay in bed for three weeks and could not seem to get any relief. Reading in the paper about Dodd's Kidney Pills being so good and thought I would try them. The first dose I took showed me I was able to be up and around again. I was 72 years old and have 9 children. We live on a farm where there is lots of work to do. I can now do any kind of work inside or out without feeling any ill effect on the Kidneys."

When the Kidneys get out of order they fail to retain the impurities from the blood stream, which then poison the whole system. They remain in the system and illness follows. Dodd's Kidney Pills cause you to keep your Kidneys in good order. They are easy to take and may be safely used by young or old.

Candidates to Speak Tonight

For the first time this season weather record keepers at the city pumping station were able to register actual snowfall late last evening and early this morning. According to Mr. Bert Hagerman 2½ inches of snow has fallen over this district during the past twenty-four hours.

LESLIE THOMPSON WINS TROPHY

Swift Canadian Employee Tallies Perfect Score in Butter Grading

Contestant in one of the keenest competitions in years, Leslie Thompson of the Swift Canadian Company at Belleville, has captured the provincial butter scoring championship for the Dairymen's Association's Convention held in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto on Thursday. The trophy presented by the Duke of Quinte Buttermakers' Club, composed of the Swift Canadian, Maple Valley Creameries; Arthur Cordell of the Trenton Butter and Cheese; Belleville, Swift Canadian Company, placed third in the butter scoring, which was keenly contested and were runners up in the grand aggregate for the Lawson Trophy which was won by the Stagen District Buttermakers' Club.

The keenest competition for scoring competition was indicated at the conclusion of the competition when Leslie Thompson was found to be tied for second place with another contestant with a total of 97 points. As a silver trophy was to be awarded for the second it was necessary to break the tie through another competition, which resulted in both contestants being awarded with 99 points. A third contest was then arranged and this time was won by Leslie Thompson with a perfect score.

POLICE BLOTTER

An alleged hit and run driver ran over a Belleville dog early today and killed the canine on Coleman St. Yesterday afternoon, police were later informed. According to an witnesses the motorist was proceeding northward on Coleman St. when the dog started to run across the street, both the right front and rear wheels passed over the animal killing it instantly. The driver of the motor car did not stop however. The matter was investigated by P. C. Gardiner.

Following complaints, P.C. Arnott apprehended a number of youths trespassing on the roof of the Belleville Arena during the progress of last night's wrestling bouts. Officials were escorted to the police station, their names and addresses taken and they were instructed to report to the Chief Constable late this morning to receive a charge of trespassing on the roof of the Arena if it is to be considered a theatre in the future.

An even dozen transients were afforded warm and dry sleeping quarters at the police station last night.

POLICE COURT

Due to the absence from the city of Crown Attorney Jr. C. J. Norman K.C., today's local police court proceedings were limited to the minimum, only breaches of the O.A. being heard.

Two alleged inebriates pleaded guilty as charged, A Picton resident nodded his head in admission of guilt, when he faced a charge of intoxication. Rome, Nov. 29.— (AP)—A new European crisis arose today over the League of Nations project for an oil embargo against Italy with responsible sources asserting Premier Mussolini has revived a counter-program—including : a swift threat at the British fleet.

Responsible persons, not officials, but holding high connections, said a fresh special—perhaps another Great War, 12-point program in reply to an oil ban was said by these persons to include withdrawal of diplomatic representatives from "enemy" countries, resignation from the League, and an attack on Britain's Mediterranean fleet by Italy's aerial "Death Squad".

These sources said the three-point program was adopted by Mussolini and the Fascist Grand Council at their November 16 midnight session. Il Duce called a cabinet meeting for tomorrow at 10 a.m.

125 In Death Squad

Any way arising from extension of the League of Nations penalties against Italy, responsible sources said, would be a precipitate contest with Italy striving desperately to break through the barriers of the besieging League states.

The Italian Navy's aerial "death squad" was reported to be a force of 125 pilots, each carrying a single great bomb in his plane and pledged to dive upon an "enemy" warship, going to certain death.

Il Duce's decision to employ such tactics, in the event the projected oil embargo was enforced, was said by the unofficial sources to have been communicated to British Ambassador Sir Eric Drummond here last Saturday by Mussolini himself.

They said it also was made known to Premier Laval of France and Foreign Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare of Britain early this week through Italy's Ambassadors to Paris and London.

The Rome reports Mussolini advised British officials at a dramatic interview he would oil sanctions against his impoverished East African warfare with Ethiopia was invoked a quick denial from the London foreign office.

British Deride Allegation

(British officials derided Drummond's call on Mussolini Nov. 23 concerned another matter and sanctions were not mentioned. They said Dino Grandi, Italian Ambassador to London, gave no such intimation to Sir Samuel Hoare.)

(French officials reported at Paris Italian Ambassador Vittorio Cerruti repeated to Premier Laval yesterday Il Duce's previous warning of an embargo might mean war.)

An Italian government spokesman, interpreting the phrase "oil means war", said, a new conflict might and sooner or later would follow an oil embargo would be "another step which does overhang hard on European hostilities."

Interested Italian sources said it was this program which brought about indefinite postponement of the meeting of the league sanctions committee of 18, originally set for today, in connection with the threat of oil embargo.

This meeting was called off at the request of Premier Laval but League officials at Geneva said Frands was not opposed to oil sanctions and they expected a date for application of this measure to be set early in December.

Extending his campaign against the Italian financial and economic sanctions and the embargo on sellers of war products already applied, Mussolini called committees of mothers and widows of Great War dead to a meeting in the Capital Dec. 1.

Honors For Women.

Fascist organizations arranged numerous honors for the women helping to enforce domestic restrictions to combat the sanctions, anticipating their presence in Rome would emphasize the devotion the government expected of all Italians.

Two meetings yesterday drew powerful trade and professional groups into Il Duce's emergency organization of the state.

Chemist Corporation leaders outlined to Mussolini the situation in their industry and representatives of Fascist organizations of professions and arts scanned their offices' readiness to combat sanctions in their lines.

The propaganda ministry barred theatrical presentations of all kinds from "sanctionist" countries, making a few concessions to French authors and composers because of the "pro-Italian" attitudes of some French intellectuals.

Having cut the traditional two-hour lunch period to a half hour, Fascist leaders turned on the longer period, announcing 7 p.m. would be the "patriotic" hour for dinner, instead of 9 p.m.

Long nights for deeping will bring strength to resist iniquitous sanctions," the Fascists announced, adding earlier meals and retirement would mean economies in light.

SPEED EXCESSIVE IS JURY VERDICT

Says Ottawa M.P.P. Driving Too Fast For Condition of Brakes

Gananoque, Nov. 29 (CP)—A verdict that Joseph McAlanon, elderly cheese manufacturer, "came to his death at Seeley's Bay on November 16 by being struck by a car driven by Arthur Ellis of Ottawa, who was guilty of driving at an excessive rate of speed through the village, taking into consideration the mechanical condition of his brakes," was returned by a coroner's jury Thursday.

At the conclusion of the regular hearing of evidence, Mr. Ellis, M. P. P. for Ottawa South, driver of the automobile which struck Mr. McAlanon, expressed his willingness to give evidence.

"Mr. Coroner," he said to Dr. F. S. Young, who was in charge of the inquest, "I am perfectly willing to be called although I was not summoned to give evidence."

Crown Attorney H. Aitkinson of Brockville and Provincial, in view of the fact that charges had been laid, he had not called Mr. Ellis but he could give evidence if he desired.

Mr. Ellis on bail of $2,000, is to appear in court at Gananoque Monday on charges of criminal negligence and driving a motor car with defective brake.

Was Crossing Highway.

The inquest today was held at Seeley's Bay, near here where Mr. McAlanon was fatally injured as he was crossing the highway to return to his cheese factory, one of the oldest in Leeds county.

Mr. Ellis testified that he was travelling through Seeley's Bay Sunday morning, Nov. 24, between 9 and 10 miles an hour. He said his vision was somewhat obscured by some trees and telephone or Hydro poles at the right side of the road. He saw Mr. McAlanon walking across the highway with something in his right hand and his face turned away from the car being driven by Mr. Ellis.

"I sounded my horn when I saw him starting to walk across the road," Mr. Ellis testified. Mr. McAlanon had gone about four feet across the road when, witness said, "in my own mind I concluded he had passed me. I then decided to keep right, as he had stopped, as I thought, and so as to avoid an accident, fearing he might turn, back. I veered to the left.

"At the same time Mr. McAlanon took two or three more steps. I then knew he was going to be struck. I did not apply my brakes as I thought if I turned to the left I would miss him. I struck him with the right bumper and the right headlight. I did not know the brakes were faulty."

Mr. Ellis produced a bill from the United Garage Company of Ottawa for adjustment of brakes on Nov. 14.

Believe Decisive Stage is Reached in Ethiopian Affair

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK

Copyright, 1935,

By The Associated Press

Paris, Nov. 29—(AP)— Premier Laval has destroyed Benito Mussolini's hopes for further postponement of an oil embargo against Italy, informed sources said today, driving the Italo-Ethiopian crisis into its decisive stage.

Yielding to the insistence of British Ambassador Sir George Russell Clerk, these sources said, Laval made clear to Italian Ambassador Vittorio Cerruti if Il Duce did anything "desperate" in the Mediterranean, France and other League of Nations powers would stand solidly, unreservedly behind Britain.

The European crisis arising from Italy's war in Ethiopia and application of League penalties against the Fascist nation thus approached a climax, diplomatic sources said, reviving hopes Italy might soon be ready to consider negotiating a settlement.

A high Italian authority was reported by the noted French commentator, Pertinax, to have said addition of an oil embargo to the sanctions already being applied "would very shortly make continuation of the war impossible."

Lacking supplies to probe her East African conquest, Pertinax suggested, "Italy would be all the more incapable of facing eventualities she might cause to arise elsewhere.

"Hasn't the time come to open friendly negotiations?"

VISITING SANTA STAIRS COLLAPSE

Six Children And Woman Sustain Injuries at Galt

Galt, Ont., Nov. 29—(CP)— Six children and a woman suffered injuries today, while scores of other youngsters and grown-ups remained a shocked recollection of the Santa Claus' first visit this year to Galt, marked by collapse of a stairway in Walker's Department Store, plunging an estimated number of people 12 feet from the third to the cement floor.

Two of the children, Mary Leski and Melvin Stuggins, were known to have suffered fractured legs. Four other children and a woman were taken to a hospital here and treated for injuries.

Mrs. J. Collings, who had brought her five children to witness the arrival of Santa Claus, suffered a strained ankle. Her two-year-old son, Michael also was slightly hurt.

Others attended at the hospital were: Annie Ballantyne, six; Jean Cunningham, seven; and Helen McLeod, 8.

Santa was holding forth on the second floor of the store. A large crowd of children, impatient at being unable to ride up in the crowded elevator, decided to have started up the stairs en masse. As they reached the third floor the stair structure gave way slowly. The frightened cries of the children on the stairs were lost in the happy hubbub of other children on the fourth floor.

Children who had reached the third floor were grabbed back by other children and a few adults who were accurate the plan of the stairs. Store employees quickly came to the rescue of the distressed persons.

TWO-YEAR TERM IS ADVOCATED

One Year Too Brief in Council Service Says Merchant

"One year's term for an alderman or mayor is too short; they should be elected for two years at least," declared a prominent Belleville merchant today in a brief review of municipal affairs.

Under the present system a newly-elected alderman or Mayor has only a few months to school himself to his new office and duties before he has to start electioneering all over again for the next term. Elections are little more than popularity contests and the most able bred is taken of the actual capacities or candidates for it. It was a good guy, he'll get in" decided by the public mind.

The evils of "plumping" were also stressed by the speaker who declared that it is a practice not an unfair one. It often meant that one man would get in with a large majority than he deserved while a better man in the second one was a matter of luck.

"I'd like to offer myself for mayor and I think that I could be of benefit to the city. But I couldn't stand the abuse some of these aldermen have to take over their jobs. I believe that a man who is willing to offering themselves are thoroughly conscientious and really anxious to do what is best for the welfare of the city. Not all of them are just seeking the glory of the office."

Marriage Annulment Refused by Court

Montreal, Nov. 29 (CP)—Request for annulment of a mixed marriage performed by a Protestant minister today was entered in the records of the Superior Court when Justice Gustave Greenshields presiding without leave to reply, Edith I. MacPhail, a Protestant, an annulment on her marriage to Vincent O. McMahon, a Roman Catholic, who claimed she has been misled into believing he was not a practising Catholic.

Mr. Justice Greenshields refused the annulment on the grounds the marriage was private in "civil affairs by a complete compliance with the laws of this province, which is the only law which governs in the matter."

In rendering judgment the Chief Justice said "it is a matter of perfect indifference to the civil consequences of this case whether the defendant and the members of the Protestant Communion or the Roman Catholic Communion or whether he was a Hindu, a Mohammedan or an Atheist, his marriage with the plaintiff was valid."

SMALL DAMAGE AT POST OFFICE

Small Tongue of Flame is Found Under Rad iator

A small tongue of flame curling from under one of the radiators on the first floor of the Post Office and noticed promptly by one of the postal employees brought a hasty summons to members of the fire department, shortly before 12 o'clock this morning.

Although a small amount of damage was done by the threatening blaze only a few more moments time would have been needed to develop a potential conflagration, it was declared by Fire Chief Lynch this morning who commenced an investigation into the blaze.

The fire started from some unknown origin in the partitions between the ceiling of the basement and the first floor, it became necessary to rip some of the wainscoting out and remove a radiator before firemen could douse the flames.

LAVAL'S STORY

Pierre Laval, the fifty-two year old Premier of the French Republic, who was yesterday won a striking victory on his financial policy, as he found the opposition without an unified plan to present to the Chamber of Deputies, is one of the outstanding men on whom the world looks today.

Laval's history reads well. It tells a typical French story. He was a bus driver at a little town at the age of fourteen years. He started life poor, but he has been in the seats of the mighty for some time.

He mourns a brother who fell in the Great War. Until recently his sister carried on a tobacco shop in Bayonne. He himself was first a butcher's boy, then a lawyer, who acted, says the Hamilton Herald, out of necessity, for poor men at last became a politician. He has socially advanced. He is wealthy, a millionaire in our money and the father-in-law of Count Leo de Chambrun, of one of the oldest and most patriotic families of old France, his daughter Josee having wedded the count last year in a great social ceremony.

His life is an example of the change which bemused opinion underwent. He started as a radical and became in course of time a Right Wing reactionary.

Life is still stranger than fiction. Its probable has a long way to go. He is in the prime of life, like Mussolini, both being of about the same age. On their decision nations stand.

MEETING CANADIAN PEOPLE

Canada's new Governor General, Baron Tweedsmuir, is fast acclimatising himself in Canada. He has shown himself a man of the people, a man with a wide experience in public life, and with deep sympathies.

He is a man who has made his way in the writing craft, in the political sphere and in diplomacy. He is a historian of note and is now in the highest office which can be held in Canada, the representative of His Majesty the King.

One has but to think of the achievements he has to his credit, to realise that in time Canada has one of the outstanding viceroys in her history. He is the most successful writer domiciled in Canada, one with all the breadth of interest required not only as Governor General but also as the author who with the pen depicts life fully and by the man who has been able to recreate the past in historical works of gumbo.

Brought in the public life he has followed into contact with the formalities of life, he is not strange to those ceremonies he is being called upon to grace during his tenure of the gubernatorial post. The parade and ceremony will not disconcert him. His regime, Canadians are confident, will be one which will be blessed with the spirit of the Canadian people. They feel that in him they have an apt interpretator of their mind and aspirations.

Through his very activity, already he has begun to touch the people very closely. Baron Tweedsmuir has adjusted himself to the Canadian atmosphere with remarkable rapidity. He has made his maiden visit, the cares of office he is the sort of man who is going to discover the heart of the Canadian people, for he has the artist's as well as the public man's interest in humanity in the individual and in the mass. In addition he has the art of expression which enables him to convey to the world his interpretation of the Canadian heart and soul.

HAIL AND FAREWELL

The memory of the good and just lingers on. So it is with Will Rogers, whose kindly philosophy and gentleness and good humor have made countless millions better.

The film was favored in becoming the agency for the dissemination of his good nature throughout the world. While Will Rogers would have been known because of his place on the entertainment stage, yet it is readily understood that it was the film that has made him best known to the wide world.

The mellow richness of the good nature of Will Rogers is enshrouded in many minds forever because of his fine spirit which dominates his last film, "In Old Kentucky", seen here this week. It was with a sense of personal loss that many spectators saw the film reach its conclusion. Some had tears in their eyes as they left the theatre realizing they had seen the final appearance of Rogers in screenland.

Hallowed is the memory of a man who can stake so powerful an appeal upon his followmen.

Benevolence is allied to fag vices; selfishness to fewer virtues.—Home.

Be charitable before wealth makes thee covetous.—Sir Thos. Browne.

For his bounty there was no winter in it, an autumn it was that grew more by reaping.—Shakespeare.

SOMETHING TOLD THE WILD GEESE

Something told the wild geese
It was time to go,
Though the fields lay golden
Something whispered,—"Snow."
Leaves were green and stirring,

Berries lustre-glossed,
But beneath warm feathers
Something cautioned,—"Frost."
All the sagging orchards
Steamed with amber spice,
But each wild breast stiffened
At remembered ice.
Something told the wild geese
It was time to fly,—
Summer sun was on their wings,
Winter in their cry.

FOX FILMS FIGURED ON TAKING A BEATING OF SEVERAL MILLION DOLLARS as a result of the sudden and tragic death of Will Rogers who had completed several pictures for them, not yet released. Cost of production and publicity looked like boosting the red side of the ledger plenty, for it is a known fact in the amusement world that the dead actor is not a live asset. However, Will Rogers broke the custom and proved even in death he is a live one. "In Old Kentucky", Will Rogers' last picture, is easily its best, in the opinion of many. Not to see it is to miss something really worth while. Fox Films found that Will Rogers' pictures were even more profitable when he was dead than before, no doubt because many people thought this might be the last opportunity they would have of seeing the whimsical Will on the screen and did not want to miss one single laugh or chuckle of it. Men like Will Rogers never die—like Mark Twain, they go on forever in the spirit of humor with which never flies and which everybody tries to cling to when the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune kinda gets us down.

HUMAN DERELICT DRIFTED INTO BELLEVILLE RECENTLY, a man well advanced in life, between sixty and seventy at a guess. Pantsy clothes but not very clean, a pack on his back and shoepacks on his feet. His face hadn't seen a razor in several days hence his whiskers were sprouting plentifully. Asked if he was out after the whisker record he said: "No, brother, I lost my razor, and this morning went to look up an old friend and to get a shave, but he was out of town and I was out of luck." Asked if he had had his breakfast he said "No, I went to the Queens here this morning and had a bath of sorts, and they only take on four at a time from the Hotel Alexander Kidd." Asked if he would like a nice warm breakfast he replied: "I would like it, but if it is all the same to you and the appropriation is limited I'd rather have a package of smoking tobacco and a cup of coffee." Which he got and left the scene of the world is preferred above the gross and material alleged necessity of FOOD.

POPULARITY LINKED WITH PROGRESSIVE MANAGEMENT, is the heading of an article in the November "Bell Bell", house organ of the Bell Telephone Company, and refers to the recent installation of a complete room telephone service and switch board in the New Queens hotel, Belleville. The Bell Bell speaks very highly of the late Tom Powers, who made the New Queens a hotel known far and wide for courtesy and service. Mr. Powers was so popular with the travelling public that the commercial travellers put up a bronze tablet in the hotel lobby to show their appreciation of many kindnesses and courtesies at his departure. Tom Power's daughter, Zeta Power Ryan was also eulogized for her very successful handling of the hotel since the demise of her father.

We have no pound and there have been more garden and lawns destroyed this year than since we had the old methods. The outlying districts have been the greatest sufferers. Half the people having cows pastoring in vacant lots pay no attention whether the cows are in the lots or in their neighbor's garden. Another nuisance is cows and horses running loose outside the city limits and at night visiting and running on the lawns and gardens in the city. Complaints by the score have been made and some unheeded and the nuisance has been going on all summer and fall. Why not abolish the law and have pounds to which we can drive these animals or get a man who has time to attend properly to the duties of the cow lurker? ## HEALTH and PSYCHOLOGY

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D.

Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

Copyright, 1935, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

It takes all sorts of people to make the world, they say, and that sort that exhibit abnormal craving for alcohol is no exception. Some are themselves were they different. And besides the suffering that their abnormal craving for alcohol entails themselves, it makes victims also of their families, friends and associates.

Alcoholism is such a condition. Science now believes that chronic alcoholism is a disease, and that the craving for alcohol is not the disease itself, but rather a symptom of a deeper, underlying disease.

The same is true of drug addiction. Persons who are constantly harassed by the craving for morphine, cocaine, heroin or whatever the habit-forming drug may be, are also ill. Here, again, the desire for the drug is not the disease itself. The drug desire is merely an indication of some deeper trouble impels the victim to continue the habit whether he will or not. Those disguised but relentlessly obsessing causes may be physical or mental: often they are both.

Malfunctioning of any organ of the body may have something to do with it. The endocrine glands—such as thyroid, adrenals, etc., may be out of balance and to blame. There are many other possible physical reasons.

But more important still is the mental side. Analysis of the minds of alcohol and drug addicts reveals various types of mental disturbance.

A person may take to alcohol or drugs because he feels chronically downhearted and inferior. Bashfulness does give him courage and self confidence. But the artificial stimulation makes him feel superior. He is a big boy. He is brave and fixed habit is born.

In other cases, those afflicted may feel mentally and physically stupid. A slight stimulation by the drug makes an addition of some kind results.

In all these there still remains some underlying compelling motive that alcoholics, for example, appear cured of the drink habit, temporarily. Even then they find difficult job!

Especially in cases of alcoholism of the "Spree" variety—where the individual is a total abstainer for months or years, then has a "spree" all of a sudden drinks himself into a stupor—there is the same problem of probing the mind is of the utmost importance. Persons afflicted in this kind are paranoiac manifestations; in other words, symptoms of a deep, underlying mental disease.

It is astonishing how readily an individual can become addicted to drugs. Many people take to drugs because we are all more or less neurotic, and some people harbor grievances that may be unconscious to them but which, nevertheless, are there.

Always be wary of a craving, but be equally wary of a habit-forming craving!

Dr. Bisch's Daily Diet Hint

A soft custard, good for sick people because it is so readily digested, is made by beating one egg slightly, adding one level teaspoonful of hot milk, two ounces of milk sugar, a few drops of vanilla extract and a pinch of salt. The mixture is then cooked slowly in a double boiler, stirring constantly until it thickens.

Mrs. Lowry, milking in one section of the stable became alarmed by noises in another, and on investigating found that corner of the barn ablaze and her 15-year-old son lying unconscious on the floor. Without assistance she got him out and the stout-hearted mother got her boy to safety.

Neighbors responded to a telephone alarm and stood and part of the machinery were removed but the barn and season's crop was prey to the flames. It is remarked that the boy had been kicked by a horse and received concussion and a fractured jaw. The latter he was carrying exploded.

"By the assumption of the quadrupedal position," the report adds, "an alteration of blood pressure probably ensues, which releases the blood that dilates the capillaries (small blood vessels). Hence the spasmodic action ceases and the patient carries on in a more nearly normal conversation."

GROUP MAY FORCE ANOTHER ELECTION

Claims Made Government in No Position to Administer Affairs

Montreal, Nov. 29 (CP)—Premier Taschereau will be in Montreal today fix the first time since his Liberal government was returned to power in Monday's provincial elections with the slim majority of six seats.

The Premier will be accompanied by Hon. J. E. Perrault, Minister of Roads and Mines, and they are expected to confer with party organizers.

The first judicial recount of ballots cast in the election will probably be begun in Court. The result is that for Montreal St. James where Ald. Henry Hague, mayoralty leader, and Conservative candidate nosed out Hon. Irenee Vautrin, Minister of Labor, by three votes.

This will be the first of six judicial recounts, the others being in Argenteuil, Drummond, Joliette, Gaspe and Two Mountains. Looming also are five contestations, the Republican Party of Montreal, which it would contest Montreal-St. Louis, Montreal-St. Lawrence, Montreal-Mercier and Soulanges, while the Provincial Party says it contemplates to contest election of Paul Gouin, ALN leader, in Lafontaine.

Ald. Adelard Dupleasis-Gouin supporters it was learned efforts would be made to have some public opinion to an extent the government should be forced to call another election. The plea would be Mr. Gouin's defeat by only a margin of majority, less one after the election of a speaker was in no position to act in authoritative administration of the province's affairs.

ROTH APPROACHES MURDOCK'S RECORD

Fort Erie, Ont., Nov. 30 (CP)—When Windsor Bulldogs come to Fort Erie Arena on Saturday night, a new minor league record, or a tie, will be set up by Sonny Nestor Roth, centre of the Buffalo club of International Hockey League, when he plays his 600th International League game, dating from the opening of the 1926-7 season and including six games he has played this season, and the Bisons' star game at Syracuse.

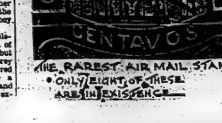
The record of this New Hamburg native is believed to rival that of Murray Murdock of New York Rangers' long penalty record is also one of the lowest in minor leagues.

Stutterers Cured of Ailment by Moving About on All Fours

New York, Nov. 29 (CP)—Twenty-four stutterers have shown marked improvement, even to a complete cessation of stuttering, after they spoke while moving on all fours. What this phenomenon, for which no explanation has been discovered so far, is reported in the issue of Science, official organ of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, published today.

The results were obtained in a series of two dozen cases studied in the Laboratory of Bioinguistics, University of Michigan, by Hanis Geniese.

In an effort to explain the phenomenon the report presents a theory on the cause and mechanism of stuttering.



If stuttering may be looked upon as a kind of spasm, Miss Geniese says, then it may be caused by a temporary stimulus applied to an upper motor nerve cell. A higher, delayed pressure in some of the blood vessels in the vicinity of the speech centres of the brain may possibly result in temporarily stimulating the nerve cells primarily concerned in the process of speech, causing a spasm which manifests itself in lack of co-ordination and speech rhythm —that is, stuttering.

Trenton and District

TRENTON, Nov. 29 —(Special)— The High School auditorium was filled to capacity last night for the annual concert and commencement exercises. The members of the school presented several choral selections under the leadership of the orchestra which were followed by a chorus "Hungarian Song" by twelve girls and twelve boys, Miss Mary E. Hall presided. The following with the High School Orchestra participated: Isabel D. Campbell, G. Cole, H. Orpen, F. Dadswell, H. Darry, R. Sheldon, A. Lawson, A. Church, J. Lennox, S. Little, N. Goodsell, J. Simmons, W. Johnson, A. Ross, J. MacDonald, G. MacMillan, O. Mawson, A. Meyers, J. Miller, D. Mason, G. Pearce, Miss Rose, D. Symond, C. Way, G. Staples, S. Mac. Gratz, G. Sabelitz and O. Turney.

After the presentations the "High and Fling" featuring Misses R. Bentley, V. Jackson, V. Sta. Croix, F. Whalen, M. Sandwell and Kenneth Goodsell was well received. Indian club exercises by Misses Marsh, Clapp, Chase, McCaughey and Whitmarsh were very well executed and the audience was in no way slow with applause. A minuet with Misses D. Hall, M. Sandwell, M. Moon, I. Roy, M. Sclanned and B. Mason, with Miss Dorothy Parmele as lady in waiting was very pretty. The high school male quartette sang "I Love a Lassie" and more than showed their ability. This quartette is composed of Earl Gray, Jim Yielding, Ken Hall, Cyril Vassar and C. Pearce. Five talented young girls of the school, N. Fennell, R. Fennell, J. Bentley, E. Weaver and J. Nugent entertained the foreign element of the audience with clever clog dancing. Two selections by the orchestra preceded the foreign numbers by Cyril Smith and C. Huffman. Miss Anna Leggett, who is fast making a name for herself in the district as a singer, sang "When I Grow Too Old to Dream", accompanied with the violin of Walter Wrightman.

Messrs. Campbell, Sandwell and Campbell gave the audience some cherished laughs during the one act comedy that finished the program the orchestra played several selections, including "Down Among the Dear Town", "Memories", "When Irish Eyes are Smiling" and "Among the Yon Home Again Kathleen". The comedy was most entertaining and brought many rounds of laughter from the filled auditorium. The cast included Springtime, Jr. Sweet son, Mrs. Springtime, Sr. Weaver; Angelina, her mother, Mrs. Pringle; Guitan, Margery Beal; Major Reginald Buttan, Lenard Sweete; Anne Maria Marjorie Hammond; Victor Dubois, Roy Spencer.

Tonight the same program will be presented with Mayor Harry Ory of Trenton presenting the scholarship pins and medals to scholarship winners. 1st Form pupils: Dorothy Lister, Mandel 2nd Form proficiency, Peter Dempsey; 3rd Form proficiency, Evelyn Young; Robert Whyte Memorial Scholarship, B. Campbell. Field Day champions: Senior, Intermediate, Dorothy, Intermediate, Harold Webb, Junior, R. Wismer, Jr. Intermediate, N. Stephens, Junior Marjorie Beal.

The Trenton High School staff this term include, W. George Spencer, B.A., Principal; Miss H. Farley, B.A.; Miss E. Little, B. S., Mathews, B.A., Miss Spence, Miss A. McIntyre B.A., Miss M. Gobbard, B.A., A. F. Middleton, B.A., Spor. Sc., and Miss Ethel Ramsey B.A., Spec. Eng., Hist., and C. F. Ward, B.A., Math. and Science. The Trenton High School Board is composed of H. L. Fraser, chairman, D. Mackenzie, Miss H. Gauntier, J. N. Kidd, H. Mitchell, W. A. Reid, J. E. Baldwin and A. G. Wilson.

Trenton Court

Quite a number of people who fail foul of the law passed yesterday afternoon before Magistrate J. J. Butler K.C., and Police Magistrate Crown Attorney B. O. Donnan K.C., also of Belleville, conducted the court. A local man was charged with having Scotch in a place other than his residence. He pleaded guilty and was assessed one hundred dollars and sixteen dollars costs and in default he will serve three months in jail. He asked for one week to pay and the magistrate granted the request, sentence was pronounced for that period. A resident paid the same for being intoxicated. After an accident a driver was assessed ten and costs and his driver's license suspended one month. A non-support case that has ended in court several times was again thrashed out. Bobby was told to pay $15.00 per week to his wife and if he did not he better come back and prepare himself for a term at Belleville. A recognizance had did her from the bounty was charged with assaulting a twenty year old girl. R. L. Graham, K.C., pleaded on the accused but's behalf and he was given one year recognizance and ordered to pay the costs amounting to twenty dollars and eighty cents.

Stirling and District

Stirling—Never in the history of the Stirling Boy Scout troop has interest been at such a high pitch. The first regular meeting of the troop took place on Wednesday evening in their handsome new quarters over F. T. Ward's store with 28 boys, brimming over with enthusiasm. Scoutmaster Ward is also much devoted largely to re-organizing the troop and the boys are willing to co-operate in every branch of the work. He was a real source of encouragement to those in charge. The early part of the evening was spent in playing games and the practice of gymnastics, as well as tying knots, signalling, etc. The boys were called in order by Scoutmaster Thomas Ward and a general discussion on the making of the Big Amateur Night being sponsored by the troop next week took place. The meeting was greeted with great enthusiasm by the boys, and all members will do their part to help make the enterprise one of the most successful ever attempted. At this time the reorganization work again under the very capable direction of Mr. Ward and Mr. Wells, principal of the public school, who has very willingly offered his services in directing the activities of the Wolf Cubs, junior troop. Mr. Wells has become very popular with the boys of the district and under his direction this new organization will no doubt meet with great success. The members of the scouts were divided into various Patrols with a capable patrol leader for each group.

The Beaver Patrol, under the leadership of Mr. James Ward include the following members—H. Wright, R. Tindley; Don. Thompson; D. Richardson; S. Thomas; J. Sheldon; A. Jackvers.

The Eagle under the leadership of Lloyd Rowland—W. Morton; C. West; D. Mather; B. Mcfee; M. Lemming and M. Reid.

The Wolves under the leadership of Mr. Matheson; R. Crook, W. Cooke; J. Rosebush, J. Farnsworth, J. Rogers, J. McCaughan and F. Butler.

The Fox, under the leadership of George Duffin—M. Armstrong; R. West, Thomas Foster; Bob Emery; Clarence Fraser; D. Francis and B. Keegan. The registration of members is not yet completed as new members will no doubt be added to the group, under the guidance of its group as follows: Fox, Duffin, Burton; Eagle, Dear leader; David Duffin, Assistant; Beaver, Scout Master Douglas Redeio and Glen Whitehead.

With the keen interest taken in scouting by the boys this year and the very capable staff of supervisors, great things are looked for by those interested in this fine organization. Rev. Fen Ward will also assist in the direction of the newly formed junior group.

Little Benny's Note Book

After supper pop took a cigar out of his cigar case and lit it with a satisfied expression and then looked at it kind of doubtful, saying, What the dooce.

And he took a couple of more say puffs, saying, This cigar tastes something funny and smells funny and I can't quite make out what it is.

Now Willyum you properly imagine it, ma said, and pop said, Taks a puff yourself and you will see if I cry imagine it.

Well thanks, I haven't risen to that depth of equality between the sexes ma said. And don't start in to smoke it while, saying, Now I wonder, no, its impossible.

Well, what's that? pop said, and ma said, Willyum taks a puff and tell me what it tastes like and if you think it tasts anything like tobacco.

I can't, taks a good puff because all the puffs are not, and by-and-bye it taks so much like cigarettes that it is carefree, pop said, and ma. Then it must be possible. Its all your own fault, Willyum, because if you hadn't let the lid of the cigar box open I couldn't have taken the cigar and dropped a few camphor balls into it this afternoon. Just a few; and even so it has taken the taste of it, and there more than an hour when I remember putting them in, again, she said.

Well, I must go, pop, it nite as well of been a month, pop said. Fortunately I only put in half-a-dozen cigars left in there to be sure of camphor proof, he said.

And he attempted them out and 3 camphor balls came out with them, and pop said, Now I am clear of overlooked a couple. Well, it's all right and has no more inviting. Ill give them to Mr. Sevvers when he comes to take out the ladies for auto moves in such a cloud of asters I'm sure a final dose of camphor will put outsides ed, she said.

Rawdon and District

Rawdon, Nov. 30—A very pretty wedding ceremony was solemnized at seven o'clock on Wednesday morning November 27th, 1935, at Bethel United Church when Annie Elizabeth Elliott, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Elliott of Bethel became the bride of Henry Walter Warren son of Mr. and Mrs. James Warren of the same place.

The church altar and choir loft was a bower of greenery, potted foliage plants and graceful ferns. The beautiful stained glass windows were decorated with greenery intermingled with white chrysanthemums. Two white bells at the front of the church added a chic touch to the scenery and the electric lighting completed the arrangement. Rev. James R. Mockett, pastor of Rawdon circuit officiated at the solemn and joyful service in the midst of such a picturesque setting.

Messrs. William Warren of Ringston and Albert Warren of Belleroi, brothers of the groom were ushers for the occasion and many friends were present from the surrounding community, also Mount Pleasant, Wellman's, Stirling, Springbrook, River Valley and Tweed when the ceremony took place, in addition to the invited guests.

The bride looked charming in a gown of ivory bridal satin with circle lace yoke, fashioned on princess lines and trimmed with self embroidered tulle veil, caught about her hair in cap effect and banded with a wreath of orange blossoms she carried a bouquet of butterfly roses, carnations and fern. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, to the strains of Lohengrins wedding march played by Miss Leola Mahaffy of Belleroi, who was also present in black crepe with trimming of green velvet, and during the recessional she played Mendelsohn's wedding music.

The bride's sister, Miss Mildred Elliott was bridesmaid and wore a becoming gown of rose crepe with matching velvet turban and carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and carnations. The groom was assisted by his youngest brother Mr. Edwin Warren. During the signing of the register Miss Bessie Conley, gowned in pink crepe sang "I Love You Truly."

Immediately after the ceremony the invited guests numbering about sixty repaired to the home of the bride where they received congratulations and showers of confetti. Mrs. S. J. Elliott wearing a gown of Nigerian crepe and Mrs. James Warren in a frock of plum crepe received with the bridal party.

A delicious wedding breakfast was served by six girl friends of the bride. Misses Laura Tucker, Helen Farrell, Irene Warren, Lauretta McMullen, Edna Morrison and Lela Johnson and they were assisted by Mrs. C. M. Sine, Mrs. Warren Reid and Mrs. Charles Dresser. The girls were crepe gowns of white and pink with white accessories while white crepe paper aprons and hair bandeaus with pink trimming which carried out the dining room decorations. The bride's table was adorned with a tiered wedding cake, bride and groom cakes and pink tapers.

A programme of toasts followed: the first to the bride: proposed by Rev. Mockett with the groom responding. To the parents of the bride and groom: proposed by Mr. Reid and Warren and responded to by the fathers. To the guests: proposed by Mr. Albert Warren and responded to by Mr. Wm. Thompson. Solos were rendered by Mr. C. M. Sine and responded to by Miss Bessie Conley.

During the afternoon the happy couple left by motor for a honeymoon trip to Toronto, Niagara, Hamilton and other points. The bride travelled in a gown of Ilo mercery crepe trimmed with metallic stitching, a brown tree hat to suit with brown seal collar and velvet turban.

The groom's gift to the bride was a cheque to the solemn and appropriate, while evening beads to the groomsman, military brushes, to the ushers, leather bill folds.

The bride's gift to her sister was a gold wrist watch to the bridesmaid.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren received many beautiful and useful gifts which bore mute tribute to the popularity of the young couple. Among the guests from other points besides the immediate family were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Elliott, James, Hilda and Harold, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Elliott, Irene and Marguerite, West Huntingdon; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Elliott, Dorothy and Everett, Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner Welsh, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rosebush, Miss Jean Rosebush, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. J. E. Reeds, Stirling; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Frankford; Mr. Wm. Kelly, Madoc; Mr. and Mrs. John Lowery, Mrs. Ed. Lowery, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kelly, Mr. Harry Kelly, Mrs. Stanley Seymour Rose, Mrs. George Maggard, Mrs. R. Townsend and Mr. R. Hollinger, Belleroi; Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Coomber, Mr. Harry Coomber, River Valley; Mr. Harry Sherritt, Shanaw, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morton and Burton of Wellman's.

This is the second wedding ceremony ever held in Bethel Church. The first was solemnized about forty years ago when Miss Sarah Belle Hodgins, the bride of Mr. Elliott also.

Winter flowers made the charming rooms most inviting. Guests were invited in tea by Mrs. J. F. Dolan, Mrs. Chrysanthemums in pastel shades were used as a beautiful centre piece for the tea table effectively arranged with handsome silver appointments and a lovely lace cloth. Mrs. A. F. Bogart, Mrs. Hugh Anderson, Mrs. T. J. Hurley and Mrs. J. Lafferty poured tea and those who assisted in the serving were Mrs. J. Dolan, Mrs. H. Smith, Mrs. J. O'Connor, Miss N. Lynch, Mrs. E. Logan, Mrs. F. M. Heffernan, Mrs. J. Lafferty, Jr. Mrs. George Wilson was treasurer for the tea. The home-cooking table was very popular and was in charge of Mrs. T. Holland, Mrs. J. Lynch and Miss J. A. Murdoch. The handkerchief tickets were in charge of Mrs. D. Donovan and Miss M. Holland was the lucky winner. Mrs. P. Donovan was in charge of the selling of recipes for a delicious cake.

Last evening at the regular Girl Guide meeting in the Y.M.C.A. Miss Mary Green was appointed Company Secretary. Miss Betty Hubbard was also elected Company Treasurer this month.

At the home of Miss Milburn, Charles Street, a successful tea was held yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the St. Thomas' Parish Guild. The guests were received by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. A. Beachman Payne, and Mrs. R. A. Potter, president of the Guild. The guests were invited to the tea room by Mrs. E. W. Scott. Chrysanthemums in deep autumn tones made an artistic centre-piece for the tea table at which Miss Wills presided. Members of the Guild assisted in the serving. The home-cooking table, whose delicacies were very much chased, was in charge of Mrs. Dean and Mrs. Howes. Mrs. P. W. Owen was treasurer for the afternoon.

Mrs. M. P. Duff entertained at an afternoon tea at her home, 74 Alexander Street, on Wednesday.

Directors of the Belleville Club entertained at a delightful dinner dance for members and their guests last evening. About one hundred guests were present and spent an enjoyable evening, the Commodores' three piece orchestra providing splendid dance music. Arrangements for the dance efficiently carried out by a committee under the convenership of Mr. H. E. Orr made the event one of the most successful affairs sponsored by the club.

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE BELLE

"Broadway Melody of 1936"

Radio, Stage and Screen Stars

The radio, the stage and the screen were scoured in the search for talent to make the new Metro-Goldwyn Mayer musical extravaganza, "Broadway Melody of 1936" which will open a four days' engagement at the Belle Theatre starting tomorrow (Saturday), matinee daily.

Headed by Jack Benny, number one hero of the air waves, the cast of noted entertainers includes: Eleanor Powell, the "world's greatest feminine tap dancer"; Robert Taylor, Hollywood's most rapidly rising luminary; popular Una Merkel; June Knight, stage and screen favorite; Vilma and Buddy Ebsen, famous acrobatic dancer; Vilma and Buddy Ebsen, Broadway stage favorites; Robert Wildhack, the famous "more specials" who created a sensation on the stage and repeated his success on radio; Frances Langford, radio's song-bird; Harry Stockwell, New York stage favorite on both stage and on the air, and Sid Silvers, "King of the Ad-Libs."

Wrisley For Talent

For five years M.G.M. has been planning a second edition of the screen's most successful musical "Broadway Melody" but the producing organization was determined that it would not be made until the necessary brilliance of talent was available.

During much of this time, when they were not working on other all-star films Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed have devoted their talents to devising new songs for the picture. The result is nine original, sing numbers which the publishers believe will make Brown and Freed songs in the first "Melody".

The numbers include: "Broadway Rhythm," "You Are My Lucky Star," "Broadway Serenade," "I've Got a Feelin' You're Foolin'," and "On a Sunday Afternoon." These songs are presented in conjunction with elaborate dance routines staged by Dave Gould, who was responsible for "The Continental" and "The Carioca" in "Flying Down to Rio." Gould created an original ballet for the number, "You Are My Lucky Star" which is said to be the most impressive and spectacular she has ever staged for a musical picture.

The world's most beautiful girls, selected after screen tests were chosen from those made by fourteen dancers, are seen in the elaborate musical numbers.

Filmed in Lavish Set

Once the numbers, titled "Broadway Rhythm," which Dance Director Dave Gould believes surpasses his "Continental," was filmed on the most lavish, set ever conceived for a musical production on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot.

A replica of the city of New York was constructed in a background with skyscrapers built to scale, with real lights blinking through the glass. Eleanor Powell and a mixed chorus stage one of the most spectacular dance routines ever in motion pictures in this particular setting. Actual years in preparation and more than three months in production, the elaborate musical is heralded as the most ambitious undertaking ever attempted by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in this particular field of entertainment.

"The Three Orphan Kittens", a brand new Walt Disney Silly Symphony features the full beautiful technicolor, the Belle Latest World News events will be exhibited on the same program.

At the matinee on Saturday, Bob Steele will appear in the action-crammed air-epic, "The Mystery Squadron."

"The Dark Angel" Pleases

A love story so magnificent and compelling that the audience sat hushed for a full minute after the final fadeout marked on the screen of the Belle Theatre last evening. The film was "The Dark Angel," Samuel Goldwyn's latest production, and the chief actors in the powerful and stirring romantic drama were Fredric March, lovely Merle Oberon and Herbert Marshall. None has ever been cast to better advantage.

Magnificently acted, handsomely mounted and brilliantly directed, "The Dark Angel" stands out as one of the finest and most entertaining films of the new season. "The Dark Angel" will again be exhibited at the Belle tonight for the last time and is well worth seeing.

AT THE CAPITOL

Princess Very Anxious to See Ken Maynard's Latest Film "The Old Santa Fe" to Be Shown at the Capitol Theatre Soon

Why the very name of Ken Maynard stirs up scenes of excitement in every mind," said a patron to the manager of the Capitol Theatre the other day when he saw a poster announcing the coming of this cowboy star in "In Old Santa Fe". And dog gone it he's right. The name sort of makes the blood tingle and creates that longing for thrills and action that all will want when they can't find unless we are one of this star's films.

When the Mascot company set out to make "In Old Santa Fe", director David Howard was told to spare no expense to film an outstanding outdoor action picture and he most surely lived up to orders. He has turned out not one of the best but the best Western picture made in many a season.

"In Old Santa Fe", presentation at the Capitol Theatre beginning today and will run three days, and the management take pleasure in offering it as a thrilling entertainment with a neatly woven romance and all set amid a background of the most beautiful spots in the west along the old Santa Fe trail.

Supporting Ken Maynard, or should we say co-starring with him, is perhaps the finest specimen of horse flesh ever seen on the screen, that perfectly trained and highly intelligent animal, Ken's horse, Tarzan, so named by special permission of the famous author of the Tarzan stories, Edgar Rice Burroughs.

To supply the romantic interest there is beautiful Evelyn Knapp and who is the cowboy, or any other boy or man, who could resist the charms of this delightful young lady. In "In Old Santa Fe" she has one of the best roles she has had in months and you may be sure she does justice to it. Then there is that talented actor, H. B. Warner as well as Kenneth Thompson, Wheeler Oakman and George Hayes.

"In Old Santa Fe" rolls adhering to the best traditions of the old West, also gives one a glimpse of the new West, with the Dude Ranches we have heard so much about. All in all this fast moving thriller contains all the elements that go to make very interesting film.

Wings Over Ethiopia

Everybody's breathlessly awaiting everything scenes, which are being screened on Ethiopia, the World's Fair's No. 1 hot spot. Belleville, like any city in the country, has a very special audience whose interest in this picture is going to be very keen.

This film IS NOT A NEWS REEL but a feature picture. All the facts you want to know are contained in it in very interesting film. The scenes are actually taken in the hot country of Ethiopia, where water is a very precious thing.

Impressive Pictures of Selassie

Very impressive scenes have been taken of the Lion of Judah, as he appears in his various activities of his busy life. And imagine the fun drives a Rolls-Royce." They talk about the uncivilized East. After you see this film we will wager a cent that they know what it's all about. For adventure, you cannot equal this film as the war scenes are very realistic. It is at 2.30, 7.00, 9.00. Last complete show at 8.30.

PILERS MISSING

Fearing that Lincoln Ellsworth (TOP), polar explorer, may have crashed in the Antarctic wastes, attaches at Dundee Island, Antarctica, planned to send out searching parties for him and his pilot, Herbert Hollick-Kenyon (KELOW) of Winnipeg. The two men took off from Dundee Island, shown on the ABOVE map to fly across Antarctica. Last wireless communication with the explorer revealed he had gone more than 400 miles into the unknown from Hearst Land, which is opposite Robinson strait.

MEDALS GIVEN IN LIFE-SAVING

Rescue From Cass Well and Drowning Recognized in List

Hamilton, Nov. 29—(CP)—Bronze medals awarded for the bravery of the Royal Canadian Humane Association to J. A. Shapp of Cass Bridge, Ont., and Vernon J. Laird of Independence, Sask., recall the rescue of a child from a well on Jan. 26, 1935, at the risk of their own lives.

Shapp, who was in the back yard of E. Payne, Lieutenbridge, saw two unconscious and two semi-conscious persons at the bottom of the well. Shapp and Laird were lowered into the well and brought the men out.

The association also recognized heroism and presence of mind in various rescues from drowning in Western Canada, by the award of parchment certificates. The list of citations for the certificates, with place of rescue and date, follows:

Yvonna Visser, Alberta, B.C., in Kitsuksla Creek, Aug. 17.

Junior Sorenson, Lac Vert, Sask., in Moyese Lake, May 24.

Annie Stotz, Herb Lake, Man., June 17.

Jack MacKinnon, Vancouver, at Vancouver Dock, July 9.

Jack Lee, Lac Vert, Sask, at Lacadena July 2.

Walter Porter of South Edmonton, Alta., was awarded the certificate for saving two small children from their burning home in Edmonton, January 31.

Guides Play Santa Claus to Western Tots

Ninety-eight children in the Crenlman district, Saskatchewan, will have a very merry Christmas this year and the Belleville 1st Girl Guides will be responsible for a large share of the happiness. For the forty or so senior guides of the company adopted these little ones many months ago and have been busy ever since preparing gifts to make like a real Christmas for them. The names and ages of the children were forwarded here, and each patrol was responsible for a certain number.

This week-end the girls are being packed and sent off, so there will be no more gifts received after Sunday some time after Santa Claus' official visit. For the past few days the articles have been on display at the home of the company captain, Mrs. M. L. Branscombe, and the industry of the Guides has been a matter of astonishment to the many visitors.

The doll section was particularly appealing. The Guides were not content with simply buying dressed dolls. They made the clothes for more lovely little beauties and then proceeded to make exquisite little frocks and beautifully knit sweaters, bonnets and booties so that the dolls would be a real personification of what the well-dressed tot should be. Sewing, knitting and crocheting for the dolls, alone, was an arduous task.

Picture books, toys and fascinating games for the little ones have been made by the Guides, who wished to have "just one toy" was ready for every little child to have. The necessities of the children were not overlooked, however. Warm nighties and bloomers, dresses for the girls, stockings and mittens will be welcomed gifts. Christmas Day itself the sewing was done at camp this summer and finished when the girls returned. Tonight the Guides will wrap the gifts, and post them ready for shipment.

The Christmas work the Guides undertake in the city is already planned. They will contribute toys to the Well Baby Clinic, take charge of the Lady Cleveland dinner, and provide their customary Christmas Tree entertainment at the Home for the Aged.

MAN HANGING IS JUST EFFIGY

Radio Police Squad Rush to Capitol Grounds in Atlanta, Ga.

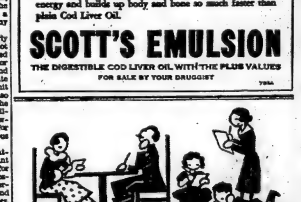
Atlanta, Nov. 29. — (AP)—The crude effigy of a man, bearing several placards which were part of the hot brand criticism of Governor Talmadge, Anti-Administration leader, was hanged from a tree at the State Capitol early today.

Cried Gene Talmadge: "I'll what he used to be," said one card.

Police Captain Roberts, among the officers awaiting a noon visit of President Roosevelt, said he received reports of "a hanging on the capitol grounds" shortly before 6 a.m.

Patrolmen of radio squad cars who rushed there found the swinging dummy — and no evidence in sight. Here, ordering it cut down, said there was no clue to the "lynchers".

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Nov. 29 — (CP)—Police Chief Joseph Mackey: "Say they are expecting a fall or a rise in temperature?"



Then he knew something of darkness in his cell and asked for a transfer. Another complained of a constant headache and requested medicine.

A third asked for a mattress and pillow for his cot which he said was hard.

fire here and a fire there. There had been a lot of fires and people were beginning to think there would be more.

Townspeople, not employes, passed such comments, he stated, as Mr. Sedgewick proceed his questions.

Only a hole in the ceiling was used before the stairway was built.

"Why did you discuss this stairway with Fire Chief Kaup?" inquired.

"Because it was the talk of the town," witness answered.

Talk Around Town

The construction of the new staircase in the pattern warehouse was the cause of talk around town there was going to be another Parliament Fire, Mr. Hubbard told Mr. Sedgwick.

"I had a fellow, Bill Howard of Midland, come to the shop and say: 'You have a stairway there now. That looks funny,'" witness added when further questioned.

Mr. Hubbard told several people the stairway was built because pipe racks interfered with taking lengths of pipe into the building by old block and tackle.

Mr. Sedgewick then asked if he had any conversation with Fayette regarding the staircase.

The day before yesterday he asked me if he had spoken to me before he built the stairway and I said I did not remember him doing so. He said then "it was needed." and I said "Yes, it was badly all right." Mr. Hubbard recalled.

He reminded you that the stairway was needed," commented Mr. Sedgwick.

5 YEAR OLD BOY SHOT BY BROTHER

Gun Accidentally Discharges While Children Play With Shotgun

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 29.—(CP)—Edmund Cannon, aged 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cannon, residing near Harrowsmith, Bedford Township, 20 miles north of here, was accidentally shot to death today at his home by his brother, James Cannon, 13.

It was stated the boys, who had been left alone in house, were playing with a shot gun, when the elder boy discharged it, the charge penetrating the younger boy's stomach causing almost instant death.

The report stated parents of the children were visiting at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Green, six miles away from Cannon's home when the tragedy occurred. The victim's twin sister died some time ago as result of burns received years ago as result of being scalded.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, Nov. 29 (CP) — The stock market headed for higher levels Thursday, war clouds became darker.

A firm tone displayed by rails and oilers began in the first hour of the morning. A selling wave in the latter hour, however, forced prices 1 to around 2 points. The ticker tape dropped behind four hours before the market closed as soon suffered the flurry.

Wheat rallied at Chicago. Cotton was lifeless. Bonds turned irregular. Foreign exchange was quiet.

Anaconda, U. S. Smelting and Union Pacific were among the shares with moderate gains. Losses included Chrysler, Bethlehem, Johns-Manville, General Motors, Radio, Union, Santa Fe, Du Pont, U. S. Steel, Consolidated Gas and Baltimore & Ohio. The late tone was heavy. Transfers approximated 2,300,000 shares.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—After a fairly resistant two hours, a heavy selling wave hit the stock market today and leading issues dropped 1 to around 3 points.

Sharp appreciation over the foreign situation was said to have induced liquidation of a part of recent favorites.

Western Union lost 3 and other conspicuous losers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Du Pont, Westinghouse and New Consolidated Gas. Montgomery Ward, Orenl Norther, Anaconda and Radio.

Among Dominion stocks International Nickel, Beauharnois and Consolidated rather firm, while Canadian Pacific was about even. On the curb, Hiram Walker, Canada Malting and Int. Distillers-Corp.-Seagrams and Gale Types were firm. Government bonds were inactive. Monthend trade eased ¼ of a cent at 99⅞ cents.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 29 (CP)—The middday sell off on the New York Board smashed Canadian markets severely today, particularly the industrial group, and losses up to 4 and 5 points were hoarded. International Nickel dropped back to 60¼, off 2 points, and Consolidated Smelters weakened to 30⅝ from a morning high of 32.

Distillery stocks, Walkers Canadian Breweries, Canada and Industrial Alcohol A, recorded losses ranging from ½ to a dull point with trading fairly active in the face of the decline. Brazilian, C.P.R. and Bell Telephone made similar losses.

By early afternoon prices turned sharply downward and New York eased up. Nickel came back to 60⅝ for a net loss of a half point.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Nov. 29 (CP)—From a strong first hour tone, Base Metal issues turned heavy around noon on Toronto exchange today and declines of quite heavy net losses were recorded. Profit-taking on the day's rise helped to shake the market down. Golds held fairly well while silvers were slightly heavy.

Bathurst Basin sagged from 3.05 to 2.85. Noranda dropped 3 points per cent, off 23 cents net. Sherritt lost 1 to 5.50. Falconbridge 10, Normetal 5, Ventures 6 cents and Coniagas 3.50. Hollinger was steady, however, selling ex-dividend 50 cents, dropped about a point to 30¼.

Lake Shore was steady and a run up of 1.45 but failed to hold any of the advance.

Grain Markets

Closing quotations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as furnished by A. E. Ames and Co., today:

| Wheat— | High | Low | Close |
|---|---|---|---|

Board Room Gossip

As supplied by Hogarth and Crawford by Financial Service.

FALCONBRIDGE EXPANDING

Backed by Ventures and Falconbridge Nickel, the Fahralloy Canada Limited has been incorporated and will be shortly producing nickel steel alloy for the general trade in Canada. The new organization, with plant in Orillia, will produce a complete line of stainless steels and other alloys for the Canadian metal working trade. The development is of considerable importance and marks another advance of the Canadian metal industry.

Indications are that in the third quarter Falconbridge will establish new records in tonnage, production and profits. One will hardly overestimate the profits from the quarter earnings at 18 to 20 cents a share, as compared with record earnings of 15 cents a share in the third quarter. Third quarter earnings showed a margin of only 1.50 per cent over the current dividend rate, and in view of the strong financial position it would not be surprising to see the Company declare a year-end bonus, in addition to the dividend to 10 cents quarterly.

At 86 or below, the stock is selling at a new five-year high. On a 10-cent annual dividend, the yield is 5 per cent and the stock is selling at 16 times or less, current annual rate of net earnings.

WRIGHT-HARGREAVES

With an increased average daily tonnage and a slight reduction in ore grade, the Wright-Hargreaves Mines is in current months producing gold at a higher rate than in the corresponding months of which ended with August, states The Northern Miner. Profit tonnages have been raised from an average of 960 tons last year to 1,050 tons at present. Ore grade continues over $30 a ton giving a monthly output worth in excess of $30,000. Profits previously are well in excess of dividend and bonus rates and have been made equal to 60 cents per share per year and may possibly be higher than above the rate of 70 cents earned in the last fiscal year, despite the further heavy charges for development, including the new hoist shaft now being pushed to 2,000 ft.

COPPER OUTLOOK

New York metal circles are highly optimistic as to the outlook for copper. Stocks are gradually and rapidly declining, and domestic bookings so far in November have been well above 100 million pounds and estimates made since five weeks ago when the market turned quiet following an August rise in prices. While the current activity is largely attributed to the talk of a higher market, it goes without saying that talk alone has not been responsible for the sales and that the demand is correctly should be accredited to the recognition which has been given to the intrinsic strength of the American situation, since the forecast of a possible upward move in price has merely stirred them into action.

According to one well informed New York source, sentiment in the copper market has moved into such a position that a buyer for a single day could not possibly encounter great difficulty in inducing any single seller to part with any metal. In other words, while the selling has not actually ceased, it is in the sense that any seller has as yet declined to accept orders, the books of no member of which are known to be filled that they may no longer be in a position where they would care to figure on inquiries of large size.

It is quite likely that the price will be advanced in the near future and as low as 18 cents may be reached, a rise in the American price circles a wave of buying of copper with a consequent rise.

Marinewise, such stocks as Dominion Steel, Steel of Canada, Nickel, Bay, Sherritt Gordon and others, are, in the opinion of those reflecting the good outlook for the red metal, and anticipating a coming firm up in prices.

Jones Heward & Co. in their Mid-Week Review state that it will be noticed that the most outstanding service aspect that any reaction will merely be a pause before the major upward movement of the market. None feels that investors should be in haste to sell, our part it is difficult to arrive at any other conclusion. At the same time, one must have a rather sheepish feeling in moving in such close harmony with the crowd. Undoubtedly there are many dangerous elements in the present situation, but lasting improvement, but now that the crowd are moving in a pulsing momentum, it may not be wise to emphasize the eddies.

Produce Prices on Montreal Market

Montreal, Nov. 30.—Turkey prices will be six to seven cents per pound higher than a year ago for the Christmas trade next month, according to wholesale dealers. Western offerings of cars are now on the basis of 30c-36c per pound for A-grade stock. A year ago the price was 19c. Quantities so far available are light, but more being reported. For the time being the demand from the local trade is rather dull. Domestic poultry is quoted by jobbers in the retail trade as follows on A-grade, B-grade being two cents per pound less:

| | Per lb. |
|---|---|
| Turkeys ..... | 36c-39c |
| Roasting chickens ..... | 30c-36c |
| Selected chickens ..... | 32c-34c |
| Fowl ..... | 18c-19c |
| Ducks ..... | 28c-30c |
| Domestic ducklings ..... | 18c-21c |

The better market prevailed from 36½c to 39c per pound, being mainly 39½c per pound for No. 1 carlots or 1-tol. lots. Receipts, 18 boxes. Small lots to the retail trade were reported at 40c per pound for fancy and 39c for prints.

The cheese market was unchanged at 1½c for No. 1 Ontario white and 1½c for No. 1 Ontario colored current arrivals. Receipts, 143 boxes.

On the egg market graded shipments were in carlots or 1-tol. lots were 37-38c for A-large, 33-36c for A-medium, 30-31c for A-pullets, 25-27c for B, 21½-24c for C. Receipts, 1,263 cases.

LONDON CHEESE PRICES

Ottawa, Nov. 29 (CP)—Butter was steady and cheese quiet and unchanged on United Kingdom market boards according to cable advice received today by the Department of Agriculture.

Quotations:

Butter—New Zealand and Australian 97 to 98 shillings per cwt. (21.60 to 21.84 cents per pound).

Cheese—Canadian, 58 shillings per cwt. (12.93 cents per pound).

Three Rousing Bouts Staged In Which Participants of Main Bout Crash Head-On

Farrell And Dunlop Draw Wrestling Crowd Which Neither Able to Conclusion

SEAL PUNISHMENT

"Red Devil" Deprived of Winning by Toll of Ball

Three of the most rousing bouts ever staged in a local ring on both the professional and amateur programmes were pulled up to the wrestling fans to attend the show at the Belleville Arena last night, when some 800 fans stamped their approval on the entire card. Each preliminary bout saw action personified in all three instances by the capacity crowd and Dunlop and Walker Farrell crashed head-on and were knocked into a semi-unconscious condition and both were counted out in the third round, each having gained a fall previously, the second bout, and saw the dashed "Red Devil" and Bill Handley dash the speediest bout ever staged in this city. The semi-final in which the bedecked "Red Devil" and Handley opened hostilities kept the fans interested and held their attention until the final bell concluded hostilities just as Referee Wells was about to award the bout to the hated "Red Devil". This both his doubtful, the fast, set and most thrilling ever seen locally, while the curtain-raiser proved equally as interesting as Farrell and Dunlop went over their Daily with an aerodynamic spin.

Leg Split Was Fell

The third bout of the evening was a finished affair between Al Dunlop and Walter Farrell, both known offering a fine exhibition of the 30 long minutes these two huge balls of humanity handled and pulled, twisted and pounded each other until Farrell eventually took the verdict. Dunlop opened the bout with his favorite hammer-lock hold, that Farrell evidently took a dislike against some pressure by applying a terrific leg-clinch. The hold proved a pure test of strength and endurance although mid-way through the initial second Farrell gave the classy Dunlop a smart hooking heave, carried the latter header about the ring with the open ending. Eventually Dunlop forced Farrell with a hard drop kick, but while writhing on the mat Farrell got a painful leg split forced but Dunlop until his shoulders eventually were pinned to the mat for a fall after 28.28 minutes of the most interesting wrestling ever seen. In the final ring Dunlop returned to the ring in the second round to prove the aggressor and again put his favorite hammer-lock, but Farrell broke the hold and a battle royal ensued as the contestants hurled each other about the ring in real dull fashion, headed headed toward a second and final fall, when suddenly Dunlop reversed matters with a reverse back drop to the ring and was on his feet and shoulders to gain the tying fall. After fourteen minutes of intermittent wrestling Farrell and Dunlop decided to try a flying tackle as the same moment with the result that the contestants crashed head-on in the centre of the ring and both dropped in their tracks writhing in pain. Referee Wells then stepped into the fracas and after explaining the situation, counted both wrestlers out for the fall of ten, neither being able to rise as they were in a semi-conscious condition both men had to be assisted from the ring by their seconds.

Semi-Final a Wow

In the semi-final bout, that practically stole the show with its speed and agility, the "Red Devil" appeared wearing a red mask over his head, grappled with Bill Handley, of Toledo in the speediest bout ever seen here. The fans were kept spanned fast with both boys entering into the spirit of the affair. Handley after a short battle found himself the bedecked gent with two hard body slams, terminated by an acrobatic spin in 19.19 minutes. Handley tried to pin the Red Devil in the second round, much to the delight of the fans, but the lighter bedecked gent was no novice and although he grasped the ire of the fans he eventually gained a full head scissors and pinned Handley's shoulders to the mat for the second fall. Although Handley proved the aggressor during the final round, the Red Devil had his opponent pinned to the mat as the final bell sounded, and a second before Referee Wells was about to declare the bedecked gent the winner. The latter actually pinned Handley. So angered was the "Red Devil" that a general riot ensued at the termination of this bout, that practically stole the thunder of the show.

In the opening scrap Jack Pearl won over Emil Daly, of Rochester, in two straight falls, the second lasting but 12.45 minutes of interesting wrestling. The boys put on a real good exhibition and held the interest of the entire audience throughout. The entire card was outstanding and bears repeating.

FORDHAM RAMS TAKE N. Y. U.

Several Croppers Seen in United States Grid Games

New York, Nov. 30.—It's still an open season on football favorites in the United States.

While New York University's dream of an undefeated season went, sir, fell before Bucknell, 7 to 6, in another major reversal of form, Pittsburgh, Duke, Georgia Tech and Georgia defense too tough, and these intrachy rivals wound up in a scoreless draw.

Other major eastern games found Penn trouncing Cornell, 33 to 0, and Colgate walloping Brown, 32 to 6. Although Syracuse got no better than a scoreless draw with Maryland, the east fared well in intersectional tests as George Washington whipped North Dakota, 13 to 0, and Colgate won from Miss. Agricultural State, 3 to 0.

In the south, Kentucky ran over Tennessee, 27 to 0 in a surprisingly one-sided fray; North Carolina stopped Virginia 61 to 6, and Virginia Tech won from Virginia Military 19 to 6.

In the middle west, Nebraska had to send in a hurry call for the Cornhuskers to rout Oregon State 26 to 20 in the closing minutes of play. Purdue went up the Wabash under the coaching of Don Faurot and held Kansas to a 0 tie.

In the southwest, Texas A. and M. downed Texas, 20 to 6, while Detroit was winning from Texas Tech, 12 to 0.

Utah State and Colorado University wound up in a percentage tie for first place in the Rocky Mountain Conference race as the former played a 14-14 draw with Utah, while Colorado was taking a 14 to 0 decision from Denver.

SILVER KING IS SOLD FOR $7,100

Famous Trotter Being Retired to Stud by New Owner

New York, Nov. 28.—Silver King, one of the most famous trotters in the last two years in the silks of R. J. Mertins of Cincinnati, ended his racing career Thursday when Bob Wright, acting for John McCune, Jr.'s Monmor Stock Farm, at Corapolis, Pa., led the speedy dark grey colt out of the ring in the Old Glory event, and came to a close.

Leading money winning juvenile trotter and holder of a three-year-old mark of 2.01¾, Silver King changed hands for $7,100 after a spirited bidding session. Wright said the King would be retired to the stud.

Altogether, 87 head were sold for a total of $43,446, an average of $507. Today's figures boosted the total sales for the three days to $145,365, an average of $648 for 266 yearlings and provoked tears. Last year the average was $1,000.

Only a few of today's offerings topped the $1,000 mark. Among the Wagh of Belgium, paid $2,000 for Mondeville Hanover, Harry Spencer, 2.02¾, owned by David W. Look of New York and Kentucky, Abbegail T. Burke of Plainfield, N.J., bid $1,300 for W. N. Reynolds' Mary Worthington, 2.04¾, owned by Walter Cox led Prince Regent away from the Reynolds' string after paying $1,200. Fred Egan also paid $1,200 for Lord Parrish, a Guy Caribelen colt bred at Walnut Hall.

TEN Years Ago Today

Says Phil Warwick
Reviewing Sport History

NOV. 29

University of Toronto juniors won the intercollegiate junior rugby championship by beating Queens by a score of 6-1. The game was played on a soggy covered field which made handling of the ball difficult but with there were very few fumbles. One of the highlights of the game was a 50-yard run by Hall of Varsity mind in with the splendid kicking of Parker for Varsity and Johnston of Queens.

MOST OF POWER IN EAST PART

"Tools" Helway And His Indians Blank Windsor

(By the Canadian Press)

If statistics count for anything in figuring on hockey teams, most of the power in the International group league is locked up in the eastern section. Two western division squads emerged from last night's games with victories to keep even in second place but at that both of them had suffered two more losses than wins.

Only one team in the Western Group, Detroit Olympics, claimed a balance on the win side of the ledger, whereas in the eastern section, Rochester Cardinals, were the only club to have more losses marked against them than victories.

The Cards made a gallant stand at home last night to improve their lowly position but were outlasted by the Pittsburgh Shamrocks in an overtime tussle. The Shamrocks through their 6-5 win keep apace in the Western section with Cleveland Falcons who marked up a 2-0 win at Windsor over Windsor Bulldogs.

Stars in Second Place

Syracuse Stars, laying at home, moved up on even terms with Buffalo for second notch in the Eastern section when they panted the Bisons 3-1. The losers narrowly missed a shut out from Eddie Powers' men when Lee Cunningham scored out of a melee with less than two minutes of play remaining.

After a hectic contest which saw the Rochester Cardinals come from behind in the dying minutes of the game to force the Pittsburg entry into overtime, Sparky Vail sent them down to their seventh defeat in eight starts when he tallied shortly after the extra session got under way.

Only 1,000 fans, one of the small-est crowds in Windsor hockey history turned out to see the gallop-ing left skate at the bottom of the western group as Frank Daley and Alex Cook bagged two counters for Cleveland in the last period. Windsor introduced three new players, Joe Bretin, Bernie McAvoy and Biff Ranger, but looked weaker defensively than in any of their previous starts.

JOCK McAVOY TO MEET AL McCOY

Fight Will be For The Middleweight Title

By SAM ROBERTSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York, Nov. 28 (CP)—McAvoy Florian la Brasseur, who goes to war under the less difficult name of Al McCoy, tackles the handsome record and equally handsome features into the ring here tonight with a challenge to Jock McAvoy to try and stay them.

Should the French Canadian emerge from the 10-round clash of middleweights with both uncashed, it will be an achievement of some sort. Jock McAvoy is a welterweight and light heavyweight peer of the empire on which the sun never sets.

In addition to his purple robes which should stir respect in any bosom, larring Jock is reputed to have applied glove-fiber to 81 of the 103 men who have dared him. But despite the titles and the reputation the Briton brought from across the seas, it is the opinion in this corner that McAvoy is brassey in about to add one more victim to his string.

The impression gained watching the two Monday night the hands of those wanting clothes is that the French Canadian has greater speed and more paralyzing punch than the Englishman.

Jock's right-hand flashed impressively as he pulled off training yesterday. He was blocking masterfully too. But he left the impression he had to be in close to get home with slingers.

Against this McCoy moved about with the speed of a whippet. It didn't seem as if his fighter would find the opportunity of getting in any his licks. Also the dainty-appearing bahtami appeared capable of absorbing over a haymaker from either port.

Ross and Miller On Chicago Card

Chicago, Nov. 28—Two world champions, Barney Ross, welterweight title-holder, and Freddie Miller, feather-weight crown-bearer, engage in non-title bouts tonight at the Chicago stadium.

Barney Ross faces Cefarino Garcia, Californian Filipino, and Freddie Miller meets Jimmy Christy, local Catholic youth organization product. The Ross-Garcia bout will be at 148 pounds, one pound over the limit. Miller fights Christy at 130 pounds, four over the featherweight limit.

Ross was knocked down twice in the first round by Garcia when they met in California last September. The champion was on the floor when the bell rang. Christy lost a decision to Baby Armendil in his last fight. Miller holds a decision over Armendil.

Papa Lester Patrick Happy When Son, Lynn, Snipes Pair To Down Chicago Blackhawks

Rock Tallies Registered in One Minute in Second Frame

CANADIENS TIE

Red Wings of Detroit Take Part in Four Ties This Year

(By The Canadian Press)
New York Rangers and their attendant, the Patrick, soared precariously down from top place in the National League's American section today and acknowledged the continued plaudits of Gotham hockey devotees. Maybe the Patricks smelled a little more cheerfully than do other Rangers.

Those wise-cracks concerning the age and alleged lack-of-legs ability of the blueshirts are out of order today. Lester Patrick's team is for'ard right. It has even beaten the Chicago Black Hawks, whose early start seems to have given out before reaching the first turn.

To the delight of 12,000 supporters last night, Lynn Patrick banged home a pair of goals in the second period, that gave Rangers a 2-1 victory over the Black Hawks and sent twice Lester the happiest man on New York. It was the second straight defeat for the Hawks and doubled them from first place.

Young Patrick condensed scoring into a single minute. His first goal, on which Vernon Jarvis was given an assist, resulted from a shot from inside the goal. The same planned into the Chicago goal 57 seconds later, with Murray Murdock and Cecil Dillon and scored a real goal.

Canadiens Earn Tie

Chicago's only tally came in the first period, when Eddie Ouellette, former London National star, banded Mush March a scoring pass. The little winger beat Davey Kerr with a scorching shot.

There may be things for Lester Patrick to be thankful for, such as the fact his Cook-Boucher line has produced only two goals so far, but his old boys are getting along fine in his steps.

Detroit Red Wings, holding Montreal Canadiens scoreless while tying in vain to get a shot past the brilliant Wil Cude. The wings managed to get through the defence several times, forcing play much of the time, but they couldn't beat Cude.

The Canadiens, however, who came closest to scoring, Aurel Joliat was tripped as he raced in close and, referee Mr. Smith's whistle wasn't heard by the players. Wilbur Larochelle came up to bat and fired the puck home. The official refused to allow the goal despite Montreal protests.

HOCKEY SPOTLIGHTS

They waved the irrepressible Rabbit out of the National Hockey League this season—too old at 37 years.

They waved the irrepressible Charlie "Rabbit" McVeigh can't keep away from pucks. He signed up to do a centre ice turn with London Tecumseths of the Inter-City league, and don't be surprised if the jumping midget turns up with a startling display in the class A minor loop.

Though he weighs only 140 pounds, no defenseman ever went to sleep while McVeigh was on the ice. The dynamic little jumping-jack kept them too busy for that with a stick-handling, prowling, rover-checking display that usually kept all and sundry looking three directions at once to find him. When they got their eyes on him again, Rabbit was usually bustling backwards with the puck still in his possession. He's been like that ever since he broke in as a wooded hockey with Moose Jaw back in 1922, after learning his rugging at with Kenora, his home town, and Winnipeg. When the western league broke up in '36 McVeigh was sold east and uncovered his versatility for Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens before the New York Americans bucked him under their stars.

Born in 1906, McVeigh is a great war veteran. He stands left-handed, stands about five and a half feet high, has played every position on the forward line and still is one of the game's greatest all-round rugers. London is due for some thrills.

N. H. L. STARS

Lynn Patrick New York Rangers, who scored both goals in New York's 2-1 victory over Chicago Black Hawks.

Wilf. Cude, Montreal Canadiens, whose brilliant goal-tending allowed Canadiens to earn a scoreless tie with Detroit Red Wings.

SARNIA REIGNS AS FAVORITES TO WHIP TIGERS

Stirling's Passing Will be Factor if Grid is Muddy

WINGLINES EVEN

Turville Will Start For Hamilton After Long Lay-off

By ELMER DOLMAGE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Nov. 29 (CP)—In this highly interested but detached football town today, Sarnia Imperials reigned slight favorite to defeat Hamilton Tigers in the Eastern Canada final here Saturday. It was generally agreed, however, that the weather would have considerable to do with the betting odds, if any.

Strangely enough, Hugh Gunn, heavy-hitting, triple star of the Imperials, can boost a heavy, wet ball farther than he can fling a dry one. There is no question for the Sarnian's increased effectiveness in either mush or mud, but he has demonstrated many times how it works.

He just grabs a slippery, weighty ball and slams it 55 or more yards, sometimes the whole distance. On occasions and sometimes he doesn't, but a wet ball is the bane of a catching halfback's life regardless of how it behaves as it comes down.

It looks rain, and at least wet grounds, for Saturday's eastern finals between two gridiron powerhouses, that haven't played in the rain this fall. Betting men believe under the wet handicap Art Masnoch's defending Canadian championship team will be out at home because of Stirling.

Passing a Factor

They find it hard to believe that Hook Turville can't make Turville, when it they take turns and work on the Summer in relays, can hold their own in the air with anything. Punting would be a particularly important factor in a game, when ground conditions made forward passing hazardous.

Hamilton's announcement last night that Turville, recovered from his shoulder injury, would be a Tiger regular, helped to boost Hamilton stock. The galloping lawyer played a spectacular game against Imperials in the 1934 Eastern final, when Sarnia won 11-4, but the Tiger backfield has been getting along famously without him for more than a month.

Most critics have refused to call the wingline forwards were strong favorites in last year's final and, even though Newton Perry and Alex Hayes, they are reputed to be just as strong. But Hugh Gunn is a much more powerful outfit than in 1934, Coach Fred Veale has built up a crushing attack around Johnny Ferraro and Welch.

Winglines Even

The winglines are expected to prove about even in defensive strength, but if there is an edge here it will be given Sarnia on the advance ratings. On the other hand the Tiger tackling squadron of Jimmy Simpson, Seymour Wilson, Johnny Agnew, Russ Reed and Rer. Ellie Thornton is probably the best in the land.

Close followers of O.R.F.U. activities believe the first-string Sarnia backfield—Gordie Paterson, Rocky Stirling and Ormond Gesch—tops any other in Canada. These four, backed by Arnie McPhee at quarter, will carry the offensive burden. For the first time this season they may have to open up and prove themselves against high class opposition.

Welch and Ferraro lead a Tiger backfield that has proved itself in every emergency, and Sarnia ends will have to do better than Interprovincial Union ends to stop them. Their real offence threat, however, lies in Ferraro's throwing arm. Wet weather won't help Johnny.

ARGOS PLACE FOUR, MONTREAL THREE, ON ALL-'37 AR EASTERN SQUAD

Toronto Argonauts, with four players named placed a majority delegation on the all-star eastern Canada football squad of 1935 as selected through the Canadian Press. Montreal Winged Wheelers, though they finished the Big Four season without a win, followed the Toronto squad with three representatives. One University of Toronto star, Bobby Coulter, was runing, top left; Pete Jokuta, Montreal placed at quarter, and Hamilton Argos, inside—left centre; Wes Cutler, Argos, outside—right centre; Abe Eliovitch, Ottawa halfback—lower left; Tommy Burns Argos, middle—lower right. The lower row left to right are Bobby Coulter U. of T. guard; George Pigeon, Montreal, inside; Ormond Beach, Sarnia halfback; Ted Morris, Argos, wing; Les Hutton, Montreal, middle—top right; Jim Palmer, Argos, outside—left centre; Wes Cutler, Argos, outside—right centre; Abe Eliovitch, Ottawa halfback—lower left; Tommy Burns Argos, middle—lower right. The lower row left to right are Bobby Coulter U. of T. guard; George Pigeon, Montreal, inside; Ormond Beach, Sarnia halfback; Ted Morris, Argos, wing; Les Hutton, Montreal, outside.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

On Monday next the electors of Belleville will go to the polls to vote in the annual municipal election. Ordinarily speaking municipal election has a decided bearing on the activities of local sporting and athletic events in this city next summer. The question of daylight saving will be placed before the electors on Monday and the result of the vote will be keenly followed by local sportsmen and athletes. Not only should the actual participants of all lines of sport be paramount ly interested in the question of daylight saving, but those who do not take an actual active part, but who are merely onlookers, should also see that this bylaw is upheld on Monday. After all if those vitally interested in the retaining of daylight saving, for three months in the summertime, do not verbally and actually support the measure, how can they expect the issue to succeed? It is the bounden duty of every athlete and sportsman to support in every way possible, daylight saving on Monday. After all how many will suffer any disadvantage if the measure is carried? According to the proposed by-law, daylight saving will be in effect only during the school holiday period, during which the sports of the community can enjoy an hour more of daylight after the evening meal. Then again it is an asset to the early evening motorist also. Think it over and then boost daylight saving for 1936.

Unless the calculations of the experts are considerably off balance the Belleville hockey squad in the Kingston City Loop should experience little difficulty in finishing in at least a play-off berth in the Limestone City loop. Of course if the Themasiter expect to finish in the top help they cannot afford to lose another game, but even if they do experience a second reverse in their remaining three games they cannot be kept out of the "second series" Skipper Thomas' charges are improving each time out and more especially in the art of passing the puck, what is better known by the fans as combination. They have speed, ability, a good defence and providing they continue to play with each other and click as they did on Wednesday, they have little to worry about.

The next few weeks will find local sporting activities running in a tranquil channel, badminton and basketball at the "Y" constituting the bulk of the excitement, although the curling is at hand for continued wrestling bouts and the odd boxing card. There is generally a lull in sporting activities in a city the size of Belleville along time of the year and again in the spring, when winter sports are on the wane and summer sportsmen begin to get into the limelight. Directly after New Years, however, both hockey and basketball will be in full swing and plenty of sport attractions will be afforded the fans.

The Oshawa sport scribe takes exception to the dispatches coming out of the O.C.A.A. meeting and to the fact that Oshawa must play senior ball in the O.G.R.L. or not at all. We firmly agree with the Motor City scribe, as there was no necessity in having any but all home fixtures, it was decided once and for all by the O.S.S.A.A. two years ago. The meantime, however, the Motor City scribe assures all and sundry that the Oshawa team will be back into the fold stronger than ever in 1936. We are glad to hear this news as the league will be assured of at least four definite starters. Ross Kingston, Oshawa and Napanee Gibbards. What the local baseball moguls intend to do still remains a deep dark secret, but there's few teams in the town and another potential starter in Toronto, the C.O.B.L. has little to worry about. Incidentally Belleville Aces's final decision of where or if they intend to play baseball in 1936.

Today birthday congratulations are due to George Mantha left winger of Montreal Canadiens in the National Hockey League, born in Lachine, Que., 27 years ago. George is a brother of Sylvio Mantha, veteran defenceman and manager of the same club, who turned professional at the start of the 1922-23 season. After much success with Montreal amateur clubs. He is one of the league's hard-fisck players having been injured several times.

Local wrestling fans were treated to a three of the most rousing bouts of the season last eve at the Arena. From the opener until the time that Parnell and Stanley crashed head-on in the final scramble, the show was a "pip". The one scrap that went over the biggest was the semi-final between the dashing Red Devil and Bill Handley. In a few words this bout was just action personified and if the promoters know their business, well, they'll sign these two for a return bout next week. There was some little question as to whether there was a final fall or not in the semi-final bout, but we can honestly assure the fans, that the final fall was soundly prior to the fall registered by the "be-hooded gent" in the last round.

Although the fans would like to see a Chief Lynx-Parnell bout, we have forwarded our personal dislike for Parnell and now believe he can take Bowlop most anytime, but that semi-final scrap between the Red Devil and Bill Handley was sure the berries. So hot was the semi-final affair, that the promoters immediately re-signed them for a return bout next week which will be augmented with an outstanding main attraction.

RANKINE WINS A GRUELLING RACE

Canadian Lauds Home Classy Field in Berwick Scamper

Berwick, Pa., Nov. 29 (CP)—Clive Robert Rankine, the "human piston" of Preston, Ont., a physical handicap to overcome and he is practically invincible on the rolling road.

Suffering from a hernia condition that will send him to the operating table next week, the hardy distance runner took on a star-studded field in the Berwick Thanksgiving Day race yesterday and showed them his heels.

He scampered over the Brier Creek course of nine miles, 585 yards in the record time of 47 minutes after a great duel in the rain with the Finn, Nino Penttl. The winner finished eight seconds behind the determined Canadian, also eclipsing the mark of 47 minutes 56 2-5 seconds set in 1929 by the renowned Willie Hilcola.

Including Rankine, five Canucks journeyed here for the 36th running of the race. They were in such lofty form that Will McClusky, Toronto veteran, took eighth place and still was the last of the Canadians home.

Third in the puffing pack was John Yeaman of Galt, Ont., in 48.53, after Joe Moody, New York star, came Bob Morrison of Toronto, fifth in 48.26. Walter Hornby of Hamilton, Ont., followed in 48.40, with Lou Gregory, New York steaming home the Blue Nose in rear of McClusky.

The pace was gruelling from the start. Over the first five miles of strength-sapping hills and valleys, 10 men struggled for the lead. Then Rankine and Penttl forged ahead. They ran neck and neck for another mile before the Canuck pulled away to win the event for the third straight year.

YOUTHS GIVEN 5 YEARS EACH

Boys Make Most Dangerous Criminals, Crown Attorney Says

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 20.—(CP)—Possession of a well equipped arsenal, including machine guns, "from the Middlesex Light Infantry Barracks, the Tuli Cricket and Guard's Armoury," was charged Jack Hesson, 21, London, and Victor Rachiel, 21, formerly of Toronto, five years each in Kingston Penitentiary. One week ago the pair pleaded guilty to an amended charge of possession of stolen goods. Acting Crown Attorney Herbert said most crimes in the U.S. and Canada were committed by youths from 19 to 21 years of age. It is the dangerous age and boys make the most dangerous criminals, he said.

Junior Ministers of Government Appointed

LONDON, Nov. 20.—(CP Cable)—Prime Minister Baldwin announced appointment of eight junior ministers in the National Government. They do not sit in the cabinet.

Douglas Hacking was named Parliamentary Under-Secretary for the Dominions. He will be principal aide in the rooms of Secretary of State Malcolm MacDonald, newly-appointed Dominion Secretary. Hacking, Conservative member for the Chorley Division of Lancashire, has been political secretary to the War Office since 1934.

Lt.-Col. D. J. Colville, becomes Parliamentary Under-Secretary for Scotland while Geoffrey Lloyd will serve the Mines Office in the same capacity.

Appointed financial secretaries are Lord Stanley who will assist the Admiralty, Sir Victor Warrender, the War Office, and Henry Strauss, Department of Overseas Trade.

Said de la Warr, a National Labor peer, follower of Ramsay MacDonald, was named parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Education and Reveald Ramsbotham parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Agriculture.

MOIRA

Moira—The first meeting of the Young People's Union was held on Monday evening in the vestry. The president, Mrs. Ross Maddocock took charge of the meeting. After singing the hymn "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," Mr. Turner led in prayer. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mr. Gerald Adams. An address of the responsibility division was given by Mrs. Turner conducted the next part of the program.

Mr. R. Wilson read Scripture reading. Other interesting readings were given by Miss Ruby Wannamaker, Mrs. F. Weese and Mrs. H. Turner. Miss Verna Foster gave the story of "Dorcas."

Rev. H. Turner gave a talk on some of the habits and customs of the Puritans.

Pasts were brought out by him about some Puritans which are little known to most of us and which were very humiliating to some of the poetry written at that time was also read by Mr. Turner.

As leader of the Fellowship, Mr. Milton Vandervaart put on several contests in which all took part. Lunch was served after the conclusion of the program.

Mr. J. O. Hartry and Mr. H. Richardson of Belleville called on Mr. A. Hartry on Saturday afternoon. We are glad to know that Mr. Hartry is slowly improving after a severe illness.

Miss Edith Brickman Reg. N. of Belleville spent Sunday under the parental roof.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Turner spent the tea hour on Monday with Mr. and Mrs. R. Howard.

Mrs. A Halley and Mrs. F. Weese and children spent the week-end with Dr. and Mrs. Dupeau of Belleville.

Mrs. Geo. Post is confined to her home through illness.

The next to take play "The Redcoat Sid Step Child" are again practising so as to be rule to present it at Chatworth in the near future.

Miss Leona Morton is visiting with her sister Mrs. A. Sine of Chatworth.

Mr. F. F. Hartry is having a new barnyard floor laid in his store. This will much to the interior appearance of the store, and it will also make it much more comfortable this winter.

Tweed and District

The United Church was crowded to the doors on Monday night with the people of Tweed and district attending district tea near Rev. Dr. Bruce Thornton of Toronto give his interesting address. "Around the world with a note-book and a camera". The address was illustrated with 200 beautiful and colored slides many of which were taken by Dr. Thornton himself. Some of the most beautifully colored slides were painted by a Chinese artist in Pekin, China. Mr. W. E. Trumbull, chairman of the Board of Stewards, introduced the speaker. Before doing so he expressed on behalf of the anniversary committee, their appreciation of the co-operation of all who had assisted in making the anniversary a success by their attendance, and announced that total receipts for Sunday and Monday were in excess of $720, a considerable increase over last year's meeting. Prior to the lecture the W.A. served a chicken supper in the basement of the church. It is a pleasure recorded that the supper surpassed anything of the kind ever before attempted by the ladies of the church. There was a superabundance of chicken in many forms, potatoes, pies, cakes and all the trimmings to which the ladies have accustomed us for a hundred years. From 7.15 to 8.00 p.m. the Tweed Citizens Band provided a program of music under the direction of Mr. Walker K. Dark.

Dr. Thornton's keen interest of his audience for over two hours as he described their travels through China, Australia, New Zealand, India, Greece, Italy and other British countries, the world's great waterways have changed three times, stated the Suez Canal only dates the Mediterranean Sea was the highway of commerce, commerce changed gradually with the discovery of America to the Atlantic coasts, more recently to the Pacific. Sixty years ago Hills was known as Japan but during the last two per cent of its population is illiterate. Japan has made tremendous strides in the last half century and the great movements of the world is the last half century will be centred in the Pacific."

The delightfully entertaining manner, by word and picture, Dr. Thornton conducted his audience through various countries drawing attention to interesting customs of the people. Australia, the land down under, celebrates its Christmas in the middle of summer. Its chief industry is sheep farming. In fact it is literally "riding on the back of a sheep," raising hundreds of thousands of them on holdings ranging from a hundred acres to a hundred thousand acres, and producing one-half of the world's supply of wool. Artesian wells are the chief sources of water for the sheep. Rabbits in Australia are a plague and thousands are killed in poison drives.

New Zealand's most interesting section is the thermal region where the boiling mud pots and lakes of hot water occur. Here the native Maori people live under conditions. The scenic beauty of the Southern Alps rival that of the Canadian Rockies.

India, the most densely populated part of the world, is a land of contrasts, where great wealth and the direst poverty, splendor and mean hovels, are found. It is the land of thinking Gandhi, the man India could not do without. In China primitive methods of agriculture and transportation are still in vogue. An interesting picture of the Great Wall of China was given by Dr. Thornton. This wall is 1900 miles long, and was built with great difficulty to keep out the hordes from behind the Mongols. Today the Japanese armies are encroaching near the wall ready to seize the rich province of China Proper.

Pictures of Egypt and Italy featured the Sphinx, the Great Pyramid covering 13 acres and constructed of 200,000 stones weighing two and a half tons each, the city of Naples with the excavated Pompeii near Mt. Vesuvius. The concluding slides interested the audience from the British Isles.

Mrs. Fred Mrs. F. C. Arber called on Friday from Montreal for an extended visit with her sister Mrs. Wareham, Hants. England. Mrs. Arber will remain until the spring when she will return home early in the New Year.

Mr. Frank Thomson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Thomson, was in Belleville General Hospital receiving treatment for an abscess on his face.

Stirling and District

Stirling, Nov. 20—On Wednesday, Nov. 18th, one of a series of rural conferences was held in Stirling in St. Paul's United Church with sessions at 9 a.m., 1.30 p.m. and 7.30 p.m. These conferences are being held all over Ontario to consider the welfare of the rural church and to discover and work out plans by which the rural congregation can more effectively serve the community a feature of this work during the last year has been the renewed interest of adult men and women in Sunday School classes and week day meetings of the church.

The movement has been led by a commission appointed by the Board of Christian Education of the United Church. Rev. K. C. Drury, former minister of Ontario is chairman of the commission and is giving leadership to the movement. One of the speakers at the Stirling meeting was Rev. R. W. Armstrong of Merrickville, author of the book "The Salt of the Earth". Rev. Armstrong is a rural minister and has had wide experience in rural church and community life. At the morning session Mr. Armstrong spoke of the church and community and said He thought the church could minister to any body of people with the message. He claimed that the promotion of well being can be accomplished by the church of sound public opinion regarding community life. He stated that the church is motivated by the creation of evil, establishment of a true social order and promotion of community program.

The meeting showed how the church can do all these things.

Rev. Mr. Armstrong took an outstanding spoke of the Problems and Functions of a rural church. He spoke of the problem of the rural church are "urbanmindness indifferent organization and financial depression." He showed that the function of the home problem was to have an appreciation of spiritual things, to get a spiritual outlook on life and work, to have a capacity for faith and confidence, to obtain a sense of responsibility and an insurance of the infinite. He showed from a survey that he made, that seventy-three percent of the leaders in certain large city churches were born in the country.

Rev. Manson Doyle D.D. of Toronto presided over the conducted discussion periods both afternoon and evening. The findings of these three periods was the necessity of co-ordinating the whole movement, the introduction of a new and better type of evangelism and the introduction of study groups for increased usefulness in the rural church.

In the afternoon Rev. R. K. Spencer M.A. of Smithfield, also addressed the conference on the subject of Rural Evangelism.

The worship period of the morning was in charge of Rev. H. W. Pye B.D. of Springbrook and Mr. Harry E. Hulin of Stirling. Rev. Mr. Spencer, the worship period was conducted by Rev. E. W. Hall B.A. of Tweed, Faith United Church, Stirling, and Mr. Philip Hall of Tweed. Rev. Mr. Hall led in the one evening by Rev. J. K. Beckel of the Rawdon circuit, and Mr. John Cox of Mount Pleasant. The conference was in charge of Rev. Mr. Hall and S. L. Osborne B.A., B.D. of Napanee.

The ladies of the Stirling Young People's Society served lunch in the church parlors both at noon and in the evening. Words of appreciation are due to all in the very capable committees and also to the ladies who served so efficiently in the evening session with the Rev. Mr. Doyle in the chair.

"CHAPERONED"

by

Virginia Sullivan

"Well, it is so, then! It's because you've made a public display of me!" furiously. "Can't you see where this gossip is leading us, Mildred? Oh, please listen to me—please.... I've been trying for months to make you see! The words come in a little rush, borne of a sudden, desperate impulse to make the most of this opening. To bridge, if she could, that insurmountable wall that had risen between them. "All, listen to me, dear; let's thrash all over again, shall we? For Mark's sake. Drop this—this Don Felipe—at your own accord and then let's make it up! ... to win over those gossipy old ladies before we reach New York. You can do it if you want to. You could have this entire ship at your feet if you'd but try. And it would mean so much to me, to have them friendly and approving of us again ...."

She stopped, aware of a curiously analytical expression on Mildred's listening face. "Darling, you're so funny! You're quite ridiculous, do you really are." Mildred laughed, her soft, helpless laughter, her dainty head poised on the white column of throat rising childishly back. Then her lovely mouth curving petulantly. "I suppose what I really mean was that there are men—Latins for instance—who rather spoil a woman for our American men. Call me right! little accomplished gestures, just the right amount of wit and artistry with them, that's all! while Americans—" She shrugged again significantly. Then, as childishly as she smothered a yawn, rising languidly from her chair to ring for Brenda Rayner. "What I am worried about," she said calmly, with the sudden change of subject, "is something that stewardess told me last night, dear. Did you know that we can't take any sort of bath at all while we're at sea? Not going through that miserable Panama Canal? Brenda says they shut off all the water on board ship, and in this sickening heat, just imagine!"

"Mildred! Won't you listen to me?"

"Oh, Brenda, come right in. I want you to hook this gown. I'm going right straight up on the bridge to talk to the Captain. If what you told me about that water supply is true——"

You couldn't, Jane reflected mumbly, reach her, not now, not ever, if Mildred willed it otherwise. And Mildred obviously always would. Without in the least seeming to, she could put words into your mouth, words that you never said at all.... "I was right when I said that people changed when they got on board a ship. Mildred has changed." The girl thought. "She's changed a lot." That high, conscious laughter, for example. The little fretful ways she has acquired of pulling at her hair before the mirror, rouging her lips with that sly little smile. What had she meant just now by what she had said about Mark? Surely, surely she could be no more to this Don Felipe than a slight flattering consideration bestowed by boredom and Mildred's own insatiable vanity and love of admiration. Watching her through the mirror Jane felt a sudden mad, primitive desire to rush down that shining amber hair, to shake those delicate shoulders, to scream into that complacent face: "You fool! You silly, silly little fool, don't you know what it is that you're throwing away? Don't you ever feel—don't you feel anything, ever, real——"

But, instead, she stood quietly her own face quite pale from the rain she kept on her temper, her hands shaking with the rush of passionate resentment that swept her toward the door. Mildred, the weak man in whose care she was supposed to be travelling, and who had betrayed not only herself and Mark—trusting, tired Mark, whose little world she was.

"Anyhow I can do for you, Mis' Maideen?" Mildred, absorbed in her dressing now, was bending low before her own mirror, pulling on the smart angora jumper above her cool eyes, fluffing out the pale tendrils of hair about her face.

"Nothing, thank you, Brenda."

"Bye, darling." Mildred had crossed the room, was holding open the door. "Come along Brenda. We'll just see whether or not I'm going to get a bath this afternoon when I want one! See you in a little while, Janie—au revoir."

The Santa Rosa was scheduled to enter the first lock of the Canal immediately after luncheon. Jane, wandering aimlessly onto the promenade Deck, leaned wearily against the rail. The sun, a hot, swollen, coppery ball, hung directly overhead, its reflection a blinding glare on the horizon's rim. A warm wind, was blowing, caressing everything with salt-laden, irritating moisture. Jane's skin felt cooled, sticky to the touch.

Teddie Crail, attired in what young Mr. Rayner had most disliked his "Hollywood rompers," went noisily by. In a corner of the Lounge, Janie could hear the voice of Mrs. Cramer waving Cassandra-like prophecies as to the possibilities of their ever getting through the first gate of the Canal. She looked sitting there in the sun, abruptly like a petulant frog. Janie moved quickly away. She wanted to be alone—to think things out.

Doctor Barr had been nowhere about the ship this morning, and she realized suddenly that she had noticed nothing of Mona Moore. It was no new thing for the doctor to disappear on duty bent, as Mona yesterday she had a feeling that she would have liked to see Mona to know that whatever thing it was that had so unnerved the girl had been lightened. She beckoned a passing steward.

"Twin, Miss Madden; Miss Moore she's been up and about for hours. I seen her goin' down into the steerage on a whish-back with the doctor. Yes, Miss—thank you, Miss."

The steerage. But, of course, Doctor Barr made the rounds of steerage tables every morning, and if Mona, bored, restless, decided to make the rounds with him.... Janie could see in herself at the doctor's probable exasperation. He was so meticulous, so impatient about interference in his work. For a typically human Janie had an impulse to follow suit and go down there, too. In just about an hour now they'd be entering the Canal. If she could stand on lower deck, beside Anthony Fane.... listen to his voice.... have him explain things. Then, even as the thought reared its head, she abandoned the notion. For some reason which neither of them had ever put into words, she knew that he would not want her to. And he, Anthony Fane, with a chain across the steerage stairway could not come up here to stand beside her.

All afternoon she stood there, among the passengers who crowded about her at the rail. Chattering voices, high, foolish laughter, startling white faces bent above the thousand-foot locks and the huge gates weighing hundreds of tons, opening and closing silently by a print of a navy hand, sounding the big ship miraculously into Gaillard Cut, drifting in soundlessly into Gatun Lake. Trees somewhere on the green slope beyond came the measured, rhythmical beat of a drum. Somewhere beneath them, she knew, were the picturesque native huts, and encroaching jungle growth that once had dotted the bottom of that vast sheet of water over which they now passed. It grew increasingly heavy beads of perspiration dropped from her chin onto her hand and she was too miserably uncomfortable to wipe them away.

And all the while she kept sharp vigil or a sight of a tall, lounging figure on the steerage deck below. Lounging with every line of him drawn for the evening to come, for the cool darkness, the wind blowing across the ship's bow, and a man's steady voice talking her back to sanity and peace. Whatever it was he had to tell her, Janie knew she was going to listen.

CHAPTER XI

JANIE LEARNS THE TRUTH

Janie awoke in the murk of the tropical night, sitting bolt upright in her bed. The cabin was stifling. Seaweed, half-dragged with heat and sleep, she knew at once that something was wrong. Something, she thought numbly, had been wrong for a long, long time.... The sense of disaster, of foreboding, lifted slowly and reluctantly from its thrall. Shivering in the heavy heat she lay back upon her head again on her pillow. She remembered what it was now. Sickeningly, the whole thing came back to her with the events of the night before came slowly into focus.

For hours, all during that hideous, intermittent darkness, she had stood with other passengers crowding the rail, watching the miracle that lifted the Santa Rosa fifty-odd feet into Miraflores Lake, drifted it on to Pedro Miguel, and dropped it another thirty feet. Standing alone, talking to no one, waiting for it to be over and done. Then she had to return alone to the Promenade Deck. Puzzled, not a little hurt; not entirely unworried. If he were ill, if something had happened.... Something that must have happened, of course, or he would have come. She might, she knew, have sent a steward down to inquire, but this she knew, also, she should not do.

There was some perfectly logical explanation for it, the girl told herself again, going over it patiently, reasonably, as she sat there on her tumbled bed. Something he could not help had prevented his coming. But after yesterday—could he not have sent her some word, a note, any sort of message?.....

With a restless movement she threw back the thin silk covering from the bed and crossed the room to the open port-hole. Outside the sea lay moving gently, breathing with a sort of menacing calm. Waiting. A chilled, steely cap of grey sky was clamped down on its heaving surface with a sort of smothering oppressiveness that ached. From the deck just outside came the padding shuffle of the night-watchman, making his rounds of the ship for the night. Somewhere, deep in the hold, sounded the slow drip of a ship's bell. One, two.... one, two.... one, two. Three o'clock in the morning. The dawn of another day. Another day, Janie thought, through which she would have to wait for the night to come—the night and Anthony Fane's smile, his deep voice.

She laughed suddenly, softly biting her lower lip, her eyes widening at the trend of her thoughts. "I'm crazy," she thought on a shred of wild laughter, "had told me a month ago that I could possibly be like this about a man I scarcely know. I'd have thought them mad. It's impossible. It's absurd—yet it's the realest thing that ever happened to me, too. It's the only thing that ever mattered really. Oh, it will. I'll have to work itself out, somehow."

She turned back into the room, her eyes roaming restlessly about the quiet place. Perfection of cream and rose walls soft silken rugs; the dun ceiling of the twin dressing-tables in the corner near the door. And the dim light her own table stood in its subtoned order. Beside it, on the table, the silver-framed photograph of Mark Rayner, wistful and slim and boyish, with the sun in his sun-tortured crisp hair. Janie stood looking down upon it, her eyes searching the face for some sign, some hint of what he had become so familiar a sight to her during the past weeks. Mildred's pearl-encrusted evening bag, her exquisite feather fan, flung carelessly down where she had dropped it the night before. The fan was broken. Janie tried idly with Mildred's matched costume jewelry; complete from slipper buckle to the clips she wore on her tricky French hats.... carnelian and lapis, onyx and jade—and the wide of a dun ceiling ring lay half hidden in a pool of spilled face-powder. Mildred's cigarette-holder of cloisonne, her sapphire brooch.... all in background of costly, pretty beauty that was hers.

TARZAN THE INVINCIBLE (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)

From a group of priestesses at the right of Cath's throne, a girl, just come into womanhood, regarded the handsome white god with eyes in which the heart of Nao palpitated to the thoughts that this strange warrior engendered within her.

When Cath had finished speaking, Colt was led away, quite ignorant of the fact that he had been condemned to die. The guards led him into a cell, within the entrance of a tunnel leading from the sacrificial court to the pits beneath the city.

Through the small window in his cell Wayne Colt looked out upon the inner court of the Temple of Slime and, viewed in connection with the grinning skulls of former human sacrifices, which stared from various niches upon him from their niches in the surrounding walls. At the sight Colt's heart sank within his breast.

There could be no mistaking the purpose of that altar when viewed in connection with the grinning skulls of former human sacrifices, which stared through cyclone sockets upon him from their niches in the surrounding walls. At the sight Colt's heart sank within his breast.

HEROIC RESCUERS RECEIVE AWARDS

Two Medals, 51 Certificates For Saving Life—Two Posthumous Awards

Ottawa, Nov. 23—(CP)—Every Canadian province is represented in the list of human medals and parchment certificates awarded by the humanitarian services of the Royal Canadian Humane Association for deeds of heroism and presence of mind in saving life. Two medals and 51 certificates are announced, seven medals and 44 certificates going to Ontario and Quebec residents.

Two medals are awarded posthumously, and forwarded to surviving relatives of Mervin Sommerville of Ottawa and William O'Brien of London, Ont. Mr. Sommerville lost his life July 12 last after assisting his uncle, Gordon Mellis, with whom he had been capsized from a racing shell into the choppy waters of Lake Deschenes. Mr. Mellis finally managed to get to shore but his companion was drowned before help came.

In the other posthumous award, William O'Brien lost his life attempting to rescue Noel Williams from drowning in Medway Creek, London, Ont., May 26. John N. MacKinnon also of London, who finally brought Williams to shore is awarded the bronze medal.

James W. Fields, a Canadian National switchman of Hamilton, Ont., is cited for the bronze medal. While riding on the front platform of a locomotive Aug. 28, he reached down and threw out of harm's way a youngster who had toddled and tripped in front of the moving train. The medal is awarded also to Peter MacDonald and Joseph Webb, both of Goderich, Ont., who on Aug. 7 rescued from drowning or being crushed to death a boy who jumped from the pier toward a boat and fell into the water.

Cpl. A. R. Kirkpatrick of Toronto, is given the medal for attempting to rescue a boy who got into difficulties in 18 feet of water at High Falls, Muskoka, Aug. 12, 1937. He brought the boy to shore and applied artificial respiration, but unsuccessfully.

Bronze medals are also awarded as follows: Thomas Addicott, Olive Bay, N.B., for rescuing a woman from drowning Aug. 28; J. A. Sharpe of Meyronne, Sask., and Vernon J. Lahr of Maidstone, Sask., who on Oct. 24, 1934, were lowered down a well to bring up men overcome with gas. . .

Hershoit Learns His Role from Living Character

Hollywood, Calif., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Dr. Allan R. Dafoe, celebrated Canadian physician, will be supplied to extensive dramatic before the filming of a motion picture starring the Dionne quintuplets in which he himself will not appear.

The diagnostician will be Jean Hersholt, veteran actor. His willportray the doctor in the photoplay after the unique experience of studying in the life character he is to represent.

"Ordinarily," Hersholt said, "I would take a script and study the action, the dialogue, everything it tells of the character. Then, mentally, I visualize his appearance, his temperament, the very essence of him."

"But in this instance," he said, "Dr. Dafoe will be there for me to see, talk to. I can observe his mannerisms and acquire, from the close-up, so to speak, all the qualities that I usually have to imagine.

"So far as I know, no actor has ever had the experience of learning his role from the living character."

Hersholt said he believed he resembled Dr. Dafoe and would attempt to be more typical of the doctor than the doctor himself.

He is scheduled to leave tonight with a company of thirty people from 20th Century-Fox studio for Callander, Ont., the home of the quintuplets.

Doctor roles are not unfamiliar to Hersholt. He played the hospital head in "Men in White."

"And I just finished a picture in which I was a horse doctor," he laughed.

CAPT. BYRON BONGARD

(Cherry Valley)

Picton, Nov. 22.—Captain Byron Bongard died at his home at Cherry Valley, Thursday, after a short illness. For over 50 years he sailed on the Great Lakes. He will be remembered especially in Toronto as captain of the Turbinia, the first steamer to have the Parsons steam turbine and which plied between Toronto and Niagara many years. Captain Bongard had the reputation of being the only captain able to satisfactorily handle her. A retired captain put her into a Toronto dock, doing great damage. Captain Bongard sailed her to Bermuda on a chartered trip. He was born in South Marysburg, Prince Edward county, 84 years ago and began sailing in sailing schooners at an early age, advancing to the steamers. Retiring 18 years ago, he moved to a farm at Cherry Valley, living a retired life. He was a lifelong member of the United Church. Surviving are his wife, a son, Harvey Bongard in Toronto, and two daughters Mrs. Wilfred Rood of Picton and Mrs. Frederick Phillips of Buffalo.

Britain Firm On Sanction To End War

Radio Stations in Italy Pour Out Denunciations of England

Threat Seen

British Standpoint Called Policeman's Attitude by Newspaper

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 30 (CP Cable)—The international crisis nears its climax.

British Cabinet ministers, anxious-ly watching every real move, say that support should be given to further collective action by the League of Nations to bring the Italo-Ethiopian war to a close. At the same time they want the door kept open for peace negotiations with Italy.

Italian radio stations are broadcasting denunciations of England almost every night and declare the League of Nations had become a tool of British foreign policy. Great Britain is charged with having blackmailed France into supporting her.

The newspaper Asiens Colonials suggested an understanding between France, Italy and Germany to clear the Mediterranean of the influence of British Fleet whose "policeman's attitude" is described as a menace to Mediterranean States."

"Rumors of some Italian gunpowder shipment go from Marseilles. Many eyes are turned towards Libya, from which supplies are threatened today by Mussolini's troops."

And the 48 nations steadily approaching Canada's proposal to add oil to the sanctions list dou-bled the international crisis today.

WILD BOAR HUNT FOR WISCONSIN

Man in Charge Says it is "Greatest Sport in The World"

Spooner, Wis., Nov. 30.—(AP)—You've heard about elephant hunts, lion hunts, tiger hunts and 'coon hunts on the banks of the Indian Ocean, but today's attraction is a "50 per cent" wild boar hunt in the woods of Wisconsin.

Wild boars, which furnished the sport for the initial hunt in the middle ages, had to be raised to order for this 1935 (50 per cent) wild boar hunt by J. D. Shotwell, veterinarian, who produced one wild boar per year from a sow with ten domesticated sows.

Shotwell, chairman of the Washburn County Board, invited 39 friends to take part in the hunt tomorrow.

A captain during the great war, Shotwell said hunting boars in France convinced him it was "the greatest sport in the world."

"The first hunt is strictly an experimental proposition," Shotwell said. "The number of animals released will depend on how quickly they are run down, but at least six will be set loose."

Year's Sentence And Ten Lashes For Walter Buck

Walter Buck Trenton resident was found guilty of a very serious charge, laid under Section 204 of the Canadian Criminal Code, when he appeared in County Court held before His Honor Judge Madden in Belleville yesterday. Buck was sentenced to a determinate sentence of one year in the Ontario Reformatory and a further indeterminate sentence of two years. Buck was also sentenced to ten strokes of the lash.

In rendering out the punishment however, His Honor instructed that Buck be given five lashes at the end of the first three months of his sentence and the remaining five at the expiration of the determinate period of sentence. The matter was presented by the Trenton authorities with B. C. Donnan K.C. conducting the prosecution. The charge of which Buck was found guilty of was not admitted by Buck against his own daughter, police stated.

Mrs. Livermore Says She Shot Son While "Unstrung"

LETTER UPSET HER

Young Livermore Attempts to Absolve His Mother of Blame

Santa Barbara, Calif., Nov. 30—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothea Wendt Livermore was questioned by officers today as saying she shot her 15 year old son, probably fatally, while "unstrung" by a letter from her former husband, Jesse Livermore, Wall St. operator.

A .38 calibre bullet near his spine, the son, Jesse Livermore, Jr., was being kept alive by an artificial lung. Surgeons prepared for an emergency operation as a last resort.

In the same hospital, Mrs. Livermore was questioned by Deputy Attorney Perry Heckendorf and under-Sheriff Jack Ross.

They said she told them a letter from the elder Livermore on Thursday had "unstrung" her.

"He accused me of many false things," they quoted her as saying. "He said I was his sisters from corporate, too.

"I didn't intend to kill my son. My son just dared me to do it. That's all. And I guess I did it."

She was held on a technical charge of assault with intent to commit murder, he declared.

Between spells of unconsciousness, young Livermore attempted to absolve his mother from blame, whispering—she didn't mean to hurt me. It was my fault, I guess. It was an accident."

Mrs. Livermore, divorced mother of Thanksgiving Day away "because there was an awful drinking going on at home," returned at midnight to Montecito, where she was held for her drinking. District Attorney Heckendorf learned.

She was told under-Sheriff Ross swore Livermore raised a bottle of whiskey to her lips when she was questioned. "I'd rather see you dead than drink," he said.

Young Livermore then obtained the rifle and handed it to his mother. "Here, Mother, take it and shoot here you are." From another room, Neville said he heard a shot.

Two or three miles is the principal limit of this remote weight taking.

Huge Grizzly Charges Miner

Ketchikan, Alaska, Nov. 30—(AP) —A huge grisly bear, known as "Old Greasser" fell before the fire of a Unuk River prospector, Bruce Johnstone, whom he charged while Johnstone traveled a mining claim.

Johnstone had but three cartridges in his rifle. He fired once from the hip, striking the grizzly in the shoulder and then pumped two bullets into the animals head.

The prospector brought the skull to Ketchikan where sportsmen, pronouncing it one of the largest on record, learned the reason grisly groaned. They found imbedded in the bone old rifle bullet and scars of another.

Measurements showed the skull to be 17 inches across and 11 inches thick.

London, Nov. 30 (AP)—France's frank warning to Italy against further unprovoked attack on Britain's Mediterranean fleet has diminished perilously in lessening international tension, informed British opinion said today.

The statement from circles expressed satisfaction over what was described publicly as "Mussolini's change of tune."

The possibility of a new diplomatic move toward liquidation of the crisis was discussed freely as a result of Premier Laval's visit of consultation to Il Duce any assault on the British fleet, arising from imposition of oil sanctions, would be considered also as an attack on France.

Some interested sources cited the Premier's advice to Italy as support for prospects of fresh negotiations for ending the Italo-Ethiopian war, at least the European crisis resulting from the East African conflict. Authoritative quarters of the Nations penalties.

Next Move by Duce

First, some responsible thought unofficial Britain reported, Premier Mussolini had adopted a conciliatory attitude toward the application of sanctions by inciting an oil embargo which might mean an serial war on British, French and world war.

Premier Laval, in a conference with Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, Britain's delegate to the League of Nations Council today, was reported to have told under-Secretary Eden that the French government was willing to consider the application of sanctions against Italy.

COUNSEL OBJECTS

Refused Permission to Examine Clothing Produced

Toronto, Nov. 30 (CP)—The Crown's corps of scientists and crime investigators resumed their work today with bloodstains, articles of clothing, samples of burns, sand and mud, organizing evidence to be presented next Wednesday when the preliminary hearing of a charge of murder against Harry O'Donnell is continued.

After firing a first volley of evidence at the 26 year old gas service station attendant accused of dragging Ruth Taylor, pretty stenographer, into an east-end ravine, bruising her and murdering her, the Crown yesterday stated the court had heard all the testimony it had ready. An adjournment was asked and granted until 10 a.m. the day on which the hearing is to be opened again.

Counsel for the lone set in an emotional expression, sat through yesterday's hearing scarcely outlined in a tan suit with matching shirt, and he said he would do. Throughout the day he remained impassible as a statue.

Main points in the evidence presented by the Crown were:

Dr. H. Bruce Cronkite, toxicologist, testified as to the presence of the hairs. He had held of finding human blood inside the opening of the trousers. Other articles, he said, there was a "very small stain" on cuff of the right sleeve of his coat.

Home is Searched

Detective Fred Munro testified to searching O'Donnell's home and finding pieces of burns, whole burns; mud on the floor. He had also found more or less like the material to be found on the ground in ravines in Scarboro where the murder was committed. There was a stain on the right of the sander.

Frank Regan, counsel for O'Donnell, yesterday objected to introduction of evidence of the client's clothing and Ruth Taylor's clothing wrapped in cellophane. Regan's objection was overruled, but the defence was unable to properly examine the articles.

Crown Attorney McFadden, in charge of the prosecution, decided to examine the clothing with the cellophane off today or Monday.

A mob of spectators filled the courtroom shortly before 10 o'clock who wished to gain admittance unable to.

TEACHERS OF DISTRICT MEET IN KINGSTON

A conference, composed of a committee from each inspectorate of District No. 2, met in Kingston the night of the 20th, Tuesday, November 19, at the Y.W.C.A. residence, Queen street, for the purpose of discussing matters of interest to all teachers. The Kingston Collegiate Institute Choir, under the direction of Miss Walker, rendered a delightful program of musical numbers, and entertained those present at a banquet held after which a business meeting followed. Miss Walker of Kingston, the newly appointed Inspectress, was present at the meeting to discuss the agenda in detail. After several considerations the matter of forming a permanent association in its approval of automatic membership. This conference was one of the series (arranged by the Ontario Teachers' Federation).

POLICE ASKED TO LOCATE L. ANDERSON

Ontario Provincial Police today were asked to locate one Ivor Anderson, a dairy farmer, who left Kingston by car in May in Eastern Ontario. The whereabouts of Mr. Anderson are being sought by his sister in California, who made her inquiries through Miss Mabel Stanley Osmond at Toronto. Mr. Anderson's mother died suddenly and sad circumstances are being sought by his relatives. He is described as being 30 years of age, standing about 6 foot 2 inches and weighs about 200 pounds and is blonde.

HEAVY BALLOTING IN AT ADVANCE POLL

No damage was reported by local firemen as the result of a chimney fire quickly extinguished in a residence at 181 James Street at two-thirty o'clock yesterday afternoon.

NO DAMAGE IN CHIMNEY FIRE

Keen interest in municipal electing and a heavy vote will be forecast as the polls open in Trenton on Monday, it is indicated by the fact that Returning Officers of the 10 wards in the town have been busy balloting during the last two days. The poll which closes next day at 5 p.m. is similar 180 votes cast, it was stated.

AWAIT NEW PUMPER GOING TO KINGSTON

Fire Chief Armstrong of the Kingston Fire Department and two members of his company were guests of the Chief Lynch and members of the local department at No. 1 Fire Station this morning while they awaited the arrival of a newly purchased Seagrave Fire Pumper en route to Kingston. The Kingston fire officials accompanied the pumper to that city where first trial will be made today. The machine is about the same size as the local one.

Obituary

MRS. BRIDGET CRAIG

Mrs. Bridget Craig, widow of Adam Craig, has been making her home in Belleville with her daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) R. A. Fyfe, at Queen Street, passed away this Saturday morning after a brief illness.

The late Mrs. Craig was born in North Hall, 89 years ago and resided for the greater part of her life at Oakleigh Cor., where she was well known. She has been predeceased by many friends who will regret to learn of her death. Two years ago she came to Belleville to reside with her daughter, Mrs. R. A. Fyfe, and by all who knew her here she was held in high regard. She was a woman possessing admirable traits of character and was a devout member of St. Michael's Church.

Surviving her are three daughters, Mrs. R. A. Fyfe, Belleville; Mrs. John Conlon, Ottawa; Mrs. Peter Fennelon, Brandon, and two sons, Mr. John M. Craig of Windsor; Mr. Adam Craig of Port Hilford, Brothers in Portland and Lee of Thomas, Wash. Her parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. John Lee.

The notice of funeral is given elsewhere in this Paper.

Dr. McLaren was an army chaplain during the war and for three years served mostly on hospital ships.

Dr. McLaren was born in Lanark, Ont., in 1866, attended grammar school there and then Middlesex Seminary where his father was the teacher of Classics. He graduated from Queen's University, Kingston, in 1890 and continued his studies there for his M.A. and B.D.

DAIRY PRODUCE PRICES HIGHER

Owners Generally Holding Turkeys For Christmas Trade

Strengthening prices in dairy produce, a plentiful offering of fowl and a fair representation of cattle featured Saturday's local market attended largely by both buyers and sellers.

For the most part, however, staple prices showed little change, while poultry showed little increase in price, as there was no indication that there will be an lowering of prices from now on, it was declared by one prominent buyer.

Potatoes, not too freely offered, were up 5c per pickle this week in the dictated previously, selling at from 30 to 35 cents per peck and from $1.20 to $1.30 per bag. Vegetables, including onions, parsnips, carrots, cabbage and beets retailed at 5c per peck per pock. Large firm cabbage ranged from 5 to 10 cents; celery, small bunches, sold freely at 5 cents per bunch and cauliflower was offered for sale and weight, from 10 to 30 cents.

Butter today was selling at last Saturday's prices, a two-pound roll for 55 cents, or from 26 to 30 cents per pound. Further purging that this product would increase practically in price from now on due to lowered heifer fat content in the milk.

Eggs were plentiful, but were firm in price quoted at from 40 for large to 34 and 36 cents for smaller grades.

Turkeys Scarce.

One of the most plentiful offerings of chickens and ducks in some time combined to keep down prices on these fowl. Turkeys were comparatively scarce, the, it was stated, in the fact that owners are holding the birds for Christmas trade, and higher prices. Pat, plump chickens were being sold at from 27.50 to 75 cents per pair. A few extra plump birds commanded the price of $1.00. Ducks were hardly less expensive, selling at from $1.10 to $1.35 for single fowl. One rather small turkey was being held at a bid of $2.50.

At one corner of the market, a bewildered Persian kitten in a bird cage, attracted the crowd who stopped to examine the pet. There were few takers in evidence.

Prices for the local stock industry remained at about the same as last week with hogs being quoted by city butchers at 7 cents live and 10½ cents dressed, while cattle quoted as best live 7 and 15 cents dressed; choice veal 7 and 12 cents; dressed lamb 15 cents and ewe lambs live 11 cents dressed. Live cattle were selling at 5 to 6 cents; mutton was being quoted at from 8 to 9 cents. Cattle pigs on the open market were being held at from $6 to $8 each, $8 to $9 each or from $10 to $11 per pair.

Fish vendors were also busy and for the most part had a fairly plentiful but dear. In some cases a straight price of 15 cents a pound was being asked for all kinds, while quoting this delicacy at two pounds for a quarter. White fish sold from 11 to 13 cents per pound and herring from 4 to 5 for a quarter.

There was no change in the grain prices.

Local Burials In Low Record

"The month of November this year has set a record for the nineteen years I have been at the Belleville Cemetery," said Cemetery Superintendent Arthur W. Thomas today. "Of the eight burials during the month only two have been those of persons whose deaths took place in Belleville.

"The month has had as high as a total of sixty interments a month and the average total of interments per month is about thirty."

However include not only burials of persons whose deaths took place in the city, but also in the district and bodies brought from a distance.

Practically No Snow In Month of November

November just ending saw an average amount of rainfall and almost a complete absence of snow, it is revealed by official records kept for the month. During the past thirty days a total precipitation of 2.50 inches of rain was received, with only one-tenth of an inch of snow being registered.

During the same month last year rainfall reached 3·2 inches with seven-tenths of an inch of snow recorded.

Marmora and District

WILLIAM ROBERT GRAY MARMORA—The death occurred on Marmora village on Thursday of one of the most widely known and respected citizens in the person of William Robert Gray.

The late Mr. Gray had been out in the yard early on Monday morning and suffered a stroke shortly after returning home, not regaining full consciousness.

The late Mr. Gray was born in Rawdon Township on Feb. 17, 1849 the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Gray. In his first part of his youth in Malvern village later moving to Marmora, where he was employed with The Canada Company for a number of years. He was married here, his first wife, being Margaret Hevey. Two children survive, Percy, Counselor of Marmora village and Leslie, now Mrs. Urban Shaw of Toronto. He then married Sarah Robinson McCreary, who survives.

Besides his many friends, who are shocked by his sudden death, he leaves seven brothers and two sisters, Mrs. Peacock Campbellford and Frank of Marmora. Jas. of Rawdon and Andrew of Belleville; Mrs. Sarah Young, Marmora and Mrs. S. Cummings, of Belleville. In religion Mr. Gray was a very active member of St. Paul's Anglican church, being a member of his church choir and St. Paul's Men's Club.

A member of various fraternities he was one of the oldest of Marmora I.O.O.F. No. 318, the Golden Star Rebekah Preceptory No. 148 and for a number of years was a member of Marmora Council of Canadian Order of Chosen Friends and lately an associate member of the latter.

The funeral will be held from his late residence on Tuesday p.m. on Saturday proceeding to St. Paul's Church for service under Orange auspices.

Interment will take place in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

Married

A quiet but pretty wedding took place in Marmora on Wednesday, November 27th, when Mary Lusila, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Blakely, of Madoc Township, became the bride o. Frederick Thomas Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Pack, also of Madoc Township. Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth performed the ceremony at the United Church Parsonage. The young couple were unattended but Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Hubbell were present and signed as witnesses to the ceremony.

Born

POLICE BLOTTER

One lone intoxicant and eight transients occupied the cell block at the police station here, the latter being liberated this morning and allowed to travel their many ways. The drunk, however, was instructed to return in time for Monday's police court, at which time he will face a charge of intoxication. His arrest followed complaints received regarding a drunken man using insulting language on Front street last night. Constable Wm. Fraser picked up the motor car at the lower end of Front street for a short time, but upon his return the car was found gone intact.

A Tweed resident registered a similar complaint early today when it was discovered that a case of six and a-half of meat had been removed from a parked car on Front street during the night. The stolen foodstuffs were not missed until the motorist prepared for their return on early hour this morning. It was also disclosed that the doors of the vehicle had been left unlocked.

BETTER TIMES FOR CHEESE INDUSTRY PREDICTION MADE

P. E. County Makers, Patrons and Friends Enjoy Banquet

PRIZES AWARDED

Quality of Cheese is That District Not as High as Year Ago

Picton, Nov. 29. (Special) — Prince Edward County Cheesemakers, patrons, and friends had a gala evening on Thursday, November 28, at six-thirty they gathered, numbering one hundred, in the Cobblehurst Hall for the annual chicken pie supper, served in splendid style by the ladies of the Picton-ville circuit. Following the bountiful meal, an adjournment was made to the assembly hall, where a very interesting programme was presented.

The opening number was a singsong led by Mr. Ern Wright, followed by a selection by Lloyd Hicks' orchestra, with Mrs. Boyer at the piano. Mr. Jas. Hepburn acted as chairman for the evening, and read letters of regret from Mr. H. G. Fobes of Kingston, Dr. A. L. Gibson, Supt. Kingston Dairy School, and Mr. J. H. Barr, director of dairying, Dept. of Agriculture, Toronto, who were unable to attend the banquet. In a few words, Mr. Hepburn made a plea for closer co-operation between the three factories and creameries, as the secret of overlapping on routes comes out of the patrons. He congratulated the County cheesemakers on having as their instructor, in the person of Mr. W. I. Hicks.

Mr. W. I. Hicks:

Mr. Hicks complimented the ladies on the fine meal served. He thanked the merchants of Picton, who by their generous donation of prizes, had made the Little Cheese Factory Competitions possible; the cheesemakers for their co-operation, and the patrons, who are supplying better milk than was supplied some years ago. Mr. Hicks asked them to go home, and tell the farmers of their neighborhood, that the cheese factories wanted their milk. A, their annual meeting, the boards of each factory are upon for inspection. These boards show, where every cent is spent and the cheese factory is paying you all it can.

A humorous recitation by Miss Unger was next enjoyed, followed by a sing-song, and a solo by Mr. Ern Ward, accompanied by Mrs. Boyer, "Give Me the Open Road".

Mr. J. L. Jess:

Mr. J. L. Jess, Secretary Cheese Patrons' Association, spoke considerately. He said that last year in the cheese industry prices were poor and the outlook fairly dismal, we can look forward with more optimism than has been possible for several years.

A dangerous position by Miss Unger was next enjoyed, followed by a sing-song, and a solo by Mr. Ern Ward, accompanied by Mrs. Boyer, "Give Me the Open Road".

Mr. J. L. Jess:

Mr. J. L. Jess, Secretary Cheese Patrons' Association, spoke considerately. He said that last year in the cheese industry prices were poor and the outlook fairly dismal, we can look forward with more optimism than has been possible for several years.

New Zealand, said Europe had suffered tremendous drought this year. Their production was greatly lowered. In the summer months Germany was a heavy buyer of European butter. The price of butter rose, and New Zealand made more butter and less cheese. As a result we received a better price for our cheese. In Great Britain because of the passing of the Milk Marketing Act, and the "home farm" the best cheddar cheese in the world was made this year. Our Ontario cheese replaced this shortage of "home farm" cheese. Factory cheese in Great Britain is the poorest cheddar cheese in the world. This decrease of fine grade cheddar cheese is going to continue in Great Britain, to our benefit, predicted the speaker. Because of economic conditions in the whole world today, something must be done for the farmers. When the last few years in New Zealand, have fertilized the grass to the tune of 2 pounds per acre, in Great Britain the Milk Marketing Act set the price of milk at $1.60 per cwt. This year when the National Products Marketing Act was passed. This act does not please everyone. There is some coercion necessary in carrying it out, but coercion must be used for marketing. In the opinion of Mr. Jess.

Organization:

Farmers' organizations have started and failed. Now they started on a voluntary basis. Some stayed out and reaped the benefits. The unsigned 10% of the organized farmers force its will on the minority. As Secretary of the Ontario Cheese Patrons' Association, Mr. Jess covers a territory from west of Toronto to the Quebec border, in which there are 22,000 cheese factory patrons with their milk. He does not getting star results. But he felt, that the organization is representative of something for the whose cheese industry. He had been attended the meeting in Toronto. The feeling at the convention was that the cheese should be sold through cheese boards, and that some sort of help should be given by the Government in the way of bonuses The federal minister of trade and commerce approached to ascertain what assistance will be given the cheese industry next year, and what effect it would. In the speaker's opinion, help for the dairy industry. The federal government this year had to set aside a small amount of money to get rid of a surplus of butter in the country. At present we have too much whole milk, too much butter, and not enough cheese. The government realizes this and the cheese industry is going to get attention, and its future will be brighter.

A comic song by Jack Clark of Black Creek was well received, and another popular orchestra number.

Mr. James L. Irwin:

Mr. James Irwin tendered the regrets of Mr. E. V. Illsey, of Belleville, who was unable to be present but who sent a prophesy of better times for the cheese industry. Mr. Irwin had very little criticism to make of the work of the cheese makers of the district, whose work is as good as that of any district in Central Ontario. Nevertheless their had been a 2 per cent drop in quality this year, and quality in every farm product means a very great deal, pointed out Mr. Irwin. Errors in the registration numbers, or val numbers, or the dating on boxes, cause delay in shipping, and the necessity of writing of hundreds of letters to it the matter straightened out. When letters do not grade the cheese is graded lower. Some defects mentioned by the speaker were:—

(1)—Cheese too green when shipped —particularly in September and October.

(2)—Dates wrong on boxes—the month before the date perhaps—sometimes the registered number forgotten.

(3)—Too many "iron" holes in some cheese. These cause mould. One is plenty.

(4)—Boxes too high for cheese.

(5)—Cheese wrong end up in box.

Percentages Lower

The percentage of first grade cheese in Central Ontario in 1935, was 96.37 per cent this year it was 91.3 per cent, better, Mr. Irwin said, that Mr. Illsey predicts prices will be better another year than for the last 5 or 7 years. Tariff changes may have something to do with this. The tariff on cheese going to the United States has been 7c. After January it will be 5c. Mr. Irwin urged that the market we have always had in Great Britain be not forgotten. He suggested, that rather that decrease the British market, we should increase our milk production to meet the new U.S. market. "Once you hurt the feelings of the British importer," said Mr. Irwin, "he begins to lose confidence in you."

The speaker urged as many patrons and makers as possible to attend the Central Ontario Cheesemakers Convention in Kingston. He spoke of several positions, that would be available for young men within the next six months—young men who had a knowledge of milk and knew how to handle farmers. "Any you can get these positions if you stay in your own factory," said Mr. Irwin. "You must get to the convention and attend conventions. There will be a good demand for young men in the near future." Representatives of the Ontario government will be at the Kingston convention, and upon their report depends your future as cheese makers. The speaker urged those present to have faith in the cheese industry as it is going to come back.

The orchestra gave another number, and Mr. Ward was heard again in a solo. Mr. Jim Cook led the team called on to "stand up and take a bow". Mr. George Pollard, instructor of the Madoc District, conveyed the good wishes of his district to this one.

Prizes Distributed

Mr. W. I. Hicks then distributed the new competition prizes. The judging for these prizes done by Dr. Gibson, Supt. Kingston Dairy School and Mr. J. H. Prior.

Inside Condition of Factory

The awards were as follows:

Two Expeditions to Investigate Reports

Singapore, Straits Settlement, Nov. 29 (CP)—Two rescue expeditions have left Selang, Siam, to investigate reports Air Commodore Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, missing Australian aviator, had crashed in the Betul mountains, dispatches reaching here today said. The results of their trek into the wild territory will not be known for four days.

Sir Charles and his flying companion, Tom Pethybridge, disappeared on a flight across the Bay of Bengal several months ago. Searchers were bound for Australia from London, an extensive air and land search failed to find any track of them.

Port Darwin, Australia, Nov. 29 (CP)—Charles Melrose, Australian aviator who has completed a 7,000 Australia flight at Singapore to aid search for the missing Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, landed here today.

LET EVERY ELECTOR VOTE

Electors of Belleville have on Monday a duty to perform. They owe it to the municipality and to the candidates and issues, to turn out and vote in what they believe is in the best interests of the city for the coming year.

Now is the time for the expression of opinion, instead of waiting till later in the new year to criticize. The electors hold the future in their hands.

They have but to think a bit to appreciate how irritated they would feel if they were deprived by any chance of their franchise. They should make them realize that their duty is to go to the polls and mark their ballots in the contests for mayor and aldermen for those whom they believe best qualified to act as the city's representatives. In some wards they have the additional duty of choosing school trustees. This year council has given a referendum on the daylight saving question. On this too the electors are called upon to register their opinions.

As citizens who have offered themselves in good numbers for the positions which are to be filled, voters should appreciate their willingness to serve the municipality for the coming year. A likely electorate is not desirable. It is more nearly the hundred-per cent voting electorate is achieved, the better for councils, boards and municipalities.

It means a sacrifice of time and pleasure to be a candidate, and possible representative of the citizens in one civic body or another. To this opportunity, if given, develops the capacities of men. Responsibility deepens the sense of obligation.

CHRISTMAS AHEAD

The Retail Merchants Association has given a familiar holiday setting to the business streets with decorations of evergreen.

This thoughtfulness of the merchants to bring to the minds of the people that the Christmas trade is beginning and that those who come early have more time to make their selections of gifts.

In wholesale and retail circles the impression which is abroad in the business world that Christmas this year is to witness the greatest holiday trade expansion in years is something which has convinced the people of the city. They believe it. Consequently buying will begin earlier and be steadier, dealers confidently expect.

The confidence which the merchant feels can be understood by a look at the large attractive stocks which they have in readiness for the season's trade which is now beginning to move. A likely sign is the greater air of security which the buyer feels as the month of December is ushered in.

Never did local shops look more attractive to the buyers of all classes than they do today.

THE PACIFIC ACHIEVEMENT

China Clipper's Pacific mail service has come to stay.

It is a progressive step to bear mail to the Philipines and save weeks of time in the ordinary service. And the Clipper will bring back mail from the Commonwealth in a few days.

This is a happy United States step to keep in touch with its foster child in the Orient. Not that the act has a far greater implication than any political interest. It is the world-linking by oceans which occupies the mind. This successful flight to Manila Bay was an epoch-making event.

There have been talks of air service across the Atlantic in 1936. To many people it seems rather early for the definite establishment of a route across that great expanse of water. But to the flyer the Clipper's success means that an Atlantic service is possible.

There are immense possibilities bound up with the undertaking. Passengers can be lifted from the decks of liners and borne ashore in planes; mail can be taken off ships or carried all the way across. The main factor which will make any of the services of value is the elimination of time, which amounts practically to the annihilation of ocean.

MARK TWAIN CENTENARY

One hundred years ago today there was born a baby boy who was christened Samuel Clemens, and who in the course of time took the name Mark Twain.

Today more than one hundred millions of men, women and children have heard of this fashion New Nov. 30, 1835.

This fame means that during the lifetime of that boy something was achieved for man and women and children do not honor a man for his birth a man who has done nothing.

What he achieved is best known to the legions of readers who have delighted in his books, and in his humor, which have made life richer and more kindly and benign.

It was no mistake on nature's part that the boy Samuel Langhorne Clemens was born. Some she picks out for the high places to be the mouthpieces or the agents of the revelation of her mysteries. Samuel Clemens or Mark Twain was one.

So the English-speaking world rejoices that that baby of a century ago grew through all the trials and vicissitudes of life to understand children and adult life and to become one of the most famous of men.

FOR AUTUMN

Now that the nights of silver frost are here
With trees stripped bare against pellucid skies
And wind that stings the cheek, and sudden fear
Of barren Winter darkening men's eyes,
Take heart of grace, O fearful ones, and see
The beauty of this bareness; slender lines
Etched eloquently—curved moon, branch-tip tree—
One of the Master's loveliest designs.
And as grim Winter comes, reluctant, slow,
Reminder, to the old, of loss and death,
The young will leave their blazing hearths to go
Into the windy night, whose icy breath
Lifts them like potent wine—to stir and
As youth's enchantment prophesies new Spring!

VISITORS TO THE SANCTUM ARE MANY AND VARIED, some come with fire in their eye, and an evident desire to annihilate the editor if it should look feasible. Generally the lion lies down with the lamb, or the would-be lion departs very lamb-like. Other visitors come to express appreciation of something which has appeared in the Good Family column, a word of interest to them or theirs. Thursday afternoon's prize visitor was a young man, of parts, several parts of persistence mixed with more parts of insistence. He was desirous of getting a vaudeville troupe in was forming of local talent, why purpose putting on a program with orchestra, girl chorus, special numbers, tap dancing, Hawaiian and old-fashioned music, etc. This ambitious young man will put his show on under the auspices of some society or service club for the benefit of charity or public welfare at the moment. All he wants is a sponsor, for he admits he has the ingredients of a stellar hit, all he needs is a place to practise and a sponsor who it's up to at least one of the service clubs to give him a chance and see just what kind of entertainment can be produced with home talent. An audition before one of the service clubs would seem to be in order. Get in touch with the Lamplighter if you are interested.

MANY PEOPLE ARE INTERESTED IN THE AMUSEMENT TAX AT THEATRES which is a provincial impost, ear-marked for relief purposes. This tax has been revised downward, to take effect Monday. A fifteen cent ticket carries a tax of one cent; not more than 25c tax 2c; not more than 35c tax 3c; not more than 45c, tax 4 cents. Every patron to a theatre must be in possession of half the amusement tax ticket and ready to show same to a government inspector any time called upon so to do, under penalty. Theatre managers and employees are subject to a fine of from $20 to $500 if they permit anyone to sit in the theatre without having paid the tax. That's what they call a law with teeth in it.

AT THE BELLE

"Broadway Melody of 1936"

The Greatest Musical Hit of the Year; Five Song Hits

Outstanding music, spectacular dance numbers, all set in thousands of unprecedented splendor, a gag-filled, hilarious story, and a cast of entertainers headed by Jack Benny and an intriguing story all combine to make "Broadway Melody of 1936" the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's most sensational musical extravaganza, and the screen's outstanding gay and sar wu tertainment of the year.

"Broadway Melody of 1936" opens at the Belle where it is playing a four days' engagement.

Every Song is a Hit

The five songs by Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed, "Broadway Rhythm," "You Got a Public Waiting," "I'm Out to Get You," "On a Sunday Afternoon," "Sing Before Breakfast" and "Your Broadway and You" are all destined to be hits without question.

Jack Benny, recently declared the most popular of all radio stars, repeats his success on the screen as the smart Broadway columnist. Sid Silvers, "king of the wisecrack" for many a laugh with his droll humor. Other new screen personalities who will delight you in this elaborate musical are Eleanor Powell, for the past two years rated one of the world's greatest tap dancers" who plays the lead opposite Robert Taylor. The latter does his best screen work to date.

Talent Upon Talent

Una Merkel, the new wise-cracking secretary; June Knight, as a spoiled darling of New York society; Buddy Rogan and Buddy Ebsen, famous comedians and dancers; Nick Long, Jr., noted acrobatic dancer; Frances Langford, radio's song bird, and Harry Stockwell, concert tenor, all deserve the highest praise for their amazing entertainment in "Broadway Melody of 1936."

Directed

Directed by Roy Del Ruth, who was responsible for the "Curious" and "The Continental" staged the dance routines and Allerton Ranch presented the ballets.

"Captain Hates Kitten," a new clever and funny Wall Disney Symphony in beautiful Technicolor, and the Latest World News will be exhibited on the same program.

Starting tomorrow for a week, the Belle will present the thrilling romantic adventure Dona: at a mads hat as a spectacular Arabian love affair, and a panic starts. Donat finds himself accompanying a strange woman, he is told her life is in great danger. The lady has the secret plans of a new airplane engine, with this spy gang is trying to procure. The girl is protected by a secret agent, but he recognizes the gang leader by his scarred right hand.

This is the bold up to most exciting climaxes of the season.

Thomasburg, Nov. 30—The Women's Auxiliary of Christ Church will hold a chicken supper and concert at the home of Mrs. Wesley Morton on Tuesday, Dec. 3rd. The ladies are in the forenoon each contributing a part of the dinner; the proceeds of which amount to $5.50, and two quilts were quilted.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Trinder spent Wednesday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Hinds, Carman.

Mr. Ross Wilson is visiting at his home at Smith's Falls.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Wings Over Ethiopia"

Large Crowds View Very Interesting Picture of The War Zone; Double Bill

According to the large crowds that thronged the Capitol last night, Belleville still remains the most interesting community in the world. This Film is very different to anything we have anything to be seen on the silver screen. Featuring the interior of Ethiopia. Where dauntless airmen covered the empire by plane, caravan and truck. They had to do this in order to film the startling scenes, which you will surely see in this wonderful picture. It shows a very interesting tactic of native life. Primitive, yet but very interesting.

By all means, see this fine feature.

"Men Maynard in Smart Supporting Feature"

"IN OLD SANTA FE"

The scenes of this picture are taking along the old Santa Fe trail it is a hard riding Western with a musical background. Gene Autrey and his cowboy singers are a treat to the ears. Co-starring with Ken Maynard is beautiful Evelyn Knapp. In "Old Santa Fe" she has one of the best roles she has had in months and you may be sure does full justice to it. There is that starring actor, H. B. Warner as well as Kenneth Thompson, Wheeler Oakman and George Hayes.

"In Old Santa Fe" while adhering to the best traditions of the Old West, also gives one a glimpse of the new West. Gene Autrey and Ken Maynard we have heard so much about. All in all this fast-action thriller contains all the elements that go, into the making of first class, entertainment.

The above western is swell for the kiddies, send them to our matinee. They will be well cared for.

Matinee at 2.30; evening shows at 7.00. Last complete show at 8.30.

The 39 Steps

The Capitol Theatre takes pleasure in screening "The 39 Steps" according to the theatre next Thursday. As every person knows this film was adapted from the well known book of John Buchan (Lord Tweedsmuir) Canada's new Governor General.

Robt. Donat has the leading male role in the picture and Madeleine Carroll has the part next to the handsome Donat. This wonderful romantic adventure Donat is at a mads hat as a spectacular Arabian love affair, and a panic starts. Donat finds himself accompanying a strange woman, he is told her life is in great danger. The lady has the secret plans of a new airplane engine, with this spy gang is trying to procure. The girl is protected by a secret agent, but he recognizes the gang leader by his scarred right hand.

This is the bold up to most exciting climaxes of the season.

This is by far the best picture yet to be played on the Capitol screen this season.

Mrs. W. S. Embury is spending this week the guest of her cousin Mr. O. Garrett at Trenton.

GEO. A. C. WEIR RETIRES DEC. 31 42 YEARS SERVICE

Started in Bank of British North America as Junior

TEN YEARS IN CITY

Member of Educational Board And Other Bodies

Ten years' service to Belleville and district as manager of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal and a record of forty-two years banking with the old Bank of British North America and the Bank of Montreal will be terminated on December 31 when Mr. G. A. C. Weir, well known local bank manager, completes his long service through retirement from active business. On that date Mr. Weir will be succeeded in the local post by Richard T. W. Leversedge, present manager of the Chatham branch of the Bank of Montreal.

Almost regretfully today Mr. Weir spoke of his retirement. He reviewed briefly a record of continuous service with the present Bank of Montreal and the former Bank of British North America.

Starting as a junior, in the year 1893, Mr. Weir worked then for the

ENTIRES SHORTLY

Over fifty years ago the late William Thompson opened a Funeral and Furniture business in Belleville and the name has been before the people of this community since that time. Born in Belleville and growing up in the business with his father, Thomas C. Thompson started to take an active part thirty years ago and consequently is well fitted to carry on the business.

Seven years ago when prices were at their peak, we introduced LOWER PRICED funerals in Belleville. Recently a new Funeral Home was added, situated at 38 Everett Street, and with our Packard Funeral Cars we offer the finest service and still maintain our MODERATE PRICES. COMPLETE FUNERALS from $50.00.

Mr. G. A. C. Weir, manager of the Bank of Montreal, Belleville, or of Montreal who will retire at the end of the present year, a latter Bank and for two years occupied this junior post in the city of Brantford. Three years later he was transferred to Toronto, where he worked for the next seven years, his promotion in accordance in a West Toronto, branch.

Promotion came quickly then. Mr. Weir, and in 1906 he was branch manager of the Weston, Ontario branch of the same bank. In 1910 another transfer placed him as branch manager in Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan. Gradually widening its interests, the Bank of British North America then despatched him to Saskatoon, where a branch of this bank was opened in 1911. Two years later, 1910 and again in Regina, where a second branch was opened in 1912. In the year 1913 Mr. Weir assumed the managership of the branch at Winnipeg.

Amalgamation in 1918

In 1918 amalgamation of the Bank of Montreal occurred, Mr. Weir was placed in charge as assistant manager of the Winnipeg branch of this bank as Winnipeg was formed a transferred to Spokane, Washington, in the year 1920. Shortly after he was promoted to the chief office of the Bank of Montreal at Montreal and there until about four years ago when he was made manager of the local branch bank.

During his stay in Belleville Mr. Weir contributed largely to the activities of the city. For several years he was a member of the local Board of Education and chairman of the Advisory and Vocation Committee of that body. He is a director of the Bay of Quinte Club and past president. Mr. Weir has been noted for his active membership with the local Chamber of Commerce and has been a constant member of the St. Thomas Church Executive committee. When relief work was first organized in this city he was given the chairmanship of the Welfare Committee.

Outdoor Activities

Noted for his interest in outdoor activities, Mr. Weir has been a popular member and past president of the Belleville and District Fish and Game Society and has done much to promote the propagation of game fish in local streams and waters.

Many prominent business and agricultural interests of the district have always been championed by Mr. Weir and he has assisted in every opportunity to promote the growth of both valuable assets for residents of the section. Several years ago he was made an honorary member of the General Ontario Cheese Farmers' Association and still retains that office.

"We've liked Belleville and enjoyed living here," commented Mr. Weir this morning in announcing his retirement. "The first of all we intend to take a trip south for Mrs. Weir's health. We expect to visit Florida, California and will go to British Columbia from there. We also to visit Victoria also."

Whether Mr. and Mrs. Weir will return to reside in Belleville will depend largely upon Mrs. Weir's health, it was stated.

WILL END DOLE SAYS ROOSEVELT

Looks Forward Confidently To Increasing Deficit

Atlanta, Nov. 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt declared today the United States Government has the "right to speak of appropriation" and announced coincidentally the substantial achievement of the administration in employment.

"We can look forward with assurance to a decreasing deficit," Mr. Roosevelt told a vast throng at Georgia "home-coming" day in his honor.

"As things stand today and in the light of a definite and continuing economic improvement, we have passed the peak of appropriations for purposes without the imposition of new taxes, are increasing."

Repeating determination to end the dole, Mr. Roosevelt announced that 1,500,000 persons had left relief rolls and were at work on last Wednesday. Orders already have been placed, he added, for the remainder of 2,500,000 employables to go to work.

Besides reviewing social and economic changes, the President spoke of general financial conditions today and in "those fool's parables years ago" before the crash.

"We are insolvent," he said. "Today we are solvent."

"Your government says to you: you cannot borrow your way out of debt, but you can invest your way into a sounder future."

Discussing the trend in National Debt, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"In the spring of 1933, leading bankers of the country could safely stand a National Debt of between 31 and 32 billion dollars. The financiers agreed then the government would have to go into debt.

Court Case Sequel To Divorce, Wedding

London, Ont., Nov. 29 (CP)—Mrs. Young of Detroit, formerly Londoner, was granted suspended sentence in court today when she pleaded guilty to a charge of buying arising out of United States liquor. At the request of Crown Attorney Newton who told the court there must be thousands of similar cases in Canada, Magistrate Scandrett granted the suspended sentence.

The Crown stated Young was married in Port Huron, Mich., to a Miss Eleanor Hahn, August 29, 1932, after he had obtained American divorce.

'Look in Cellar' Note Tells Family

London, Ont., Nov. 29 (CP)—Leaving a note for members of his family to "look in the cellar stairway," John S. Hall, 68, London wag found hanged this morning. His body was found by his son, William.

Police say one end of a rope was tied around the top step at the top of the stairway and the other end around the man's neck.

Pain Desensitizing Solution Developed by Canadian Dentist

Is Expected to Relieve Public's Terror of Dental Operations

DETAILS WITHHELD

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)— A liberal meaning may soon be given that enormous dental admonition to "Open wider, please; this isn't going to hurt a bit."

Columbia University announced today discovery of anesthetic and harmless pain-deadener by Dr. Percy L. Harman, formerly of Wichita, Kan., and now professor of dentistry in the school of dental and oral surgery.

Medical claims attached to the new discoverer, state that it is expected to revolutionize the practice of dentistry by eliminating pain and that "drills" dealing in the preparation and filling of tooth cavities.

The new desensitizer, perfected by Dr. Harman after 20 years of research, is described as a solution applied to the surface of the tooth not only preventing pain but also hardening the tissues so that cutting teeth now doomed to be lost through decay may be saved.

Although full details were withheld, Dr. Hartman said the desensitizing solution is effective in a few thirty of pain and the recognition of overlooked cavities, resistance to the dentin of the tooth.

It becomes effective in about one and a half minutes after application. It remains effective from 30 minutes to hours.

It is to be patented and patent rights assigned to Columbia University, which will control price and insure that the drug is made available for public use and to prevent commercial exploitation.

Dr. Hartman said the new desensitizer cannot, after-effects, as do certain other drugs, and that it is so simple to use the patient is not conscious of the process.

According to old dental theories, Dr. Hartman said, deadening solutions were forced into the tooth cavities, sometimes were made to block the nerve supply to the tooth.

Under his theory, Dr. Hartman has succeeded in desensitizing the outer portion of the tooth, establishing a boundary, one which reduces the sensations communicated to the nerves.

Dr. Hartman was born in Victoria, Kan., and received his degrees and Seattle, Wash., before coming to Columbia in 1924.

DUCE CONVOKES ITALIAN CABINET

Troop Movements Seen as Direct Reply to League's Plan

Rome, Nov. 29 (CP-Havas)—Premier Mussolini has convoked a special meeting of the Italian Cabinet to be held tomorrow at 10 a.m. in the capital.

The meeting was said to be related to Italy's intensified troop movements which, since Wednesday have placed the country on a war footing, ready for any eventuality in Europe and the Mediterranean.

These movements are seen here as a direct reply to the League of Nations' proposed oil embargo.

The entire military establishment of Italy mobilized has been put in a position to cope with any possible developments on the European continent.

Fabric is Risks

By this means the Italian Government hopes to emphasize the dangers that might arise from the imposing of an oil embargo, concerning which it is reported Italy has threatened war.

It is believed the Mediterranean question will be raised at the forthcoming London Naval Conference and Premier Italy will endeavor to modify the balance of power.

Intensive campaigns are gaining headway in Italy for the conservation of petroleum in all forms. Diplomatic circles here believe that their gas owing to their customs duties, have acted to bring to whatever gasoline they needed from abroad.

Another drive has been started by the Fascist party against Sunday drinking.

NEW ZEALAND'S BONDS ARE DOWN

Bank Shares Also Suffer The Result of Change in Gov't.

By THOS. T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Nov. 29.—(C.P. Cable)—Following Labor's decisive victory in New Zealand's general election, the Dominion's Government bonds are quoted today on the London Stock Exchange.

Despite a declaration yesterday by Michael J. Savage, Prime Minister-elect, that his government would honor all New Zealand Government bonds, New Zealand bonds were down from one to three points. Wellington they are reported to have held firm.

The New Zealand bank shares also reflected a certain amount of uneasiness in London, although there was little actual selling of either Government bonds or bank shares.

The financial editor of The Daily Mail said in an editorial today that though New Zealand Labor has shown no actual hostility to British capital, "the possibility of trouble is the reverse of re-assuring."

The Mail added: "Capital here by New Zealand was shown in a conservative light when it was successfully made on a three per cent. basis.

Father Rescues Family Before Stove Explodes

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 29 (CP) — Trapped in an explosion that threatened to suffocate all of his, his home at South Woodslee, Edward Lesarge, prominent Essex County Press Windsor, barely escaped with his life after he had rescued his wife and three small sons from the burning two-storey frame structure.

It was the choked coughing of one of the youngsters that aroused the father and enabled him to get his family safely. Leaving them huddled together in only their night clothing in the swirling snow, Mr. Conn grabbed a pail of water and rushed to the upper part of the house where the flames were roaring away. A minute or so later there was an explosion, believed caused by the coal oil stove, and the entire upper floor and staged face burned, was barely able to escape himself to safety. Neighbors provided shelter.

Picton and District

Picton, Nov. 30—The annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society of Prince Edward County was held on Thursday afternoon, at the residence of Mrs. W. A. Sexsmith, and proved very interesting, and at times waxed hot, when County Solicitor Ira Day of Hallowell was asked for a larger representation of the County Council on the Board, and intimated that the expenses of the society were considered too great by at least some members of the County Council. He also considered that more "good business men" might advantageously replace some of the women members of the board, but did not receive the support of the meeting in this. An unusually large attendance marked the meeting.

County Councillor Jas. Bond, suggested that the County Council be represented by two members besides the Warden, to be selected by the Board of the Children's Aid Society. Councillor Bond, heartily agreed with the re-election of the Inspector of Welfare of the present Board, Miss Thrupp Prince. An ward County could afford something better.

Mr. O. M. Hicks pointed out that the financial committee is composed entirely of women and passes all bills of the society.

Mrs. Sexsmith and Mrs. Blakely pointed out that the society does not receive anything like the grant the government says that the county council must pay a fixed sum for the maintenance of each ward of the society per day.

It was decided to the effect that two members of the County Council become members of the Board recommended by G. M. Hicks and seconded by Dan Wren, Mrs. R. P. Hicks, Secretary voiced the wish of the society for co-operation with the County Council.

The report of the Treasurer Rev. A. M. Scott was given and adopted. Superintendent Ralph Hubbs gave the Young People's report for the society for the past year. Three families have now been secured by the Department, and the extra visits to foster homes that the homes in the county, although not had been placed in other counties by this society.

Mrs. Mary Wren spoke words of commendation on the work of Mr. Hubbs. President Blakely read a letter from the Department commending the society on the splendid work done, also by employing a full time stenographer. The Department has privileged unsuitable in every way. Mr. Blakely said the grade of the society would mean a grant of $500.00 more than last year. The report of the Auditor Mr. Wm. Gee was given and praised the work of the auditor. Mrs. Bert Lewis moved a vote of thanks for donations.

Rev. and Mrs. R. Munroe gave an exceptionally inspiring talk, emphasizing the work done by the women, as "community Keepers" as well as homemakers. She made a strong appeal for more faith in courage and morals of the unfortunate. Mrs. Munroe closed with the "Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man." The following officers remained in the following:

President: W. S. Blakely.

1st Vice President: G. M. Hicks.

2nd Vice President: Mrs. W. J. Browne.

Hon. Vice President: Mrs. W. Van Slaiwood.

Secretary: Rev. S. P. Dodds.

Treasurer: Rev. S. M. Scott.

Board:

Two county Councillors (selected by council).

Mayor of Picton.

PALMER—JONES

Stirling (Special)—A very interesting wedding ceremony took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Jones, Stirling, on Friday, November 29th, at twelve o'clock noon, when their daughter, Miss Marion Jones became the bride of Mr. James Frederick Palmer, of Stirling. Rev. W. Rowland of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, performed the ceremony and the wedding music from Lohengrin was played by Mrs. R. W. Rowland. Miss Miss Currie sang a very pleasing soprano solo during the signing of the register, "Sweetheart's Forever" Miss Jones, accompanied at the piano by Mrs R. W. Rowland. The living room was artistically decorated in a colour scheme of yellow and white Cut flowers, ferns and palms added beauty to the lovely archway beneath which the ceremony took place.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a gown of brown rich crepe with gold trimming and accessories to match, and carried a corsage bouquet of pink chrysanthemums and baby breath. She was attended by her sister, Miss Helen Jones, gowned in brown crepe with matching hat and a shoulder bouquet of Talisman roses. She was assisted by Miss Ruth Hamilton, of Stirling, gowned in black crepe with shoulder bouquet of pink carnations and baby breath. The groom was attended by Mr. William Jones, brother of the bride.

Directly after the ceremony, luncheon was served in the dining room which was artistically arranged with pink and white decorations, the bride's mother receiving in a gown of black satin, and corsage bouquet of pink chrysanthemums and baby breath. Mrs. Palmer, mother of the bridegroom, received in a gown of brown crepe with matching hat and a shoulder bouquet of Talisman roses. She was assisted by Mrs. Hamilton, of Stirling, gowned in black crepe with shoulder bouquet of pink carnations and baby breath. The groom was attended by Mr. William Jones, brother of the bride.

The bride and groom will spend their honeymoon in Lindsay, Niagara Falls, Toronto and other points of interest in the State of New York. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Palmer will take up residence in charge of Mrs. Hugh Ross, Mrs. J. E. Buchanan, Mrs. W. H. Bowen and Miss Jessie McOle. Dainty green screens partitioned off the tea room. Deep rose chrysanthemums in a brass bowl, with ivory tapers in silver holders made the tea table very charming. The was poured by Mrs. Jamieson Bowen and Mrs. R. J. Graham from four to five, while Mrs. Mackenzie Robertson and Mrs. W. G. Mikel presided at the tea table from five to six. Miss Jamie McLean was in charge of refreshments, assisted by Mrs. F. G. Deslie, Mrs. Harold Ashley, Mrs. John Cook and Arthur Hill, Mrs. D. Ross Wilson and Miss De Grassi. Those who assisted in serving were Mrs. Roger Bonnycastle, Mrs. Russel Hackborn, Mrs. Edgar Buchanan, Mrs. Max Hill, Mrs. J. Mather, Mrs. Victor White, Mrs. Jack Buchanan, Mrs. J. McIntosh and Miss Edith Ash. Mrs. Hop Dellicourt was acted as treasurer during the afternoon, was convener of the tea. The very clever decorative arrangements were in charge of Mrs. F. B. Foley and Miss Elizabeth Corbett.

Charm Better Than Mere Beauty

By HELE NFOLLETT

It looks as if the dewy-eyed dolly belongs to the past. Little baby face has had her day. Now the high note is chic. A woman must look distinguished. That means that the plain gal has her innings. If she carries herself beautifully, wears short clothes, she gets her feet planted right in the front line of good looksers.

She who did not come into the world blessed with pulchritude must find substitutes for the peach bloom complexion, the perfect nose, mouth of lovely outline. Fortunately what she can do. Sometimes she is the most striking and attractive figure in a crowd of pretties. There are pretties by the million and, alas, they frequently look as much alike as paper dolls.

If a woman has brains that click, if she has charming manners, a flair for dressing in green, carries her clothes with splendor, a lot she cares whether she measures up to the standard of beauty. There's always charm, which means a heap more than pretty looks, and, while beauty fades, charm grows more and more compelling.

When hair has been over-bleached and runs from it as water from a duck's back and can't get a foothold, the proper thing to do is the egg shampoo and the lemon rinse.

For a medium head of hair, short cut and not thick, six eggs are required. Beat lightly with a fork, and a little cold water. Have the hair wet, apply part of the eggs, rubbing to a froth, rinse, use the rest of the eggs, rinse again, then rinse with the use hot water. If particles of the egg adhere, the brush will remove them.

Lovely astringent bath powders can be found on cosmetic counters. They are largely powdered alum and to lessen perspiration; give to the skin surface a delightful fragrance. They can be used in the bath or sponge with a lamb's wool pad that fits the cover.

Milla is a common trouble. The mouth of the pore closes, the sebaceous secretions bank up into little beadlike masses. No lotion will dissolve them.

The electric needle is sometimes used to expel them from the complexion pores. Another treatment is to slit the skin the full length of the blemish—use a needle for this—and then sterilized by holding it in a flame — and to pick at the substance with the needle point. Pressure won't budge it. Touch the wound with alcohol. Then cold water freely to increase the activities of the blood stream.

FASHION FLASHES ..... 5TH

By ALICE ALDEN

Easy to reach are coins that are placed in a pouch or purse outside the bag. A square bag of black calfskin has an outside pocket for swinging on a gilt metal bar and ornamented with gilt initials.

Paired off in many instances are hats and bags, or gloves, shoes and bags. A pill-box hat of navy shirred felt has a forward trim of three tiny ostrich plumes in dark red. Others in matching hat and bag are shirred velvet with three ostrich tips in colored contrast to the hat.

Walk easily in a walking shoe rather than in a shoe designed for afternoon wear. A comfy shoe is of black kidskin with a cuban heel of black lizard. The broad strap has a fancy buckle.

Hail the Halo if you are young and pretty. A charming hat is a bretton of bright green felt in satin effect with the headband on the forehead, Brown belting ribbon faced with green makes the band.

March along in the military procession. A smart hat that borrows from the military motif is a forward-jutting tricorne with a velvet crown and felt brim. The hat is edged with gold braid and a cog plume dips over the side.

A good buy is a dress that is unpressed and scant. Such a model is in black novelty crepe with a side fastener at the throat. The fastener is of the same crepe and a pendling from the bell have rhinestone-studded cups. There is a wide, flat collar and the tight sleeves become full above the elbow.

BUSINESS BETTER IN IRON DISTRICT

Counting on Best Winter in The Last Five Years

Iron River, Mich., Nov. 30 (AP)—This northern peninsula district was counting confidently today on its best winter in five years.

A survey of companies operating in the area—heart of the Menominee range—disclosed bettered conditions in the steel industry have had a stimulating effect here.

Production schedules have been advanced, four mines that were idle last winter are either operating or will be soon, employment has been increased and wages have been advanced.

Iron County Mines now employ 1,100 men, an increase of more than 200 over the figure for 1934. The monthly payroll ranges from $50,000 to $60,000.

More than 1,300,000 tons of ore went to lower lake ports during the 1935 shipping season. Complete figures for all shipments were expected to show a 20 to 25 per cent gain over last year. An estimated 1,000,000 tons remain in stockpiles at 21 properties.

LUMBAGO?
Lame Back? Rheumatism?
And cruel Lumbago pains. Mrs. A. Dore, Cobalt Ont., a former nurse, writes: "My Lumbago was so painful I could scarcely turn over in bed, I took T-R-Cs and from the very first capsule I had relief. Later I took T-R-Cs for Rheumatism—they give quick relief and no bad after effects. Stop needless misery—take T-R-Cs. No harmful drugs. 50c and $1 everywhere. Especially good for Sciatica. With the Boy Scouts

A Scout's Duty is to be useful and helpful to others.—2nd Scout Law.

Local Scouts Notes

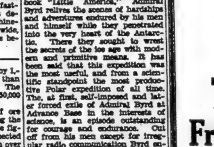
Our stamp collection to Belleville Kiwanis Club! For the past few months Kiwanians have been collecting stamps for the purpose of raising money for Charity. This year they have handed the stamps over to the local Boy Scouts free of charge. The money realized from the sale of these seals will be used by the Scouts to purchase camp equipment etc., and will be a great boost to Scouting in Belleville.

Next Tuesday evening at 7.30 o'clock, No. 2 Belleville Troop, St. Andrew's Church, will hold a meeting at which the new Scoutmaster, Mr. Morley Anderson, will be formally installed. Everyone in this important ceremony are cordially invited to attend. All Scoutmasters of the District will attend.

The Belleville Scoutmasters held the first meeting of the season of the Scoutmasters' Association on Wednesday evening at the home of Scoutmaster J. Varley. Important business in connection with Scouting in Belleville was discussed. Scoutmaster James Taylor was in the chair. Our thanks to Mrs. Varley for her hospitality.

According to Rabbi Louis Mann of Chicago, Scouts can do a year to maintain a Boy Scout, and $5,500 to apprehend and convict a juvenile delinquent. The figures do not greatly differ in Canada.

Following the Scout Law, Boy Scout camp fire at the Niagara Falls, Can., Scouts cooked and ate a variety of Connecticut Scouts took home a Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes.



Boy Scout reconrefuelisme sums many strange structures into satisfactory meeting places. An ancient converted C.N.R. car, on a vacant lot, has made an ideal home, according to the boys of the Ad Nauk Regina Troop. A fireplace will make it the coziest place in town in the winter.

A miniature hurricane sweeping over the Connecticut coast, the grounds, uprooting buildings and levelling race track grandstands and clubhouse, brought the Boy Scouts on fair duty an unexpected job. This was the first assignment of this kind to a considerable number of persons several of them Indians seriously.

Admiral Viscount Makoto Saito, Japanese Premier, and for some years a member of the Japanese Boy Scout Executive, is now the new Chief Scout for Japan.

The new Rt Fredericton, N.B., Scouts are the fortunate possessors of a club room headquarters complete with library and reading room, a workshop, a photographic room, a Court of Honour room, and a recreation hall. The Group is fostered by the Brotherhood of Wilmot Church.

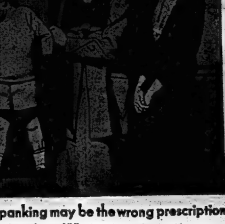
The story of the Second Byrd Expedition, 1933-35, is told by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd in the book "Discovery" (Putnam) which is the story of exploration begun in his "Little America" (1930). Admiral Byrd relives the scenes of hardships and adventures experienced by men and himself while they penetrated into the very heart of the Antarctic. They brought to the world the secrets of the ice age with modern and scientific means. It has been said that this expedition was the most useful and from a scientific standpoint the most productive Polar expedition of all time. Richard E. Byrd, naval officer and major forced exile of Admiral Byrd at Advance Base in the interests of science, is an episode outstanding courage and endurance. Cut off from his men except for irregular radio communication, Byrd conducted an Antarctic night alone from March to August 1934. The record of the Field Notes, recovered by two of his crew who broke a trail by means of a dog team, are highlights in the drama of "the loveliest and most unforgiving of continents."



Donald Culross Beattie was born in the volume "Singing in the Wilderness" a tribute to the American naturalist, John James Audubon. In the early nineteenth century Audubon broke with the traditions of museum or still-life bird painting by reproducing the birds in their native haunts and in attitudes of movement. When his pictures were exhibited at the Royal Institute of Edinburgh they won high praise and Audubon was honored for making known so well the birds of "the new world." Donald Culross Beattie, himself a naturalist, has written an imaginative memoir of the painter and his wife Lucy. His knowledge of bird life gives him a true understanding of the artist and his work. He has collected a number of his Audubon bird paintings in his volume.

The author of "All's Fair," the British officer who controlled the secret organization known as The White Lady, during the World War, has written another book of adventure in "Secrets of the White Lady." Captain Henry Landau gives in detail accounts of some of the famous spies in the sequel to "All's Fair." The return surprisingly pales before this same narrative of perils, executions and romantic escapes. The organization of individual agents are told in their own words. An interesting feature of the book is a chapter devoted to the last letters of con-demned spies. The story of the British secret service behind the German lines is a mine of information upon military espionage in general.

Wait! Spanking may be the wrong prescription

There may be times when a child's behavior calls for a bit of sturdy, old-fashioned discipline. But nine times out of ten—no!

don't do it!

If your child is unduly fretful, whiney, or cross and hard to manage suspect that something is wrong! All too often you will find that it is childhood's commonest ailment—constipation.

bad! don't like it!

Give him a laxative, but—be careful! For a bad-tasting laxative may upset his whole digestive system. A laxative which may be quite all right for grown-ups may do your child far more harm that good.

Give him Castoria—the laxative made especially for children. For it is safe. It is gentle, yet it is thorough. Your doctor will tell you that. It contains nothing that is not suitable for a child's delicately - balanced system.

that's swell!

And children take Castoria without a word of protest—they love its taste. Get Castoria to-day—and save money by getting the large, family-size bottle!

Italians Claim Ethiopians Flee to Red Cross Sign

Rome, Nov. 30—(CP-Havas)—Aviators in 18 Italian planes which bombed Dagabur, in Southern Ogaden province, Ethiopia, yesterday, carefully avoided a building bearing a large red cross on its roof, dispatches from Mogadiscio, Italian Somaliland, said today.

The dispatch said Ethiopian troops took refuge under the sign of the red cross.

Death by Drowning Is Verdict of Jury

Cobourg, Ont., Nov. 29 (CP) — Death by drowning was the verdict last night at the inquest into the death of Mrs. Ethel Mitchell of Dent's Landing, whose car pitched into the Rice Lake channel and ended in a creek Nov. 19 at Baltimore.

Mrs. Mitchell was found face down in the water when Thomas Hall, Baltimore, and Albert Johnstone, Cobourg, motorists in a nearby automobile, hurried back to the scene of the accident. Mrs. Joseph Purnell, mother of the deceased who was also in the car, died the following day from a heart attack brought on by the shock of the crash. Her husband, Joseph Dumont and George Blake escaped with light injuries.

Coroner Joseph blamed a slushy spot in the road as responsible for the car going out of control on rounding a curve.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied by Biggar and Crawford by Financial Service.

The so-called "Leadday" stocks have been the features of the mining market during the past several weeks. Ventures, Sudbury, Falconbridge and Sherritt Gordon have risen to new 1935 high prices while Hollinger has touched a 5-year high and Falconbridge Nickle a six-year high.

In the case of the first two-named stocks, the advance is chiefly due to the rise in the price of Canadian Nickel. In all cases the advance appears fully warranted as may be seen by the following brief explanation:

Falconbridge Nickel—Third quarter earnings 15 cents a share and nickel bright for still higher sales. Augs in fourth quarter. Latest report of Falconbridge Dev. Syndicate agement may consider expansion in productive capacity with consequent increase in profits. Rise in shares appears fully warranted.

Ventures Ltd.—Milling company the shares of which have been selling at less than half their cost and par values for some time. Very large holder of Falconbridge, benefits by rise in latter and by benefit directly it and when Falconbridge increases dividend.

Sudbury Basin—For each ten shares of its own stock outstanding, Sudbury owns five shares of Falconbridge, as well as several other holdings in the territory. Company also owns dormant zinc, copper properties which are potential assets of importance. Dividends expected within few months.

Sherritt Gordon—The outlook for copper is so bright that a rise in the price of the metal is expected in the near term. Sherritt is discounting the prospect that the copper may rise to 10 cents within a few months when operations should be resumed.

War clouds are again gathering in Europe. Some slow correspondent puts it, whereas we between Italy and Britain was considered inevitable a short time ago, now it is considered not only probable but probably inevitable. Preparations are made more severe than at present. The Laval scandal is a set-back to the African war is hampering it to a great extent where that nation may bring about a conflict of world-wide size.

While a war is not to be considered on during the present time when world conditions are steadily improving and a severe depression, and the nations are not in a position to recover from the last war, it nevertheless means a great deal of business for the countries engaged in the manufacture of munitions, and supplies. In this connection, International Nickel is in the forefront. Steel stocks as well as Noranda, Falconbridge, Sherritt-Gordon and Sudbury Basins will all based on the prospect of a strengthening in the price of base metals such as copper, lead and zinc.

A Wall Street report states that despite some of the talk about the reluctance of investors to accept profits in this market, due to capital gains taxes, it is quite possible that considerable gains may be closed out during the next month. With the present tax burden in many, the 1936 schedule is not known quantity, and many individuals may be inclined to gamble on a steadily rising tax burden in the years ahead.

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE

Toronto, Nov. 30.—(CP)—A general rake of firmness ruled on the industrial section of Toronto exchange today with trading in small volume.

Distillers-Seagrams drifted back about a point to around 36 1-3. Wallace Chamson took a loss of half a point.

International Nickel held a gain of 1-3 at 40 2-4 at the close. Consolidated Smelters was slow and dull, but Hollinger continued highly and recovered while Ford A and B, Dunlop, Imperial Oil, Canadian Oil and Canada Malting, Montreal Power added a point each. Bell Telephone advanced 3-4 to 141, its high mark for 1935.

Gains in the foods included Canada Bread B, International milling pfd., Canada Packers, Dominion Canvas, Imperial Tobacco and F. N. Burt ruled higher.

TORONTO MINES CLOSE

Toronto, Nov. 30 (CP)—The mining market of Toronto Exchange accumulated a number of losses and gains in the closing session of the month.

Macassa Gold turned the tables on the shorts by moving up to 63 for a gain of 1½.

Sherritt dipped to 1.06 but recovered to around 1.11 before the close. Ventures was a few cents higher at 1.43.

Coniagrum was 10 cents lower at 2.15. In the high price gold group Lake Shore was ¼-point higher, Wright Hargreaves down 15 and Teck Hughes up 3 up.

The silver share market was slow. Castle at 1.15 was off 2 and Rickardson and Preston off a little higher.

2926S

Toronto, Nov. 30.—(CP)—A 10-cent advance in Stratford was the only change in prices from reporting hog markets today. Other points held unchanged. Prices:

Stratford $9.25; Toronto $9.00; $7.35; Chatham, $.00; Stratford, $7.10.

Film-Folk Bound For Callander to "Shoot" Quints

Hollywood, Nov. 30.—(CP)— A company of 30 film-folk were bound today for "the most thrilling chase" in the history of Canada's "Land of Frozen Drama"—to act with, direct and film the Dionne quintuplets.

They entrained here last night for Callander, Ont., their mission the filming of the five little Canadian tears in the first full-length film of their lives. Among them is Director Henry King heaped the Twentieth Century-Fox Company group. They expect to spend three weeks in Ontario's snow-clad north and their winter clothing they hoped was enough for a young Eskimo.

All but three were engineers, technicians or others connected with the admittedly intricate problems of photographing the 18-months-old sisters in their special hospital. Jean Hersholt, noted character actor who plays Mercury in Alice Day Dallas, an actress, and Darryl F. Zanuck, studio vice-president of the company, were the only stars in the group.

The story in which the little girls will be called upon to "look and natural" will be built around the career of Dr. Dafoe who brought the quintuplets into the world May 28, 1934, and astounded medical authorities by living after. It will be titled "The Country Doctor". Dr. Dafoe himself will not appear but will be on constant hand while the cameras are trained on his prized patients.

The Hollywood Party took along two baggage cars loaded with equipment. Cameras will be set up in rooms of directors to catch the quints at play as their meals and perhaps learning to say their prayers.

TORONTO DUKES N. F. CATARACTS MAINTAIN LEAD

Dukes Take Sellers 3-2 And The Falls Trim Pats 2-1

TIGERS SHOW PUNCH

Scored Three Goals In 78 Seconds to Beat Dobbsville

By The Canadian Press

Big-scale action of the Ontario Hockey Association's junior loop again held front-bench prominence today as officials checked back on last night's battles that saw eight of the league's nine contingents turn their forces loose.

Toronto's crack Dukes and powerful Niagara Falls Cataracts maintained their unbeaten records atop the eastern and western sections respectively, both of which remain unchanged. Each will get their wins, each contest being decided by one goal, with the Dukes thumping Port Colborne sailors 3-2 and the Falls team downing Hamilton Pats 2-1.

Contenders also stayed in the thick of the fight, Oshawa and Tigers there notching undisputed possession of second place in the western section and Kitchener retaining the preambulists 4-3 in overtime. Hamilton Tigers took close to the Dukes in the eastern group by trimming Oakville Villans 5-3 at Hamilton.

Getting away to an early start, the Tigers over-lapped a 2-0 lead before 12 minutes of play had elapsed, by in their favor when the Sellers' Mickey through the final frame. Teddy Oliver scored to make it 3-1, for the Tigers, and Jack Morrison bagged one for Dobbsville. Fifteen minutes later, Oliver failed to fight hard to hold their slim advantage.

Sparkling Display

Allan, cool shooting centre man, banged both goals as the Cataracts played their home town foes with a speedaplenty—they held them to often Pats scoreless for two periods but when Cook banged the winning home, early, the Pats were a real threat.

Hamilton Tigers showed real scoring punch in their battle with Oakville, after trailing by 2 goals for the first 16 minutes, they unleashed an attack that netted them three goals in one minute and 18 seconds. Fred Ruffle shot in additional two for the winning margin.

Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen and Oshawa Generals battled to a 3-3 deadlock at the end of the regulation time, when Kitchen scored after 1:48 of the overtime session.

After a ding-dong battle as Kitchener, Webster scored his third goal of the night, minutes before the three-session started to give Kitchener victory. It was the additional goal for "Zip" Sharik, Kitchener-born athlete, widely viewed as big part in the downfall of his former townsmen.

Tricolor Seeks Berth In Ottawa Senior Loop

Ottawa, Nov. 30.—An application has been received by Ottawa Thistles, Kingston, that their senior team be permitted to enter the Ottawa Senior Amateur Hockey League, secretary Cecil Duncan announced today after receiving word G. Hicks, secretary of the Athletic Board of Control of the University.

Last year Queen's athletic played senior "B" hockey in the O.H.A. but failure of the league to function in the current season prompted them to seek a berth here. It was learned, of. The matter has been under consideration by both authorities and a definite announcement may be expected within a few days.

Ronald Gaunce comes into the local circuit they would join up with Thistles Hockey Club and four Ottawa teams, Lasalle, Rideau, Royal Canadian Air Force and Rideau. The Ottawa League's schedule opened last night.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

It may be startling information to the majority of sport fans, but Barrie is convinced that Belleville stood seventh in the province of Ontario in relationship to patron-izing wrestling. On top of this it must be remembered that communities much larger than Belleville and getting more prominent exponents of the art, go to the turn out with the popularity shown by Belleville audiences. The figures stated above are from the most authoritative of the Ontario Athletic Commission, which places Belleville seventh in the province. After learning these facts we immediately predicted that one year from today there will only be three cities in the province outdrawing Belleville, these being Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa, perhaps. If the future plans of local wrestling promoters are completed, they will open their spring wrestling festivals with some of the best known wrestlers on the continent. In the meantime, however, the local boys will continue as usual and until it is time to make ice at the arena.

Wrestlers are queer humans—they labor just as hard and sometimes harder but they get no glory as they would for a capably headed. This axiom was well illustrated last Friday night when before an average crowd the wrestlers staged the best exhibition ever seen in Belleville in quite some time, all of which goes to show that the fans can tell in the grappling racket. Just how the wrestlers can perform in the arena is questionable as they would be unable to get in any duty matches if it was not for the fans. The promoters are seriously thinking of continuing their wrestling shows in Belleville and at the winter meeting in other mixed quarters however, if the promoters do continue they will not be weekly, but rather fortnightly, as was informed yesterday. In the meantime, however, next Thursday night the fans can look for an excellent drawing card as the "Red Devil" and Bill Baadke have signed to contracts before they left Belleville on Thursday's grapple-fest. Both are champion grapplers practically since Thursday's show and should be a great attraction. The 15-minute time limit mitigated their bouts the last time they were here is wrestle over the hour limit next week.

The recent announcement that eight local swimmers had passed their senior life-saving tests at Belleville's pool is of the fact that some high class inter-city swimming meets are being planned for the winter months. These meets will be held in the Albert College pool where a special spacious gallery can accommodate the interested spectators. Another R. B. Morden of the recent swims of the better class swimming teams from Western Ontario may appear in Belleville later this fall or early next winter. Those to successfully pass their senior life-saving tests, under the supervision of Instructor R. B. Morden of the Y.M.C.A. and Physical Director Pete Beach of Albert College, were Art Martin, Jack Peoples, Howard Kerr, Bill Wright, Harry Moncrieff, Ryan Cole, Charles Berwick and Stuart Bush, while Fred Plummer and Doug McBride passed their junior tests.

The much discussed football game between England and Germany again became the subject of diplomatic interchange yesterday. The German government suggested that the game be cancelled in the interests of Anglo-German harmony, which was good logic, we'd presume.

Although the crowds attending the Kingston City Hockey League games are not up to the standard established two or three years ago, we understand that the patronage is increasing as the league advances. On Monday the Toonse-led Aggies defeated the Navy squad in a military Carrleton team from Kingston and providing they continue to display the same brand of hockey displayed against the latter, send another Belleville entrance a notch in the league standing before sun-up Tuesday. Reference to the Belleville-Mazoo games in the Kingston sport summaries reveals:

"Belleville played mimm the services of Harry Pelgram, ace defenceman from an injured wrist, and they traded Art Campbell for Whitton. Campbellford hockey star. He played a smart game, checking closely and was a wicked shot. Pete Morgan was a hard worker and Sid Lewis was prominent for the Belleville team also."

Birthday greetings to James F. Fitzgerald, veteran sports editor of the Toronto Evening Telegram and secretary of the Ontario Athletic Commission. He was born in Toronto 58 years ago tomorrow. He is suffering from an illness which has forced Belleville to be play boy in a new group this season. The cast a bit lukewarm in an effort to get embraces both Peterboro and Oshawa, one would be out of the O.H.A. senior ranks for two all season would be out of the league entirely. Mind Mr. Thomas before leaving for Toronto.

Last warning—to those interested in outright saving, the season heads the while-hearted support of those desiring that extra hour next summer, so it's up to the individual

PRESCOTT SCORES A 4 - 2 VICTORY

Remains Undefeated in Kingston Hockey League

Kingston, Nov. 30 (CP)—Prescott remained undefeated in the Ontario Valleyfore Memorial City hockey series here last night when they defeated Smith's Falls 4-2 in a close and hard-fought game. The winners remained tied with Fashion Craft with two wins each.

All kinds of excitement were crammed in the first period which five goals were scored, Fisher and Fielding tallied for Prescott, before Hiden and Black tied it up, and half a minute later Fratiura put Prescott ahead again with a smart drive.

Play became rugged in the second period and penalties were numerous. At one stage, Prescott had two men in the penalty box, but good sensational work in goal, saved them.

Smith's Falls forced the play throughout almost all the last period but with two minutes to play Fisher broke away and scored to put the game away.

Prescott: Goal, Cook; defence, Adams and Newman; centre, Fielding; wings, Fratiura and Hornbrook; subs., Fisher, Fielding, McCauley and Bowers.

Smith's Falls: Goal, Muldoon; defence, Hilton and Moollon; centre, Black; wings, Tennant and Lovrks; subs, Wing, Forman, Hiden and Lesch.

Referee: Dougall and Smith.

EVEN BET IN RUGBY FINAL

Hamilton Tigers And Sarnia Ready For Big Game

Toronto, Nov. 30 (CP)—With Winnipeg scouts scattered through the crowd, Sarnia Imperials and Hamilton Tigers line up here for the Eastern Canadian Football finals. The winner will meet the Western champions in the interscholastic final.

Sarnia's well-drilled team, champions of the O.R.F.U. and Hamilton champion, start a slight favorites over one of the hardest fighting Big Four champions to enter the Canadian playdowns in years. More than 10,000 Hamilton fans came to Toronto convinced the Tigers would win.

Hank Welch and Johnny Ferraro have thrown the Tigers into this game primarily on their line. A brilliant pair that Hamilton depends upon for offensive work against the steady Imperials, the Sarnia backfield has proven flashy at attacking power this season.

Toronto observers, however, figure the Tigers champions as the East's strongest hope, are calling Sarnia the likely victor in the did last season. They believe Art Bennett's team is all driving all over with Rocky Parsons replacing Normie Perry and Eddie McVeigh still filling the place of Alex. Hayes.

They believe that Jack Cunningham's Rugby Shirting should outlick Welch and in this game, one of classic punting as the major factor. In punting as the major factor. In most quarters there were no odds.

U. S. FOOTBALL

New York, Nov. 30 (AP)—Football forces of the United States tackled today for the start of the 1935 gridiron show.

More than 60,000 poured into Philadelphia for the annual service classic between the Army Cadets Annapolis and generals on Uncle Sam. A good army first team, fine punch and endurance against a navy squad that was strong on deep backfield and one lineup about as good as anthe.

In Texas, two teams that had been tied for first place in the Texas Christian and Southern Methodist clashed in a game that may decide Southern Methodist's Rose opponent.

At New Haven, one of the best teams in Princeton's history sought revenge on Yale though knocked the Tigers from the undefeated class last year. Princeton was favored to win decisively.

A crowd of 40,000 was expected to witness this duel in the Yale Bowl.

Louisiana State was favored to win all other games in the Southeastern conference title, a victory which might entitle the Tigers to represent Dixie in the Sugar Bowl game.

PLAYBOY OF RING GAINS DECISION

San Francisco, Nov. 30 (AP)—Max Rosenbloom, playboy light-heavyweight champion of California, scored a 12 round decision over John Henry Lewis, Phoenix Negro and ring-wrecked titleholder, here last night. Lewis whose crown was not at stake, weighed 176, eight less than Rosenbloom.

Neither delivered many effective punches during a session composed mainly of cuffing, mauling and clinching but Rosenbloom proved the superior boxer.

JOCK McAVOY IS WINNER OF BOUT

Gives Canadian Al McCoy a Real Boxing Lesson

New York, Nov. 30 (CP)— The widespread belief that Old England quiff turning out worthy fighting men in the dim long ago was casting about for a new leg to stand on today.

Jock McAvoy, a real peeral to Anglo-Irish boxing skill, gave Canadian Al McCoy a convincing lacing here last night, handed bolters a clean knockout and brought two unknowns to Jimmy Wilde, "Jesse" Driscoll and more recently Jackie "Kid" Berg.

The beting gentry sent the clashing French Canadian into the Madison Square Garden ring a 9 to 5 favorite to slap Jock's Irrawtion of North America abruptly, the fate most Old Country mittmen seem to meet in the last decade.

They left with sorry looking pocketbooks after seeing Jock rap the shifty Habitant solidly with rights and lefts pretty much to pieces all through the early rounds, muffle most of McCoy's heavy artillery with a good defense and then withstand the vicious, closing rally of the vanquished favorite.

McCoy, who is really Florian le Brassard, Lower County, Quebec by Montreal and Boston, showed courage and his real class in the closing rally. Firing steadily from all his guns, he almost smothered the bolder of Britain's middleweight and light-heavy titles. But his desperate attempt to pull the fat out of the fire came too late.

Living down south must make people soft. Thirty-one-year old Frank Finnegan, right-winged for his Boston Senators nine years, with a part season for Toronto Maple Leafs tossed in for good measure, and nobody ever knocked him off his feet. But last year the erstwhile Senators were moved to St. Louis and with them went Finnegan. The no Ontario team could look right without a Finnegan in uniform even if it was in a foreign land. Somebody caught the Irishman with a stiff body check one night and down he went. Hockey followers marvelled—they thought the scrappy little forward just couldn't be downed, but that fall cost him a fractured jaw. How to start was Frankie when he hit the N.H.L. for in his first year—1925—he didn't score a goal. Next season he had improved for twice he potted the puck and since then counters have come from his stick with regularity.

Finnegan got a break last year when Maple Leaf bought him for $6,000 and though not a quick and unsensational sort of player, he's likable and a sound team time. With a winning team at last he may have a chance to shoot his fourth mark of the season, regained in the 1930 season.

TEN Years Ago Today

Says Phil Warwick Reviewing Sport History

Before a crowd of 10,000 half-frozen fans the Ottawa Roughriders Big-Four champs, turned the tables on Queen's university by defeating them 11-5. Queen's were three times Canadian Champions of the gridiron and trying for a fourth victory. The defeat Ottawa handed them was the first since Nov. 4, 1922, which meant three championships and 26 consecutive games won. It was a hard-fought game on sloppy frozen ground with the breaks all going to Ottawa's favor. Hal Leadley of Queen's, born adds to score on either of his field goals in the first quarter the glory may have been different. Tuhman and Miller of Ottawa, were among the standouts for their team both playing a great game in the backfield with Tuhman slipping out of tackles like an eel.

Humiliating Spot Wiped from Record

Chicago, Nov. 30 (AP)—Barney Ross, welterweight champion, had erased a humiliating spot from his record today through a handsome triumph over Ceferino Garcia, rugged Los Angeles Filipino.

Back in September Garcia knocked Ross down twice in the first round of a 10-rounder in San Francisco and made him hustle his head off for an unpopular decision. But night in the Chicago Stadium gave the Filipino a boxing lesson 4½ savage 10 round non-title bout.

Rangers took the verdict 1-0

Youngster Starring in Crippled Lorne Chabot's Goal

Mike Karakas Given Chance by Black Hawks, Proves Mettle in the Pinches.

BY RAY COLLETT

(Central Press Canadian Sports Writer)

Toronto, Nov. 30—In the role of Chicago's sparky Hawks crushes rookie Mike Karakas, American-born puck-stopper who has carried many leaping lizzy for several seasons but never reached the N.H.L. before. On the bench flanking the ice sits Lorne Chabot, groaning with the pain of an injured knee, groaning still more deeply at his enforced absence from the hockey wars.

This story of the rise of Karakas to the throne in front of Chicago's goal is one of hockey's thrilling dramas. A few weeks ago he was hunting for a job, figuring every club in professional hockey for a chance to show his wars. Almost his last stomp and letter went into an appeal to the Hawks.

Had Minor League Career

A varied career lay behind Karakas product of Eveleth, Minn., and only 24 years old. Two years ago he joined the Detroit club one of a detachment of hockey players transferred from the defunct Chicago Shamrocks. He was sent out to stop rubber for the Olympics. Karakas only stayed a game or two in Detroit garb before he was shifted south to St. Louis of the American Association. It was still minor loop goaling for the Minnesotan last year for pilot Tulos Offers. No one perhaps had recognized his merit before but he finished the season with the best puck-stopping record in his keg. But he faced the new season out of a job. Then the doughty Mike began his campaign for a major league berth.

Took Rhinehart Cards

Goalies are long-lived fellows mostly and it isn't easy to break into their charmed circle. Black Hawks had Chabot, who last year won the Vezina trophy for most shutouts and this all-other N.H.L. shutouts and this all-other N.H.L. teams were satisfied with their team's work. Mike hailed Lorne, a cool and wily performer who has opened his coming in Ranger, Maple Leaf and Canadien uniforms, looked good enough to defend the home's last night. But then Loughlin, the westerner who coaches Black Hawks, didn't consider the Karakas relieve to the waste basket and instructions that the Minnesotan send to Indianapolis, Hawks assemble at Toronto, the Mike was in minor every thing that a goalie can encounter in the city's ice wars. He was tournament to be a witnesses to work Loughlin rummaged in his shot-gun bag of equipment, dug up an old pair of leggings, a discarded goal stick, and a set of well-worn pads. Things got off to a good start when the "Comet" Gardner when the personal star was in his uniform. Karakas seasoned old to earn his spurs as a reserve goalie.

Injury Strikes Chabot

At the other end of the ice was the cool Chabot. No chance to concentrate on Mikeleff's blocking as he takes the spotlight with Lorne around. Chabot cleared and blocked and cleared again. Then a curving drive to the corner caught Chabot off guard, slipped pinched his knee. A painful injury to the cartilage and he was carried off the ice. Meanwhile Loughlin had sold Joe Starks his reserve planted the puzzled Karakas to Pittsburg Shamrocks.

Chabot's injury proved stubborn. The season's opening game drew near with the regular hopelessly crippled. To Karakas the task of stopping was left the task of stepping into the breach. He stood up to it bravely with by all his good fortune. Americans opened against Chicago Black Hawks Chabot limping on crutches to receive the Vezina trophy turning away to sit despondently on the bench while his mates started the new league race. Karakas filled the nets.

Nerve-shaking Start

Early in the game Oliver of Americans sliced a shot at the goal, a slow dribbling drive. Mike dropped to the ice to smother the rubber. A hasty boot, a futile slash by the goalie and the puck was in the twine. Then came the great test of this youngster's nerve. Such a play might easily rattle the coolest veterans who ever donned pads, but Karakas, pulling himself together, with a mighty display of courage, held America scoreless for the rest of the game and watched his team-mates notch a 3-1 victory. That was Mike's debut in the N.H.L.

Chabot Faces Task

Playing up to that first game form he appears to have a steady job as Black Hawks reserve firmly clinched. Tied to the bench though he is, Chabot is still to be rated one of the greatest twine tenders in the game, and when he gets back on to the ice he faces more than just the job of getting back to shape and recalling his old coolness and skill. He faces the job of proving he's a better puck-stopper than young Mike Karakas, who seized his big hope into an appeal to Chicago Black Hawks and made good. Loughlin can go through the season with the comfortable knowledge that in all his stellar veteran who has is again in harness he has an understudy who has proved his mettle under fire.

vide work for them no matter whether you like them or stand on the opposite side, or not," responded Sir Robert.

Four candidates for the Mayoralty and seven aldermanic candidates who were limited to five minutes were kept in their audience for the most part.

Aldermanic Hill Speaks.

Alderman Harry Hill, chairman of the city during the past year and Mayor-really appointed was received with applause when he appeared. He assured all meaning to money present. He reviewed briefly his past two years' civic service and said he was satisfied that he had tried to carry out the wishes of the people in regard to the best of his ability.

"My platform this year, as you have been advised before, is entirely economy. I've promised this about three years and I still don't know another that is sounder whenever possible. It is the duty of the council, from time to time, to live up to this in our effort to furnish jobs for the workmen and still keep down the taxes, and we have been over great need. Men have been standing around the streets too much because they haven't had anything to do, so the object has been to endeavor at least to see that these men get work, and work that will be done in the future as it is in the ways which will return some benefit to the city in the years to come.

Magnitude of Relief Cost.

"Sometimes, though, false economy has been practised. No man has been more economical than I in the tax rate demand than I have in the past again we have been faced with the question of relief. Some of the men have been out of work for a long time. After the ship. These will all be looked after if you will give me another year for relief and a total of $180,000 when you take into account the full grant from the government. That is a lot of money. We don't and didn't have anything like that in the estimates, but hoped for years that each year would see the end of the war. It hasn't come yet. The city has had only one way to get money and that was through the legislature. We have had to go before the handled doesn't get any rest, and if the business men want relief any rent there are no taxes to collect.

Little Money to Spend.

Alderman Hill reminded that under other conditions the city would not be a great deal of money to spend. Uncontrollable expenditures he pointed out, amounted to a large portion of the money collected. Interest on the debt, sinking fund and other charges were some of the most expensive and plainly necessary items that had to be reckoned with.

"You can see your way clear to standing me for office as Mayor for another year I can only promise that I'll do the best I can to get the men and for the taxpayer as well. I have always tried to be honest with the labouring man because he pays the taxes the same as the taxpayer. I have all the time on my hands I need to fill this office and any time I can spare from it I'll be glad to have to spend a good many hours a day in it."

Hyam For Betterment

Finances, declared Alderman Hill were good and Belleville was just as well situated as any city in the province, and any other city in Canada. Relief, he declared, was simply a matter of problem, it was worldwide and all municipalities could only do the best they could under the circumstances. It would be settled, and when workmen would be guaranteed employment and could look after their homes and families.

"In all my years of service in council as your representative I have never done anything that I have been ashamed of, including the Mayoralty election, in which the electors the best compliment of the season.

W Harvey Candidate

William Harvey, also in the field for Mayoralty honors, in asking for the support of the electors referred to his past record in council and believed that the experience he had could be more valuable to the city as Mayor, if elected, than any other self in this capacity if I did not fully and conscientiously believe that I, fair candidate do so," he said.

"There is great responsibility to that office; the taxpayer as well as the workingman are both to be considered. Both must get serious consideration during the next year, and for my part if elected I will see that this is done.

In Support of Labor.

Alderman Harvey declaring himself emphatically in support of the working class referred to a telephone call he had received from a relative by him earlier that evening.

"Are you in favor of a man who if you get in as Mayor" asked the person inquiring.

"Thank goodness, no!" I told him. My business is it to look after people, to do as my own children and your homes can be taken care of properly."

During the past two years the payrolls of the city have been maintained, it was declared by Alderman Harvey, and he was glad to say that was "big economy," he added.

"People have been refusing to work, the things they needed and when they had the money to do so. If I carry out my plan I'll see that roads and the machine sits there, that is the manner going to get the money to pay the taxes on the property? That isn't progress. Yet this is the manner which has been followed until people have become wary."

No False Economy

Any program would also be stood away if not in the interest of the city and that should interfere with progress. During the past two years the city has been handicapped because Ross and the past councils cannot be blamed for this, but some of it has been due to false economy. He has done the best he could and has had the interests of the city at heart to the best of his ability.

"My platform this year, as you have been advised before, is entirely economy. I've promised this about three years and I still don't know another that is sounder whenever possible. It is the duty of the council, from time to time, to live up to this in our effort to furnish jobs for the workmen and still keep down the taxes as we have been over great need. The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe

Tuesday at 5.15—Beauty and the Beast

"CHAPERONED"

— by —

Virginia Sullivan

"Just living with things so lovely as these suits something for me," Janie thought. "Just living with Mildred." But it was a rather shallow thought. The love of beauty in Janie was not to stand it living with Ada Pratt again after this!" She had had a swift glimpse of that rented room. The frowsier bargain-hunter which for many years she had shared with Ada Pratt. Negation. Ada's wretched jabots, ranged neatly in the top bureau drawer of the unsightly golden oak dresser. Ada's cheap perfume of pale-pink bangles that clanked on the closet-door. Ada's shoes, in the closet, her stout, serviceable shoes ranged in a little row along her half of the closet floor. "I'll probably start picking up after her, the way I do after Mildred, and she'll think I've lost my mind." Janie thought, with a sigh.

From outside the portholes there sounded an abrupt crashing sound; blinking, Janie looked out through the sky, the knife-thrust of lightning following closely upon the heels of the thunder. It was with the brightness of day. Janie turned toward the rest of the room. Some of the room, where for so many nights now Mildred's dark head had rested on the white pillow in the moonlight, Mildred, with her child's terror of storms—she was afraid now, Janie knew, and clung wildly to Janie at each shuddering peal of thunder and flash. Then, with a shock that gave her an almost physical pain, Janie remembered that Janie was not there. Mildred was not in her bed at all. And she had been in it every night in that night.

"But where is she?" Janie said it aloud in a sort of strangled whisper. "It's three o'clock in the morning—she's not home yet! She's not in her room!" There's not even a light on!" Janie's eyes were caught the dial on her wrist-watch. By the watch's face with that next at this hour, Mildred—"

With a swift gesture she snapped on her light above her own bed, thus snatching at the white coat she had dropped across it in her flight from the evening. Slinging it on. There came another, louder crash of thunder from directly; a faint thinks of falling glass somewhere close at hand. "She'll be scared to death, terrified out of her wits. She's quite likely to do anything—run into the neighborhood," Janie thought, and frightened, she opened the cabin door. Nothing she saw, for all her carpeted corridor, her feet making no sound as she flew along.

"I'll have to find that watchman," she thought, and paused. She heard the heavy engine-throb. "If I sing for a steward, it'll be all over the ship by morning. I'll have to find her myself—"

The wind, howling on a note of demon laughter, flung the words back into her face. Sung backward violently against the open door to which she clung, gasping and shaking with panic for the first time. The rode high on a mountainous blue-black hump of water-suspended, it seemed, between sea and sky; a shrieking, frightening in its fragility, pitifully small and open. Then the sea itself a towering cloud of black, pelting rain; its depths with jagged tongues of light, reached up to engulf the cold fire that had been the stars. Then, with a sickening lunge, the world righted itself again, and through the roaring the rain descended in a towering flood.

Janie, clinging desperately to the lidly swinging door, leaned out as far as she dared to pour down the deserted stretch of deck. Torn of clothes, dragging straight from the black bowl of sky, danced crashly across its tilting surface with the abandon of some bacchanalian dance. Something.... probably the watchman.... had left the door out of the deck near the entrance to the Lounge. From within the Lounge itself she saw a dim light burning still. If she could just manage to gain that, perhaps him hear her, send him for help—

The shadowy figure she watched moved slowly forward under the diffused light from the chandelier in the corner view. She saw then that there were really two figures, and that a small, slim youth had her own heart. A man—and a woman, swaying impeding toward her along that rain-swept, slippery deck. Pausing to cling with both fingers to the standard there and rail as the deck fell away to the sea; sliding and staggering forward between each unit of that driving wind....The figure was Mildred. Nain-sodden, limp. Her golden gown clinging in ruinous folds to her slim, wet body; her short hair hanging dank and wild about her blurred white face. And Don Felipe Serrano, supporting her slender form, his dark face discernant above him, the figure of Don Felipe Serrano. "The voice of Don Juan, urging, encouraging, as he struggled along—

"Quick, Mildred!..... Come—use a little farther—"

Janie in the doorway, Janie shoulder braced against the wall, her feet set far apart to keep her balance, her breath weak and fluid beneath her. Then, without a word, without a backward look, she turned suddenly and ran, with all the strength left her down the passage to her cabin door.

CHAPTER XI.

THE SHOW-DOWN

Mildred opened the cabin door and slipped swiftly within. Janie was standing barefooted in the middle of the floor—white-faced, furious Janie, her whole soul lying in a little heap on the rug at her feet, the dark mop of curls, pulled back from above two blazing blue eyes.

For a long moment neither girl spoke. Then, Mildred laughed shortly—her old, brutal laugh that Janie had not heard a little crust, and cast now, in the face of the present situation, nothing short of diabolical.

"Mildred—"

"Tut!" She had crossed the room with her slow, languid grace, which, in spite of the fact that her clothes—the dressing face and hair, somehow, still left a distinct impression to her movements. But her hand, when she reached for the light of the dressing-table lamp, was not unconsciously and Janie saw it. The crystal lamp-shade quivered under the sideways with a sharp little click. With an elaborate air Mildred sat down and began removing the shell pins from her yellow hair.

"Mildred," Janie began again. Her breath came unevenly and in spite of herself a small, choking pain within her stopped the voice in her throat.

"Now, look here, Miss!" Mildred stood up abruptly,—her beautiful face distorted suddenly with rage, rising on a note of hysteria. Janie was frightened, seeing in the way she was acting, wantonly eyes and the little flicker of uneasiness that played nervously in the eyes of their tinted depths. "She's been drinking," the girl thought, with a sort of horrified astonishment, a wave of panic engulfing her for an instant. "Drinking with that man. I've got to be careful. She'll go on now like this for three hours—"

"You listen to me, d'you hear?" Mildred demanded. Still in that high-pitched, unnatural voice—an unlike her usual cool, expert drawl at all. "I'm not frightening. "I'm sick and tired of your telling me what to do. I won't have it, do you hear? I won't have it!"

"Mildred, dear; you'll wake the whole ship. Let's talk it over in the morning, please," Janie began wretchedly.

"We will not talk it over in the morning! For all any other time if I don't choose to!" She made no effort at all at self-control; she offered them the ids of words that tumbled harshly from her unsteady lips. Her brown eyes, narrowed under their amazing black lashes, were pits of alcohol. "Look here, I know, it's nearly four o'clock in the morning. Well, what of it? And I propose to have some fun, too. Uh, uch!" she mimicked dreadfully, "I'm sick and tired of that too terrible words! You——" this last in a little rush of consciousness that made her holler-than-thou ideas—

"I'm not holier-than-thou, Mildred," the other girl said quietly; then, her voice breaking pitifully, "I'm not that! I did pray, Mildred, you know, to take care of you."

"Mark." She began to cry abruptly; sobbing terrible breaths, the tears coursing unhidden down her beautiful face. "Janie, Mark would've hated you to make me over—he'd hate it, I'm sure, with a change of tone so complete as to be something staggering in its reversal. Contemptuous as she was to the queer vagaries of alcohol. "Mark wouldn't want you criticizing my friends."

"Mildred, I'm not criticizing your friend, Mildred. If he were, he'd never keep you out like this, subject you to—to—to this!" Janie extended wearily. She turned away, then walking slowly, mechanically toward her own bed, picking up the white coat on the way to hang it back on its hook in the closet. It was no use. Nothing was any use. If she had only not left it there through the next few days—just managed somehow to get Mildred back home to Mark, she would ask nothing more.

"But I tell you we were merely playing cards!" Mildred had returned to her grievance in a fresh burst of petulant fury. "You don't watch clocks when you get interested in a game; though you can't be expected to know about that, of course. You don't know anything!" Her face, nearly dry on her face, she was again defiant, mockingly contemptuous, insolent. Then, as Janie remained silent, she heard her unexpectedly and, lifting her small beaded bag from where she had set it down, flung it with a gesture half-defiant, half-belligerent across the room. It landed at Janie's feet with a small thud. Janie stooped to pick it up. Instantly, and with another complete volte face, Mildred flung herself after the bag, wrenched it, almost tearing it from Janie's hand. The fragile thing, caught between them, parted and spilled its contents sprawling on the rug. An enormous wheel of green-backed jammed loosely together, wadded negligently into a ball; bills of large denominations, a small denomination, bits of silver and gold.

"Mildred!"

Flung at the tumbled green mass of bills, Janie stood frozen in her tracks, feeling the pulses of her hands growing wet and clenched with fear and a creeping feeling of nausea closing her round. Watching Mildred guiltily, scooping them up, she spoke.

"Where did you get that money, Mildred? Answer me, do you hear?"

Mildred's golden hair, sliding across her downcast face, hid the expression in her eyes. "Where she tried to make her voice insolent, "do you think I got it? I won it, of course. Playing cards."

"You won it," Janie repeated this in a voice utterly tuneless. "You won all that money—in one extra-long roll of bills? From whom—I tell you—don't try to lie out of it. You won it from passengers on board this ship. People who were bad enough to play with you and that Don Felipe Serrano. A notorious gambler—a man who is probably wanted by the authorities right now..... and you've been his gambling partner! No wonder people were talking! Oh, no wonder!....."

"It's a lie!" Mildred, rising to her feet, faced Janie furiously. "Don't you dare criticize Don Felipe. He's a gentleman. I tell you: A Cuban gentleman."

"He's a Mexican puff-adder," Janie said with a violence that surprised even herself. "No Cuban gentleman would trip over him on the street. Oh, Mildred, you fool! You brainless little fool!" Scarcely knowing what she did, she grasped Mildred by the shoulders. "Can't you see what you're sunk? Desperately, your self like this. Playing around with a man like that, while Mark's at home, worrying his heart out, loving you——"

Her voice broke, wavered away; her blue eyes, enormous in her white face, were wide pools of scorn. Her soft mouth, saying the words, curled with contempt and distaste. Then the mist before her vision cleared and she saw Mildred's expression. Heard Mildred's rawling, venomous voice. There was a small smile on Mildred's mouth—the small, cruel smile that always presaged one of her shocked inattitudes; a smile that was not reflected in her eyes, but was merely a slight slid rather in furtating curve of her lips above her small white teeth. She had backed slightly away from Janie, and now stood pinioned directly before her.

"Ha." She said deliberately. "I'm a fool, am I? A cheap, silly, little fool and I'm making a tool of Mark, eh? Mark—who is paying for the very food and drink you consume on this ship! Mark, who thinks you're such a paragon of virtue." She gave a short, ugly laugh. "All right—I'm a fool. But it's not; I—who made one exit of Mark, my dear. It's you, his saintly little sister Janie—with her low tastes. In that filthy steerage, picking up with knows what sort of man!"

"Mildred, for pity's sake!" The lovely cream and rose room seemed closing in, smothering her—speaking that white, leering face in a rising fog of horror and hate.

(To be continued)

Horrified, Wayne Coit stood staring at the altar and stalls, but presently he controlled his emotions. Romero, the Black Hand's bearded soldier of fortune, and wondered what had been his fate.

Darkness fell, and still there came no sign of his captors. He wondered if they intended leaving him there without food or water, or if, perhaps, the ceremony that was to see him offered upon that grim altar was scheduled to commence soon.

He had lain down upon the hard cement-like surface of the cell floor, when his attention was attracted by a sound coming from the courtyard where the altar stood. Someone was approaching, and listening quietly he went to the window and looked out.

In the darkness he saw something moving. Whether man or beast he could not distinguish. And then, suddenly, there pealed out upon the silent night that awful scream, that weird, blood-curdling, fear-filled cry that sent away invaders of the mysterious city of Opar.

Ivanhoe Presbyterian Church

The first Supper held at Cooper on the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of L.O.L. No. 82, Mount Pleasant, Stirling, was a decided success.

The Orange Hall was taxed to its utmost capacity to accommodate the throngs who were present for the ministry to the supper tables, which nobly responded under the weight of the good things provided. Old man caprum was noticeably absent, and hands were busy in this vicinity also.

The musical part of the entertainment was mainly provided by the Melo Quartette consisting of Misses Hardwood, Rose Wellman and Fletcher, Miss Minnie Ferguson was accompanist. Their numbers were received with the warmest appreciation to which they responded generously with encores.

Rev. Mr. Lowrie of Consecon, was present and gave an interesting address and Master Stanley Hawthorne delighted the audience with two solo numbers, "Danny Boy" and "Irish Tear." Mrs. H. Hawthorne gave a pathetic recital, a sixth providing number was just what was needed. Mr. Wm. Chesnutt, thanking the results of their respective labors. The proceeds to have but an amicable settlement was finally arranged to the satisfaction of all concerned.
